LONGVIEW, Alta. (CP) — Cattle stampeded and dozens of buildings were fled their reservation homes Monday in the face of a prairie fire described by frightened timers as one of the worst since the days of the early west.

The blaze swept 12 square miles of rolling ranch country in the Rocky mountain foothills area.

A tire fire started on a reservation where the structure blew over, upsetting a tiny stove. It touched off a grass fire and the wind carried it into the community 40 miles southwest of Calgary to extinguish it.

On the return trip, one of the firefighters' trucks left the men tried to coax it to start, it backfired and started the fire which swept the area.

No one was injured and only small property damage was caused before the fire was brought under control by 150 firefighters who battled it for more than eight hours.

A long stream of old trucks and cars grunted and sputtered along the dirt road as the Indians fled the encroachment. However, a blaze by-passed the village and none of the tents or cabins were damaged.

Residents Will Be Given Relief From Flooding

Residents of the Southview-Colbeck area in the Parkwood Heights district will be given relief from the flooding conditions which have basements deep in water after every heavy rainfall.

Acting on the request of a delegation of about 30 residents in the above area who complained about that low section sewers, council Monday voted to install six culverts across Parkwood Road to drain off surface water, which turns the area into a lake after rains. Cost of the work will be in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Acting as spokesman for the resident whose homes are subject to flood conditions, Mr. Ben Hurley, local solicitor, emphasized that while temporary relief was required immediately, a system of storm sewers was needed.

He said the residents realized storm sewers for the area would require planning and would be expensive but pointed out homeowners in the district were tax-payers and as such were helping to pay for storm sewers in other sections of the city.

Following passing of the recommendation calling for installation of the culverts, Alderman Ross Safe as chairman of the public works committee, said the work would be carried out immediately.

Instruct Finance Committee To Outline City Manager's Responsibilities, Set Salary

Although the matter is not to be officially dealt with until a special meeting of council scheduled for next Monday, the matter of hiring a city manager came under discussion on three different occasions at last night's regular meeting of council.

First occasion was a recommendation from Alderman Gerald Boyle calling for the executive and finance committee to outline the duties and responsibilities of a city manager and to set the salary range.

Mayor J. Both promptly claimed the recommendation was out of order, declaring that the matter of hiring a city manager had been laid over for two weeks at a special meeting of council on October 14 and therefore could not be brought in at this meeting.

However, Alderman Ralph Graham, chairman of the committee of the whole ruled the motion was in order and this was upheld by the opinion of City Solicitor R. A. Pringle. The motion later carried.

THINKS HE HAS JOB

The second occasion for discussion on the city manager question was a local newspaper item Anthony Bos of Larder Lake expressing his appreciation for the appointment as city manager at Belleville and adding when he would report for duty.

Mayor Both observed that at the special meeting held on October 14 when seven applicants for the position of city manager had been interviewed, he had been directed to inform the applicants as to the outcome.

He had accordingly notified Mr. Bos that council had voted him for the appointment.

That council had apparently changed its mind since the October 14 meeting was "unfair and unprincipled," the mayor declared.

Mr. Bos' letter was tabled until Monday night to be brought up at the adjourned meeting called for continuing discussion on the city manager appointment.

NOTICE OF MOTION

The third occasion on which the city manager matter was brought up last night was when Alderman F. J. Clarke presented a notice of motion that on the next regular meeting of council he would introduce a by-law appointing Mr. Anthony Bos as city manager at an initial salary of $6,000 per year, duties of the city manager to be those outlined for the position of clerk-comptroller which could be added to.

Alderman Hyde's motion, calling for the executive committee to outline the duties and responsibilities of a city manager and to set the salary range, saw a bit of spirited discussion before it was finally approved.

Alderman Bruce Smith, who will act as chairman of the committee of the whole at next Monday's special meeting, said the recommendation would be considered at that time, but after the appointment of a city manager had been dealt with.

Alderman Hyde made clear that the recommendation had not come from the executive committee as a whole but had been approved by himself and committee vice chairman Alderman Jane Forrester. He said the position of city manager was that of an official of the city and as such his duties should come under the executive committee.

He was supported by Alderman Forrester, who said that the public should be informed as to what council was trying to do. She said the present by-law outlining the duties of the position of assessor was out of date and outlining the proposed duties of a city manager and the duties of the city of Sarnia covering the duties of city manager should be published.

Several alderman could see nothing wrong with the recommendation, but claimed the whole matter was being considered backwards. They felt the duties of the city manager should be outlined before any appointment was made.

AUTHORITY NOT GIVEN

A check of the original motion appointing a committee to investigate the matter of hiring a manager showed that this committee had not been authorized to outline duties of the position.

Speaking again, Alderman Forrester pointed out that the matter covered by Alderman Hyde's recommendation had been under discussion as a private session of committee meeting, but stated the chairman of the special committee had ruled the executive committee had no authority to deal with the matter.

Referring to criticism of the special committee, in that it had been claimed its failure to define the duties and city manager, Ald. McCabe pointed out the committee had not been authorized to do this.

An amendment calling for Alderman Forrester's motion to also be presented at next week's special meeting was turned down and the original motion was carried 12-3 on a recorded vote.

Electors Will Be Asked to Approve Off-Street Parking on River Front

Ratepayers of the city of Belleville at the next municipal election will be asked to vote on whether they are willing to spend an estimated $115,000 to provide off-street parking facilities for 234 cars in the downtown area on the east bank of the Moira River.

The proposal would call for construction of a 13-foot retaining wall commencing at the footbridge and extending south 600 feet north. The area would be filled in and improved and parking meters placed.

Monday evening members of city council, by a unanimous vote, passed by-law allowing the question to go before the people.

The proposal was introduced by Alderman Bram Humphreys as chairman of a special committee appointed to investigate the possibility of providing off street parking. He said the idea would relieve waste land and would also be the convenience of the river bank and also noted narrowing the river would, to a certain extent, prevent freezing in the winter and lend to the scenic possibility of spring floods.

Alderman Ross Safe said the idea was not new but had been discussed off and on for the past 30 years. He said it had come to any present committee of council.

The parking would extend from land on the bank of the river and the alderman stressed that from conversation with city residents the idea met with approval. He expressed the hope that before a parking area, properly supervised, would be self liquidating.

Mayor J. Both cautioned that any such move would have to have the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board as public development of private land was involved. He noted that property at the rear of Front Street was now owned by taxpayers.

In reply Alderman David said that he anticipated no difficulty as the city securing long term leases for the property and that he felt the first move was to get the approval of the ratepayers.

Alderman Ralph Graham was of the same opinion. "There is no point in going any further without the consent of the electors," he said.

Alderman Hyde said in his opinion the idea was sensible and workable and that "new blood" or lifeblood of objection as land would be created out of nothing.

Mayor Both said he was not opposed to the question being placed before the electors but wanted to make sure the public was not to be misled as to what could legally be carried out.

Council agreed unanimously to allow the question to go before the electors.

Members of the committee were Bram Humphreys, Enos David, G. B. Hyde and Claude D. Tice.

30 Aluminum Windows Will Be Purchased for City Hall

After several months consideration city council last night voted to purchase 30 new combination aluminum windows to improve conditions at the city hall.

An estimate of cost by property committee Alderman Douglas Moxam for some time has been forecasting replacement of windows at the city hall, pointing out that present windows were drafty and allowed dirt and soot to enter the building.

However, until last night council were not in agreement on the type of windows that should be purchased while others objected to the expense of the aluminum frames as compared to wood.

Alderman Safe declared this was not the time to install windows, claiming the season was too late. Alderman Hyde objected for a different reason—he said the city could not afford the cost at this time.

Council also voted to install a washroom at the city weigh scales for public use at the weigh scales and at the lunchroom in the basement.

Decision to install the washroom was not reached, however, before a lengthy discussion as to the advisability of allowing the weigh scales to remain in the present location.

Alderman Argue declared the files of the city operating weigh scales was archaic, while other aldermen felt the scales should be moved to another location because of the traffic problem at the present site.

FAVOR INSTALLATION

Members of the city property committee favored installation of a washroom, pointing out that if it were not provided the lunchroom in the weigh scales building would be closed by order of the medical health officer.

Clerk-Treasurer Alderman Ald Cleary, noted Alderman Art Keegan, "the city is not to be the host to the public in our washrooms for lunchrooms," Ald. Vice, as a member of the property committee, took the same view.

The motion to install the washroom in the weigh scales building was carried by a 9-6 vote. Favoring were Aldermen David, Forrester, Grandame, Humphreys, Keegan, McCabe, Tice, Vaughan and Wilson. Opposed were Aldermen Argue, Clarke, Grahame, Hyde, Safe and Mayor Both.

Council also voted to allow its share of the cost of sidewalks to stand with delivery of the machine to be taken by March 15th next year.

The new flusher was ordered by council Monday night when it was not delivered by the date specified the order was cancelled. Alderman Safe as chairman of public works last night noted that in view of increased steel prices he felt it advisable to take the flusher at this year's quoted price.

Two hundred tons of ready mixed asphalt for the streets facing local streets will be purchased from the H. J. McFarland Company at $10 per ton. Alderman Safe said the city's asphalt mixer machine did not have the capacity to mix the asphalt necessary for completion of planned work and purchase was conditional on it.

ALOWED TO TRADE CARS

Council re-considered its action of two weeks ago when it refused permission for the board of health to trade in a 1950 Chevrolet automobile on a new model. Last night the required permission was given to enable the present car in for a new machine at a cost of $1,400.

It was granted on condition set forth by council Monday evening.

Alderman Forrester opposed the recommendation pointing out that such grants were going to [end] "What is to draw a line somewhere," she said.

Council also approved proportionate grants to Grace Wasnin and Bruce Miller, who won provincial laws for bowling honors.

Council turned down a recommendation from Alderman Forrester which called for members of a special committee of council to be named with the advice and consent of council.

It also turned down an amendment to Mrs. Forrester's motion which would have allowed specialists committee to be named by the mayor or council.

Opposition to Mrs. Forrester's motion was heard from several quarters. Alderman Safe declared the obvious intention of the motion was to curb the power of the mayor.

"I say the mayor is elected by the people and he should have some authority," he said.

Alderman Hyde took the same view. He said he respected the mayor's authority in appointing committees.

APPROVE BY-LAWS

Council approved of by-laws calling for the parking on the south side of Station street between Foundry and Dufferin Street, and for rush hour no parking on the north side of Dundas street between Pinnacle and Church streets.

Answering a charge made by Mayor J. Both at the last meeting of council, that he had been sitting illegally as alderman for the past ten months, Alderman Enos David said the electors were entitled to know where he stood.

Alderman David said he had been a member of the Bay of Quinte High School board last year when he decided to run for council. He said there had been some confusion as to whom he should tender his resignation. He said he had had no intention of trying to hold two offices.

"But you resigned 24 hours too late," reminded Mayor Both.

"Then why didn't you challenge me at the time?" asked Alderman David.

"I did as soon as I found out," replied Mayor Both.

The boys' murdered bodies were found in a forest preserve, and started the biggest manhunt in the city's history. (Central Press Canadian)

Police Picket Cripples Toronto Call-Girl Ring

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today a 10-day "visiting" campaign by members of Toronto's "red-light" district has broken up the city's biggest call-girl operation.

Plainclothesmen's frequent visits to the establishment had allowed lights out of taxis and private cars to a standstill.

The call-girl house was believed to have been headquarters of a city-wide call-girl enterprise in connections operation for five years. It had been the subject of repeated complaints from neighbors. Police said they have been able to register a conviction only once.

Police said most residents of the establishment have been girls from Montreal, Windsor and Detroit. Personnel were shipped out "on circuit" every two months. The operation depended mostly on telephone calls from out-of-town visitors staying at local hotels. Police or private cars drove up to take the girls to the hotel rendezvous for $20 to $100 a night.

Sixpence Bet Wins Pensioners Fortune in Pool

LONDON (Reuters)—A bet worth about sixpence, scraped out of a meagre old-age pension, won £75,000 ($210,000) today for Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reading of London.

Reading, 70, and his wife, 72, picked the winners in a soccer pool. Such winnings are not taxed in Britain.

The Readings, married for 35 years, live on a weekly pension of £3 and 15 shillings. Fourteen shillings of that goes for rent.

They said that with their new-found wealth they would make a trip to Canada and visit Reading's sister, Mrs. Ethel Mallam of Toronto.

IT SHOULDN'T HAPPEN TO A DOG

Miserable as any human who has looked too long on the wine when it was red the night before, Musty, a boxer turned boose hound, lies and suffers with an icebag on his head. Musty was picked up by Rockton, Mass., police after a woman made a complaint that he was leaning against a pole and leering at her. It turned out that the dog was drunk as a lord. He had been in a local pub where patrons had been feeding him beer. Musty reached the point where he couldn't stand without support when the police took charge. (Central Press Canadian.)

Committee Sets Santa Claus Parade Date

Remember that big Santa Claus parade held in the city last year? It all goes according to present indications you'll be remembering this year's parade, for a long time.

A meeting of the committee responsible for organizing the event was held at No. 2 Firehall this morning, and enthusiasm apparent there at the time bodes well for a bigger and better parade this year.

The big procession that, brings Santa Claus to town officially will be held this year on December 3, starting at 11 a.m.

Later this week, Fire Chief Gerald Vance, the committee's general chairman, together with the chairman of floats, Bob Fair, will go to Picton and look into co-operation available of that town's parade committee. Last year both Belleville and Picton extended help to each other's parade.

This morning Bob Fair told the meeting that, generally speaking promises of floats had been received, and noted, with the exception that had been shown thus far, more were expected shortly. He pointed out that merchants or club organizations wishing to enter floats in the parade should contact him immediately at the fire hall. Any organization wishing to send contributions toward parade expenses instead of a float, should contact Jack Hamilton, finance chairman, the meeting also heard.

Also present were school principals Arnold Orr, BCIVS, and Leslie Reid, Quinte Secondary School and Mike Smykaluk, arts and crafts teacher at QSS. The arts and crafts classes at both schools will assist in making the floats. Many local merchants also were present, while the collective interest of the business body of the city was represented by Don Kingston, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The parade this year will be under the direction of Angus Duffy. Other committee members are: secretary, Al Rump; bands and wagons, Gerald O'Brien; tractors and wagons, Clare Miller; costumes; R. Wardell and Ted Poste.

Posing happily on the Moskvaritsky bridge in Moscow here are Daniel Sherick, New York fur buyers, and his Russian bride, the former Talina Plaskel, the first Russian citizen permitted to marry a foreigner since the government decree of 1947. They are now awaiting a British visa which will enable the bride to accompany her husband to London. (Central Press Canadian.)

Board May Institute Safety Scheme for School Children

In a measure to promote additional safety awareness on the part of public school children in the city, the Belleville public school board will communicate with representatives of a Toronto newspaper with the view of having "Elmer the Elephant" safety scheme brought here.

At their regular monthly meeting held Monday evening (by actual count) by Mr. Ellis (a) board directed that "Bas" Mason of the Toronto Telegram, director of "Elmer the Elephant" campaign, be contacted with the above purpose in view.

Two new members to the board, James Ritchie and Morley Love-lace, were welcomed to the meeting. Mr. Ritchie and Mr. Lovelace were recently appointed to the board to succeed two men here who resigned.

The board will consider a request from the local branch of the Youth for Christ movement for the use of a school room on Saturday evenings. The board suggested, however, that some other evening be considered by the group.

This suggestion was made by the board in view of the fact that it has altered its standard agreement form for school usage. Formerly the use of school building was permitted Monday through Saturday, while under the new schedule usage of school property will be permitted only to 6 p.m. on Saturdays.

REJECT SUGGESTION

The board rejected a suggestion to join the Ontario Trustees 'and Ratepayers' Association.

A request from the Sons of Jacob congregation for use of classrooms at Queen Alexandra school on four afternoons per week until the completion of the new synagogue was referred to a special committee with power to act.

City council in a letter to the board advised that it will be guided by the board's advice in a suggestion that future school debentures be sold at a more advantageous time. In some previous instances the board has been called upon to pay additional interest charges between the period of a school's construction and the time of the debenture issues.

More adequate supervision of Scouts using the Queen Mary School as a meeting place will be asked by the board.

The board approved the purchase of three new motion picture projectors to replace the same number of older models. One new tape recorder will also be purchased.

REQUEST STORE SERVICES

The board will again communicate with city council emphasizing the need for storm sewers in the sir Winston Churchill area.

A special committee of Bruce Bishop, Don McKinney and Gordon Trill was appointed to bring to the next meeting recommendation regarding re-allocation of fire insurance, at the same time taking into consideration the new construction.

The board approved final payment to the St. Lawrence Construction Company for the Sir Winston Churchill addition.

Also a letter of commendation will go out to Mr. William Watson, of Watson and Wagenberg, the school architect, and to the contractor.

Contract price for the new school addition was $82,354. Completion of the addition in all details will be well within the estimate of $103,500, board secretary L. A. Kells stated.

Federal Aid May Be Secured To Help Scheme

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips of Ontario said Monday the federal government is considering federal aid for a health insurance scheme of some kind.

He told the Ontario Hospital Association convention the federal government may give financial backing to Ontario's proposals for a provincial health - insurance scheme.

Dr. G. Harvey Agnew, president, said a national health-insurance scheme is a "possibility and a hope only" at the moment. Such a scheme should be started in a limited way with gradual extension to prevent a sudden overtaxing of the province's hospital facilities.

COLOMBO PLAN EXTENSION WELCOME

Announcement that the Colombo plan will be extended until June of 1961 will be received with general approval in thinking Canadians.

It was a foregone conclusion that this decision to extend the plan would be made, but it is nevertheless a relief to discover that this is one time when there was no slip between the cup and the lip.

Since the decision to continue to help develop backward Asian countries will cost the Canadian taxpayers money, the fact that this policy will be widely acclaimed is noteworthy.

There are some who believe that the taxpayer begrudges every nickel which the government pries out of his bank account. In the majority of cases, this is not true. A great many people do not mind paying taxes if they are convinced that the money of which they are deprived is being spent for a good purpose.

There is a temptation to add "or necessary" between the adjective "useful" and the noun "purpose." But the statement revised in this manner would not be entirely accurate. There are many expenditures which are necessary which are nevertheless made grudgingly. The great majority of people, for instance, are convinced of the absolute necessity of maintaining the present defence forces at or near their present level. Yet many of the people who recognize this necessity nevertheless begrudge every dollar that is spent for defence. Such expenditures are not "useful" in the best sense of that word; that is to say while they serve the highly useful purpose of protecting our freedom every thinking man will agree that in a well-ordered and orderly world there would be no necessity for such expenditures and, therefore, money spent on defence would be useless.

It may be said that exactly the same argument could be applied to expenditures to aid backward countries in Asia. In an ideal world these would not be necessary, for things would be arranged so that the resources of Asia were developed and the Asians were thereby able to maintain themselves in comfort, if not in luxury. The difference is that a dollar spent for guns does not necessarily bring the danger of permanent peace any nearer, but every dollar used to develop the resources of backward countries pushes those countries just a little nearer to the target of being self-supporting.

One final point—things which are useful are not always necessary. It is perhaps debatable whether it is necessary for the more prosperous countries of the world to assist the poorer countries. Those who maintain that this only in this way can one of the basic causes of strife be eliminated may be wrong. Perhaps a poverty-stricken Asia would not, if left to its own resources, eventually push the whole world into an atomic war. There can, however, be no reasonable quarrel with the contention that the assistance which Canada and other countries are rendering to Asiatic lands is useful. Many Canadian taxpayers will get a thrill of satisfaction in realizing that at least a small portion of the heavy tax load they carry has been shouldered on behalf of those in distant lands who are in dire need of the help so given them.

CHILLY TRADE WINDS FROM U.S.

The easing of cold war tensions may have an unfavorable effect upon Canadian trade with the United States.

Such is the disquieting conclusion which must be drawn from a recent New York Times article by Brendan M. Jones. "For ten years," writes Mr. Jones, "the need to strengthen allied economies has overshadowed American trade and aid policies. Advocates of lower tariffs, elimination of import quotas and more liberal customs regulations have had a long and losing argument but such actions were essential to 'cold war' strategy." Since the 'summit conference' at Geneva in July, he points out, the force of such arguments has been blunted and U.S. protectionist sentiment is likely to increase.

This is disquieting news for Canadians. If protectionism becomes the keynote of U.S. trade policy, this country will be the loser. Indeed, as regards the implications for Canada of higher U.S. tariffs that Ottawa would be able to delay no longer a complete overhaul of trade policy under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Thoughtful Canadians have long recognized that efforts by Ottawa to justify its present trade policies, on the ground that trade concessions to other countries are the powerful weapons in the 'cold war,' are not working out in practice. Trade policies based on such grounds, in the light of recent developments in the United States, may before long have to be redressed, in order to maintain some semblance of equilibrium on Canada's trade balances.

MYSTERY OF THE PAST

Further discoveries on Manitoulin Island, somewhat similar to others that have been made in the Orient Bay and Pass Lake sections of this district, point to the existence, perhaps 10,000 years ago, of a civilization, that has long since disappeared. It would be further interesting to know what happened to these people. Did they die out of disease, starve, kill one another in racial or family wars, race suicide, or was it riotous living with too many receptions and so on? (Port Arthur News Chronicle.)

EYES

When you miss the bottom stair
Or the top one fail to see
Or you bump into a chair,
One good reason there may be.
If a friend you hurry by Whom you failed to recognize
Leaving him to wonder why,
It's your eyes.

When, at table, you would pour
Steaming coffee in the cup
But it flows upon the floor
And then you stop to mop it up;
When you call her Mrs. Gray
Though she's known as
Mrs. Wise,
This is all that's left to say:
It's your eyes.

When the other fellow's hat
Is the one you wear away;
When you think the floor is flat
And you trip and drop the tray;
When you trump your partner's ace
And at you she fairly flies,
Anger stamped upon her face,
It's your eyes.

Corn Better Than Perfect

(Ottawa Journal)

The state of the world being what it is and Winter coming on apace, everybody is now worrying about what to give Amelia for Christmas, it is cheering to read in the Baltimore Sun the latest news of DeKalb county in Indiana is A. J. Custer's assault on the corn-production record.

The man whose name in the United States is 25.5 bushels to the acre, but this goes a long way from satisfying the estimable Mr. Custer. Experts in the Baltimore Sun bureau, calls them agrobiologists) had figured it out that the maximum theoretical yielding ability of corn under perfect conditions was 225 bushels per acre. Neither did that satisfy the DeKalb farmer.

Last year Mr. Custer raised 241 bushels of corn on one acre — he achieved what the "agrobiologists" would have considered impossible. This year he is aiming at 300 bushels. On his best acre he planted 73 pounds of corn, thinned to 42,000 plants, applied two and one-half tons of fertilizer — and left Nature to her beneficent ways.

Wherever Mr. Custer has been, he's ideal (that is, his present objective) of 200 bushels to the acre does not yet know, but prospects are called excellent; if he makes it he'll doubt he will set 325 or 350 bushels as his goal next year, and he seems the sort of chap who will make that one too.

We wonder if perhaps the ability to grow 300 bushels of corn instead of 25.5 or 225 or 241 bushels isn't really quite as important in the scheme of things as construction of an atomic submarine or flying a projectile into outer space.

Fingers Most Useful Tools

(Tracks Magazine)

Of all the tools that man has at his command and has put to use, there are more precious to him than his hands and the fingers on them. They are really the marvelous tools, both in their structure and their use.

Hands and fingers put thought into action.

Whether they work consciously or not, their operations are matters of consideration. Next time you do some simple thing like turning the pages of a magazine or tying shoelaces or counting change, watch your hands and fingers what they do, you'll note, is more complicated, but so smoothly do they function that complexity is hardly apparent.

Like any fine tools, they should receive the utmost protection and care.

Adults Read Horror Comics

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Perhaps we ought to stop jumping on the kids for their love of horror comic books; in the opinion of one expert adults like to read far more often by adults than children.

Dr. Ralph D. Casey, director of a series of children's services in the University of Michigan's neuro-psychiatric institute, described the comic books as "the folklore of our age," and added that "it's time we face the fact that the Three Bears are anachronisms in this atomic age."

Just the same, we hope they never start depositing the comic books in cornerstones so that future generations will not say that one of what our taste in literature was!

Poisoning By Accident

(International Science Press Service)

"Poisoning now looms as a major health problem," reported two doctors recently. By that they did not mean murder, but accidents arising from the many toxic products our complex civilization has developed today.

Almost anything can be poisonous if taken in excess. Even milk has been known to cause toxic reactions in some cases. Medically, a poison is any substance which by its chemical action on the body may cause damage to its structure or disturbance of function.

The well known natural poisons hazards are snakes, spiders, and scorpions. But to these must now be added household poisons. These take a great toll in accidental deaths and illnesses. In 1953, the latest year for which figures are available, there were all accidental deaths in British homes were the result of poisoning, according to the Royal Society for Prevention of Accidents. This figure is probably relevant for all advanced industrialized countries.

Although children are the most likely to be the victims of accidental poisoning, adults are also exposed to these dangers because of their ignorance of the toxicity of these ecotoxins as the germ poisons are called. We have learned to prevent antitoxin in the cases of diphtheria and tetanus, and typhoid vaccine in the case of botulism, a form of food poisoning, but ignorance of the dangers and precautions can be taken both at home and in the food industry.

Of course, the subject of poison has always had a fascinating mystery and an aura of fascination and dread. Its unsavory bestrage as an instrument of murder is well known. Poison darts were used by primitive man as well as by civilized. Poison darts were used by primitive man as well as by civilized. Poison weapons and references to poison may be found in Homeric epics and Greek mythology. An ancient Egyptian papyrus believed to date from 1,500 B. C. contains many references both to mineral and vegetable poisons. Arsenic and Roman histories are studded with episodes of poisonings.

With the Renaissance, the art and profession of poisoning became even more common and was practised by the state as well as individuals. In 1572, there were 30,000 sorcerers in Paris, most of whom dealt quite openly in poisons and potions. Thousands stood ready, for a price, to commit a quiet murder. Large numbers of drugs were carried out in Rome by a woman, Gulia Tofana, and her accomplices, who were credited with over 600 professional poisonings. Even the doctors of the eminent poisoners for hire, confessed to having murdered some 2,500 infants.

During the 18th. century, the art lost most of its glamour and began to wane. The discovery in 1840 of a chemical test for arsenic, the king of poisons, was the final blow to the criminal poisoner. Science, by recognized, this method of detecting poisons, made it easy to produce definite evidence for the court conviction of poisoners.

Today modern science is taking energetic steps to meet the poisoning problem. Improved labels on antivenoms, vaccines, and other drugs have been devised. In addition, poison control centres are now being established, in connection with the larger treatment centres and as information bureaux on the latest techniques and remedies, and are expected to provide an antidote to almost every fairly formidable risk of accidental poisonings.

Tinted Roads Are Proposed

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

Some Italian engineers propose colored roads. Then maybe we'll have colored cars to match.

However, colored roads might be strictly utilitarian.

Present roads are either black, good in the daytime but poor at night, or near white, also good but pretty glaring under a hot sun. Color might permit a helpful combination.

It may be possible to use color to direct traffic, too. Perhaps some day we'll take the green road to Toronto, or the red or the blue road to Ottawa. It might be quite helpful, but until present roads are completely renewed the tinted roads won't be common enough to be of much help. Perhaps the proposal is found practical from an engineering standpoint.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Those of us who dislike contemporary popular music, let alone jazz, find it hard to believe we are wrong. It is harder to admit we are wrong.

So let's keep on arguing. For instance, who is most responsible for popularizing what is called popular music? The disc jockeys and those "radio and TV programs that conduct the hit parade type of shows. Every week or so, the men behind the radio continues to blast out the ever-changing procession of popular jazz records.

In the first place, we should look at disc jockeys. Some are nice listeners with shrewd suspicion. When a man has to listen, it's a boring job, to hour after hour of records, he becomes a sort of pickle-taster. He loses all sense of taste. And each pickle has to be sharper, more highly spiced than the last, or he couldn't taste it at all.

Furthermore, good music is restful. To keep a job, disc jockeys have to employ records that bang and holler and hoot. Some DJs have any bearing on the choice of records and changes is to get a sponsor.

Then, there are the juke boxes. Apparently there is a weekly check made on the juke boxes to determine which records are most played. Well, now, how about the popular face?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE STEADFAST

How many there are who are influenced by rumors, evil gossip and fears. Be steadfast and it is possible to defy all these evils. Think forward and go forward—there are no backward trails!

Having a plan of life and remaining faithful to it, regardless of events and changes, is to get a firm grip upon itself. How many there are who are tossed about, aged and flounder because of a lack of equipment, and those who have it often don't know how to use it!

Be steadfast. It is so assuring and never lets you down, you are led by confidence, and that only road in the end ahead. Many a time we are tempted to get out of line, to try some alien philosophy, but Mr. Steadfast steps in and tells us not to lose courage or Faith, but to stay in line and become a finisher.

How many times we are reminded of the fact that the race of life is not to be run by the swift. How often the plodder puts to shame his more brilliant competitors, and how often is that word "steadfast" associated with the word "true"—steadfast and true."

During these strange times when the false and shoddy are put forward, it is heartening that there are those who stick to the simple and the genuine, who invest rather than speculate. The one way may take more time, and is often more rugged, but champions travel it!

Be steadfast in your Faith. Do not become troubled with the rise and fall of the market. There are values in human character greater than any ever quoted on the Stock Exchange.

Personal Health Talks

This Is Another Side of The Story

We quoted some time ago a statement made in the Bulletin on Rheumatic Diseases published in May 13, '54, by the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation:

"The principle shortcoming of modern drug therapy is that while the results are more or less dramatic and immediate, they disappear when medication is discontinued. Besides, the various drugs in use today have not shown conclusively that they can alter the natural course of the disease or prevent crippling."

That's what I've been trying to tell you poor geeks who go for each new "wonder" drug as soon as it is "released", but as long as the manufacturers continue to turn out a new and better "wonder" drug season after season you'll probably brush my yarnmerings aside and try the latest, with the same "dramatic and immediate" but not lasting effects.

The lady reader who doubts the value of the "wonder" drugs for joint disability it must seem remarkable — to backslab readers who think "arthritis" is some kind of disease germ for which specialists, "clinic" racketeers and other bunk merchants understand—how confident I am that rheumatic, which is physical degeneration, of joint tissues, may be prevented, retarded, arrested and even reversed (into regeneration) if taken in time, and the correction of nutritional deficiencies.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

THEY DISLIKE IMPROVEMENT

A friend of mine picked up a hitchhiker one day, a man well dressed and middle aged for 18 years. He can't had worked on the campus of a university. Yet the man who had spent 18 years on a college campus could not read or write; and he was rather proud of the fact. He declared that he not only could not read and write, but he never wanted to learn. "If I learned to read and write," he said, "then they will be wanting me to do my work and theirs too."

The majority spires of the academic buildings rise up from this beautiful campus. For 18 years this man has cut grass, trimmed hedges and edged sidewalks, and tens of thousands of students have passed him carrying their textbooks and chatting gaily about their experiences. Yet this man, unless he is an unconscionable liar, is not ashamed of his ignorance. He can't read and write and he doesn't want to read and write. Probably his parents before him were illiterate, else they would have seen that he got some education. He has no desire for advancement.

There are thousands of people who have the same philosophy this man has. They don't have to be frank about it. They dislike improvement because it involves effort, and they don't intend to make that effort. Let others get the labor-saving devices for ease instead and live their lives as they want to live them.

The does seem to be illiterate to have this philosophy. Many well-educated people have it.

New Fields For Feminists

(Ottawa Journal)

Women, so we read, or at least some women, want to take up bullfighting as a career. Not a profession or trade or whatever bullfighting may be called. It is not, we gather, out of any dislike of bulls, or any profound admiration for the arts and skills of the matador — incidentally a lady bullfighter would be a matadora — but because both but arises from the determination that the male sex should not be privied of almost its last exclusive stronghold. Feminine pride is involved.

For our part we agree that anybody with a good line of patter and teasing an angry bull should be allowed to follow his inclination, and we should certainly like to see what sort of a show a lady bullfighter would put on. But there are other if less spectacular fields open to women who want to prove that in nothing are they inferior to men and fields where they could, as it were, gain their spurs.

Politics is, for example, a common domestic task the man of the house sometimes accomplishingly about this time of year and which he might be persuaded to relinquish — the putting on of storm windows. To climb a ladder to the outside level of the second floor carrying a window six feet by three against a stiff gale and to fix it in position into the de-mands not only skill but courage bod perseverance, and the lady as-pirant to join the bull-fighter would find it admirable training.

Other domestic tasks as shovelling snow, cutting grass, painting the house, painting ing the outside woodwork, patching the roof, and washing the car, for instance, would be the common agreement (or at least without any strong dissent) men have to themselves. Perhaps they lack something in color and romance, but they are tasks both and spirit and they would go far to fit the feminine mind forward for the role of matador if that is her aim and goal.

She could work up through those somewhat prosaic tasks to the building-and-repair of a large window up a high ladder in a sharp breeze. That accomplished, it would seem quite logical to wave a red flag in the face of a large and irascible bull a member of the bovine species.

Four Teen-Agers 'Shoot Up' Picnic Grounds

OTTAWA (CP)—Four teen-aged Ottawa boys appeared in court Monday charged with causing property damage in "shooting up" a boys picnic site with .22-calibre rifles. Their cases were transferred to juvenile court since one boy is only 14.

Bandit Robs Winnipeg Bank

WINNIPEG (CP) — Police in the greater Winnipeg area searched today for two armed bandits who held up a bank and a restaurant Monday.

A silent gunman robbed a north-end branch of the Bank of Montreal of $3,450. Late Monday night a second bandit made off with $80 from a restaurant in suburban St. Vital.

Police said they did not believe there was any connection between the restaurant and bank hold-ups.

Mother Kept Baby in Car While Working

MONTREAL (CP) — A 30-year-old mother may face court charges as a result of the discovery of a six-week-old baby boy bundled in the back seat of a car in Montreal's manufacturing district.

The infant was found Monday with a perforated plastic bag over his head, his body bundled in overcoats, blankets and clothing and his ankles tied with a cotton cord.

A passerby made the discovery when he heard a faint cry from the back seat of a car parked near the corner of Ottawa and Dalhousie streets. He notified police.

The mother told them she is separated from her husband and has no other place to keep her baby while she worked. They did not identify her.

ANOTHER CHILD

The woman said she places another child, aged four, in a nursing home during the day but could find no one to care for the baby.

She said she bundled and tied him loosely so he would not hurt himself and put the plastic bag over his face to keep away flies and insects.

She said she fed and rewrapped him at noon every day, returning after work to take him home.

"While the child is in good condition and there is no sign of ill treatment," a police officer said, "the mother nevertheless would have endangered the life of her child if she had been allowed to continue this peculiar type of baby-sitting."

Weddings

McKENDRY—BENNETT

Lighted white tapers, evergreens, colorful maple leaves and clusters of white alyssum formed the setting for the wedding ceremony uniting in Merrickville United church at two o'clock on Saturday, October 8, when Felicity Helen Edith Bennett, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Howard Bennett of Merrickville, and former teacher of the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville, became the bride of Alexander Bonnar McKendry, eldest son of Mr. Alexander McKendry, of Glenburnie, Ontario, and the late Mrs. McKendry.

The Rev. W. H. LeGrow, pastor of the church, performed the double-ring wedding ceremony and the organist for the occasion was Miss Mary McKendry, of Glenburnie. Miss Betty Joyner, also of Glenburnie, sang "Ai Dawning" as the guests were assembling and the Song of Ruth, "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee Nor to Forsake from Following after Thee," during the signing of the register.

Master Hugh Travers, cousin of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love" immediately preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of eggshell brocaded taffeta. The molded bodice with self loops and buttons from small turn-over collar to waist, with long sleeves ending in points over the hands, had inset panels of plain taffeta continuing full down the bouffant skirt. The only trimming was small taffeta loops outlining the neck and sleeve openings. The "something blue" was a small Wedgwood cameo on a silver chain. The bride wore a white jewelled headdress with lace-edged veil of illusion net, and carried a cascade of white Stasia flowers.

Mrs. Albert LeGrow, of Toronto, was matron of honor and wore a waltz-length princess style gown of forest green velveteen with full skirt and matching coronet headdress. Her flowers were a cascade of bronze pom-poms.

Miss Sheila Wagner was flower girl in a pale gold taffeta floor-length princess style frock with round neck and short puffed sleeves. She wore a yellow headband, long matching gloves, and carried a nosegay of yellow and bronze baby 'mums.

Mr. Harold McKendry was groomsman for his brother and the ushers were Messrs. Harold Sills of Kingston, and Jack Bennett, of Toronto. All, including the boy soloist, wore grey trousers, navy blazers and grey ties.

Just before coming out of the church after the ceremony, the newlyweds sang the church bell, blithely broadcasting their wedding. About three o'clock a plane from the Kingston Flying club, flew over and circled the church, "serenading" the bride and bridegroom for several minutes, delighting the guests on the church lawn with a series of skillful manoeuvres. The bride, who has held a pilot's licence since her early teens, is the only female flying instructress in Canada.

The reception was held in the dining hall of the church. Mrs. John Leterskey, of Belleville, played gay piano music while the guests went through the reception line. The bride's mother received the guests wearing Baltic blue-green faille taffeta with black velvet hat, black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. McKendry wore a dusty rose crepe dress with small navy hat, navy accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Travelling by motor, the bride and bridegroom left on a trip to Swiftwater, Pa., the bride changing to a gold-flecked grey and blue tweed suit with wheat gold hat and gloves, black patent shoes and bag. Her corsage was of yellow Sweetheart roses and she carried a blonde muskrat shortie coat. Upon their return they will reside in Kingston.

Prior to her wedding, the bride was entertained with a shower

The president, Mr. J. Bablak, introduced to those present the guest speaker of the day, the Rev. O. L. Davidson, of the First Baptist Church, Kingston.

Mr. Davidson explained the theme of the convention, "Communicating the Gospel." In effect this meant bringing every man, woman and child in your church into a closer relationship with God, a true awareness of His divine presence and guidance in everyone's life.

THEME DISCUSSED

A discussion on this theme was conducted by Mr. Davidson, then the meeting was dismissed at 5.15.

The supper session assembled at six o'clock in the church school rooms of the Holloway St. United Church with about 55 in attendance.

Archdeacon J. B. Creegan of Christ Church gave the invocation and the Rev. S. Larman of Holloway St. United Church, welcomed those present.

A delicious meal was provided by the young ladies of the church mediate church school group and the intermediate choir.

FILM SHOWN

A film, "Tips for Teachers," starring Mr. Love Jr. showed teaching personality, preparation and presentation was shown. This picture proved most enjoyable and instructive to all present.

Bongard of Christ Church. Everyone enjoyed the beautiful array of materials displayed and appreciated the helpful suggestions given by Mrs. Bongard.

GROUP DISCUSSION

The presidents divided those present into departmental groups for further discussion on the theme "Communicating the Gospel." The leaders of these discussions were as follows:

Beginners: Mrs. A. Bongard, Christ Church Anglican; primary, Mrs. A. Cornish, Tabernacle United; juniors, Mr. Walter Jewell, Wesleyan Methodist Church; intermediate-seniors, Mr. Chris Leggat, Christ Church Anglican; young people's and adults, Mr. Don Williams, Bridge Street United Church; superintendent, Mr. T. Howell, Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

Reports were received on the findings and conclusions of each of these groups.

COMMUNICATING THE GOSPEL

Mr. Davidson gave a short address entitled "Communicating the Gospel." He divided his talk into two parts: "Communicating," which is the art of getting the lesson/sermon to the pupil; and said "the methods should, where possible, follow those of Christ, who taught by example, preaching, parable and miracle. We, as teachers, place too much importance on the necessity of special teaching methods. Our Lord had no special class room or equipment to supplement the lessons He taught. The important thing in our church school teaching is love for Christ and faith in our task."

In his treatment of the second part of the theme, "The Gospel," Mr. Davidson said "our teaching should be from a positive point of view. Christ did not teach from a "Thou Shalt Not" perspective. "Jesus, the incomparable teacher, through His deep, abiding faith, gentle humility, sweet simplicity, everlasting love, kind understanding, infinite patience, great compassion and finally through His supreme sacrifice, taught all people for all time, that Christ is the way, the truth and the life.

"Jesus is the gospel."

The convention was brought to a close with prayer by Mr. H. Elmy of the First Pentecostal Church.

Holloway W.A. Enjoys European Travelogue

The ladies of Holloway Street church W.A., met for their October meeting in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. Dobbs, presiding.

It was decided to give $100 to the M. and M. fund; plans were made for the bazaar to be held, the second week in November; all members are asked to contribute to the various booths and help in any way they can to make it a success. The last meeting of this year is to be a turkey dinner in the evening. Mrs. Massassaga ladies catering for this dinner.

The worship service was in charge of Mrs. Brown's group with Mrs. S. Westover presiding. This was in praise and thanksgiving for the bountiful harvest this year. Those who have been privileged to drive through the fruit and farming country the past weeks will agree that there is reason to be particularly thankful for such a harvest and for the long period of fine autumn days for gathering it in. The words of the poet express this feeling, "Once more in the harvest field laughs out, O'er richer stores than gems of gold."

Mrs. H. Townsend gave the meditation, quoting from Psalm 116:12 "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" "How are we faced to this challenge? The Psalmist gives us the answer and tell us what we must do. We can show forth our thanktulness, not only with our lips but in our lives by giving our selves to His service and walking before Him in holiness and righteousness all our days. Let us then rise to real consecration of ourselves to our Creator, doing those things which will help to further His Kingdom on earth."

Mrs. McMurray offered prayer and Mrs. Demesa favored with a lovely solo.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Dobbs introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Bowden.

Mrs. Bowden took her listeners with her on her recent trip across sea in an entertaining and educational travel talk.

This was a long planned and looked forward to holiday which proved far more interesting and educational experience of her life and was thoroughly enjoyed by both her husband and herself.

The ocean voyage was a holiday in itself with plenty of entertainment for everyone. They visited England, Scotland, London, Holland, Germany, France, Paris and many, many places of interest.

Mrs. Bedell's group served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed by all.

Noted Authoress Gives Talk On 'Romances of Fur Trade'

"The Indian women played a large part in the opening up of Canada," said Mrs. Marjorie Wilkins Campbell, noted authoress, and traveller, as she addressed the Women's Canadian Club, yesterday afternoon in St. Andrew's church hall on "Romances of the Fur Trade."

Introduced and welcomed by the president of the club, Mrs. Donald I. MacKinnon, Mrs. Campbell said how happy she was to visit Belleville, and as it was learned later, she is no stranger to the community, since her father was once a resident of Picton, and her sister, Mrs. Brownlie, resides in Marmora.

ROMANCES

The speaker dwelt mostly on the romances which took place between the members of the fur trade, and those exploring the country and the Chippewa Indian girls, with specific stress on the part played by the Indian women of the country. Had it not been for them, there would have been little exploration, since explorers march on their stomachs, as well as the army, and it was the good food prepared by the Indian women which enabled the explorers and the fur traders to accomplish their great work.

The Indian women not only married the traders, and explorers, but made their canoes, their snowshoes, and their moccasins, and made for them a home away from home.

She mentioned some well known names in Canadian history who had married Indian girls, among these were, David Thompson, a Welshman, who did much exploring, seeking a river which flowed to the westward, which he eventually found, the Columbia River. He was noted for his notes on the country, and for the fine map of the district which he had explored, which map is still in use today because of its authenticity. Another famous name was Alexander Mackenzie, who married the sister of Charlotte Thompson, David Thompson's wife. Alexander MacKenzie's son was another who married an Indian girl, and Simon Simpson, who later left his Indian wife, to marry his cousin, Frances Simpson.

SOME HAD ENDINGS

Unfortunately, some of these marriages ended sadly, as the husband, when his exploration was accomplished, left for home, leaving his Indian wife and family, to marry again one of his own people. It is easier for a white women to adapt herself to the life in these parts, than it is for an Indian woman to penetrate herself to advanced civilization. The Indian mother possessed a poetic soul, and lives close to nature. The milky way is her is the place of departed souls, and each star in this galaxy, a soul.

Referring to the three main fur trading posts, Mrs. Campbell mentioned, the Hudson Bay Company, of London, England; the Northwest company and the French. In 1774, British traders came up from Montreal and formed the Northwest company, an enterprising and courageous group, travelling at their own expense.

Alexander MacKenzie came by canoe and snowshoes, exploring the first trans Canada highway. The trips around the coast of Canada were hazardous and long; here, again the dependence on the Indian women came into play.

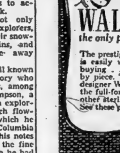
INDIAN HOTEL

The fur traders were subject to Indian massacre, and in marrying the Indian girls they accomplished two things in one; they became friends of the Indians, and were safe from attack, and they were "home" when they were, to which they returned to the sound of the pounding of the pemican, dried buffalo meat. Mrs. Campbell recounted her tasting of a cache of pemican which had achieved the age of 75 years. She was not overly delighted with it.)

The main fur posts at that time was Fort William, with Montreal being but an outpost. At Fort William they had feasts, dances and enjoyed life. Some Indian men had two wives, a thing that the missionaries tried to discourage.

In connection with this custom, one missionary, when telling the Indian in question to make up his mind which wife he preferred, and then to tell the other to leave, thought for a moment, then turned to the interpreter saying, "You tell her." The government, also tried to discourage the plurality of wives among the traders by imposing a fine of 100 pounds, but they circumvented this by marrying half-breds, which in its turn caused the mingling of bloods, and some offspring of knowing who were related or not.

BITTER COMPETITION



There was also bitter competition among the fur trade posts. Today, there is no real fur trading post in Canada, save that on the west coast of Lake Superior which had been reconstructed.

The speaker was thanked by by Mrs. MacKinnon for her enlightening talk.

Following the meeting, tea was served.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

A BEAUTIFUL NECK IS A BEAUTY ASSET

Lubrication and massage, administered faithfully, will keep the neck youthfully beautiful.

The secret of a beautiful neck is that slender and "swanlike" as the poets put it, with skin smooth texture and delicate colors is good muscle tone and good circulation, aided and abetted by plenty of lubrication.

The lubrication is a comparatively simple matter since you can administer it with your nightly facial cleansing. Too many women forget the neck when it comes to the bedtime facial ritual. They cream their faces soigné for removal make-up and soil but don't go below the chin line and, eventually, this results in a difference of skin tones between face and neck that's anything but pretty. So make it a practice, when cleansing your face, to include your neck, too. So much for the nightly treatment.

Now, if you give yourself a weekly facial, as you should you can also get in some fine work on your neck. Start the application of cream well below the throat line, over the shoulders and as far below the nape line as you can conveniently reach. And, in massaging it into the skin, use the slap-dash style. Use the tips of the fingers, with little extra pressure on the thumb, to work the cream in well and then, throwing your head back until you feel a definite tenseness from the chinline right down through the throat, use the back of your hands, alternately, and in quick light strokes, as a "vibrator" to stimulate circulation. This procedure is also excellent for preventing and minimizing a double chin. And, actually, there's no reason why you can't use it for a few moments every night instead of waiting for the weekly facial. If your skin is dry or normal, use a rich, heavy cream for your neck and face—one that's resistant to pressure. However, if your skin is inclined toward oiliness, any good cold cream or cleansing cream will serve the purpose.

The circulation of the blood can be further stimulated throughout the neck and face through a passive reclining "exercise". Your ironing board or any other plank of wood which is at least as long as your body will be a great help here. Place one end on the floor and the other on a hassock, chair or any other object which is sturdy enough to support it solidly. Lie on the board, with feet at the elevated end, head at the lower end, your whole body completely relaxed and remain there five minutes. If you do this while the cream is still on your face, so much the better, but you can do it at any time. Gradually increase the number of minutes you remain on the board. In this position until you reach twenty. You'll not only feel the good effects of stimulated blood circulation throughout your face and neck, but you'll also find the position a completely relaxing one to get along with difficult people, and how much fonder of them you find yourself, when you don't have to see too much of them!

If for any reason, the move is not feasible, however, then I think there are just two things to be done.

One is for your husband to tell his foot down and let his mother understand that if she and your family are to continue to visit back and forth there must be a change in her attitude. He shouldn't, of course, tell her in an angry, quarrelsome way. He can be quiet about it, but firm. Then, if she refuses to see reason, he can say he's very sorry, but you will be between you will have to be very few and far between—and mean it. You could put up with a visit once a month or so, couldn't you?

If your husband doesn't have the gumption to be so decisive, then the second thing would be for you to take your own stand in the matter. You can always make the excuse that you can't leave your children unattended, and if it was done sufficiently often, the point might eventually sink in and things might take a turn for the better.

Admittedly, if your mother-in-law is in your own home, this won't work the same way. But you can always make the excuse of an errand to another room, or even out of the house, to give you time to cool off so that there will be no quarrel. Or you might say that to "have a good fight" is not the mature way of handling the problem.

Good luck to you, and let me know what you decide to do, will you?

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS PROBLEM IS REALLY UP TO YOUR HUSBAND

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am at my wits' end as to how to deal with my mother-in-law. She has been a boon lady in her household all her life, and is domineering and arrogant. My father-in-law is a quiet man who does exactly as told, and doesn't do a thing unless he is told to do it. There are two sons, one of whom I married. He is a good husband and father to our three children.

Since we live near enough my in-laws for occasional visits, my problem is increasingly difficult. I would like to have my mother-in-law at our home for week-end visits occasionally, and I would like to feel free to go to her house. But she feels that she is the only one who has good judgment, and that no one with whom she comes in contact is capable of thinking for himself. Consequently, every time we are there, or she is here, I find myself feeling very bitter towards her because of her lack of respect for both my husband and myself.

It also makes me very cross with my husband, and sometimes I almost feel that if this situation persists, it will harm our marriage and our family life, which is the last thing I want to have happen.

Just how would you deal with her personality? Shall I continue to appease her, as I have done in the past for the sake of peace, or should I do what I think she secretly would like—have a good fight every so often? I feel this situation would not be the mature way to deal with the situation.

I have asked my husband to try and get a transfer to some distant city where we could all remain friends under the same sky but certainly not the same roof.

— C.V.P.

Dear C.V.P.:

You show a great deal of insight, intelligence and commonsense in what you say about your mother-in-law problem. I am wondering if your husband shows the same valuable qualities in his own attitude.

I am a little afraid that he may not, since you say you feel cross with him after any contact with his mother. I suppose that (1) he grew up with the problem and (2) he got so used to it that he accepts it as an ill to be borne, rather than to combat, and (3) he feels she is his mother and so he must put up with her as she is, instead of asserting himself and gently putting her in her place. If this is the case, and he does not take his stand beside you in working out a solution, it of course makes the problem that much more difficult for you.

Your idea of moving to some distant city would, of course, be the most effective way of dealing with the situation. But is your husband willing to try for the transfer? Or does he object to moving away from his mother? Frankly, I am sure it would be the very best step you could possibly take. It's quite miraculous how much easier it is for your entire body.

A good exercise which helps to tone the muscles in the neck is to lie on your back across a bed, with head hanging down until you feel that same pull between chin and throatline. Very slowly, move your head from left to right several times, and then reverse. The "pull" in your neck muscles does the work, but to be really effective, it must be done slowly.

WHEN it's time for your small snoppet to get into the finger paints, start him off with only one or two colors. As his technique improves, add others. His runny masterpieces should be spread flat to dry—the bathroom floor or tub is a good spot.

Desserts for a Multitude

By Mary Moore

When you are convener of a Dessert Bridge and have an envelope full of tickets to sell and the phone keeps ringing and your friends ask "When is the Press Club Bridge this year, Mary? —I want to be in on that."—then you are in clover.

But, when the members phone or write saying "Mary I haven't time to or can't make a dessert—will it be okay if I send the money for one?" then you are in for work.

The day before I left for Edmonton all of that happened—a dessert bridge for two hundred and little me convened it.

Nothing daunted I called on my dear dependable friend Lorraine, veteran cooking school teacher, and she came to my house and we concocted desserts to our hearts' content. It was wonderful. We spent all day mixing up the most tantalizing confections—loaded with whipped cream and butter and sugar and eye-catching decorations.

We carefully transported them to the community centre on the floors of the trunks or our cars right on the serving plates. We crawled around the curves gingerly so our loads wouldn't shift. After the crowds began to arrive we spent the next four hours washing the dishes and cleaning and counting our shekels and cleaning up.

It was so peaceful next day to pack my bags leisurely and just quietly step on to The Canadian.

Each dessert was supposed to serve 12 people. The two I have given you could be made well ahead of time and are sure-fire favorites. I don't want to put any ideas into your little heads about having a dessert bridge—but you may want to have three quiet tables at home. If so, make one of these the day before, and serve plenty of coffee and there will be no day-after headaches.

PINEAPPLE ANGEL FOOD DESSERT

One cup heavy cream, 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1 cup top milk, sliced angel food cake (leftover angel food cake may be used). Whip cream until thick. Add sugar slowly while beating, fold in the lemon juice, 1 tablespoon at a time, then slowly fold in top milk. Slice cake about 1 inch thick and line bottom of refrigerator trays with cake. Pour cream mixture over top and place in refrigerator storage part (not freezer) to set. It must set for 4 or 6 hours, but may be left overnight. Serve with Pineapple Sauce—In top of double boiler mix together 3 tablespoons cornstarch and 1-2 cup sugar. Stir into them 1-3 cup lemon juice and 1 cup pineapple juice (or crushed canned pineapple and juice) until thick over boiling water. Allow to cook covered 15 minutes, stirring twice. Cool.

CHOCOLATE DELIGHT

One-half cup butter, 1 cup sifted icing sugar, 3 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1-3 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup chopped nuts, 1 cup crushed vanilla wafers (or whole chocolate or vanilla wafers may be used). Cream butter, gradually adding sugar until both are very light. Add egg yolks and beat vigorously. Melt chocolate over hot water, remove from heat and add vanilla and nuts and fold into butter mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Line a refrigerator tray with waxed paper. Spread one-half of the crushed (or plain) wafers in the bottom of tray. Pour in chocolate mixture and sprinkle or spread remaining wafers on top—top layer should not be too thick. Chill in refrigerator overnight.

Both of the above amounts will serve 10 or 12. Good luck with your entertaining.

NOT CORRECT FOR GROOM'S FAMILY TO GIVE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. My son is to be married around Thanksgiving time. Both he and his bride-to-be are Catholics, and they would like to have a very nice church wedding. But they cannot afford a reception. If there is to be no reception is it proper for them to send out invitations to the wedding?

2. Under these circumstances, what could I do? Our home is not large enough to have the reception here, and I cannot afford to give the reception in a hotel or hall or other place. Would there be anything else I could do, such as giving an Open House after the wedding at my home? I'd like to provide the wedding cake, and so may I serve only the wedding cake and coffee? — Groom's Mother

1. Indeed it is proper to send invitations to the church ceremony even when there is to be no reception. (These invitations, of course, are sent out by the bride's parents.)

2. Even if you were financially able to give the reception after the ceremony, you definitely should not do this, for it is not correct for the groom's family to give the wedding reception.

However, it would be in excellent taste for you to give an Open House in honor of the couple after they return from their wedding trip. This can be a most gracious and delightful occasion. To give this party a charming wedding atmosphere, the bride may wear her wedding dress (though not her bridal veil, of course, nor would she carry a bouquet), and there might be a wedding cake for the day of burns.

bride and groom to cut, and there should be a cold beverage, perhaps fruit punch, for the toasts "To the Bride and Groom!"

Cyprus Chief Justice Submits To Search

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Sir Eric Hallinan, chief justice of Cyprus, Monday submitted to a personal search before entering the heavily-guarded court here to hear a murder charge.

It was the first time in the British mediterranean colony's history that this had been done.

Hallinan himself ordered the search. All lawyers and court officers were also searched before entering.

He said the search would remove suspicion from anyone connected with the administration of justice, should any violent incident occur during the trial of Michael Karaolis, 23, a government official accused of shooting a policeman to death in Nicosia in August.

The entire court square was sealed off by British troops. Soldiers armed with tommyguns or rifles and bayonets watched the whole compound surrounding the court. More troops manned machine - guns behind sandbagged positions.

Karaolis, who pleaded not guilty, was surrounded by armed police and detectives.

Raud Denktash, acting solicitor-general, said the prosecution would try to prove that the killing of the policeman was a political murder by Eoka—a terrorist organization campaign for Cyprus' union with Greece.

JAMES DEMPSEY

Mr. Dempsey was born at Calabogie, Ont., in 1887 and received his education there. He took his first job at the age of 12 and ler ned about business by "experience."

WORKED AS BUILDER

He worked on railroad and building construction, mostly as a contractor and later operated a lumber mill. He became reeve of Renfrew and then was elected to the legislature in 1945. He was re-elected in the elections of 1948 and 1951.

He married twice, first to the former Rose Wallace, who died in a "flu epidemic during the First World War, and in 1923 to Sarah Payne, who died in 1953.

Surviving are Mr. Dempsey's two daughters, Mrs. John Miller (Sybil) of Toronto and Mrs. Bert Hills (Lola) of Kingston, and three brothers and eight sisters.

The funeral service will be conducted Thursday in Renfrew Anglican church by Rev. A. W. Downer, Speaker of the legislature.

CONSERVATIVE

The campaign for Monday's election had a circus touch. Noon-hour street corner meetings were commonplace in the west-central riding which takes in Toronto's garment-making district. Trucks and autos, equipped with loudspeakers, made organized tours of the streets to proclaim slogans of the candidates, mingled with songs and martial music.

At one time it is estimated that 85 per cent of the population was Jewish. The estimate now is about 15 per cent.

PC LEADER PLEASED

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader George Drew said Monday night the Conservative victory in the Spadina riding proves "there are few constituencies in Canada which cannot be won for the Conservative party."

"This is a magnificent victory for a splendid candidate," Mr. Drew said. "Ted Rea has been a personal friend of mine for many years and I know that he has the training and the experience to be an outstanding member of Parliament.

"By overcoming a Liberal majority in the last election of nearly 9,000 he and his supporters have proved that there are few constituencies in Canada which cannot be won for the Conservative party in the next election by a good candidate chosen in plenty of time to build up a strong organization."

Social Credit leader Solon Low said the by-election result is "certainly an indication of a general feeling throughout the country of protest against the government."

"I find it everywhere," he added.

MADOC

Annual S.S. Convention Held in Union United Church

MADOC — The annual convention of Sunday Schools of Madoc and Elzevir townships, was held Wednesday, October 19th in Union United Church. The theme for the day was "For Every Child a Christian Faith."

The Rev. J. F. Lane led the call to worship in the absence of the Rev. M. Heslop.

Mr. Dan Robinson gave the address of welcome. The president thanked all those who had helped through the year, especially the ministers, four of whom were present.

Two vocal numbers were given by a trio, Mrs. Roy DeMille, Mrs. E. Armstrong and Mrs. J. Keene, "Wonderful Jesus" and "Where Can I Go but to the Lord?"

Mrs. Ealer had charge of action choruses in absence of Miss Rogers.

In the afternoon Mr. Daniel took the "Temptation of Jesus" as an example. He showed how not to teach a lesson. "First know the pupils, teach the pupils, know them. Always use your Bible. Get your lesson across during the time." He learned by experience to change the actions. Smaller ones may be enlisted as helpers. A quiz may explain the lesson. Offer ones may name temptations and how to resist them. Some are power, popularity, money. "We should know temptation when it comes. Everyone is called to be a Christian."

A beneficial discussion followed. Mr. Crabbe dedicated the offering.

Before leaving for home, Mr. Daniel sang effectively "The Ninety and Nine."

OFFICERS 1955-56

Mrs. Donly gave the report of the nominating committee as follows:

Honorary president, Allen Sagwas memorizing Scripture. Rev. McEwen led a short singsong and dedicated the offering.

The speaker for the morning was Rev. L. K. Daniel of Belleville, who stressed the theme and said that "the effect of the devotional should not be overlooked. Each child should believe in God and that Jesus died for our sins, personally, and should dedicate his whole being, heart, mind and will through prayer to Him. The purpose of the lesson should stimulate, not smother the child."

Mr. J. F. Lane closed the service in the absence of Rev. P. C. Bennett.

Tea was served at noon in the Sunday School rooms.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session was opened with a sing-song led by Mrs. Jackson, "All Through the Year," "The Wise Man," and other choruses. The Rev. G. Crabbe had charge of the devotional in the absence of the Rev. R. Lewis. He stressed the teaching of the Scriptures in the home.

This can be increased by reward tags, contests and a mystery person. Children can be won by prayer and example.

At the close Mr. Ealer installed the new officers.

Mrs. Dohiy presented the banner for another year to Madoc Presbyterian Sunday School.

RAWDON

Indian Children Present 'Ambika' To Granby Zoo

RAWDON — B. Hearnden of the Associated Country Women of the World, has just released this story from her office in London, England. She says why write fiction? The things that actually happen are so much more surprising and more fun than anything that one could invent:

This is a true W.I. story and was a result of the ACWW Conference held in Toronto in 1953 and is as follows:

Among the many visitors to the Toronto conference were two Indian ladies, Dr. K. Nimbkar and Mrs. K. Kuppuswamy. After the conference they joined a group of delegates who took a tour through the Province of Quebec, Canada, arranged and conducted by Mrs. G. D. Harvey, first vice-president of the Quebec Women's Institutes. Their first point of call was Granby where they visited, amongst other things, the zoo.

At the civic luncheon that followed Dr. Nimbkar jokingly commented on the fact that Granby Zoo had no elephant, and suggested that she should ask Mr. Nehru, the prime minister of India, to give them one.

It was many weeks before Dr. Nimbkar and Mrs. Kuppuswamy got home, but when they paid their courtesy call on Mr. Nehru to give a report of their trip, they told him about the lack of elephants in Granby Zoo. "Why not?" said Mr. Nehru. "Let the children write to me and we might like to oblige them." Dr. Nimbkar immediately wrote to Quebec, and Mrs. J. Ossington, of Granby, arranged for a letter to be circulated amongst the children of the district. Over six thousand children signed that letter, which was sent to Mr. Nehru."

"AMBIKA" ARRIVES

Last month the elephant arrived, and was formally presented to the children of Granby. Her name is "Ambika", she is three years old, she weighs 1,005 pounds and she received the most enthusiastic welcome from all the children as well as government, church and civic officials.

Practically everybody in the town turned out to cheer, as Ambika, standing on a truck, was driven to the Zoological Gardens. In a letter Mr. Nehru said she was a gift from the children of Indian to the children of Canada, and carried all their good wishes.

Mrs. de Mel, president of the Ceylon Institutes attended an executive meeting in London, England, on October 6th, 1955.

At the end of the meeting Mrs. de Mel showed some colored slides which she had brought from Ceylon, photographs of the Mahila Samiti members celebrating the 25th birthday of their organization. They had many decorated floats depicting various phases of their work, and the color and light and the smiling faces of members in Ceylon made all feel warmer and happier.

Lady Lucas had returned from a visit to her son in Rhodesia, and while there she met Mrs. Berry of Australia, president of the ACWW and spoke of the success of Mrs. Berry's African tour. Mrs. Berry plans to visit Ontario in June, 1956.

Vancouver Chief Gets His Wish, Is Dismissed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police chief Walter Mulligan, 51, target of testimony charging laxity and corruption within the 750-man police force he headed for 8½ per as,has been dismissed at his own request.

The three-man board of police commissioners met for 40 minutes Monday and then, echoing the chief's own words, announced the "usefulness of chief Mulligan to the city . . . is now at an end."

Chief Mulligan, climbing his career as chief had been ruined by the lengthy royal commission hearing into charges against the force, asked that he be dismissed so he could start "a new phase of life for my wife and myself."

The dismissal is effective Oct. 31.

END OF A CAREER

For the burly son of a Liverpool policeman, it was the end of a career that began in 1927 as a third-grade constable. It also ended a term as chief unequalled in length in Vancouver's history.

His dismissal climaxed four months of developments initiated by a royal commission investigating charges against the force.

Chief Mulligan requested his dismissal in a letter to the police commissioners last week.

"My former usefulness as chief constable is ended," he said.

"Therefore I propose that I should proceed to my next task: The starting of a new phase of life for my wife and myself."

WANTED PENSION

The chief, on leave of absence at full salary of $10,236 a year since June 24, asked to be fired so he could collect an estimated $75-a-month pension.

If he had resigned, only the amount he paid into the superannuation plan would have been returned to him.

String of Quick, Violent Storms Brings 7 Deaths

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States eastern seaboard from Virginia to Massachusetts was hit Monday by a string of quick, violent storms that brought gusts up to 110 miles an hour and caused seven deaths.

In some areas the storm carried rain, but weather bureau officials said there would be no danger of floods—much to the relief of an area which has already experienced two disastrous floods this season.

The squalls, travelling on the edge of a fast-moving cold front, came from the west with frightening speed and were gone again in as little as 12 minutes. But the cold air remained over the area and the forecast for today was a cloudy, cooler and windy weather.

In some sections residents reported the storms were like tornadoes, with swirling winds that toppled trees, broke power lines, skimmed roofs off some buildings and crumpled others, upset airplanes and swamped boats.

Frost Praises Jas. S. Dempsey

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost today closed the book on his differences with James Shannon Dempsey, legislature member for Renfrew South who died Monday night at 68.

Mr. Dempsey was found dead in his hotel room, apparently victim of a heart attack.

Last spring Mr. Frost had expelled him from the Conservative party in Ontario because of his accounted-for party-campaign contributions.

Today Mr. Frost said in a statement:

"I greatly regret to learn of the sudden death of James Shannon Dempsey who has represented South Renfrew since 1945.

PLANNED EXPLANATION

"Concerning the controversy which commenced last spring, I think I should say that Mr. Dempsey had stated to me that he proposed to make in the house a full and complete explanation of the whole situation and that until he had completely exonerate him.

"He proposed to do this at the first regular sittings of the house and he so stated this at the commencement of the special session of Sept. 8. I deeply regret that his death which has intervened has made this impossible.

"Quite aside from the controversy, Mr. Dempsey had been a member for his riding for 10 years. There is no doubt that he was a man of great heart and broad sympathies and he never overlooked the problems of his constituents no matter who they might be. I extend to his relatives deep sympathy on his passing."

WILL MARRY

HAMBURG, Germany (Reuters)—German tennis star Gottfried von Cramm, 46, and 42-year-old heiress Barbara Hutton will marry in Paris shortly, a source in von Cramm's export-import firm said here Monday. The source said the marriage would take place in a registry office in not less than two weeks. Miss Hutton has been married five times previously, von Cramm once.

Unusual Legal Step Taken By Crown Officials

TORONTO (CP) — In an unusual legal step today, crown officials attempted to ensure that none of the past two days during which of her oath. Any major change from what they said today before Justice of the Peace Crawford W. Guest could lead to prosecution for perjury, police said.

Six of the 20 were arrested Monday in a sweep by morality officers. They were booked as material witnesses without bail. Bail also was refused to brothers William and Charles Ingwer, Steve Feron and Linus Coghlan, all charged with keeping common bawdy houses.

RARE SECTION

A possible 82 charges may be laid, but crown officials said much depends on evidence put on the record today.

Authorities said "a very infrequently used" section of the Criminal Code was the basis for bearing today's evidence. None of the accused was present.

Section 440 of the Criminal Code states a justice who receives an information and hear the evidence of witnesses when he considers it desirable or necessary to do so.

The slum empire allegedly is owned by Johanna Nemeth of Panama and New York, for whom Feron, Charles Ingwer and Coghlan are believed agents. They are to appear in court Wednesday.

FIVE MONTHS EVIDENCE

Authorities said at least six persons and "likely closer to 21 " yere to be heard today.

Described by police as "just a front," Johanna Nemeth may not be charged in the current crackdown. No warrant has been issued for her although police said they would welcome a chance to question her.

Today morality officers sought more employees of the Nemeth machine." They said no arrests are planned but some persons would be held as material witnesses.

Evidence collected by police during a five-month investigation also was put on the record at today's hearing.

Israel Demands Big Powers Provide Arms for Defence Against Rising War Threats

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is demanding that the big powers supply her with arms to defend herself against rising threats of a Middle East war.

At the same time Syrian newspapers have called for decisive action by Britain and the United States against Israel because of "continued Israeli aggression."

The latest Israeli demand for arms aid came Monday from the Jewish state's Knesset (parliament). All political parties except the Communists supported a resolution voicing "grave concern" over Egypt's cotton-for-weapons agreement with Czechoslovakia and the continued arming of Iraq by Britain.

"These shipments of weapons, which are a most serious threat to the security of Israel, will be used by Israel's enemies in a war of destruction against her and endanger the peace of the whole area," said the resolution.

WARN OF DANGER

The Knesset did not spell out the powers from whom it wants arms, but Premier Moshe Sharett has gone to Paris to see the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the United States, and plans to see Russian Foreign Minister Molotov in Geneva.

Syrian newspapers in Damascus meanwhile warned the recent border clashes may start a Middle East war which could draw the West into a "general conflagration."

Syrian sources reported earlier that Israelis in a raid Saturday night killed three Syrian soldiers and wounded six. Maj.-Gen. E.L.M. Burns of Canada, truce supervisor who has gone to report to United Nations headquarters in New York, said 40 to 50 Israelis had carried out a "well planned" retaliatory attack.

Brig. Mahmoud Riyad, Egyptian ambassador to Syria, said he and Munir Aflaki, acting premier if Syria, have discussed joint measures under their newly concluded mutual defence pact. Syrian newspapers called the latest border incident part of an Israeli campaign to force Syria to abandon the pact, and a high Syrian source reported that the Damascus government plans to bring the incident before the UN Security Council.

Rockets Will Unlock Scores Of Heavenly Secrets Barring Man's Conquest of Space

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) High-flying rockets streaking up from the barren wastes of northern Manitoba within two years will, scientists are certain, unlock scores of heavenly secrets barring man's conquest of space.

The rockets, their warheads packed with scientific instruments, are designed to soar up to 200 miles above the surface of the earth.

This joint Canadian-U.S. military base, 610 air miles north of Winnipeg, has been selected as one of the North American sites for the international geophysical year in 1957. Similar firings will take place at White Sands, New Mexico.

SIMULTANEOUS READINGS

During that year, as well as in the first half of 1958, scientists throughout the world will take simultaneous readings of the ionosphere, 25 miles above the earth's surface.

At the very moment a rocket is fired in Manitoba, other rockets will be fired in such countries as France, Australia and Russia.

Information will eventually be correlated and studied by the vast new scientific hoard participating.

Scientists here said the information would "undoubtedly be another step towards space travel."

The Churchill project is being carried out by the United States Air Force and Navy. Canada's role is more one of housekeeping. American and Canadian scientists will be quartered at Fort Churchill. This country's program is being co-ordinated by Donald C. Rose of the National Research Council. Dr. F. T. Davies of the Defence Research Board is also taking part.

SITES ON TUNDRA

At least 37 rockets will be fired from a launching site, possibly two, to be located on the tundra 12 miles east of Fort Churchill. They will be fired after an instrument site some eight miles south has been established in the area. warheads will transmit information during the flight to ground receivers. The projectile will fall to earth 20 to 30 miles away.

Preparations for the project are well-advanced and. firing dates, carefully calculated, have been set.

Four test rockets will be fired next fall, the first on Oct. 7, the others on Oct. 12, Nov. 2 and 17.

The first recording rocket will be launched July 4, 1957. Three others are to be fired later that month. Further launchings will take place in August, September and December and in January, February, March, June and July of 1958.

The United States Navy has already purchased 22 Aerobee-Hi research rockets developed by Aerojet-General Corporation for the U.S. Air Force and Navy. The rocket is designed to carry 150 pounds of scientific instruments 180 miles into the ionosphere, or a 120-pound payload up 200 miles.

HEIGHT RECORD

The present height record for a single stage rocket is 158.4 miles attained by a giant Viking rocket developed in the U.S. It carried 800 pounds of equipment. Unlike the larger giant Viking the Aerobee-Hi is small and comparatively inexpensive. One Aerobee-Hi costs an estimated $50,000 compared to about $500,000 for a giant Viking.

In addition to the Aerobee-Hi, the U.S. Air Force will launch four smaller Nike rockets.

Scientists here said Churchill was selected as an IGY site because it is in the centre of maximum intensity of the aurora.

A variety of experiments are planned for the project. One rocket will eject and detonate explosive charges along the upward leg of the trajectory. Instruments will record the times and positions of the explosives and the times and angles of the arrival of sound waves from the explosives.

Scientists will attempt to determine water vapor content in the atmospheres above regions accessible to sounding balloons. They will seek the presence of nitrous oxide in the atmosphere and upper air pressure and density measurements of air densities from balloon altitudes to the rocket summit of nearly 200 miles above the earth.

Other instruments will record x-ray and ultra-violet measurements all air density.

The international geophysical year, originally called the polar year, began in 1882 when the first simultaneous measurements were taken. The scientists decided then to hold another polar year 50 years later, in 1932. At that time Canadian scientists took readings at Baker lake, Chesterfield inlet and Eskimo point on the west coast of Hudson bay.

Because of the rapid strides made in the fields of electronics and geophysical reading techniques scientists decided to advance the third polar year to 1957. They scrapped the old name for the international geophysical year.

Canada's contribution to geophysics actually began years before the first polar year. In 1843 Capt. J. H. Lefroy, director of the Toronto magnetic observatory, travelled to the Northwest Territories and spent two years taking readings.

Scientists today say they are amazed at the accuracy of Lefroy's readings made with only a few crude instruments.

Oil-Gas Well Menaces Heart Of Texas Town

HAWKINS, Tex. (AP) — A wild oil-gas well, shooting flames 200 feet high like a gigantic torch, menaced the heart of this East Texas town today as residents stepped to oil would erupt.

The torch, fed by natural gas, could burn indefinitely without causing much damage to the town of around 2,000 persons.

But if oil should appear and pressure of the gas drop, burning oil could spread along the ground and destroy everything in its path.

If the pressure remains high, oil could be blown into the air and burned there.

The well is only two blocks from the business district and is dangerously near homes.

Hawkins is in the midst of the huge East Texas oilfield, where, as the saying say, "there's a well on every lot."

EVACUATE HOUSES

The well blew out with a deafening roar Monday afternoon. It caught fire probably from a spark from stones striking together as they were blown from the hole under the tremendous pressure of the gas.

Efforts to pump mud into the well to plug it failed. Late Monday night engineers shut down nearby wells and forced salt water into them in the hope that the water would reach the producing sands and put out the flaming well from underneath.

Homes in the immediate vicinity were moved out their household belongings.

Should Not Rest On Laurels Won Rotarians Told

A reminder that achievement in the past does not mean resting on laurels in the present and future was given to Belleville Rotary Club yesterday by a veteran Rotarian.

Speaking to the club's weekly meeting in the Hotel Quinte, William Cairns, one of the outstanding figures of Rotary in this country, said the service organization had accomplished much since its inception but must continue to uphold its record in the future.

Rotary, he noted, has just celebrated its fiftieth anniversary and "on the whole we are pretty proud of the record we have made."

However, he added, "don't let us sit back and say 'it is done' and probably dislocated our shoulder giving ourselves a pat on the back.

"I feel we have just touched the fringe.

"With all the glory of these (anniversary) celebrations there is still a job to be done."

Rotary teaches its members to be, "a little more kindly and thoughtful in our dealings with other people," he told the club.

Concluding, he said: "We are in a world where we have nearly everything . . . what is lacking is the spirit to make it work. That is the spirit of kindliness for the other fellow."

Mr. Cairns was introduced by George Lanning and thanked by Don MacKinnon.

A new member also was introduced to the club by Perce McGuire. He is Frank Ruggle, mortgage manager of the Mutual Life Insurance.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

FRY OFF LID

Boasting on paper, at least, one of the most powerful arrays to face the senior "B" barrier, the Whitby Dunlops, headed by the effervescent Wren Blair, columnist, manager and general facotfum, meet the Kingston Godfrays in a Battle of the Tires in the opening fray in the Limestone City tomorrow night.

The Dunnies are wooing line that cut a marked swath in the various goalmouths in the 1954-55 campaign, bids fair to repeat if performances to date are an indication of their upcoming goal-getting prowess. Bus Gagnon, colorful playing coach, patrols the left boards with Tommy O'Connor flitting up and down the starboard side, while starry Bobby Attersley, who won the scoring championship of the group last year, looks after the centre-ice nose and is "Mr. Poison" if ever there was one.

As a matter of fact, according to the pungent pen of M'sieu Blair, Attersley has been offered a post on the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen when they leave to uphold Canada's hockey honor in the forthcoming Olympic games.

Says Mr. Blair:

"News has finally broken in other papers, to the fact that the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have asked the Whitby Dunlops for permission to take Bobby Attersley overseas with them. Manager Wren Blair received a letter several days ago from Manager Ernie Gorman, of the Dutchmen, requesting this permission. Manager Blair, and player Attersley met with Gorman after the Whitby-Kitchener game last Friday night and preliminary arrangements were discussed. A definite reply would not be given at this time, answer until January. "I want to make sure that Whitby would be reasonably sure of a play-off spot before I left," Attersley told Gorman. "I would certainly like to go," he continued, "who wouldn't want that trip, but I will also have to get permission from my employers before it could be finalized."

That is a generous gesture on the part of young Marse Robert, a guy we would much rather have playing for "our misfortunes", but the Dunlops in a big-hearted gesture of appreciation for Bobby's, unselfish stand for his puck-chasing alma mammy, have sent gesture with money.

Lizi also to what M'sieu Blair tickles off on his typewriter anent this matter:

"From a club standpoint, the Dunlops are proud that one of its players has been asked, and certainly they would never want to stand in the way of a player getting a trip like that. Attersley has shown great team spirit in considering his team and his fellow players first before agreeing to go. However, everyone on the club feels they owe a certain obligation to the fans in Whitby and district who so faithfully attend the games, and they want to make sure that the Whitby club makes the play-offs. Attersley is certainly a very vital part of the team's accomplishments, but everyone on the team wants to see him make the trip if possible, so here's what the players want to do. From the drop of the puck Sunday night in Whitby against Kingston everyone will be going all out to try and win every game possible in the early part of the schedule. If the team can compile a goodly number of points in the early part of the season a play-off spot might be assured, and Bobby will be able to go."

Now that's a very nice thought on the part of the Dunnies. We do not think for a minute that there is anyone in the group set-up who would not want Bobby to make the trip. In this corner's opinion the starry Dunlop centre is as good as any the Dutchies will tote along on the across-the-pond safari. The good wishes of the rest of the clan would go with him. But this "win this one for dear old Bobby" might turn out to be quite a chore. It seems to us that the rest of the clubs will be going all out to chalk up as many wins as possible for a spot in the charmed play-off circle, whether it is early, middle, or late season.

Attersley or no Attersley, all friendship ceases, so to speak, when the Dunnies and the Goodies tee off tomorrow night in the group opener. It will be dog-eat-dog and the divil-take-the-hindmost, in what shapes up to be one of the "wing-dingdest" seasons in the senior "B" history of the district.

QUESTION DEPT.

J.D.N.—Queen's and Varsity meet at Kingston next Saturday in a key game. Varsity could clinch the championship with a victory, providing it can also beat Western in the final game of the schedule a week later.

A Queen's victory would ensure a post-schedule play-off—held in the Intercollegiate only when the second place team has beaten the top team once or tied it twice. Varsity won from Queen's in their first meeting, 11-6. The two leaders each has six points on three wins and a defeat. McGill has three points in third place and Western has one.

Blues' Blonde Centre Rates Top Spot in Goals Scored; Jean Beliveau Shares Perch

MONTREAL (CP)—Dave Creighton, wearing the uniform of his fourth National Hockey League club, rates a special look today as the man at the top of the point-getters in the early 1955-56 campaign.

Currently doing his centre-ice chores for the surprising New York Rangers, Creighton helped himself to two goals and two assists in last week's action and bounded from sixth place to first.

He is tied on points, at 10, with big Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens but gets prior billing in the NHL official statistics because of a higher goal production. Only a point away are Ron Murphy, another hustling Ranger, and Gordie Howe of Detroit, who failed to get a point last week. Maurice Richard of Montreal and Ted Lindsay of Detroit follow with eight points each.

TRAILED LAST YEAR

Just a year ago Creighton, in as many games as this current seven, had one goal and one assist and was 46th in the standing. He finished the season with 17 points, compared with his present 10, and was far down the list in a tie for 62nd place.

Although he's 25 years old, the tall blonde centre is in his eighth NHL campaign. During three seasons he did part-time farm-club duty. He went to Quebec Bruins from Port Arthur juniors in the 1948-49 season and except for some shiftings to the Pittsburgh American Hockey League farm at Hershey, Pa., Dave was with the Bruins until last season.

A trade sent him to Toronto Leafs to start the 1954-55 campaign. Before it was over he was with Chicago Black Hawks. A third swap sent him to the Rangers this season. While with the Bruins Creighton twice had 20-goal marks. He had only nine last season.

So far Creighton has scored only three goals with the Rangers but he has contributed seven assists. Jean Beliveau's goal output is unusually low at two but his eight assists lead the league in that department. He picked up three last week.

Murphy matched Creighton's display with two goals and two assists to overtake Howe with a total of nine points. He is tied with Montreal's Rocket Richard as leading goal-scorer. Each has six. The Rocket added one goal, with no assists, last week. Lindsay had one of each to raise his total to eight, tied with Richard.

'Sugar' Confident Bobo May Change His Mind

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (AP) Sugar Ray Robinson said Monday that for the first time since he started his comeback he's beginning to feel like his old self.

"In training for my six previous fights, it seemed like hard work," said the former middleweight champion. "Getting in shape for Bobo Olsn has been a cinch. "I've enjoyed every minute of it. I'm certain I'll be in excellent condition."

Robinson meets middleweight champion Carl Bobo Olson in a title bout in Chicago Nov. 4. Olson won the 160-pound crown after Robinson retired.

Maryland Tops College Teams

NEW YORK (AP) — Maryland and Oklahoma, displaying the kind of football power that impresses the experts, moved to the top of the national rankings Monday while Michigan tumbled to third place.

Maryand's Terrapins, unbeaten kingpins of the Atlantic Coast Conference, Saturday staged one of their rare invasions of the Northeast and humbled Syracuse, the team that had put the crusher on Army by a convincing 34-13 score. Oklahoma, facing its most dangerous Big Seven rival, overcame a bad start to bury Colorado, 56-21. These two overwhelming victories overshadowed the performance of Michigan, the pace setter for the past two weeks, but evidently left some uncertainty in the minds of the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the weekly Associted Press ranking poll.

Out of 187 voters, 62 cast their first place ballots in favor of Maryland and 33 named Oklahoma first. And when the results were all tallied on the usual 10-9-8, etc. basis, Maryland was ahead by a scant 30 points. It was 1,500 for the Terrapins and 1,500 for the Sooners.

Big Four Union Set or Broke Twelve Records

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve Big Four Football Union records were established or broken and two others were tied when Montreal Alouettes downed Toronto Argonauts 43-12 here last Saturday.

Gord Walker, sports writer with The Globe and Mail who has done research into Big Four records for the last few years, says the Als were in on all but one of the marks.

Walker says halfback Pat Abbruzzi did the most thorough job on the record book, grabbing four records and taking a share of a fifth. Quarterback Sam Etcheverry set one and helped ends Red O'Quinn and Hal Patterson on others.

Field goal and convert kicker Bud Korchak broke one mark and tied another. Alouettes set three team marks. Tom Dublinski, Argo halfback, and quarterback, was the Toronto record-maker.

Abbruzzi's four-touchdown effort was the highlight of his mark. He equalled the game record held by Chuck Hunsinger, Royal Montland and Ken Charlton with four touchdowns.

He set a season record of 15 touchdowns on running plays and he established a new season standard of 17 touchdowns, eclipsing the former mark held by Curtis and Alex Webster, who each scored 16 in a season.

Pat Abbruzzi Regains Lead In Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP) — Pat Abbruzzi, rugged running and plunging half of Montreal Alouettes, retained the lead in the Big Four scoring race last week as he broke a Canadian touchdown record that has stood since 1952.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show this former Rhode Island State star in the lead with 85 points on 17 touchdowns. He knocked off Pfeifer of Toronto Argonauts out of first place by counting four touchdowns Saturday against Toronto.

Pfeifer, who only picked up two converts, was relegated to second place and now trails Abbruzzi by 15 points. The former Fordham University end has counted 11 touchdowns and 15 converts.

Two montreal players, hometown halfback Jocy Pal and import end Hal Patterson from the University of Nebraska, moved into a tie for third place with 50 points each. Patterson scored two touchdowns Saturday and Pal one. They are a single point in front of Bud Korchak who converted seven touchdowns Saturday.

REPLACES GRAHAM

Cookie Gilchrist of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen replaced teammate Billy Graham in the top spot in Ontario Rugby Football Association. Gilchrist picked up 11 points on a touchdown and two field goals to take over the lead with 68 points, one more than scored by Graham who only added a one point last week.

Ron Stewart of Queen's University scored 15 points on three touchdowns to increase his lead in the senior Intercollegiate Union. He has a nine-point margin over Al Bennett of McGill Redmen who replaced Pete Maik of the University of Toronto in second place.

Big Dark Secret Kramer to Visit Aussie Net Stars Says Hoad, Rosewall 'In Tough Spot'

HONOLULU (AP)—Tennis promoter Jack Kramer said Monday night he was going to Australia to ask Davis Cup stars Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall to change their minds and turn professional.

"Something has come up and they are in a pretty tough position," Kramer said. He would not explain or disclose whether he holds their contracts.

"I'll do my talking if the United States Lawn Tennis Association presses it," Kramer said.

Kramer said he planned to "clarify any misunderstanding that may exist as to the relationship of professional to amateur tennis."

"The two can live together and I hope to be able to see this viewpoint accepted," Kramer said. "I hope to talk to the leading professional tennis players in Australia regarding an invitation to participate in a number of major tournaments in this country next year."

Many Records Go by Board In Western Football Union

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia Lions' last flickering hope for a playoff spot in the Western Interprovincial Football Union were snuffed out Monday night in action highlighted by a rash of records.

At Winnipeg, before a crowd of 14,780 fans, the Blue Bombers trounced the Lions 26-13 to clinch third place, the last playoff spot, and wipe out Lions' last mathematical chance of ending the season in a deadlock with the Bombers.

At Calgary, with no playoff spot at stake, the last-place Stampeders trounced second-place Saskatchewan Roughriders 24-6 in a game featured by some spectacular running and passing.

Edmonton Eskimos, who have already made sure of first places and a bye into the playoffs, were idle Monday night and close out their regular schedule at home Saturday night entertaining the Stampeders.

TO INVADE WINNIPEG

In the other half of the regular schedule finale, the Roughriders invade Winnipeg for a preview of the conference final scheduled to open Nov. 5.

At Winnipeg Monday night halfback Jerry James, the 31-year-old homebrew, set an unofficial conference ground - gaining record. James, chosen last year as the outstanding native football player in Canada, carried the ball for 143 yards to boost his total for this season to 1,080 yards, 22 yards more than the previous high reached Saturday night by Norm Kwong of Edmonton.

Both James and Kwong, a Calgary product, have another game to play and the 1954 record will not be shattered until Saturday night.

James carried the ball for two of Winnipeg's four touchdowns. The others were scored by halfback Leo Lewis and halfback Elton Taylor. All four were converted by quarterback Jack Jacobs.

The British Columbia touchdowns were scored by halfback Bailey and end Dan Edwards. Centre Ron Baker converted both the touchdowns and punted for a single.

WIFU RECORD

In Calgary it was believed a WIFU record was set when quarterback Don Klostrerman threw a forward to end Eric McKenna who ran the rest of the way for a touchdown after scoring the forward on his own 25-yard line.

The total Calgary gain on the play was 94 yards compared with the WIFU high of 100 yards.

The 100-yard mark was reached twice: In 1950 Edmonton's Doug Pyzer caught a pass from Lindy Berry and the play resulted in a 100-yard gain. In 1951 Winnipeg's Jack Jacobs threw to end Ned Armstrong for a 100-yard play.

The 16-yard Calgary play was only one yard short of the Canadian record set last year when quarterback Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Als threw to Hal Patterson.

SPECTACULAR PLAY

But the Stamps saved another spectacular play for the crowd of 10,000, smallest of the 16-game season at Mewata Stadium.

In the third quarter, the second-string quarterback, Bill Stevenson, a former player with the University of Toronto Blues, threw a 58-yard forward from centre to end Willie Roberts in the Saskatchewan end zone.

In addition to the touchdowns counted by McKenna and Roberts, Bob Meyers and Bat Nagle also ran for touchdowns for the Stamps and end Tom Miner converted all four.

End Joe (The Toe) Aguilera, a veteran included in the Rider import quota only after another player was hurt, kicked two field goals to account for all Regina's points.

PRISONERS RECAPTURED

MONTREAL (CP)—Two inmates of St Vincent de Paul penitentiary who escaped in a prison truck last Wednesday were recaptured Saturday in La Tuque, 130 miles north of Montreal. Raymond Dufour, 21, and Henri Vaillette, 24, were recaptured without a struggle by provincial police.

Garden State Richest Race In Track World

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The world's richest horse race—the Garden State—stood at $358,370 today as a result of a pair of $10,000 supplementary entries from California and Florida.

Late nominating fees for Saturday's feature at Garden State were paid by Lou Costello, for California thoroughbred Bold Brooks and two-year-old Florida bred Needles, a good bet for the favorite spot in the big field.

Needles, son of Ponder and Noodle Soup, owned by Jack Dudley and Bonnie Heath, has won $100,000 thus far including the Sapling at Monmouth and the Hopeful at Saratoga. He ended a Polly's Jet six-race winning streak, a five straight for Decathalon, the two favorites in the Sapling. Polly's Jet is also entered in the Garden State.

A total of 16 that may go postward in the 1 1-16 miles for two-year-olds would produce an unprecedented winner's share of $164,103.50. Twelve starters are now counted for certain in the third running of the 1955 juvenile championship event with five other strong possibles.

American Snipers Fail to Catch Willie Marshall

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Marshall, who has been playing with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League for a year, still maintained an electronic ownership of the American Hockey League's scoring lead today.

The former Pittsburgh Hornet centre marked up 15 points in four games before departing with a six-point lead over Zellio Toppazzini of the Providence Reds and Bubbalo's Ken Wharram. Toppazzini tallied two goals and two assists last week to move into undisputed possession of second place with 13 points, while Wharram, scoreless in two contests, dropped to a tie for sixth with the Reds' Paul Larivee.

In a three-way tie for third are the Cleveland Barons' Jackie Gordon, Camille Henry of the Reds and Buffalo Bison Al Dewsbury, a defenceman. Henry scored his sixth goal to tie Marshall in that department, but the big leaguer's nine assists are still tops.

SEE N.S. LEAGUE

WINDSOR, N.S. (CP) — A new six-team senior hockey circuit may operate in Nova Scotia this winter. Representatives of the Valley Hockey League and Truro, Bridgewater and Dartmouth hockey clubs met here during the weekend and voted to form the Nova Scotia Senior Hockey League.

The Valley loop now is limited to Kentville, Wolfville and Windsor clubs. Representatives of all six clubs will meet here again next Sunday.

Versatile "Bum" Newcombe Top Major Loop Hurler Led Flingers at Bat With .359 Mark

NEW YORK. (AP)— Big Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers who led the major leagues in winning pitching percentage in 1955, also topped the hurlers in batting. He had a sizzling .359 average.

Newcombe, a leftfielder batter, collected 43 hits in 117 times at bat. Seven of his safeties were home runs breaking the National League record held by Hal Schumacher of the New York Giants and Jim Tobin of Boston.

A 20-game winner on the mound, Newcombe drove in 27 runs, also smacking nine doubles and one triple. He batted 21 times as a pinch-hitter, netting eight hits for a .381 mark.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press also showed today that Ruben Gomez of the Giants was the only regular pitcher to bat .300. He hit it on the nose with 18 safeties in 60 trips.

Mickey McDermott of the Washington Senators was the American League's leading batter among pitchers with a .263 average. He had 25 hits, including four doubles and one homer. The lean lefty batter, also frequently used as a pinch-hitter, had 10 hits in his last 17 at bats.

Ten Ring Greats Elected To Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Ten former ring greats, including Gene Tunney, Mickey Walker, Benny Leonard and Harry Greb, have been elected to membership in the Hall of Fame.

The announcement was made Monday at the dedication ceremony for the Hall of Fame at the Ring magazine office in the Madison Square Garden building.

Others named to the Hall of Fame Monday are Tommy Gifford, the Boston Tar Baby, who fought from 1903 to 1925, former featherweight champions Terry McGovern and Abe Attell and Barbados Joe Walcott, one time welterweight king. These four were voted in by the old timers' committee of 20.

Two heavyweights of the early 1880s, Britain's William Thompson Bendigo, and William Bill Richmond, the first American heavyweight of note, have been elected for the list of "ancients" by the directors of the Hall of Fame.

The addition of the 10 made a total of 34 chosen for the hall in two years. Boxing writers and sportscasters around the world voted on the modern group.

PROVOST LEADS

MONTREAL (CP)—Claude Provost of Shawinigan Falls Cataracts is getting the point-scoring pace in the Quebec Hockey League with a total of 10, one more than runner-up Jimmy Moore of the Chicoutimi Saguenéens. Andre Corriveau of Montreal follows with five goals and three assists for eight points.

The league's official statistics, released Monday, show Provost has counted three goals and seven assists.

Young Negro Shows Promise As Lightweight

NEW YORK (AP)—Off his brilliant showing against Algeria's experienced Hocine Khalif, young Ludwig Lightburn today looked like the best-lightweight prospect to come along in several years.

Lightburn, a raggy, 20-year-old Negro from British Honduras, outclassed the 27-year-old Algerian all the way to win a one-sided, 10-round decision in a bout at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

The kid, in winning his fourth straight, displayed a stabbing left jab, fast combinations, and a willingness to trade. He was credited with a knockdown in the fifth round although Khalif didn't hit the floor. A right smack on the jaw sent the Algerian downward but his descent was checked by the lowest rope and he bounced erect.

Referee Mark Conn saw Khalif was hurt and gave him an eight count.

Khalif upset featherweight champion Sandy Saddler in the same arena 17 months ago.

Will Select Bucs' New Boss

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Stockholders o fthe Pittsburgh Pirates today pick a successor to Branch Rickey Sr., general manager and executive vice-president for the last five years.

The speculation is that Joe L. Brown, 37, handsome son of movie comedian Joe E. Brown, will succeed Rickey. The aging Rickey is expected to remain in an advisory capacity.

The Pirates' may also announce the selection of a new team manager to replace Fred Haney who was dropped one day before the 1955 season ended.

Bookies Stretch Odds On Race Favorite

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top bookies lengthened the betting price of favorite Manati Monday following the rival heavy rain may slow down the pace for Wednesday's 113th running of the Cambridgeshire Handicap Stakes, on which the John Hopitals sweepstakes are decided.

The bookies made Manati, three-year-old Newmarket trained, 2-to-1 choice for the mile-and-one-furlong race over Newmarket's famed track. He was 9 to 1 at last Friday's calloverr.

Rain has fallen steadily at Newmarket for three days and weather experts say more is on the way. That could make the track very soft for Wednesday's big race and gives the wet horse an outsider to spring a surprise.

But the rain has not upset the confidence of Billy Carr, Manati's jockey. He said: "Manati could not have given greater satisfaction in his work. I believe he holds an outstanding chance."

Turk's Blood, 100 to 7 at the last calloverr, became 10 to 1 Monday, and Prince Aly Khan's Novenio moved into third favorite spot at 100 to 6. He was 7 at the last calloverr.

Almost 40 thoroughbreds are expected to go to the starting post. There were 47 final acceptors but Chantilly and Fairyroom have scratched.

Detroit Wings Swap Sandford For Prystai

DETROIT (CP) — Detroit Red Wings Monday acquired Metro Prystai from Chicago Hawks for the second time in a trade for Ed Sandford. Both are forwards.

It was the second time in five years that Prystai came to Detroit from the Hawks in a National Hockey League deal. The centre, born in Yorkton, Sask., originally came to the Wings as part of a nine-player swap that sent goalie Harry Lumley and defenceman Jack Stewart to the Hawks. He went back to Chicago in mid-season last year.

Prystai, who will be 28 Nov. 8, turned professional with the Hawks in 1947 after starring with Moose Jaw Canucks of the Saskatchewan Junior League. His top scoring season was 1949-50 when he scored 29 goals and 31 points for Chicago.

Sandford, 37, spent eight seasons with Boston Bruins before coming to Detroit this year in the deal that took goalie Terry Sawchuk to Boston. His best performance came in the Stanley Cup playoffs of 1953 when he topped all goal-scorers with eight in 11 games.

BREAK WORLD MARK

INDIO, Calif. (AP)—The world's speed record for 136-cubic-inch hydroplanes was broken twice Monday as the three-day national desert regatta ended.

Gene Sosna, of Oakland, Calif., powered his Scatterbrain through the time traps of 83.225 miles an hour to eclipse the old record of 81.371 set last summer by Bob Boehm of Healdsburg, Calif. But Boehm later roared back into the record book with a time of 83.286.

Princess Shaken Up As Car Hits Island

LONDON (Reuters) — The Daily Mail said Monday that Princess Margaret was shaken up when her black Rolls Royce crashed into a concrete traffic island at the entrance to a Royal Air Force station.

The accident occured last Wednesday as the princess was being driven to her waiting aircraft after visiting a nearby camp. The front fender of the car was crushed and the rear of the car's body damaged.

Airmen saw the cad skid in pouring rain and catch the edge of the island.

The newspaper said that while the car was being driven back to London without Margaret a piece of jagged metal caused a blowout in a front tire and the car skidded across the road.

Duplessis Says Quebec Cannot Yield One Right

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You can go into spasms of words and thoughts about an opening bid of two in a suit. The great bridge experts of the past and now, have done the same thing. So, you are in good company.

However, after all is said and done about it, the masters wind up with one uniform recommendation. It is that an opening bid of two in a suit promises a hand that can take nine tricks.

Such an opening bid, as all good systems agree, is a signal for the pair to reach a game contract. No less. Even if partner has not a thing, such a nine trick hand a-gaming wants to play.

So, see here the hand south dealt himself:

♠ A Q J 9 8 7 6 5 4
♥ A
♦ 3
♣ Q 7

This hand has a count of nine tricks. Consequently it is worthy of an opening bid of two spades. Should you bid less than spades or like a different opening? Let's see how it would stack up.

May be it is one of enough big cards gives you doubt. If so, this is not a valid worry. Nobody can take with small cards count just as much even if they are not backed by big ones.

Maybe such a long and strong suit prompts you to prefer four spades as the opening bid. If so, perish the thought. Pre-emptive openings ask partner to pass and may thus miss a slam.

Maybe you can see no point in such a hand looking for slam or other information. If so, change your view in a hurry. It does not take much 'in partner to run into a slam maker. +

If you said you could open this hand with a bid of one I would readily agree with you. Because it has all the qualities asked for in a bid of one. But so has any hand that is also a two bid.

The beauty of an opening two bid is its ability to swap plenty of advices. If no slam presents itself, you can still go to game.

Timorous souls have limited goals.

Treatment of TV Matrimony Not Liked by This Writer

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — The relationship of husbands and wives, as viewed on television, is becoming a boring stereotype. In this version, holy matrimony is a state of perpetual conflict.

Of course there's conflict in marriage. I'm not plugging here for a perpetually sweet and tender or realistic view of matrimony on TV. I simply protest the depressingly large proportion of TV drama and comedy that lately and with a new generation treats the theme of marriage.

Rarely does television treat the theme of marriage without banality. Watch the next development on the next televised matrimonial tangle you witness.

MALES MOSTLY HEELS

The wife is usually sensitive and perceptive. The husband is usually good-hearted but inclined to be rather a slob because he's weak or dumb or misguided. Occasionally there's a reverse switch, but in general, wives have better characters than husbands on TV. I'm not sure why this should be. But I have a theory. I believe it's the advertising agency influence, which is enormous on the scripts of many shows. In the effort to please the ladies, we emerge as heels, gentlemen.

All couples have disagreements, but if they have good judgment they agree to disagree in the privacy of their homes. There he can belt her with rhetoric and she can lock him with logic—and no one else will suffer. In the home of these people on television would try to be as considerate of the viewing audience.

Churchill Emptied The Bank of England Vaults

. . . and sent all Britain's gold and treasure across the war-torn Atlantic to Canada. The wealth of Britain was secretly hidden here when Churchill expected invasion.

In November Reader's Digest is this fantastic but true story — how the greatest treasure ever to cross an ocean was smuggled to Canada, landed at Halifax, and hidden in buildings in Montreal and Ottawa for five long years. Here is one of the most unusual stories you'll ever read — get your November Reader's Digest today.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE CAPITOL — "Finger Man" — Frank Lovejoy, Forrest Tucker, Peggy Castle — 1:30-10:30 — In Technicolor — "Lady Mississippi" — Alan Ladd, Virginia Mayo — 8:40.

AT THE McCARTHY — "To Hell and Back"—CinemaScope and Technicolor — Audie Murphy, Marshall Thompson, Charles Drake — 2:22-7:25-9:35.

AT THE CAPITOL — Virginia Mayo is currently being seen on the screen of the Capitol Theatre in Warner Bros' "The Iron Mistress." The Technicolor drama of adventure and romance also stars Alan Ladd, with Joseph Calleia in the top supporting role. On the same program "Finger Man" starring Frank Lovejoy, Peggy Castle, and Forrest Tucker.

AT THE BELLE — Darkly handsome Anthony Quinn portrays the world's most famous bullfighter in "The Magnificent Matador," which opens today at the Belle Theatre. Maureen O'Hara is his beautiful co-star in the Twentieth Century-Fox production, filmed in CinemaScope and color. For those who like brilliant spectacle, a daring love story and the nerve-shattering suspense of the bullfight "The Magnificent Matador" is unquestionably the answer.

Betty Hutton Reaches Climax Of Dramatic Comeback on TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tonight Betty Hutton reaches the climax of one of the most dramatic comebacks in recent entertainment history.

Three years ago, she feared she had cancer. Two years ago, her film career seemed washed up. Last year, she was reeling from a broken marriage and what she considered a big flop in TV's first Spectacular. She announced she was through performing forever.

Few people besides Betty believed her.

Now she's happily married and once more getting her career in high gear. Tonight she's starring in her own show on NBC—with Bob Hope and Jimmy Durante for support.

STARTS REVIVAL

This is the opening gun for the Betty Hutton revival. After this some TV guest shots with Hope, Durante and Jack Benny, a Chicago night club date and her own half-hour TV series. Movies are in the plans, too, possibly "Bus Stop."

"I'm ready to knock 'em dead," said Betty, once again the bouncing blonde.

It was once a different story. Her troubles started during the filming of "The Greatest Show on Earth."

"My voice was disappearing," she recalled. "It got to be nothing more than a hoarse whisper.

"I was almost afraid to find out what was wrong, because I feared the worst. Finally I could hardly talk at all.

NEEDED OPERATION

"I went to a doctor and he told me I had a couple of growths on my vocal cords. He said that he couldn't tell whether they were malignant or not. He thought they should come off.

"I put it off as long as I could. When I couldn't speak at all, I agreed to the operation." It showed the growths were not malignant.

"When I was making 'Somebody Loves Me,' I started losing my voice again. The doctor said the growths had returned. This time I was sure they were malignant. I was scared stiff. But I didn't tell anyone about it. My career was in bad enough shape. The world have killed it."

A second more dangerous operation was performed. She came through it all right. The anguish over her health added to her other problems—the lack of movies for her, the breaking of her marriage to dance director Charles O'Curran.

Now happily wed to recent executive Alan Livingston, she has decided that the show world is for her after all.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 26, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be extremely careful about little things, you should find fewer details to handle and errors to correct, for the "little" things often "make" or "break" the whole.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — If you trust, pray and really try, you will have greater success. Cooperation with right sources is vital; wrong leads waste time; often make trouble.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Hold that remark to be sure you're right! Then hold it a little longer to be sure you are not starting trouble with something that would-better be left unsaid.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Work, think and play with reasonableness and no rancor. Persons like irritability and may or can spoil otherwise worthy endeavors. Evaluate carefully to avoid errors.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Speed and accuracy are needed now — not only in your work but in all activities. Know how much time you have for leisure. Think before you speak.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Take time out for some reviewing to ascertain where you can tie up loose ends. There to eliminate waste motion. Be just where you can drop everything for a while to enjoy a walk or a nap.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Note how others around you are doing, what they are thinking, how your sense values change, etc. Be astute in home matters as well as in business and outside affairs.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Look into facts and you may find that they are different than you thought. Details change, and rightly so, as time passes.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Steer clear of agitation and trouble-making. Errors not corrected immediately create more later.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Give and take in right doses; don't underestimate competitors, co-workers — too often a fault which causes misunderstandings.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Start with good will and confidence, avoid worry and anxiety and you will achieve considerable now. A day for building for the future.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Be tactful and overlook little annoyances and your day will run smoothly. Keen balance counts.

You Born Today have as your keywords activity and strength. You are tenacious, economical, yet charitable. One big fault is not being aware of your possibilities and not developing talents consistently to accomplish as you should. Do not be mild-back by others' opinions of life if yours should follow a different course. Be careful in spending, associations; don't disregard the need for diversified recreation.

107. DIES IN MAINE

NOBLEBORO, Me. (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Jane Moody, believed to be Maine's oldest woman, died Friday at the age of 107. She was named "centennial mother" when the nearby town of Damariscotta celebrated its 100th birthday in 1948. She, too, was 100 that year.

FIRE KILLS HORSES

KITCHENER (CP) — Thirteen riding horses were destroyed Sunday night in a barn fire on the farm of James Hett near here. The fire also destroyed the season's crop, implements and other livestock.

WITHERS WEDS

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jane Withers, former child movie actress, was married Sunday to singer Kenneth Errair aboard a yacht anchored off this beach resort. It was the second marriage for the 29-year-old actress.

TO A SUCCESSFUL MAN STOPPED BY SALARY RESTRICTIONS

By ordinary standards you are rated a success. Yet you know that in your present position you will never have the opportunity to show what you can really do and earn.

Today, due to expansion of business, we can offer you an opportunity to make a business connection with no restrictions on earning power. Our Company is nationally advertised and the largest organization of its kind in the world.

As our representative, you would be in business for yourself — but you would make no capital investment, carry no inventory, have no rent or payroll to meet.

The man chosen will be carefully trained and professionally appraised for strong sales potential. He will then be sent to our National Sales Training School at our expense and will receive a salary during his training period. He will be thoroughly field trained upon his graduation.

If you feel that you have practically reached the top in your present work and honestly believe that your annual income should be much higher, and are between the ages of 25 to 45, own a late model car, write Box 112 Ontario Intelligencer and an interview appointment will be arranged. All replies treated with strictest confidence. Our own associates have been informed of this ad. C23-31

A DREAM COMES TRUE FOR CANADA'S HARD-OF-HEARING...

NOW! A tiny, light, full-powered hearing aid ...only $50 complete!

A FINEST-QUALITY, 3-TRANSISTOR ZENITH

Amazingly small, compact, efficient . . . backed by an ironclad guarantee of full satisfaction . . . yet selling for less than one-fourth the price of many comparable brands!

Ever since the miraculous discovery of tiny but expensive transistors, Zenith and its dealers have shared a dream with Canada's hard-of-hearing.

It seemed an impossible dream. A vision of spectacular hearing aid efficiency, clarity, convenience, operating economy—and all at a price so very low that these benefits could be enjoyed by every hard-of-hearing person, in every walk of life.

Today, this "impossible" dream has become a reality! Just imagine . . . a highly-efficient, full-powered 3-transistor hearing aid so small it can be worn in a woman's hair, as a brooch, or under a man's necktie. Yet it does not sell for $250 or $300, as do many other makes, but for only $50 complete. This, thanks to Zenith's 36 years of electronic experience and "know-how" plus the willingness of Zenith dealers to accept less profit per sale, in order to bring the benefits, hope and opportunities of better hearing within easy reach of all.

Operating costs, too, are amazingly low. Just one tiny dry-cell battery, available everywhere, operates the "50-X" for about 10c a week instead of $1.00 to $2.00 a week for vacuum-tube instruments. These savings alone can pay the entire cost of the "50-X" in less than a year!

But that's not all! The Zenith "50-X" is sold with a 10-Day Money-Back Guarantee. If you are not completely satisfied . . . If you do not find that it equals or excels the performance of competitive makes selling for $200 or more, simply return it for full refund. And remember, the $50 price includes everything: High-performance air-conduction earphone, cord, stock second, Cosmic-Ear Warranty and Five-Star Service Plan. Time payments, if you wish. Act now! A hearing aid today is a symbol of progress and intelligence . . . a victory over false pride!

Owing to heavy demand, orders for the Zenith "50-X" will be filled in the sequence received. See your Zenith Dealer now! His name is listed in the classified telephone directory. Or simply send coupon below for free literature and local dealer list.

Invasion of American TV Enlivening Britain's Battle

LONDON (AP)—An invasion of American TV is enlivening Britain's battle between sponsored and non-commercial television — but really, when should one laugh and when should one just titter?

Some Englishmen, while appreciating the slickness of the Yankee shows, don't appreciate raucous laughter dubbed in, they think, in the wrong places.

American comedy films are presented here with the original sound effects, including laughs, infact.

Ramsden Greig, Evening Standard critic, says:

"This is often aggravating—these American bellylaughs over a gag that would bring to a Briton only a titter. It's just a difference in sense of humor."

Both the British Broadcasting Corp. and the independent TV network, which lives on advertising, are using some American programs.

LIBERACE SUNDAYS

BBC, omitting commercials, presents "Amos and Andy," "The Burns and Allen Show" and "I Married Joan."

Independent TV has countered with the pianist Liberace, who appears on a choice Sunday afternoon spot; "Dragnet" and "I Love Lucy."

English versions of American shows like "People Are Funny" have brought sharp criticism.

Kendall McDonald, London Evening News critic, commented:

"A gentleman from the audience mounted the platform in full knowledge that someone might either cover him with whitewash or set fire to his trousers.

"What they did was to pour over him a sort of Irish stew . . . to the accompaniment of squeals of joy . . . in the audience. This did not seem to me to prove in any way the contention that people are funny but just that they are rather sad. Or perhaps, that we laugh at vastly different things."

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Liberace has created a wide difference of opinion. Daily Sketch critic Leslie Watkins summed up his review giving both sides:

"We met him (Liberace) in many moods . . . he paused, choked with emotion "Isn't that beautiful!" he asked. Not beautiful, Mr. Liberace. It was murder—musical murder. But I have to record a verdict of justifiable homicide—justified by the spellbinding skill of his villainy."

Britons have greeted commercial television with enthusiasm generally—but those advertising plugs are another American invention creating some hekdaches.

The problem is where to insert the commercials. The independent network, only three weeks old, received complaints for breaking midway in a half-hour program. There's some talk of confining advertisement to beginning and end.

BBC programs seem slicker and more dressed up than when the subsidized network was alone. Some critics have remarked on the strange trend the rival campaigns for the mass audience is taking—the BBC's tendency to shed its stuffiness of the past, and the independent network's efforts to convince doubters of its respectability.

Eisenhower Asks Russia To Match American Efforts

Hopes 'New Spirit' Evident At Geneva Will Continue

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower today invited Soviet Russia to match American conciliatory efforts at Geneva and lay the groundwork for the peace and progress "for which the whole world longs."

If the "new spirit" evidenced at the "summit" conference at Geneva three months ago is real, Eisenhower said, the foreign ministers will seek solutions for the reunification of Germany and clear away other barriers to peace at the four-power conference opening Thursday.

The president spoke out in a statement issued from his sickroom here, where his progress toward recovery from a heart attack was reflected Tuesday in the publication of the first close-up photographs since his seizure Sept. 24.

An eyewitness at the picture-taking on the hospital sundeck said "You never would guess from just the way the president looks now that he has had a heart attack."

HEALTHY APPEARANCE

Garnett D. Horner, Washington Star reporter representing the combined press here, said the president's cheeks were "ruddy, their flesh firm," and that his eyes sparkled. His voice was strong and his manner "relaxed, but spry and chipper."

The president voiced hope that Russia will respond in the same "genuine spirit of conciliation and accommodation" to the proposals the United States will submit along with Britain and France, and with which the Republic of West Germany has been kept abreast.

The president's statement followed two conferences here with State Secretary Dulles before the latter's departure for Europe, and a letter to the cabinet backing Dulles up 100 per cent in his negotiations at Geneva.

"The world hopes," the president said, that the conference to be attended at Geneva did, in fact, create a "new spirit" which will make possible future solutions of world problems.

THE "ACID TEST"

He repeated his belief that the "acid test" will come at the new conference when the foreign ministers tackle "concrete" of the problems which, if unresolved, "create tension and disgust."

"They will seek solutions which are possible if that new spirit is real. Foremost among these measures is the reunification of Germany within a framework of European security."

Dulles said after his last talk with Eisenhower that the two share a "measure of concrete progress. While he did not anticipate "spectacular results," he looked for progress on German reunification, and on increased contacts between East and West. And he hoped the foreign ministers could clear away some of the misunderstandings that have arisen over the disarmament issue.

Asserting that he and Dulles "think alike with respect to these matters" which they have reviewed together, Eisenhower said of the proposals by the Western powers:

"These will be designed to promote a peace of justice, with increased security and well being for all. They will reflect a genuine spirit of conciliation and accommodation. If the Soviet Union responds in a similar spirit, much progress can be made. That is my personal hope, and I am confident it is the hope of the American people.

"We shall all of us follow with eagerness the developments at Geneva, for they will go far to demonstrate whether the 'spirit of Geneva' marks a genuine change and will actually be productive of the peaceful progress for which the whole world longs."

Release of the statement was apparently designed to let friends in all world capitals once again the American president's vital personal concern with the Geneva negotiations.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A small disturbance moved across central Ontario overnight giving snowflurries in the north and rainshowers in central and southeastern districts. As this storm passes southeast of the province skies will be mainly cloudy today throughout the province.

In advance of this storm, southwesterly breezes will bring warmer temperatures and sunny skies in all forecast regions except the extreme north where skies will be partly cloudy. However, cooler air is expected to begin pushing down across the northwestern regions late Thursday in the wake of this disturbance.

BREAKS 25-YEAR RULE OF LIBERALS

Charles E. Rea, 52-year-old businessman, won a surprise victory for the Progressive Conservatives in the Toronto riding of Lennox in the Federal House by David Croll before his elevation to the Senate. Rea polled 8,708 votes, 600 more than Liberal candidate Samuel Gariepy. He is the first Conservative elected in the riding for a quarter century. CCF candidate Harry Walsh lost his $200 deposit as he polled less than 50 per cent of the winner's ballots. (Central Press Canadian).

SWEEP PRIZE MAY FREE KIN IN EAST GERMANY

German Immigrant One of 3 Big Winners

SUDBURY (CP) — Kurt Grund, 26, a night-shift worker at the Creighton nickel mine, today was awakened to be told he had just won $140,000.

Grund held an Irish sweepstakes ticket on Retrial, which today won the 113th running of the Cambridgeshire handicap.

A native of Breslau, Germany, and in Canada only four years, Grund's first thought was of his Sudbury-born wife, Augustine. He asked a reporter to call her with the news.

He broke down and sobbed, and then said, "Thank God. But I don't believe it. I just don't believe it. It seems impossible."

Another early reaction was that the money might help find a path to freedom for his mother, brother and sister, trapped in East Germany behind the Iron Curtain.

WANTS HONEYMOON

Mr. Grund said he plans to buy a house soon for Augustine, 19, and his wife now live in a two-room apartment. They have no children.

"Maybe after we get settled my wife and I can take a honeymoon. We never had one when we were married three years ago because I was still in the army. I'd like to take Jean to Germany and Switzerland. It'll be something to free my mother, brother and sister from the Russians."

He said he bought "lots of tickets," but this is the first time he has won. He didn't know if he would buy any more.

He said he left Breslau eight years ago after his father was shot by Russian soldiers. He went to France and North Africa, and then came to Canada.

LIST OF WINNERS

DUBLIN (AP) — Following are Canadians who held Irish hospitals sweepstakes tickets on the first three horses in today's Cambridgeshire handicap stakes at Newmarket, England:

ALESSIO, Albert Stock, 94 Queen's Rd., Valois, Que.

Turk's Blood Youth, $56,000:

Mrs. Mary Mrs. St. Faille, 6 Sweet Avenue, Hull.

Anthony St., Lockerby.

Swept Events, $28,000:

AENSI975, Bert Linton, 241 Quebec St., Oshawa.

Mantel, Mrs. was 5-to-1 favorite at Newmarket but run out of the money, leaving the Irish public aghast at the unexpected result.

Holding tickets on Manali were: "We There," Toronto; "Lucky Bev," Parry Sound; "Sonchen," Canada; and "Wendy," Strathroy.

The total prize fund in the Irish national hospital sweepstakes was nearly $3,100,000, greatest in many years.

In addition to the big first, second and third prizes, there were 50 residual prizes of $5,110 each, 1,504 tickets on horses other than the first three worth $853 each, 1,129 prizes of $298 each and 4,818 prizes of $28 each.

'The Thunderer' Breaks Its Silence, Warns Princess Against Marriage

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret today went south to perform a royal duty, while Peter Townsend visited Britain's most famous horse show in London.

The princess went to Sussex to open a new school for invalid boys at Seaford, near the seaside resort of Brighton. The boys have a reality through a charity drive in which the princess took a leading part.

As the princess and her rumored suitor went' their separate ways, The Times finally broke silence on the romance in a front page editorial comment.

The independent and influential newspaper, often known as "The Thunderer," says Margaret would be "irrevocably disqualified" from playing her role as princess if she decided to marry the handsome, divorced father of two boys.

There is no escape from the "constitutional situation," The Times editorial declares. "The Queen's sister married to a divorced man even though the 'innocent party' would be irrevocably disqualified from playing her part in the essential royal function—a part, be it said, which is not always filled with the utmost charm and devotion."

The Times warns that the marriage "would cause pain and distress among loyal subjects everywhere," and counsels the princess to remember that "duty, the full sense is a spiritual state, and its most precious element may be the utter out-duty done."

The editorial policy of the Times is kept under close scrutiny by a board of trustees which includes the Archbishop of Canterbury, ranking prelate of the Church of England, which strongly opposes remarriage of divorced persons.

Another ex-officio Times trustee is the lord chancellor—at present Viscount Kilmuir—the highest law officer of the government.

West Planning to Discuss Israel Problem With Russia

PARIS (CP)—Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett today made an appeal to Britain and the United States to help his nation combat the threat of Communist arms shipments to Israel's hostile Arab neighbors.

First, he conferred for an hour and a half with Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan. Forty-five minutes later, Sharett met State Secretary John Foster Dulles at the American embassy. He appealed to Dulles for Western arms to combat the Communist shipments and for a Western guarantee of Israel's borders.

Diplomatic sources said. Dulles and Macmillan both told Sharett Western policy can not be finally determined until the problem had been explored with Russia at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference starting in Geneva Thursday.

Dulles told Sharett, however, that the basis of American Middle East policy is still his offer made in August to guarantee Arab-Israeli frontiers and to help remove major problems, including the resettlement of Arab refugees and the sharing of the Jordan river waters.

Before Sharett's two calls, Dulles and Macmillan met together for two hours to discuss the Middle East crisis and other issues.

It was understood Sharett told them the Communist arms shipments to Egypt, which have already begun, have created a "highly dangerous situation." He said Israel would do its utmost to prevent the renewal of the Holy Land war but needed increased arms supplies to meet the new threat.

The Western foreign ministers gathered here Sunday preoccupied with strategy for the Geneva conference, Tuesday the plans of the United States, Britain and Francefor the four-power meeting were approved by the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

German reunification was set out as the No. 1 objective for the Geneva talks, beginning Thursday.

Sharett arrived Sunday night, openly demanding arms from France, Britain and the U.S. to counterbalance the shipment of arms to Egypt by Czechoslovakia under Russian guidance.

Sources close to Sharett also indicated clearly that he was prepared to press for frontiers, especially with the U.S., which would guarantee Israel against any Egyptian or general Arabic invasion.

His appearance during the busy preparations for the Big Four meeting was particularly disturbing to the French, who are striving now to settle their troubles with the Moslems of North Africa.

Members of the Israeli-Arab problem at a time when the pressure on the Big Three focussed public attention on this capital was not at all what the French wanted.

Although Sharett was successful in lining up meetings with Dulles and Macmillan, Foreign Minister Pinay said he was not able to meet with the Israeli premier because of lack of time. Members of Pinay's staff said the foreign minister will confer with Sharett in Geneva.

Some relief is felt in both French and American quarters that since Sharett will not see Pinay here he will not be able to move on to Geneva with any indication that he has marshalled the Big Three Western foreign ministers on his side. His failure, to see Pinay also is welcomed by diplomats of other powers who privately said they did not intend to permit any statement to develop which would put Russia in a position of championing the Arabs against the Israelis.

Ottawa Sees Scant Hope Of Major Success at Geneva

OTTAWA (CP)—The capital sees scant hope of any major success at the Big Four ministers conference opening Thursday at Geneva.

Informants said that despite the more cordial atmosphere between West and East, the Russians have given no indication they are prepared to accept German reunification, main theme of the conference.

But some officials feel that this will be only the first of a series of conferences and that agreement to keep talking is in itself an improvement over the situation in recent years.

The West will propose, as a means to assuage apparent Soviet alarm at the possibility of a reunited Germany being a member of NATO, that both sides enter into a mutual security arrangement.

For purposes of sounding out the Russians, the West will offer a 15-nation pact comprising Canada, Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and a reunified Germany on the NATO side and Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania. The U.S.S.R. and her European satellites already have a NATO-type pact.

Canada is not committed to participate in any such agreement, if one could be arranged, officials here say. Canadian participation, if it materialized, would have to be ratified by Parliament.

During his recent Russian visit, External Affairs Minister Pearson is believed to have tried to convince the Soviet leaders that a united Germany within NATO would provides better security for Russia than a neutral Germany left to wheel-freely on her own in the centre of Europe. Arms limitations and controls were placed on West Germany when she entered NATO and the Western European Union.

One informant said he believes Mr. Pearson made a bit of headway with the Russians on this subject but probably not enough to make Foreign Minister Molotov agree at Geneva to a reunified Germany.

GIRL AND SMALL BOY FOUND SAFE IN ST. CATHARINES

Two Missing 14 Hours From Hamilton Home

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Four-teen hours of anxiety ended Tuesday night for Mr. and Mrs. John Clancone of Hamilton.

Their 22-month-old son, Larry, was found safe in a theatre here beside the girl, who, police said, ran off with him early Tuesday after the mother gave her permission to take him for a walk.

To Larry, it was a big day. He went for a bus ride, got a new teddy bear, a toy pistol and some new clothes, ate in a restaurant, filled up on candy and saw a double feature movie.

His picture was taken and his diaper was changed by a policeman.

Only then did he tire of it all and howled for his daddy. Even a lollypop didn't quiet him.

HAD BEEN BOARDING

Mrs. Clancone said the girl, who is 14, but looks older, had been boarding at the home for two weeks. The girl, who police said left her parents' home in Hamilton about two weeks ago, took Larry out for his morning walk Tuesday.

Before the girl left Mrs. Clancone asked her if she had any references and went to look for her purse. She couldn't find it and told the girl she'd have to contact her parents. Mrs. Clancone said there was $65 in the purse.

When the girl didn't return Mrs. Clancone called police.

Police broadcast the description but by nightfall there was no trace of the pair.

Then police here began to get reports.

A woman said she saw them on a bus between St. Catharines and Hamilton. She said the girl told her she was taking "her baby" to Britain. Police and immigration officers were asked to watch for them.

SAW IN STORE

Then a clerk in a dime store here said the girl and the child were in the store in the afternoon. The girl returned to the store to claim her wallet, which contained $34. They were played around the counters while she signed for it.

Later a waitress in a downtown restaurant told police she served supper to them.

By then police had begun a systematic search of the downtown area. They learned that the girl had registered in a hotel.

Cpl. Vic Dawson entered the theatre and immediately saw the girl and the boy near the front. He said Larry was dressed as the youth in the next seat and that Larry had been watching the movie with double bill.

ESCORTED GIRL

Cpl. Dawson and Cpl. Jim Gayder escorted the girl with Larry to the police station across the street. At first she refused to say how she got Larry. Larry was reported as the baby but later, police said, she admitted bribing the baby by bus from Hamilton, 34 miles away.

Larry was reunited with the boy and had him in the police station, but after a while he began to cry and called for his daddy, Mrs. Clancone and Mrs. Clancone's mother. Then police took the child home to his bed.

The girl was brought back to Hamilton and charged where she was to appear in family court on charges of breach of probation.

Canadian-Designed Wheelchair For Paraplegics Has Power Drive

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian-designed wheelchair with power drive and steering for persons paralyzed in all four limbs was presented today to the Canadian Veterans' Rehabilitation administration.

It is one of nine assembled since the new working model was completed in 1953 by the National Research Council and veterans' welfare departments.

The motorized automobile batteries move it along at average walking speed. Range is about 20 miles on a charge. The chair can climb a 45½-degree incline—a rise of about 12 feet in 25 feet—and turn in a circle of 10 feet.

But the power steering is the important thing. Controls of most electric wheelchairs are beyond the physical powers of quadriplegics—those paralyzed in both arms and legs. The new model moves in any direction with slight pressure on a toggle switch on one arm of the chair.

Maj. C. A. Bell, director of prosthetic services for the veterans affairs department, said most paraplegics can make at least slight arm movements.

He said about 15 veterans in Canada now need chairs of this type. No figures are available on the number of non-veteran paraplegics.

Today's presentation was made by Veterans Minister Lapointe to Dr. Robert Stewart, president of the veterans' bureau, U.S. veterans administration.

The electric drive can be fitted to most wheelchairs with only minor modifications. It will be used in clinics and in treatment centres but can be used on relatively smooth surfaces outdoors.

A statement by the department said that because the small demand in Canada does not justify commercial production of the wheelchair with its expensive motor, the model is being given to the U.S. in hopes of creating enough demand to interest a commercial manufacturer.

British Budget Curbs Spending, Increases Taxes

Butler Vows He Will Not Return to Import Curbs

LONDON (Reuters) — Here are the main points of the new British budget:

Housing subsidies, now costing the government £73,000,000 a year, abolished "as soon as possible."

Central government loans to give civic and county governments needed and balanced.

Spending programs in the state-run gas and electricity industries curbed.

Hospitals curbed to only the most urgent building projects and £7,000,000 worth of government building — including new British embassy offices in Washington— dropped.

Telephone and postal charges increased to bring in an extra £36,000,000.

Sales tax levied on all items classes as luxury goods" increased by one-fifth. Present rates range from 25 per cent to 75 per cent.

No change in personal income tax or death duties.

Butler said he intended to take further measures to restrain borrowing through credit and to reduce bank investment and personal spending. Already this year he has ordered banks to curb credit which demand and has made it more difficult to buy goods on the hire-purchase plan.

But he vowed the government would not go back to the Labor party device of restricting imports. Far from correcting inflation that might aggravate it, he contended.

ECONOMY THREATENED

The new anti-inflation budget was the second of the year—in addition to the January British bill for exports is exceeding earnings from imports to an extent which threatens the economy.

Butler warned, however, that Britain is still enjoying a high level of activity and well-being and denied that current economic problems are caused "by a slack or enfeebled economy."

While giving a detailed picture of a free-spending economy that was beginning to get out of hand, he cited these examples of prosperity at home:

Production is running five to six per cent ahead of last year.

WAGE RATE RISING

Employment offices now list two vacancies for jobs for every unemployed person in the country.

Average wage rates rose five points between December and September. The three points between March and June and since had gone up still another point.

Steel Demand Is 'Fantastic' Says Magazine

NEW YORK (AP)—The demand for steel in the United States is "almost fantastic," says Iron Age, the national trade weekly. . .

Steel mills are jammed with orders, and "if the mills wanted to open the flood gates they could book orders for most of 1956. As it is, their first-half output is in the bag, even though orders are not being booked beyond the first quarter."

Iron Age reports as follows:

Producers are watching the blue pencil in an all-out effort to control the flow of incoming orders, but new business continues to exceed the ability of the mills to produce.

This is so even though steel production last week reached a weekly record of 2,348,000 tons and production this week is estimated at 98.5 per cent of capacity.

Burns to Confer With UN Chief On Middle East

NEW YORK (AP) — Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, United Nations Palestine truce supervisor, arrived here by plane today for "general consultations" on the Arab-Israel situation with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

He was asked to give an estimate of chances for permanent peace in the Middle East. "At the moment, I would not bet there would be a permanent peace anywhere in the world," he said.

Burns' visit had been recalled because of any recent deterioration of the situation in the Middle East, he replied:

"No, I am here just for general consultation."

Fight Fire 9 Hours

TORONTO (CP) — Firemen waged a nine-hour battle today against a fire that swept through the basement of a large north end house.

Furniture belonging to about 25 families was destroyed. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

Recognizes Diem

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced today it has recognized Premier Ngo Dinh Diem as the new chief of state of Viet Nam, replacing former emperor Bao Dai.

The British action removed the last major Western support for Bao Dai.

Foreman Must Be Leader, Guide For Men Sen. Fraser Tells Club

The responsibilities of foremen was the subject of an address by Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton at the October meeting of the Quinte District Foremen's Club held Tuesday in the YMCA building.

Following his address Senator Fraser was made an honorary life member of the local club.

"A foreman must be a leader and guide of men," said Senator Fraser. "He leads men, he does not drive them. Foremen are chosen for their executive ability and for their ability to accept responsibility.

"I feel instantly that not only is there no .reater responsibility but there is no greater or more sacred trust than having within your scope the guidance of your fellowman."

"The foreman's responsibility with every employee . under him," said the Senator in explaining that great corporations insist on investigating the personal habits of executive personnel.

"Those employees want to know what kind of wife a man has? Does he drink rye or Scotch? Does he get out late or come home early? Foremen should know the habits and characteristics of every employee under them."

Senator Fraser remarked that the present inflationary spiral in Canada is one result of policy by which Canadians have come to believe in "more and more for less and less."

The government of Canada has instituted a number of humanitarian and social welfare schemes such as old age pensions, mothers' allowances, unemployment insurance and so forth. One of the incentives behind that policy was to combat Communism, said Senator Fraser.

"The people of Canada are entitled to a better standard of living. These entitlements are now established in legislation so that Canada is ahead of every country in the world in the fields of social welfare."

CARRY TO EXTREMES

"But I have apprehensions we carry it to extreme. In fact we want more and more for less and less.

"When an employee is doing things uneconomic it is your responsibility as your paternal position as a foreman to point out to a man with a take-home pay of $62.50 a week that with payments on a house, TV, a new car, upkeep for a wife and three children and a fourth three months away, that he is overspending.

"It is your responsibility to point out to such a man that he is past the deadline. You must tell him only disaster lies ahead. If you do not step out of your position to assume your responsibility you have not do your duty to offset the trend of inflation.

"You can't take five pints out of a quart pitcher. It is not there. If Jones gets five quarts out of it he is getting three from Smith.

"We must face the fact that we cannot spend in Canada more than our actual production. It is only what we create that means anything. The boys who play with poker chips are excess baggage.

"I am a farmer. I feel I must contribute something for the privilege of being a Canadian. I can only show my appreciation by producing something or by doing better work."

Senator Fraser, speaking as a foreman himself, and as a laborer in Canada's past, told of the days of tramp steamers at 40 cents a day," said "I was glad to be a free man.

"On my farm I am happy picking apples and taking my part on the production line of Canada's wealth.

"I know that in this part of Ontario I am primarily known as a politician, but I am firstly a Canadian. I was not appointed to the Canadian Senate because I was a politician. I was appointed to the Senate to represent the province of Ontario from Scarboro to Cornwall and to assume responsibility for individuals, my own and those in the dustries as problems develop for their liaison with the federal government."

LOVES DISTRICT

"While for many years I have been divorced from the Quinte district my heart is not only with Canada but with the Quinte district. I have spent years of my life in this district. I have many friends, those below the 49th parallel and those from the motherland to the east and west. Here is to the Bay of Quinte district and to bring industry to the district.

"I think we have a little bit more to give than anyone else.

"You can tell the mayor of Belleville and the president of the Chamber of Commerce that Belleville is only a name on a railway station when I come here to attract industry. And that is not good enough.

"What industry is interested in is persons and what these persons have to give and contribute to Canada or to their company, their fellows and their district. That is the answer to attracting industry. Gather industry to your bosom with affection and with warmth and the end."

Senator Fraser was introduced by J. E. Dalgleish, past president of the club, and thanked by Frank Mawrards, of Bancroft.

Cornelius M. Hage, managing director of the Belleville and Gedeste Works, of Holland, who is in Trenton as a guest of Senator Fraser, while making preparations to open a factory spoke briefly to the club.

Five Will Draft Historical Soc. Constitution

Monday evening an Historical Society for the County of Hastings advanced another step towards reality. Approximately 50 interested citizens from various parts of the county met informally at the King George School in Belleville to lay out a program for an organizational meeting to be held in November.

Mr. John Buchan was in charge of the meeting and ably guided the discussion along productive channels. A committee of five was selected. Messrs. Mrs. Edgar Haig, Thurlow; Mrs. William Pinkney, Bellcville; Mrs. Roscoe Robinson, Halloway; Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater, Foxboro; Mr. Kenneth Bird, Stirling (Trent Road). This committee was instructed to bring in a slate of officers and a constitution for presentation and approval at the next meeting.

It was unanimously agreed that an outstanding speaker be approached to address the meeting in November.

Mrs. John Haig introduced Judge Smith, president of the Lennox-Addington Historical Society. Judge Smith gave a detailed review of the promise and the obstacles of an Historical Society. He felt no doubt in the minds of those present of the inestimable value of such a body in society can be in the life of the county.

The speaker's enthusiasm was contagious and made a valuable contribution towards spurring his listeners to lose no time in making the Historical Society for Hastings County a "must" to preserve for posterity the historical treasures which exist in this grand old county.

Colonel Vanderwater moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker.

The time, place and speaker for the next meeting will be announced later.

Warden James H. Sprackett Honored at Banquet in Madoc

Tribute to a civic-minded man who has served four decades as a municipal councillor and the director of a century as reeve of his municipality was paid Tuesday night by Hastings county officials as they honored Warden James H. Sprackett at the annual Warden's banquet held at Madoc.

Close to 150 persons from all walks of life attended the banquet in the Madoc Armoury and heard speakers extoll the qualities of a man whose service to his community is being valued equally with his personal business as a lumberman.

Warden Sprackett is the reeve of Tudor and Cashel township, his choice as warden last January being only the second time in the history of the county that the honor has gone to this township.

The popular North - Hastings reeve last night listened to plaudits from county officials, from members of parliament and from judiciary.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Tribute to the climax to the evening's program when Warden and Mrs. Sprackett were presented with a handsome silver tea service on behalf of county council, while Mrs. Sprackett received a fur coat instead of a handsome bouquet of roses.

As an added gesture members of the Tudor and Cashel township council presented Warden Sprackett with a handsome gavel, while members of the Sprackett family presented him with a set of golf irons and golf balls.

Banquet guests enjoyed a bounteous meal with roast turkey and all the trimmings, heard words of praise for the county warden from various toastmasters and listened to a thought-provoking address by Rev. Gordon W. Gibb, of Metropolitan United Church in London, Ont., who warned of the heavy price being paid by Canadians in their quest for so-called progress.

In his address of welcome Warden Sprackett said he felt difficult for him to express his feelings at a time such as this. He was both "humble and proud" at being chosen by his fellow councillors for the honorable post which his county could bestow.

HAS ENJOYED YEAR

"I have enjoyed my year as warden," he said, adding: "It has been a busy year. My only regret is that Madoc-Foxboro development road has not been started yet this year as was expected.

He noted that survey work was still being carried on and the right of way and it was expected that purchase of needed property would be made before the year end.

Clerk-treasurer Erle S. Denyes was in his usual fine fettle as master of ceremonies for the banquet program. Reeve Charles Buskard, of Deloro, responded to the Warden's address of welcome.

Reeve Lee McLaren of Tyendinaga, proposed a toast to the guests, with responses by Murray Parks, Warden of Prince Edward county; Mayor J. A. Platt of Belleville; Judge J. C. Anderson and Mrs. Cecil Hargraft.

The toast to the Dominion of Canada was by George S. White, M.P., for Hastings-Frontenac, with response by Frank S. Follwell, M.P., for Hastings South.

Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., for Hastings West, proposed the toast to the province of Ontario, with response by Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., for Hastings East.

PROGRESS PRICE HIGH

In a repeat visit as guest speaker to the Hastings county warden's banquet, Mr. Goth talked on "What Price Progress" and told his listeners that people today were losing touch with their neighbors and the quest for so-called progress and efficiency.

He criticized the trend toward "bigness" and said that the quality of production was not measured by size but by vitality.

In the rush of modern day life people were losing touch with the simplicities which go with contentment. Rural residents moved into the cities had in a great percentage of cases failed to become really established and were lonely. They were victims of the "displaced persons of the 20th century."

They had given up their personal contact with community life and were restless in their new environment as urbanites.

DISLIKES CHANGES

The speaker deplored the threatened passing of the corner grocer store which he said had a definite place in community life, and also the junking of the little red school house.

Contrary to the corner grocery-man who had a definite stake in the community and whose profits were kept in the community, the profit of big supermarkets went to head offices.

Housewives were coaxed into the big supermarkets by the prospect of saving a cent or two on a can of beans and then as victims of appeal merchandising ended up buying something two or three dollars more than they expected.

Neither could the speaker see the advantages of the modern day consolidated school as compared with the little red school house which he had attended-in rural Ottawa Valley.

He didn't class himself as an educationist but he failed to see why school teachers should spend their time teaching a boy how to make a milk stool when milk stools are not used any more Mothers could teach their girls how to sew on a button or bake a cake.

"The teachers are doing something which should be done by the parents," he said. "Maybe there would be no shortage of teachers if we did what they were paid for—educate our children."

ADMITS ADVANTAGES

In conclusion Mr. Goth admitted that people today "never had it so good" in comforts and so-called advantages. "Everybody was making more money, they had oil furnaces and TV sets.

"I am not saying that we should not have these things—I have them myself—but I question whether that kind of growth is really progress."

The speaker was introduced by Reeve Clarence Graham of Tweed, while , chairman Erle Denyes, expressed appreciation.

Banquet entertainment was provided by an instrumental trio, the members of the Sprackett family. Two of the members, Frank and Don Sprackett, were sons of Warden Sprackett and the third, Terry Sprackett, a grandson.

Police Blotter

Theft of the main body of a hot air furnace from the workshop of Charles L. Hyde and Son, local plumbing and heating firm, has been reported to city police.

Company officials told police that the furnace had been taken from their back shop some time since Friday afternoon.

A light standard on lower Front Street was broken down as loaded truck came into contact with the pole as the vehicle pulled away, and part of the load struck the pole as he vehicle pulled away.

Started by sudden appearance of a truck as she rode her bicycle onto Dundas street in the east end of the city, Heather Wilcox, age 9, 332 Bridge Street, East, fell from her bike and received face bruises. The mishap happened this morning.

Proposed New City Dog Pound

Stray dogs might well be expected to go out of their way to be picked up following the erection of the proposed new city dog pound pictured above. The building, to be built of concrete block, would be insulated against noise of impounded dogs and would be heated during the winter months. On Friday and Saturday of this week, the local Humane Society will hold a tag day for the purpose of raising funds to assist in construction of the new dog pound.

300 Masons on Hand to Mark Centennial of Trent Lodge

TRENTON (Special) — Responding to a toast to the Grand Master and the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario, the Most Worshipful Brother J. P. Maher, P.G.M., explained that Masonry was the handmaiden of the church but does not take the place of the church. "It is a religious organization, but not a religion," he said. He stressed that every Mason should be a member of some religious organization.

The native of Picton, who is president of a country-wide chain manufacturing retail organization, was speaking to some 300 members and guests of Trent Masonic Lodge, No. 38, on the occasion of the lodge's 100th anniversary here Tuesday night.

Because men travel great distances to attend a meeting like this, Masonry must be a propelling force, he continued. He spoke of Masons who covered 12,000 miles to spend two or three days at the Grand Lodge centennial celebration in Toronto last summer.

Mr. Maher talked about the benevolent work done by the Masons. He referred to the last 80 cents of every dollar that local lodges send to the Grand Lodge is spent to help some unfortunate man, woman or child. He pointed out that the percentage of the dollar used for benevolence is the same as it was in 1925. He cited how friendship formed a very important part of Masonry.

Speaker Maher maintained that the most important part of Masonry was to make better men. Men of integrity, men of substance. "We who attend meetings as this are the windows through which the world judges Masonry," he declared. He called on his brothers to keep the windows shining.

TOASTS PROPOSED

At the outset of his remarks Mr. Maher acknowledged the "kind and flattering" introduction by Rt. Wor. Bro. O. M. Newton. The toast to Trent Lodge, No. 38, A.F. and A.M., G.R.C., was proposed by Wor Bro. J. A. Greer, M.D., C.M., and Wor. Bro. H. D. Graham, CBE, DSO and Bar, ED, CD, QC. The Chief of Staff of the Canadian Army said he was delighted to be back in Trenton. Seldom do I get an opportunity to get back home, he added. I still think of Trenton as home, he continued. "I think it is a great honor to propose the toast to my Mother Lodge."

Following his recollection of a visit to a Masonic lodge in Knightsbridge, London, England, and comment on pleasant experiences during the visit General Graham said: "I feel that in proposing a toast to any organization I am really proposing toast to members of that organization." He recalled family names of Trentonians who devoted much of their lives in building the lodge. He recalled times when the churches and the lodges were the only fraternal organizations in Trenton. He paid tribute to the men who not only built the community but built the country on which firm foundation it rests today.

He recalled memories of a spring day in 1927 when the Masons marched through the streets of the town to assemble for the laying of the cornerstone of the temple that is their home today. "I think how fortunate we are today, he said, that those people had the foresight and courage in entering into the construction of this fine building." He impressed on his brothers that the lodge and the community owe a debt to those members who have gone before.

Masonic historian Worshipful Brother O. G. "Buster" Alyea responded to General Graham's remarks. He noted that the General's loyalty to his Mother Lodge had prompted him to leave Newfoundland 36 hours earlier, despite uncertain flying conditions so that he could be on hand for the meeting.

Mr. Alyea explained that the history of the lodge was not complete since all documents previous to 1869 were destroyed in a fire that burned the lodge rooms. He brought attention to Worshipful Brother Harry Peck of Carrying Place, the oldest member of the lodge in attendance. He noted with regret that the oldest living member, Dr. W. B. Crowe, at 91, was unable to be present. Mr. Alyea offered thanks to those who helped him with the story of Trent Lodge, including Rt. Wor. Bro. Newton for his notes on Consecon Lodge, Rt. Wor. Bro. Morrow for allowing him to excerpt the minutes of United Lodge, Wor. Bro. Grant for his help on the minutes of Moira Lodge and to Very Wor. Bro. V. P. Carswell for his patience in giving what papers he could find on Trent Lodge. He said he was also indebted to those members of Trent Lodge, who checked the story for errors or omissions.

The toast to "Our Guests" was proposed by Very Wor. Bro. V. P. Carswell.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Ray Gunsolus, P.G.S.W., of Belleville, secretary of the Past Masters' and Wardens' Association, responded.

Presentations to distinguished members and guests followed. Wor. Bro. Peck presented a gold embroidered apron to Wor. Bro. Alyea; Wor. Bro. N. Sprague, presented a gold embroidered apron to Wor. Bro. D. J. Graham and Wor. Bro. H. Sager presented a copper lady Susan to Most Wor. Bro. Maher.

Wor. Bro. Darwin Sager, chairman of the official program, who introduced the Grand Lodge officers and guests, accepted for the lodge a new gold collar from Wor. Bro. Harold Mott, president of the Past Masters' and Wardens' Association.

Rt. Wor. Bro. E. C. Wood, D.D.G.M., spoke on behalf of the brethren in attendance.

The speakers complimented the ladies of Grace United Church on the fine food and service enjoyed at the banquet.

During the meeting Mr. Parker was allowed 10 minutes on the platform to express his views. He outlined the methods by which prices are established each week and said that new hog assembly points are to be established at Windsor, London, Stratford, Barrie and Peterborough.

Illness of Two Leaders May Hurt Conference

GENEVA (AP) — Things that happen on the margin of the Big Four conference opening here Thursday may have a more decisive effect on future East-West relations than the clash of issues and personalities at the conference itself.

President Eisenhower's illness is one of the events which throw a long shadow over this meeting. Despite his improvement doctors diplomats think the uncertainty about the American leader's political future will make the Soviet government more cautious and suspicious in dealing with the United States than the Russians were at the "summit" conference in July.

Another important event is the illness of West Germany's chancellor Adenauer, who from the West's point of view is perhaps the single most essential man in European politics today.

In another area, troubles in the Middle East—including Russia's bid for influence with the Arabs and the anti-French uprisings in North Africa—have upset prospects for world peace despite the generally friendlier East-West relations.

With Egypt arranging to get Communist arms from Czechoslovakia, the developing Arab-Israel arms race is a good bet to become a Geneva issue.

Hog Producers' Marketing Vote Said Not Planned

STRATFORD (CP)—Charles W. McInnis, president of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association said here Tuesday night that he has had no official word about a proposed hog producers' vote on marketing regulations.

Mr. McInnis in an interview prior to a meeting of producers, contradicted a story appearing within the past week to the effect that department of agriculture officials were considering a vote.

In a stormy meeting, attended by about 300 men, Theodore Parker of Downie township, where a few weeks ago announced he was starting court action to contest the legality of present marketing legislation, suggested that hogs should be marketed on a voluntary co-operative basis instead of under the present compulsory co-operative.

Mr. McInnis said the underlying principle of the co-operative was to protect the farmer and make sure that he got his fair share of the consumer's dollar.

Mr. McInnis said that every industry has its own marketing organization and that during the good economic times the hog producers had forgotten that they had to sell. He said that the Ontario co-operative marketing plan had been considered by members of the Saskatchewan royal commission as the basis for a similar establishment in the province.

OLD THEME REVIVED

Mr. and Mrs. Homer G. Brown, missionaries of the United Church of Canada in China, have praised the accomplishments of the Communist regime in that country.

"We smelled no opium, saw no gambling, met no beggars," they say.

This statement has a familiar ring.

Its theme is identical with the old argument that Mussolini's Fascist regime in Italy was good for the country because it had made the railways run on time.

Making trains punctual, eliminating opium-smoking and excessive gambling and eliminating beggars are all worthy-while objectives.

Their achievement is in itself desirable, but this achievement is not in itself proof that a government is good.

Firstly we must know the means by which these ends were reached. While one may quarrel with the statement that the end does not justify the means, on the quite sound grounds that if it does not then we should not fall into the opposite error of maintaining that the end always justifies the means, regardless of the nature of these means.

Even if trains are made punctual, opium-smoking and gambling ended and beggars eliminated by acceptable means, the most that can be said is that these achievements are points in favor of the government concerned. We ought to remember that trains, opium smoking, gambling and beggars are not the only problems facing governments and they cannot be judged solely on their achievements in these fields.

There were those who believed that his ability to make Italian trains run on time did not justify Mussolini in dropping mustard gas bombs on innocent Ethiopian peasants. Ending opium smoking and excessive gambling and eliminating beggars are somewhat more impressive accomplishments when efficient management is demanded, but even they do not excuse some of the things which the Chinese Communists have done in other fields.

Not all, perhaps, will be able to grasp this fact, for it concerns political morality, but one might have hoped that missionaries would have been better equipped than some others of us to display seasoned judgment on moral questions.

FRENCH HAVE NO TIME FOR WOMEN AND SONG

The French Government, besides such trifling matters as the future of the rising nationalist movements in Morocco and Algeria and the fate of Indo-China, is faced with another problem of considerable proportions.. It has to find somebody to drink 176,000,000 gallons of wine.

Since Mendesism is another of the nation's worries, this wine surplus threatens to produce a hangover of mammoth proportions.

According to Neil Bruce, writing in "London Calling," a BBC publication, there has been a considerable surplus of wine produced in southern France for several years past. It is now estimated at 140,000,000 gallons, with the new crop to be added. That, mind you, is a surplus, the amount of wine which will be surplus.

To ease the crisis the southern wine-grower, the government first agreed to buy 110,000,000 gallons of wine for distillation. Whether it is easier to consume the brandy produced by distilling 110,000,000 gallons of wine than to drink 140,000,000 gallons is not known, but distilled state is a moot point and one regarding which we do not propose to conduct any personal experiments. It is true that some of the wine is inferior wine, but it may not be true that brandy is like whisky, that there is no bad brandy but only some brandies that are better than others.

Anyway, the brandy from that original purchase of 110,000,000 gallons of wine is only part of the French problem. The government has now agreed to buy another 66,000,000 gallons of this seeming surplus. There is the question of disposing of this new wine by putting it in old bottles, since the old bottles have not yet been emptied.

Neil Bruce is calling attention to the pressure in meeting this problem. For a start it is going to issue a free ration of wine each week for certain categories of old people, hospitals, wine pensioners who are physically fit to bear glasses in association with their country and a dilemma. Then, naturally, the armed forces are expected to do their duty and the wine ration for soldiers will be increased if the Ministry of War does not get sufficient for the proposal and insist that it wants its soldiers in fighting trim.

Even these measures, however, will leave 155,000,000 gallons of wine to be distilled into brandy.

This looks like a problem which can only be solved by a vigorous policy of immigration.

"MORE DEADLY THAN THE MALE"

Irate mothers in Seabrook, New Jersey, have scored a victory in a skirmish with organized labor.

The mothers of Seabrook, angry because striking picketers were holding up work on a new school, decided to picket the strikers. Two dozen women, backed by a mass meeting of 400 parents, appeared in front of the strike-bound schools premises bearing slogans such as "Danger —Construction Behind," and "The Union Stands in the Way of Education."

Union picketers packed up their own signs and beat a hasty retreat. Thus one union at least has learned that "The female of the species is more deadly than the male."

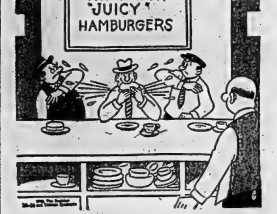
LASTING MOMENTS

Do you remember we sat by the shore
And watched the vessels ply up and down
And laughed, as never we'd laughed before,
At the name of a street in a near-by town?



Do you remember the meal we ate
At a counter long in a wayside shack,
The meals, the rolls and the chipped blue plate,
The mug and the coffee black?

The days go by
And the months and the years become the past,
But a few of the minutes which they supply
Memory clings to and holds them fast.

If we remember, the lost is found.
If we remember, what's spent we keep.
Forgetfulness is the burial ground
Where the joys that were, but have vanished, sleep.

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 26th., 1935

The Belleville football squad romped home to a 15 to 5 victory over the Lindsay Rotary squad before some 500 fans at the Exhibition Park here on the holiday in a scheduled Lake Shore group ORFU game, and thereby take the second place in the loop. Jimmie Follwell's superb punting greatly assisted the Belleville team coupled with splendid defensive work along the line and the broken field running of Hilton and Schriedel gave the Kennedy-coached team the advantage. Follwell accounted for gains galore on each exchange of punts and received much assistance in the backfield by Hilton, Schriedel and Andrews. Hilton played his best game of the season especially in his broken field running. Along the line of scrimmage the Belleville forwards also showed great ability to stop the onrushing plays of the Lindsay players. Sid White, Rigby, Morgan and Clare repeatedly broke through. Lindsay team and the work of Ted Lee at outside wing little less than miraculous as the diminutive outside wing turned in a marvelous game for the home team with his deadly tackling. The following composed the Belleville team—Forster, Follwell, Hilton, Schrieder, Andrews, Faulkner, White, Morgan, Rigby, Hanley, Lee, Clarke, Munning, Wilson, Fardella, Kelly, Johnston, Cook, Black and Clare. Referee, Townsend, Belleville; umpire, L. Bigley, Lindsay; head linesman, Bush, Belleville. Coach, Dr. Kennedy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A SPECIAL HOUR

Twenty-Four Hours a day are allotted to each one of us. We can do with them pretty much as we choose. How few of us make the most of this opportunity! Surely it should not be too much to expect that we devote some hours in which to do something special, both interesting and educational.

What a valuable hour can be devoted to some sort of a hobby, or special study. One hour a day spent in reading can make anyone well read and an interesting conversationalist. An hour a day, set aside, can prove a most valuable investment over the years. Set that extra hour apart from all others and you will be amazed how your life can be made far more interesting by filling that hour with fun, new knowledge and something creative.

When you do do something you want to do, time becomes speedy! Think how interesting you can make a special hour set aside for personal improvement and recreation. That hour can be relaxing, too. It doesn't seem like work when you do something you want most to do. You can make any special hour the best of all the active ones in the twenty-four.

Once you get interested in the reading of books you will probably expand your hour of reading to many, for books take you to all corners of the earth and you talk with the humblest and greatest through the reading of selected books.

Many of us just wander around in several of the hours of the day. If we formed the habit of concentrating into one hour many a special occupation and interest, we would improve our mind and waste less of our time. Most of our unhappy hours can be charged up to time in which there has been very little interesting to do.

High Cost of Collecting

(American Magazine)

Not only are taxes high; so are tax-collection costs. This year 56 million tax forms were mailed out by the Internal Revenue Service. Just for the basic Form 1040 alone, 143 railroad cars carrying 7 million pounds of paper were required, plus two tank cars loaded with 70,000 pounds of ink.

The Colombo Plan which has been called the friendliest club in the world should pass a house rule that always it should meet in one of the Asian countries. Asian countries whose great needs it is designed to fill. Here at Singapore, in the geographical centre of the Colombo plan area, the western delegates are beginning to get the technical know-how cannot help even in the limousine ride from their posh hotel to the conference hall to see, smell and feel the task ahead of them. Each delegation's man has taken elegant pains to survive the non-stop sun by air-conditioning, long drinks and multitudinous servants. h e m u s t glimpse Asia's poverty, recognize the sweating, grimy people sleeping along sidewalks, the crowded slums, the putid scraps left over from the day's market.

The whole world have been smarter had they held the meeting alongside the stinking Singapore River at low tide, or in the Chinese or Indian settlements of Malaya where life is very real and must be desperate.

A man living in a hut along that river, on insufficient food with unsafe water, is called "backward" or "lazy" by choice.

The western countries originated this plan not merely for humanitarian reasons but as a step in peaceful way of lessening the chances of Asian countries falling before Communism. It is because we have decided in our generosity to help them help themselves that we thought to say we have decided to contribute to the plan is in the north or to keep the St. Lawrence River open to navigation.

Only an idiot here the Communist bandits are shooting people as they have been shooting people throughout the Malay Peninsula since 1948. Wire men here have built a fifty-foot fence out of this 80 per cent. Chinese population to keep in a Communist regime. As only last year the British granted a great measure of self-government to Singapore, save defence, finance and external affairs, it would be difficult to refuse the people electoral self-determination. Yet with this truly frightening situation existing right here on the doorstep of the Colombo meeting, Canada is feeling the mention of a "Cobell bomb" for Burma in fit and proper. It would do Walter Harris good to walk Singapore back streets.

A significant omission from all speeches yesterday was the word Communism. The donor countries have the plan will make Communism undesirable, but they dare not say so for many, if not all, of the countries would refuse to participate in the Colombo Plan if it was openly designed as anti-Communist. I don't believe the man around the Colombo table want Communism, certainly not the quarter of the world's population which they represent is pressing for a place in the sun and aiming to get it. If democracy doesn't offer it, then they will assume they have nothing to lose by tying Communism. Communism, to the villagers, Calcutta's refugee-strewn streets, Pakistan's desert soil, I must agree many of them would not have much to lose. As for Indonesia, the recent elections returned more Communists, and Red-leaning Socialists than Japan and Burma and Thailand and Malaya and Ceylon, where again there is a very strong Communist party, if we are to turn down their requests for help then what we do by yield our prestige and influence to the Communists but in addition to merely the white man's burden but what we should all have recognized by this time as the white man's burden.

If there had been no Colombo Plan, the situation today would be much worse. It seems that the plan has given the western world a slight feeling of being not entirely defenceless against the Communist juggernaut.

This basic fact must be remembered, 80 per cent of the development plan is for the Asians. The Colombo Plan is paid for by the Asian countries have put up merely the inspirational 20 per cent and the technical assistance. As the delegates sat rather internally together in the lounges yesterday, an observer felt that this was how it could be useful for beyond its dollar value. That the well-to-do countries aren't working at it with either the vision or generosity it deserves.

Ripe Apples Win Praises

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Among the more pleasant experiences of Autumn—and it is a season loaded with pleasantries—is the fact that apples become ripe!

It is a fruit beloved by old-fashioned and democratic about an apple that has personality and conviction to get its fuzz shaved off by of age; but if it is we like 'em!

Apples are lovely, lovable, perishable.

It is sturdy, dependable and rosy, and few gastronomical thrills are greater than to sink one's teeth into a big, juicy apple on a day when the mountain that skis and all is blanketed with a white mantle and holds that apples should be picked and quartered and sprinkled liberally with salt. We incline to this latter school.

There are a number of pleasures in this world that cannot be improved upon, being perfection-twists. Our great-grandparents enjoyed sunrises and sunsets fully as much as we do, and the Garden of Eden was as beautiful then, as now; and apples had the same flavor-charm then as it does today—particularly in front of an open fire.

Apples are a fine, a day keeps the doctor away, so as alleged, we have no quarrel with you, being uncommon, and unacquainted with therapeutic nonsense, it seems highly logical to suppose that the calm, unhurried state of mind that makes apple eating a pure pleasure probably does help a man to keep mentally healthy. Maybe it's old-fashioned to like apples; maybe it's a sign of age that ill's we like'em—

In Liverpool, England, they're going one stop farther. The Liverpool School of Dentistry is thinking that perhaps an apple a day may keep the dentist away, as well as the doctor, is about to start a two-or three-year experiment on local schoolchildren to see if we can give an apple a day, some not.

The experiment may be fraught with some uncertainty. How are teachers going to react to sharing with each one their sole personal ive?

Why Not Cabs For Tractors?

(Fort William Times-Journal)

The fatal accident near Savanne last Friday, in which a bulldozer operator was killed by a falling tree, is another of a long list of such tragedies involving the use of both bulldozers and farm tractors. Neither were drivers who did not have sufficient protection from falling objects, or when their vehicles overturned.

A natural question arising from these accidents is why the cabs of the bulldozers and tractors equipped with steel cabs for the drivers.

Have Designs On Poor Males

(Christian Science Monitor)

A famous designer of woman's clothes is about to undertake the redesign of a line of men's apparel such as ties, bathrobes, and shirts. This project, it has been received calmly, nay, complacently, in the metropolitan press.

This shows to what extent men have lost their sense of the fashion bomb, a possible invasion from Paris, Rome, or even Hollywood.

Perhaps it is the professedly limited interest of the new fashion designer that has left men napping.

"Just a few things like neckties, ties, and ties," he is going back to the sports news.

Well, it is not to attempt the scene a few years hence.

"Mr. Jones," says Mr. Wilson—about the golf tournament, the stock market, the price of beef.

Mr. Jones: "Well, Jack, they say Belleville's going to have a three-quarter, flaring sleeve for men's bathrobes this season."

Mr. Wilson: "Yeah, and have you love the turked effect on men's dinner ensembles. My wife is so envious of mine I may have to let her wear it next time we go out."

No, it hasn't happened here yet. But could it be the time for such things to come? All we have to say is, now is the fashionable time to only socks and bathrobes—to mind up and fight like an undesigned man.

Churchill Recognized

(Windsor Star)

Publication of a Southern U.S. college magazine has been suspended after its student-editor reprimanded because of an article the other day "contrary to well-established policy." The school year sees many such incidents and we're always reminded of the story of Sir Winston Churchill, when he was writing for the "Harrovian" during his boyhood days at Harrow.

For the second or third time, an article of his went beyond the conventionally restrained tone of the school paper and the headmaster summoned Sir Winston to his study. Reprimanding him as follows, or in the words to this effect: "I have observed certain articles in the Harrovian newspaper lately not calculated to increase the respect of the boys for the constituted authority of the school. As articles of this character appear anonymously, I shall not dream of inquiring who wrote them. But if any more of the articles appear in the future, I shall, my painful duty to switch you."

Our Growing Children Deserve A Better Break

It would be laughable if it were not so tragic to hear or read the statements not to say angry, defense of professional and semi-professional (college) football and the high school burlesque of the varsity show, by coaches and their sporting friends, as training in courage, manhood, endurance, self-reliance, sportsmanship, etc. Unfortunately for many growing boys, fathers who are susceptible to the influence of the local sporting gentry are likely to permit and even urge boys in the early 'teens to try to be future stars. I have described in earlier squawks, how repeated slight injuries of joints, muscles, tendons, spine etc. gradually impair or handicap the growing boy's physical well-being so that in too many instances crippling brings him under orthopedic surgery.

Whether high school football is beneficial or harmful to the players is a matter of minor importance. The question is whether it is fair to growing citizens to permit the town's sporting people to take over the high school for a month or two each autumn and call the tune "or principal, teachers and even "class choice" or "sissy" or "mama's boy" whether the luckless kid is possible football material or just a contributor to the fund to provide the trappings for the team.

Sucess is probably the most dangerous experience one ever encounters. Success is what causes the catastrophe of success—meaning over-confidence and lack of putting people up with pride, ruining them with an abundance of good fortune, and making them feel that the power of achievement abides within us themselves. The truth of Biblical dictum that to whom much is given much is required, means not that the measure of success for one person is not necessarily the measure of success for another, but who starts high must go higher. The savage who learns how to read and write does well, but the man born amid cultured surroundings must go far beyond individual success.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DANGER OF SUCCESS

The dictionary defines success as "obtaining she's desired end . . . a favorable termination of affairs" with one's desires."

As a dictionary definition this is satisfactory, but the writer of the dictionary nor any other book can adequately define success. For success varies with the individual. The standard Biblical dictum that to whom much is given much is required, means not that the measure of success for one person is not necessarily the measure of success for another, but who starts high must go higher. The savage who learns how to read and write does well, but the man born amid cultured surroundings must go far beyond individual success.

Yearn for success and try to achieve it. But be careful when success is near you. It can be terrifically dangerous.

THE PACKSACK

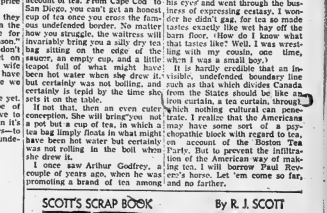
By GREGORY CLARK

Ottawa

If things ever come to a showdown between Canada and the United States as regards the slow economic and political infiltration of Canada's surrender to everything in the south, you can count on me, despite my age and infirmity, to man the barricades with as much machine gun as anybody's.

I'll be on political or economic grounds that my bloodthirsty determination to keep Canada pure is founded. It is the result of a long and varied account of tea. From Cape Cod to San Diego, you can't get a good cup of tea once you cross the famous undefended border. No matter how you struggle, the waitress will invariably bring you a silly dry tea bag sitting on the edge of the saucer, an empty cup, and a little teapot full of what might have been hot water when she drew it, but certainly was not boiling, and certainly is tepid by the time she sets it on the table.

And that, then an even cuter conception. She will bring you not a pot but a cup of tea, in which a tea bag limply floats in what might have been hot water but certainly was not rolling at the boil when she drew it.



I once saw Arthur Godfrey, a couple of years ago, when he was promoting a brand of tea among our coffee-sodden neighbors, do the same thing on TV. He had the stage hand give him a cup and saucer, and a weak and tepid mixture been hot water ten minutes before. Arthur took a tea bag and dunkeed it lightly in the tepid water. "See how easy it is?" he said, and then he got the tea just the strength you like it, by squeezing the bag little or much.

Ugh! Then he drank the stuff because, I suppose, he had not noticed his cyer and went through the business of the TV commercial. I wonder he didn't gag, for tea so made tastes exactly like wet hay off the farm Dear. How did I know what that tastes like? Well, I was wrestling with the problem at one time, when I was a small boy.)

It is inconceivable that an invisible, undefended boundary line such as that which divides Canada from the States should be like an iron curtain, a tea curtain, through which almost natural penetrate. I realize that the Americans may have some sort of a psychological block with regard to tea, on account of the Boston Tea Party, but even that is no justification of the American way of making tea. I will borrow Paul Revere's line: "Let em come so far, and no farther.

Duplessis May Act to Regulate Newsprint Price

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP) — Premier Duplessis has propelled to the forefront of Quebec affairs during a four-day tour of the Lake St. John area three major issues—two of them likely to become political footballs in the next provincial election.

The politically-hot issues are a national health insurance scheme placed before all Canadian provinces at a recent federal-provincial conference and the perennial question of provincial taxation rights.

There is strong feeling in political circles that the reigning Union Nationale government will call an election within six months.

The third major issue concerns reports of an expected increase in the price of newsprint in Canada from the current $22 a ton.

Mr. Duplessis has expressed himself strongly against any increase in the newsprint price and indicated his government may contemplate action soon on the question.

KILLS ALL HOPES

Any hopes that Quebec would join other provinces in implementing a federal government-operated health insurance scheme went down the drain Tuesday when Mr. Duplessis said the province's public charities system was better suited to its people.

His view boils down to this: Quebec has a hospitalization system with religious characteristics different from any other in Canada and therefore no national scheme could ever fit Quebec's needs.

The issue that has been left dangling with a big question mark after four days of speech-making by the 67-year-old premier, is federal-provincial taxation.

Mr. Duplessis, who formerly fired sizzling accusations at the federal government, has adopted a velvet-gloved approach towards Ottawa authorities.

But he has made it clear that behind the velvet glove is the mailed fist of his Union Nationale government's determination of not abdicating a single taxation right.

DROPS BROAD HINT

At Dolbeau Tuesday night Mr. Duplessis indicated his government may contemplate action soon on the question of newsprint prices. Dolbeau is the site of the pulp and paper manufacturing plant of St. Lawrence Corporation, the first company to increase its newsprint price to United States customers by $5 a ton from the current $126 a ton delivered in New York.

In the presence of company officials, Mr. Duplessis tossed a strong hint that newsprint makers had been given close-to-home timber limits to cut down the cost of their operations.

He said the new limits had helped stabilize their industry and diminish their expenses. Therefore, he said, they could afford to sell newsprint to Quebec newspapers at a cheaper price.

Mr. Duplessis did not elaborate on the point, but it appeared clear he was following up a statement he made in Quebec City earlier. At that time, he said newspaper publishers were co-owners of the publicly-owned crown lands. He had urged an agreement between newsprint manufacturers and publishers because common sense has its rights.

Japanese Girl Dies of Effects Of 1945 A-Bomb

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — A 12-year-old girl, who as a baby was only a mile from the centre of the Hiroshima atom bomb blast, died Tuesday of lymphatic leukemia which an American doctor said may have been "a late effect of radiation."

Dr. Robert Holmes, director of the United States atomic bomb casualty commission, said records showed that Teiko Sasaki "was exposed at a distance of 1,852 metres (1,750 yards) and was shielded (from radiation effects of the bomb) only by a wooden frame building."

"It is therefore possible that this case of leukemia is a late effect of radiation."

Japanese newspapers listed it as the 16th death so far this year from the wartime A-bombs.

B.P.W. Club Attends Dinner Meeting

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville held its monthly dinner meeting Monday evening at the YMCA. President, Dorothy Brown, was in the chair and the usual friendly and happy atmosphere pervaded the meeting.

Since the group was to move to another point at 7:45 p.m., some business was taken care of between the courses of a delicious repast.

At the completion of the dinner, there followed an informal quiz with Dorothy Brown, Dorothy Dowdell, Simone McFadden and Vi Burwash. These were the members who attended the provincial conference of Business and Professional Women's Clubs a few weeks ago in London, Ontario, with Dorothy Dowdell as official delegate from the Belleville club.

PANEL TALK

The panel talk acquainted the members of the local club with the discussions and actions taken at the provincial level. At the conference, Elsie Gregory McGill was elected provincial president, and Madeline Roony was chosen vice-president for this district.

It was announced that Mr. Venn, who is with the Travel and Publicity Bureau of Ontario government, will be the guest speaker at the next meeting on Nov. 28.

The club went in a body to King George school to attend a meeting of people working to form an historical society for Hastings county. This proved a most interesting gathering with Judge Smith of Napanee, the distinguished speaker of the evening. By attending the meeting, the Business and Professional Women's Club showed their interest in a worthwhile local endeavor.

Weddings

BAKER—FREE

Sunderland United church was decorated with gladioli for the marriage of Rosalind Margaret Free, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Free of Sunderland, to Mr. Clarence Morgan Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Vincent Baker of Woodville. The Rev. Rowat Madden officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a waltz length, strapless dress and white nylon lace over pleated net, with tiered skirt over net, and taffeta, and a long sleeved jacket. Her veil was of tulle, fingertip length, embroidered with flowers with rhinestone centres. She wore silver brocade shoes, silver earrings and carried a cascade of red garnet roses, collared with "white gladioli florets.

Miss Elizabeth Free was maid of honor for her sister, and wore a strapless waltz length dress in pastel green with short jacket of nylon lace and net. She carried a cascade of chrysanthemums colored with gladioli florets.

The bridesmaids were Misses Darlene Baker, sister of the groom, Donna and Marjorie Ray, cousins of the bride, attired in mauve, blue and pink chiffon taffeta. They all wore elbow length mitts, headbands and matching linen aprons.

The bridegroom was attended by his cousin, Mr. Ralph Evans of Claremont. The ushers were Marlene Grant Jones, Auburn, James Ray and Barry Ray of Belleville.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Gordon Pinkham and Mrs. Ralph Pinkham sang "The Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register "Because." The wedding music was a duet beautifully played by Miss Elizabeth Oliver organist and Mrs. Armour Martin, pianist.

The reception was held in the church assembly room, where the bride's mother received wearing a navy blue lace dress and navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a dusty rose dress, yellow rose corsage and black accessories.

About one hundred guests from California, Ohio, Belleville, Meaford, Toronto, Dundas, Lindsay, Stouffville, Woodville, Ashburn, Claremont and Sunderland sat down to a turkey dinner served by the W.A.

The happy couple left for a trip to Lake Placid, New York City, and home by Pennsylvania. For travelling the bride wore a turquoise blue crystalette dress with jacket and white accessories.

The couple will make their home in Stouffville.

India's Y.F.C. Leader Gives Dynamic Talk

Rev. Cyril Thomson, dynamic Church of England Youth for Christ leader from India, spoke on behalf of the local YFC of this city, to an interested group of people, at the First Pentecostal church, Saturday evening.

Mr. Jim Blackwood of Bowmanville, gave an address of welcome after which he introduced the song leader, Mr. Ernie Belch, who led the congregation in a medley of well-known hymns.

A choir of young people from many denominations opened with their theme song "Sing While the Day is Bright." Following this they repeated and sang together John 3:16; "For God so Loved the World," "Jesus Saves" and "I Will Sing the Wondrous Story."

Miss Ei nor Bessinger sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer".

Just before the message, Mr. Darlene Baker, sister of the groom, Donna and Marjorie Ray, cousins of the bride, attired in mauve, blue and pink chiffon taffeta. They all wore elbow length mitts, headbands and matching linen aphon.

The bridegroom was attended by his cousin, Mr. Ralph Evans of Claremont. The ushers were Marlene Grant Jones, Auburn, James Ray and Barry Ray of Belleville.

'Eagle Banding' by Word, Color Films Told at Collegiate

Belleville, last night, had a chance to look at a man whose work truly reaches soaring heights. Charles L. Broley, dubbed the "Eagle Man" by newspapers across the continent, spread his life banding bald eagles for posterity. Last night he came here, to recount his experiences from the stage of the Belleville Collegiate's auditorium under the auspices of the Quinte Field Naturalists Club.

For Mr. Broley, however, this was not his only link with this city. A banker, now retired, his first glimpse of a real eagle in full flight was here in Belleville, 55 years ago. He was a bank clerk with the old Merchants Bank on Pinnacle Street, here at the time, and the bird was flying over the Post Office, he recalled.

FILM SHOWN

First-hand proof of the excitement of the job being done by Mr. Broley was provided last night's audience by the showing of two films as part of his lecture. Depicting the annual off-island running commentary of the "Eagle Man" himself, looking at the films it was evident one needs a dab of adventure in one's make-up for such a job.

Mr. Broley does most of his work in the winter months in Florida and follows his eagles north in summer to continue his job, working out on his home in Leeds County. Mr. Broley is positive the flight of the eagles in summer extends quite a distance north of here.

"In my opinion, many of these Florida eagles go right up into the sub-Arctic to spend the long summer days," he said.

However, nowadays, the pattern of his work also is laced with difficulties.

In his time he has banded some 1,200 eagles, but has had 120 reported as being fought, which is too high a percentage, he thinks. Some 90 of these have been shot by hunters, he complains.

Others have turned up in unexpected places like the one reported in a zoo in Fort Myers.

SHARP INROADS

Cutting down of trees and the encroachment of housing schemes into what once was wild country, have made sharp inroads into the southern nesting places of the eagle. Also the fact that an eagle nest may be situated near a new housing scheme makes bird used to humans with the result it loses some of its wariness and may fall easy prey to the guns of hunters.

From January through to March the "Eagle Man" is busy in the south, finding nests, patiently waiting for the adults to take time out, climbing high to the nests when they do and slipping bands onto the legs of the young nestlings.

BANDED NESTLINGS

Nestlings are banded during the first three to seven weeks of their lives. At the age of two weeks he points out their talons are too slim to hold the bands on their legs. The young eagle grows rapidly and starts flying when it is 12 weeks old.

The nests are huge structures being nine feet in diameter and from eight feet to eighteen feet in depth depending on the number of years the nest has been used. Small sticks are used to build the body of the nest and these are so cunningly put together that the bird bander can climb into it and walk around the top in safety.

The young birds have insatiable appetites and grow rapidly as a result. There are usually two in a nest—a female, always the larger—and the male who always comes off second best in the sharing of food. The female is also much more active and starts practising flying in the nest as soon as the wing feathers have matured.

Fish forms eighty per cent of the food of eagles with the balance being made up of rats rabbits, snakes and the odd unwary duck. Some turtles are consumed especially in Ontario.

Mr. Broley stated that the Bald Eagle is barely managing to hold its own in numbers and that the banding he is doing is of great assistance in learning more about the life habits and migration routes of this noble bird.

A book describing the career of Mr. Broley has been written by Mrs. Broley. It is entitled "The Eagle Man" and is available at the Quinte Book Store.

Hair Designer Predicts Return Of Long Tresses

LONDON (Reuters)—"Short hair with the long hair attitude" is the keynote of winter styles now being launched by Riche, one of London's leading hairdressers.

Riche, who claims to have forecast correctly six years ago women's return to short hair, now predicts "an immediate return to length—in fact, 36 inches long."

This he readily admits only one woman in 10,000 can grow naturally.

Riche has set out to show "the other 9,999 women" how to achieve the same effects and keep their short hair.

His solution is simple—or looks it. It is the bottleneck line in which tresses are piled up, eastern fashion—in keeping with the season's trend towards the East in dresses and hats—on the crown of the head in a sort of fat pancake, or bottleneck.

Drawing his inspiration from the cork of a champagne bottle, M. Riche produces an upward flowing movement directed to the crown of the head and leaving the nape clear of hair.

A variety of fringes, with varying lengths—of from one inch to 1½ inches, either curled or straight, frame the face.

The long hair silhouette is easily achieved by additions which can be so naturally applied that it is impossible to tell that they are additions. To prove his argument, Riche at his recent presentation of winter hair fashions dressed the heads of two girls with identical bottleneck line effects. One had long hair and the other short.

Few in the room guessed correctly which was which.

Triennial Conference Talk Given at U.W.C.

On Thursday evening the October meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and district was held at the home of Mrs. J. E. Pugh, 37 Dunbar street, with 30 members present.

The president Mrs. P. T. Seibert, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. J. E. McArthur gave a brief outline of the organization, constitution, and development of the Canadian Federation of University Women.

Mrs. D. L. MacKinnon's name will be sent in to head office as a nomination from the club for provincial director for Ontario.

A donation of $50 will be forwarded to assist a needy European student.

Programs for future meetings were outlined by Mrs. L. Langfelds, assistant program convener. Miss Cork, a psychiatric social worker from Toronto, will be guest speaker at the November meeting which will be held at Albert College.

Miss W. Kincade relayed greetings in the club from Dr. Grenkie, University of Edinburgh.

TRIENNIAL CONFERENCE

Miss Gloriana Martineau, Wellington, and Miss Laura Lee, Stirling, addressed the members on the Thirteenth Triennial Conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women held at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, which they had attended August 16 to 20.

The theme of the conference was "Constants and Variables, Our Changing Society." Discussions were held on how changes in the society affect individual and social values; how social trends are influenced in order to retain and strengthen the fundamental values of the society; the challenge to CFUW and the responsibility of individual educated women.

EQUAL PAY—EQUAL WORK

The federal government will be urged by CFUW to take steps to implement equal pay for equal work. It was also recommended that the Canadian government be represented on the committee on the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women.

Miss Martineau also commented on the review given by Jacob Penk Gowan, an Edmonton playwright, on Edmonton's history and development.

Art exhibits and entries were submitted by 17 clubs within the federation, and 90 to 100 pictures were on display while the conference was in session.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

LOOK YOUR BEST — ALWAYS!

The smart bride serves breakfast "in style"; look like a pretty picture he can carry in his mind all day long.

The pursuit of beauty should never be a "sometime thing". A woman should always put her best foot forward. This was brought home to us rather strongly the other day while chatting over the lunch table with a very attractive and popular girl. She was recounting an experience she'd had the evening before. It had been puzzling the proverbial "cats and dogs" when she left the office and all she wanted to do was to get home, and as fast as possible. So-o-o, as she described the incident herself, "I put on an old raincoat I had in my locker, grabbed a tired looking umbrella and started off. One of the gals, knowing how careful I always am about make-up, hollered, "Hey, Ruth, you could use some lipstick." I laughed and said, "to heck with that, I'm sure not going to meet my fate on a night like this!" And off I went—hoping I'd find a cab that would at least take me to the subway station. Well, to make a long story short, I stood on the corner for about five minutes and, finally, dripping wet, I decided to hoof it to the subway. I turned and—nearly dropped dead! For whom did I bump into but the most attractive man I met on my summer vacation. Honestly, it was awful. In a split second I saw myself as he must have seen me at that moment. In my anxiety to get away from him, I'm afraid I was almost rude, and something tells me I'll never see him again."

In this case, it's quite possible that this attractive girl will see him again because, after all, no one looks very devastating when dripping wet, makeup or no makeup, and her "hero" was probably soaking himself. But the episode does stress the point that one never does know just when she will run into whom. And should always, therefore, be prepared.

Make it a point never to step out of the house, even to run for groceries, unless every hair is in place, your clothes, no matter how simple, immaculately clean, and your make-up perfect—for in occasion. Looked attractive is not only an art; it's a habit. And, as with all other good habits, if you once start "sliding", even the tiniest bit, it won't be long before you're on the downward path. Don't even permit yourself to slump mentally or physically when you're alone or you're apt to let some of this attitude carry over to your life when you mingle with others.

Start the day off right. Don't figure that breakfast "doesn't count" when it comes to nourishment. It doesn't matter whether you're single or married. If the former is the habit of slighing done to breakfast with your hair in pincurls and wearing a sloppy looking robe and not offend anyone's sense of good grooming, but it's certainly not good for your own morale. And, if you're married, it will be most disillusioning to the man across the table. After all, he married you because he thought you were attractive. Remember? So why start his day off with a picture of you that's anything but pretty? He's liable to remember it all day long. And have plenty of contrast around the office to bring that picture into sharper, clearer view! Something to think about, eh?

Mother's Helper

EVEN WHEN your girl is over five, she may still object strenuously to a shampoo. When she's undressed for her bath, have her fix that on her back in the empty tub. Put a hot water bottle half full of warm water under her tilted-back head—or a pillow. A bit harder on you, but easier than struggles and screams!

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A DOSE OF SPECIAL CONSIDERATION MIGHT BE THE CURE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

What does a wife do with a sensitive, pouting, moody husband who is too proud to apologize when he is wrong and who is making himself, as well as his family, miserable?

This has been our "off" year. I had a baby, he started a new business. Tension has been everywhere. In the entire year, he has asked me just once to go out by ourselves. Otherwise, we go when friends invite us; that's all.

When I try to talk problems over, he refuses to both end up mad and say things we shouldn't. I can't bring up any question about anything without him saying I'm "arguing." Everything I do seems to be wrong. I keep saying I'm sorry, until I'm tired of trying to keep him pacified. We are living completely apart under the same roof. When I ask him to do anything as a family, he's too busy. Yet he can always find time for his pleasures. That hurts. He stays up late and sleeps late. I have to have my sleep in order to be able to get up with the children.

He has told me he doesn't care any more, yet for the sake of our children we go on. He says I give them all my attention. I truly don't know whether he does care or doesn't; whether he's too proud, or really indifferent. I do know I'm miserable and want things right. I try to plan things to keep me busy, but it doesn't compensate for his lack of attention.

What can I do? — Mrs. W.

Dear Mrs. W.:

The sentence in your letter that catches my eye most vividly is this one in which you say your husband complains that you give your children all your attention. Well, do you?

Maybe it isn't true. Maybe your husband just thought that one up for lack of any other specific complaint. But I suggest that you give it some careful and very honest thought before dismissing it as something he dreamed up. Because if it does just happen to be true, it might be the basic cause of much of your trouble.

Of course, as you say, the two of you have had an exceptional year, with a new baby and a new business coming along together. But these are things that concern you both, and any worries and difficulties that accompanied them should have been handled, in so far as possible, as mutual problems. Such handling should bring a husband and wife closer together, not develop friction between them, not put them at odds with each other.

Since you seem to find it hard to put a finger on the specific sore spot in this situation, I suggest that you try, first, a program of special attention to your husband.

Just suppose that, as a day of departure, that he really does feel that the children come first, and that he's neglected. Give him a dose of extra consideration, as an experiment.

If he doesn't ask you to go out with him, then ask him to go out with you, having first planned something interesting to do, either with friends or by yourselves. Have his favorite foods for dinner, and make him feel like a guest and welcomed when he gets home. It would be unusual for a man not to care about a wife who shows, in quiet, thoughtful ways like these, that she cares about him.

All right, so it's one-sided at first. But somebody has to start making peace and bringing happiness to the home, so why, not be the one to do it? It may well pay off in the end by saving your marriage the harmony it must once have had.

If it doesn't let me know, and I'll make further suggestions.

A Light Elegant Repast For Party Promoters

By Mary Moore

When some of you party-giving girls write and pay me back-handed compliments with reluctant praise of my economy hints for budgeters—I love it. I know what you are really after—you want glamor dishes to raise the eyebrows of your friendly-rival-guests.

I have a dish to suggest to you ambitious and independent girls that you can make ahead of time and serve without a flurry or a worry.

It is rich. It is fairly expensive. It is versatile. French hostesses would take a dish like this and feature it a dozen different ways.

I'll give you the method of making it and let some of the ways you may vary your manner of serving it.

FRENCH CREAMED SWEETBREADS AND CHICKEN WITH MUSHROOMS

Heat together in top of double boiler 1 cup each table cream and whole milk. Melt 1-3 cup butter and stir into it exactly 4 level measuring tablespoons flour. When blended, stir the hot milk into this butter-flour mixture and return all to double boiler, stirring until thick. Now to this rich cream sauce you add the solid ingredients: 1 lb. calves' sweetbreads which you have parboiled for ten minutes in boiling salted water to which you have added 1 tablespoon vinegar. These are chilled in cold water when cooked and cut into bite sizes. Add the cream sauce add also 1 10-oz. can button mushrooms which have been well-drained. (You should save the liquid to add to the soup, at another meal.) Add also 1 5-oz. tin pure canned chicken or 2-3 cup cold diced cooked chicken. Heat through. Salt is to be needed unless-you care to add it and a little monosodium glutamate.

Variations—(1) Serve in individual patty shells. (2) Serve over split Tea Biscuits Supreme. (3) Serve from entree dish, sides of which are lined with split Tea Biscuits Supreme. (4) Pour into Vol-au-Vent which as you may know is a large-sized French pastry patty which some bakeries can and will make for you—if you cannot manage French pastry yourself. This latter way is the one French hostesses often use.

For good measure I'll run through, for the umpteenth time, the recipe for

TEA BISCUITS SUPREME

Stir all-purpose flour and measure 2 cups into the sifter over mixing bowl. Add to flour in sifter 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon each cream of tartar and salt, 2 teaspoons sugar. Sift into bowl. Cut into this dry mix with pastry blender 1-2 cup butter or fat, cup each butter and shortening—until it is like fine crumbs. Quickly stir in 3-3 cup solid milk. Put out gently on floured board to 1-2 or 3-4 inch thickness. Cut out with 2-inch floured cutter and bake on ungreased baking - sheet at 450 deg. Fahr. about ten minutes. Best tea biscuits I know, bar none.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CHRISTMAS IS COMING . . . AND SO ARE QUESTIONS ABOUT CHRISTMAS CARDS!

Suddenly, Christmas is just around the corner . . . and suddenly questions about Christmas cards begin to arrive in my mailbag. The question that arrived first today is the question that is the question that is without doubt the most important question concerning the ordering of imprinted Christmas cards. And these are the days when the early birds" are well-set for ordering their cards to be imprinted.

Here is that so-important question about the correct form of name is to be imprinted:

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am about to order Christmas cards for my husband and me. This year, for the first time in the twelve years we've been married, we decided to have our names imprinted on our cards. We both like certain kinds of cards that really look like Christmas cards, and yesterday I went to the the stationery department of one of our local stores to look at the sample card. But I was completely confused when I noticed that some of these samples showed the names imprinted "Mr. and Mrs. John Brown," some "John and Mary Brown," and some "Mary and John Brown." I didn't know which to order, so I didn't order. So I decided to write to you (you've cleared up quite a few questions for me before). So, Mrs. Beeckman . . . when I go back what form of name should I order? And will you please explain why?

— "Mary Reader"

L. Mary and John Reader is the correct form of name to order.

Why? Your names will undoubtedly be imprinted under the printed message on the cards. This means that your names are the signature to the message. Your informal names are your signature. Example:

Christmas Greetings . . . and Best wishes for a Happy New Year

Mary and John Reader

2. "Mr. and Mrs. John Reader" is absolutely incorrect as the form of name to have imprinted at the end of the printed message.

Why? Because formal names are not a signature.

Also: You and your husband want your Christmas cards to be informal . . . don't you? You both want them to be personal, friendly greetings from friend to friend . . . don't you? If you want them to have this informal personality, then of course you wouldn't use your formal names.

That makes sense . . . doesn't it? "Mary and John Reader . . . not "John and Mary Reader."

Why? Because when the names are imprinted on cards, the wife's name, courteously, comes first.

Citizenship Requirements Topic at W.I.

The October meeting of the Uhiondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Striker, 5th concession of Sidney, with 20 members and seven visitors present.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. George Striker, secretary-treasurer.

Thank-you notes were sent from Russell Wannamaker and Belleville Shrine Club for free lunch given to children at Belleville fair.

Letter of appeal from Trenton Hospital for fruits, canned goods, and vegetables was filled and delivered.

The delegates to Area convention were Mrs. Bert Bush and Mrs. Gerald Herrington. It was decided that the secretary buy a new brief case.

Mrs. Ross Fleming, convener for the meeting opened her program with a reading "The Daily Round" by Mrs. Bert Bush; violin selections by Mrs. Henley were much enjoyed, "Auld Lang Syne" and "Darling Nellie Gray". Mrs. George Pollard gave several quotations from her scrap book.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Fleming introduced Arthur Duncan from Batawa, who was guest speaker for the evening. His topic was "Requirements of a Good Citizen."

Mr. Duncan's opening remarks were with warning of danger of losing Canadian cultures to others, "a Canadian can travel anywhere if he has his proper passport. The new citizens of Canada (Czecho-Slovakian) have been here for five years and their thought of being judged is summed up in these few words, 'If I get through this I'll be a Canadian, a good citizen of today and to-morrow'." He spoke of immigration of "DPs" not as displaced persons but as delayed pioneers. "They look for examples to follow and pattern their life, as we as Canadians should set good examples, we have the big part to play."

Mr. Duncan quoted a fitting poem "With Good People Like You" which closed his speech.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Morley Sine who quoted fitting words "Let us show people we are proud of our citizenship".

A gift was presented Mr. Duncan for his trouble.

The November meeting will be held at home of Mrs. Harold Frost, 5th concession of Sidney. There will be a panel discussion on Area convention.

Refreshments were served.

Women's Institute

CANNIFTON-CORBYVILLE WI

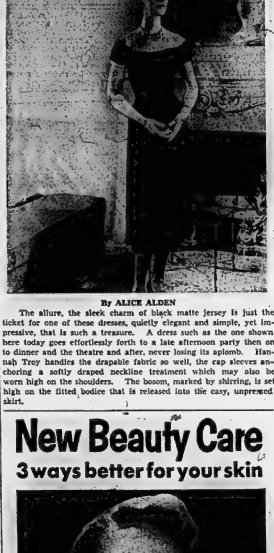
On Monday last, the Canniflon and Corbyville WI met for its October meeting in the form of a masquerade with almost everyone in Hallowe'en costume. They marched around the hall to the music provided by Mrs. E. Philip.

First prize went to Mrs. B. Lyons, second to Mrs. K. Windsor and Mrs. Mildred McPherson.

With the president, Mrs. A. Demille in the chair the business meeting was carried on in the usual manner with 32 present.

Three members volunteered to collect for the Blind, and an invitation from the Quinte Institute was read and accepted to attend their next meeting which is to be held at the L.O.L. hall on Church Street.

Card and flower reports were given by Mrs. K. Windsor.



The directors, Mrs. M. Milton, Mrs. E. Stewart and Mrs. H. Shoney presided over the program and everyone joined in a singsong, followed by a duet by Mrs. M. Palmer and Mrs. A. Demille, Beverley Cook and Marlene Latchford, also sang a duet.

Several contests created much interest.

Solos by Myrna Milton and Marlene Latchford were much enjoyed.

Following the National Anthem the lunch committee served tea, sandwiches and cake and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Effortless Elegance

By ALICE ALDEN

The allure, the sleek charm of black matte jersey is just the ticket for one of these dresses, quietly elegant and simple, yet impressive, that is such a treasure. A dress such as the one shown here today goes effortlessly forth to a late afternoon party then on to dinner and the theatre and after, never losing its aplomb. Hannah Troy handles the drapable fabric so well, the cap sleeves anchoring a softly draped neckline treatment which may also be worn high on the shoulders. The bosom, marked by shirring, is set high on the fitted bodice that is released into the easy, unpressed skirt.

Women's Activities

WHITE'S W. A.

WHITE DISTRICT — Mrs. Jack Glydon was hostess to the ladies of White's Woman's Association on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance of members present.

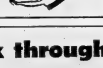
The president, Mrs. Casey Ketchenson, presided and opened the meeting. It was decided to choose verses for the roll call for the December meeting containing either the world 'Jesus' or 'Christ'. Plans were made for the bazaar at White's Church on November 17th, and it was decided to advertise it over the radio, and in the coming events of The Courier Advocate and The Ontario Intelligencer, also in a few churches.

The ladies will meet for an all day session to clean the church on Thursday, November 10th.

The devotional service was taken by Mrs. William Yateman with all repeating The Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Lorne Hunt read Psalm 96. Readings, "Thoughts", and "You Can't Live Wrong and Feel Happy", the latter written by Padre Young, were read by Mrs. Ernest Curtis, and Mrs. Yateman.

Mrs. Yateman closed the worship service.

A jar of cookies, donated by Mrs. Fletcher Ketchenson was sold to Mrs. Albert Hockaday for $1. Mrs. Ghent sold buns and Mrs. Yateman sold doughnuts to bring in their tenth money. Ms. Glydon took orders for fancy wash cloths for her talent money.



Articles for the bazaar were displayed.

The hostess served refreshments and all enjoyed a social time.

Trenton Airmen Study Facilities In Far North

TRENTON — An RCAF Otter of Trenton Search and Rescue Unit piloted by Flying Officer George Thomas and carrying Group Captain J. G. Diamond and Group Captain A. U. Houle, as official RCAF representatives, returned to Trenton Sunday after completing a visit to the eastern shores of Hudson Bay and the James Bay area in connection with an air survey of seaplane, land and radio facilities of those northern waters.

Visiting Moose Factory, Rupert House and Fort George the Air Force representatives discussed, among other matters, availability of landing, radio and general servicing facilities along the extensive Hudson Bay east coast, which falls within the jurisdictional area covered by the Trenton Search and Rescue Co-ordination Centre.

This visit is one made regularly in conjunction with search and rescue operations.

Airmen Rescued After Catamaran Tipped by Wind

TRENTON — Two airmen from RCAF Station Trenton received a ducking Sunday night when their 20-foot catamaran tipped over about half a mile from shore, two miles west of the Air Force Station.

Sergeant Ken Hughes of Carrying Place Road and Corporal Ken Wilde, corner of Marmora St. and West St., in Trenton, were thrown from their boat when a sudden gust of wind tipped it over.

Wet and cold, they hung desperately to their capsized craft for more than 20 minutes when they were sighted by an Air Force rescue launch returning from an air firing range. The launch, captained by Flight Sergeant Orville Begley, took the two men aboard and towed the catamaran to the Air Force Station. Crew of the rescue launch were Corporal Ralph Killoran and Corporal McGrath.

Coastal Storm Damages Roads, Blocks Railways

VANCOUVER (CP)—Work crews today began repairing roads, rails and bridges washed out in British Columbia's first big coastal storm of the winter.

Two days of heavy rain and gale-force winds ended Tuesday after causing thousands of dollars damage.

Thirty persons spent the night in a stranded Canadian Pacific Railway train 110 miles east of here on the Kettle valley line which crosses the southern part of the province to Medicine Hat, Alta.

The passengers will be taken out today, the CPR said. The train was trapped when rain carved out a 150-foot cavern 60 feet below the normal track level.

M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, was one of the persons aboard. He had to abandon plans to speak at Hope, 90 miles east of Vancouver, when a helicopter was unable to fly him out.

Canadian National lines, blocked by slides near Boston Bar, 100 miles northeast of Vancouver, were cleared late Tuesday.

VOTE-GETTING GIMMICK

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—A new giveaway program makes its debut at the polls next election. Each voter here will receive a ticket entitling him to a chance on a 1956 automobile. Spokesmen for both the Republican and Democratic parties approved the plan in the hope of getting out more votes.

Tossed Pykerete Into Churchill's Tub Says Earl

OTTAWA (CP) — Admiral Earl Mountbatten Tuesday recalled how he tossed the ingredient for "Habakuk" into the bathtub beside Sir Winston Churchill.

Habakuk was the secret Second World War scheme for building huge floating airfields from which to fly air cover for the invasion of France.

The ingredient was "pykerete," a mixture of pulp and sawdust but bf which the floating bases were to have been built in Newfoundland. It was named after a man named Pyke on Mountbatten's staff who discovered it.

Earl Mountbatten, then chief of British combined operations and now first sea lord and chief of naval staff, related to the Canadian Club how he first presented the scheme to Churchill and later to the 1943 Quebec conference.

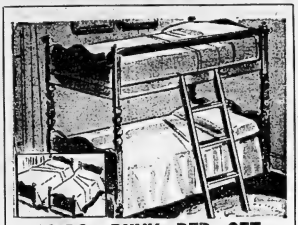
TOOK TO CHEQUERS

He said he took a block of pykerete in a thermost jar to Chequers, Churchill's country home. He was told by the butler that the prime minister was in his bath. "Good, that's just where I want to see him," Mountbatten recalled saying to the butler.

"Dickie, what the hell do you want?" he quoted Churchill as saying when he appeared in the bathroom.

Mountbatten popped the block of pykerete into Churchill's steaming hot bath. It floated and it didn't melt.

"The prime minister was absolutely delighted," Mountbatten said.



The scheme never bore fruit, he said, because of the increasing production of long-range aircraft, the Azores provided the needed field in the Atlantic and the United States was building large numbers of aircraft carriers for use in the Pacific.

South Viet Nam Named Republic, Diem President

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Ngo Dinh Diem today solemnly proclaimed South Viet Nam a republic, and became its first president.

Diem, who came to power in this Indochina state in the midst of chaos and despair last year, won 98.2 per cent of the vote in a referendum Sunday. The action deposed ex-emperor Bao Dai and made Diem the new chief of state.

A constitution is scheduled to be adopted next month, and soon after a general election will name the first legislature.

Despite opposition, Diem has pacified the south, unified the army and put the country on the road to popular government.

"In the darkest hours of our history our people have always joined together and now in a moment of supreme unity we have broken the bands of iron and fire which encircled us and are taking the path towards independence and liberty," he said today.

Viet Nam still faces an uncertain future, however, because it is divided into north and south at the 17th parallel, a demarcation line agreed upon by the big powers at the Geneva armistice conference last year. The Communist-led Vietminh controls the north.

Woman Held For 'Seizing' 3-Day-Old Girl

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A 21-year-old woman has been arrested on a charge of "illegally seizing" a three-day-old girl from her crib in a hospital.

The woman, Jacqueline Wright, denied to police that she had taken the baby from the hospital, and insisted it was her child. She told police she gave birth to the baby Sunday and was attended by a North Carolina midwife.

The infant, Roslyn Hockaday, was taken from her crib in Norfolk General Hospital Monday afternoon. Acting on a telephone tip Tuesday, police found an infant in the Wright apartment. It was quickly identified as the Hockaday child and returned to the hospital unharmed.

Moroccans Happy Pasha El Glaoui Reverses Self

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters) — Moroccan nationalists danced in the streets throughout the country today after hearing the news that El Glaoui, pasha of Marrakesh, has reversed himself to demand the return of Ben Youssef, deposed as sultan two years ago.

The hard-bitten pasha has been considered a backer of diehard French settlers. His decision brought him squarely into the Moroccan nationalists' camp.

The chairman of the "French Presence"—right - wing settlers' movement which has fought the ex-sultan's return from exile — declared: "I have no doubt that Ben Youssef will return immediately."

El Glaoui's reversal will strengthen the extreme Istiqlal (independence) movement, which Tuesday refused an invitation to take part in the first representative Moroccan government now in the process of being formed.

El Glaoui, 83-year-old leader of thousands of South Moroccan tribesmen, surprised French and Moroccan officials alike by his change of mind. He was the undisputed leader of Moroccan traditionalists who brought about Ben Youssef's deposal and exile to Madagascar for nationalist sympathies.

Si Fatmi Benslimane, the premier-designate, today continued his search for a cabinet in talks with political personalities. The boycott of the Istiqlal made the talks of the non-pro nationalist more difficult. He made an announcement on the government be...Monday.

Egyptian Force Raids Israeli Post, One Killed

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — One Israeli policeman was killed, three were wounded and two were kidnapped when an Egyptian force raided an Israeli police post at Beeroteayim in the El Auja demilitarized zone, a foreign ministry spokesman stated here today.

An Israeli military spokesman said the Egyptians forced the Israeli police to withdraw from the post.

This was the second incident in 24 hours in the El Auja zone, in the Negev desert area, Tuesday. Israel said Egyptians had fired on one of their patrols.

Israel has lodged a complaint against the latest attack with the UN truce supervisory commission, a commission spokesman said here.

On the Syrian border, a milk truck from the Israeli settlement of Ein Gev was fired on by Syrian positions, the Israeli spokesman said. There were no casualties.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1955

Record Tourist Year

Every Province Reports Bigger Stream of Traffic With Maritimes Heading List

OTTAWA (CP)—It isn't over yet but by all yardsticks 1955 looks like a record tourist year for Canada.

Almost every province reports a bigger stream of tourist traffic than in 1954 which itself was only slightly behind the record year of 1953. Final figures are expected to set records in the number of tourists and the money they spent in the playgrounds of Canada, a national take that has been running around $600,000,000 a year.

Influx of United States tourists, biggest providers of the tourist dollar, was just as heavy this year if not heavier than in the past. And a number of provinces, particularly in the Maritimes and in the West, this year noted a bigger-than-usual percentage of Canadian visitors who apparently heeded a new campaign to "See Canada First."

DOMESTIC TRADE UP

The foreign tourist trade is expected to more or less exceed the record $302,000,000 in 1953. Though no accurate and separate figures are kept on the domestic tourist trade it is expected this year to go beyond the 1954 estimate of $300,000,000.

Federal officials see a number of reasons for the good year. First, the weather was kind, making up for the summer rain in most areas in 1954. Then, a drive by various tourist-minded organizations for more Canadian business apparently got some results.

In the West, Alberta and Saskatchewan provided added attractions this year with golden jubilee celebrations marking their 50th year as Canadian provinces. These attracted many former residents.

D. Leo Dolan, head of the Canadian government travel bureau and Canada's No. 1 tourist booster, summed it up when he said 1955 looks like this country's finest tourist year. It began well with winter-month resorts, particularly in Quebec, filled to capacity. The summer season, with good weather, was ideal in most areas, if anything perhaps a little too hot.

MORE ENTER BY CAR

Foreign car entries in Canada at 2,192,448 for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30 were ahead of the nine-month record of 2,160,198 cars in 1953. In September alone the influx of foreign cars totalled 309,446, seven per cent above the record of September, 1953. The fall stream of hunters that annually invades Canada's natural hunting grounds has yet to be counted.

It is expected travel out of Canada will also show an increase this year. But with stepped-up travel by Canadians in their own country the deficit of Canadian spending at home compared with Canadian spending abroad isn't expected to go up very much. Last year Canadians were estimated to have spent $200,000,000 abroad, mostly in the U.S., about $80,000,000 more than Canadian tourists spent seeing their own country.

Still greater efforts are to be made to get a bigger share of the Canadian tourist dollar. The Canadian Tourist Association has set up a committee to study ways of getting the "See Canada First" message home more solidly.

The same theme will likely be on the agenda of the annual national tourist conference here late next month which will be attended by federal and provincial tourist officials.

PROVINCIAL REVIEW

Here is the tentative 1955 tourist picture by provinces:

Newfoundland, because of inadequate accommodation and lack of good roads, is not yet encouraging tourists. But this year it had more inquiries than ever. Progress is being made with tourist-catering establishments. At present most of the province's tourist dollars come from passengers, hunters and yachtsmen but no estimate of the amount is available.

Prince Edward Island estimates it will have catered to 100,000 tourists by the end of the season and its tourist trade will be worth $5,500,000. Last year the province had 90,000 visitors and trade valued at $4,500,000.

Nova Scotia anticipates a 10- to 15-per-cent increase in 1955 vehicular traffic which in 1954 totalled 1,951 tourist cars. An appreciable rise is "expected" over 1954's estimated tourist trade total of $44,000,000. Nova Scotia officials report a sharp increase in the number of visiting Ontario autos.

New Brunswick, whose tourist trade totalled $30,000,000 to $35,000,000 last year, expects as much if not more in 1955. Travel in the first eight months was five per cent ahead of last year when an estimated 235,000 tourist cars averaging three persons a car crossed into the province. New Brunswick also reported more Canadian cars in evidence this year.

Quebec provincial officials have no figures at this date. But federal authorities said a massive tourist year is indicated for the province's resorts and winter and summer playgrounds which last year took in an estimated $145,000,000. Trade this year is expected to top that figure.

Ontario's total estimated tourist trade has been running around $250,000,000 a year for the last three or four years, the largest in Canada. The province reports that 1955 looks like "another very good year." For the first eight months 1,174,938 tourist cars were reported in the province, compared with 1,134,159 in the same period of 1954 and the previous record of 1,158,199 in the first eight months of 1953.

Manitoba estimates 1,000,000 tourists and trade worth $30,000,000 for 1955. The province had a record last year with 882,218 tourists and a take worth $26,675,000. The influx in that year was divided between 523,000 U.S. tourists and 369,000 Canadians from other provinces. Officials expect about the same ratio this year.

Saskatchewan expects increased 1955 tourist traffic on the basis of the attractions of its golden jubilee. Up to the end of August, Saskatchewan-U.S. border points reported 13,730 U.S. cars entering for "long-term visits." This was a decrease over last year but officials said more American visitors entered the province through Manitoba, taking advantage of new links in the trans-Canada highway. On the full year, Saskatchewan expects tourists to spend $12,000,000, about $2,000,000 more than last year. Saskatchewan is another province reporting more Canadian tourists.

Alberta last year had a record tourist revenue of some $42,000,000 and expects an increase this year with the take possibly reaching $50,000,000 on the strength of jubilee celebrations. Tourist cars entering from the U.S. were double last year's volume for the eight-month period.

British Columbia expects a sure record tourist year with more than 1,000,000 visitors. The high year up to now was 1953 when approximately 1,000,000 tourists spent an estimated $70,000,000. Influx of U.S. tourists increased 3.5 per cent in the first eight months compared with 1954, with some 210,000 cars arriving up to the end of August.

STMBLED INTO CAR

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — An 80-year-old man was killed Tuesday when he apparently stumbled into the path of a car driven by Gus Zernial, outfielder for Kansas City Athletics. Police quoted Zernial as saying Martin Heinlein stumbled from the curb into the path of his car. Zernial was not held.

Youth Given Jail Term For Stamping Feet

WHITBY (CP) — A 16-year-old youth was sentenced Tuesday to ten days in jail for stamping his feet in court.

Ronald McKinnon of Pickering was charged with creating the disturbance after he gave testimony in an assault case. Magistrate J. T. Shillington had ordered that McKinnon be removed when he did not remain quiet after several warnings. As he was being ushered from the court, McKinnon stamped his feet.

McKinnon told the magistrate: "I didn't realize I was stamping my feet. I came here to hear justice done, not to get railroaded myself."

Magistrate Shillington replied: "I can imagine you coming to court to see justice done."

Eight other teen-agers were ejected from the court for making a noise and laughing. McKinnon testified in defence of Laverne Kellogg, 20, of Petawawa, and Neil Green, 21, of Ajax, both charged with assault occasioning bodily harm.

Condemning "cowardly attacks made by gangs of young ruffians," Magistrate Shillington sentenced Kellogg to one year definite and two years indefinite, and sentenced Green to six months definite and one year less a day indefinite.

The assault charge arose from an attack October 8 at Ajax on Joseph Kingsley, 24, of Orangeville.

U.S. Hog Support Program May Aid Canadian Market

TORONTO (CP)—An $85,000,000 pork support program announced Tuesday by the United States government to aid the sagging hog market is not expected to affect seriously the Canadian market.

Authorities in the business said Tuesday the purchase would, if anything, strengthen the Canadian market. American hog prices Tuesday fell to their lowest point in 13 years.

An official of the National Packers Council said if U.S. prices continued to drop, Canadian producers would be unable to compete. The $,000 Canadian hogs being sold weekly in the U.S. would have to be pushed on to the local market, thereby jeopardizing prices here.

Authorities agree that Canadian consumption, along with exports to the U.S., are sufficient to maintain prices well above the floor price of $23 for 100 pounds dressed weight. Nearly 120,000 hogs were marketed in Canada last week.

Canadian price for hogs is about 25 per cent higher than the American price.

Royal Commission Is Told Aid to Shipping Industry Vital to Nation's Defence

MIDLAND (CP) — A publisher a steelmaker and a shipbuilder Tuesday suggested to the royal commission on Canada's coasting trade that the Canadian shipping industry needs support.

They said foreign competition and high Canadian prices spell ruin to the industry if something isn't done.

Loss of the industry would mean loss of income to Canadians and a weakening of the defence system, they said.

"In case of war we Canadians must have a fleet of ships that can be controlled by our government for the transportation of vital supplies," said H. W. Walton, vice-president and general manager of Canadian Shipbuilding and Engineering Company, which operates yards at Collingwood, Midland, Port Arthur and Kingston.

"Not to be prepared is unthinkable," he said.

NEED PROTECTION

Mr. Walton said that normally the Collingwood yard employs about 700 men and Midland between 500 and 600. There now are little more than 100 men in the Collingwood yard and only seven at Midland.

He said Canada should take steps to make sure the same thing didn't happen to its Great Lakes fleet as befell its deepsea fleet. The latter had dwindled from 1,500,000 tons to less than 100,000 tons in the last seven years, he said.

"If we reserve our coastal trade for Canadian ships, we will have some measure of protection and a nucleus of skilled shipbuilders when we need them."

David Holbrook, vice-president of Algoma Steel Corporation, said the biggest single item of his company, and that of any other basic steel industry, is an efficient shipping industry.

The scheduling of ore carriers into the company's docks is a most specialized matter and the industry does not want to rely on a "catch-as-catch-can" arrangement with American or other foreign vessels.

ACCUSES OTTAWA

"If British ships come into the Great Lakes and by virtue of cheaper operating costs, undercut Canadian ship owners, it is reasonable to suppose the Canadian industry will not be anxious to replace bottoms," he said. This will mean a weakening of the whole Canadian shipping structure, he added.

W. H. Cranston, publisher of the Midland Free Press Herald, said the federal government is partly responsible for idle Canadian shipping.

"We have, under the guise of stilted orderly international marketing, attempted to clear our breed for an uneconomically high price for wheat. One result of the government's policy may be seen in the idle shipyards, tied-up bulk carriers and the motionless grain elevators of Georgian bay."

The brief submitted by Georgian bay counties and supported by Mr. Cranston, urged the commission to consider fiscal measures to encourage replacement of carriers and to consider a policy under which coastal trade in the Great Lakes be restricted to those ships now registered in Canada or which may in future be built in Canada.

J. M. McCash, speaking for the Owen Sound Chamber of Commerce, said that if there was no restriction against non - Canadian ships, the result would be growing unemployment.

VITAL FACILITIES

"If Canadian bottoms are cut out of the Great Lakes because of competition, then shipyards and repair depots will go by 'the board,'" he said.

Frederick Alport of Orillia, formerly with the planning department of the Royal Canadian Navy, said it is vital that shipbuilding and repair facilities be maintained on the Great Lakes because there are only 20 major ports on the two coasts of Canada and the United States, and all are open to attack by air or sea.

"If a sneak attack were successful, this continent would be reduced to a third-class power overnight," he said.

Betty Hutton Was Wonderful In TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (CP) — Betty Hutton reviewed her own television show Tuesday night—her first since her short-lived retirement from business—and came up with the verdict: "Wonderful."

Bouncy, boisterous and breathless, she returned to the TV medium in an hour-long NBC variety show in the old tried-and-true Hutton format—songs, dances, vaudeville clowning with guests Bob Hope and Jimmy Durante, mostly loud but occasionally softly sentimental.

Betty quit show business, she said, a year ago after a TV colorcast which she—and others—felt was less than successful, but she soon was back in night clubs and now she is back here about TV.

She said, after watching a rebroadcast at home, "This was wonderful."

Chicken Pie Supper Held At United Church

GARDENVILLE — The chicken pie supper, put on by the W. A. of the Carrying Place United Church, on Wednesday evening, lived up to its reputation established in the community and surrounding towns. Many attended from Trenton and Belleville, and the ladies were well rewarded both financially, and in the satisfaction of work well done.

Mrs. Cassie Weller and Mrs. Jack Baxter were the treasurers for the evening.

The Rev. E. V. Cook led in the grace, welcomed the guests, and paid tribute to the women whose efforts made such a delicious and attractive meal possible.

Mrs. Stanley Hart, president, replied, thanking the committees and all those who donated food and time. Miss Betty Dowdle had charge of a table stocked with Christmas cards and paper. This supper has now become an annual project.

Mr. Allcorn gave the club a practical demonstration of first-aid. He was assisted in his lecture by club-members.

Three new members also were inducted into the club. Newest Kiwanians are Jim Huff, district manager of Simpson-Sears; Bill Lines, district manager of Superior Propane, and Jim Jarvis, Northern Electric, who rejoins club, after being absent from the city on company business some time.

The induction ceremony was performed by Cliff Barragar.

FLAMES THREATEN TRAIN

BOSTON (AP)—An estimated 600 persons were trapped aboard a rapid-transit elevated train 20 feet above Washington street for half an hour as flames from six burning buildings spread to the track ties beneath and around the train late Monday. Firefighters trained numerous hose lines on the elevated structure and eventually the train proceeded to the nearest station undamaged. Officials said most of the riders were "thoroughly frightened," but none was injured.

CAMPBELLFORD

Trust Company Growth Told At Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. Ted MacKay, manager of the Victoria and Grey Trust Company, of Peterborough, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club.

Mr. McKay traced the growth of Trust companies in Canada with particular reference to the growth of the Victoria and Grey as typical of business as a whole. Between 1889 and 1900, the speaker said there was a boom in Canada which brought into being a number of small loan companies, some of which were formed on a co-operative basis with monthly payments paid by shareholders. The chief investments of such companies were in mortgages. The evolution from a mortgage company to what is now known as a Trust Company was completed by 1927 when trust company powers were granted to the several companies which had amalgamated under the name Grey and Huron Trust Co. In 1946 the company again amalgamated with the Victoria, Trust Co. of Lindsay to become the Victoria and Grey Trust Company.

GREAT STRIDES IN BUSINESS

Business through the years had taken great strides. Assets of the Victoria and Grey Trust Co. had risen in the past 20 years from two million dollars to nearly 60 million dollars.

In a similar manner, the past few decades have seen the functions of the Trust Company become many and varied. They perform the functions of a bank, having savings accounts similar to the chartered banks and in addition they accept long term deposits as a larger rate of interest than that allowed on savings deposits. They have a service division which performs the functions usual to chartered banks, such as issuing money orders and renting safety deposit boxes.

The fast growing estate business is perhaps the greatest cause of all for the increased functions of the Trust companies. Most wills have a provision for continuous functioning of an estate for a period of years. The management of such estates is ideally performed by the Trust company and charges are similar to those of private executors as they are set by the Surrogate Court. The Trust company, too, with its knowledge of legal practice, is admirably adapted to estate management.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Mac McDonald and was thanked by past president Frank Linton.

Gardenville

GARDENVILLE — The Sunday school superintendent, Mr. J. Baxter, announced that paper will be collected next Saturday, Oct. 29, weather permitting, and asked that, whenever possible, the paper be tied in bundles, which will save much time. Anyone having paper was asked to phone Mr. Baxter during the week, so that none will be missed on Saturday.

Mrs. Ken McDonald and Master Gordon have returned to Niagara Falls after visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnot Young.

Miss Susan Baxter was a Wednesday evening guest of Mrs. Arthur Tucker.

Mrs. George Griffin and children have returned home to Thomasburg following two weeks spent with Mrs. George Landon.

The Rev. J. Hynd of Hamilton, is visiting friends in the village and staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Grounds.

Mrs. Harold Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baxter and Susan visited Mrs. Baxter's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Carscallen of Kingston, on Sunday.

Mrs. A. L. Burke accompanied them, visiting her brother-in-law, Mr. H. S. Clarke and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dymond are entertaining guests from Detroit, Michigan: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Barber. Mrs. Alice Kemp and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pollard, all of Toronto, are visiting at the Dymond home also.

The school children are busy collecting for the Blind and are meeting with a generous response in this worthy project.

Mr. Jack Vader is busy pouring the cement floor in his large, new barn.

Mrs. Henry Nelson, Trenton, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Bill Hill.

Mrs. Frank Wilson, Jack and Billy were dinner guests of Mrs. Joe Sullins on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mitts were Wednesday evening visitors at the same home.

Mrs. Little and Mrs. J. Davis attended the tea and bazaar sponsored by the Guild in Consecon on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. Hodgson is a patient in Toronto General Hospital. The prayers and sincerest wishes of the community go with her for the blessing of good health again, soon.

Mr. Herb Hart is working in the office of the Hancock Lumber Company and is improving in health, steadily.

The new church doors for the United Church have been hung and are a great improvement. Mr. Bill Kemp painted them on Saturday.

SOUGHT FIFTH WIFE

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Lottie Ihme, 52, was granted a divorce Monday after she told a judge that her husband, Arnold, 58, has already advertised in two "lonely heart" publications for a fifth wife. Mrs. Ihme, who married her railroad-engineer spouse in 1954 after a pen-pal romance, won her decree on the ground of cruelty. The judge lifted an injunction, imposed last month, against his further advertising for a new mate.

Some Montreal Nightclubs Open Virtually all Night

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Crackdown policies by Montreal's reform administration notwithstanding, some nightclubs—in this city are open virtually all night. The Quebec provincial law states they must stop serving liquor at 2 a.m.

You can make telephone reservations for ring-side seats at floor shows that start at 3 a.m. without difficulty. But legally, this means little. The law—responsibility of provincial police—does not preclude shows or food after the liquor is "cut off."

Technically, there is nothing wrong with loading tables with extra drinks before 2 a.m., officials say.

SMALL PROPORTION

"Only about five per cent of Montrealers go to nightclubs," says Pacifique (Pax) Plante, assistant director of police. "If most go they are certainly happy to leave by 2 a.m."

Plante and other officials said most of the outcry regarding "early closing" came from club-owners themselves and from a tiny proportion of the population. The vast majority of Montrealers were not night hawks. All-night clubs had been catering to a hard core of habitues.

"We've found in surveys that there are very few tourists in clubs in the wee hours," said Plante.

City police hit upon the plan of refusing city licences to alleged law-breakers. This issue led to court actions that have not yet been completed: A city by-law states that any restaurant or club —as well as certain other places, such as rooming houses — must have city licences at a nominal fee.

MUST OBEY LAW

"We can refuse or cancel these licences if a club or other establishment is breaking a law, provincial or otherwise," said Plante.

Newspaper speculation has been rife on friction between city police and provincial police, but Plante told a reporter "I swear" there is no such trouble. One newspaper termed the current situation an "armed truce."

A sidelight to Montreal nightlife came when Plante announced his morality squad had seized a list of 300 call girls—including many secretaries and stenographers—who were available for "dates" with men.

Montreal's 83 nightclubs cater to many tastes, from the lavish to the drab. Long-time observers say some of the latter depended for years almost directly on prostitutes, using the clubs as headquarters.

Many of these were scattered by the crackdown, causing consternation in such places as Trois-Rivieres and Eastern Townships centres, to which they fled.

The city's 236 taverns provide, comparatively, a minimum of trouble, abiding by 11 p.m. closing laws.

"In my humble opinion, that is because the law states clearly that they must close, not just stop selling," said Plante.

"But I'm not here to criticize laws. I am not an elected official."

Australian Election Call Is Postponed

CANBERRA (CP) — Government members said Tuesday that Prime Minister Robert Menzies has decided to postpone the announcement of a snap Australian federal election.

Menzies wants to keep the issue raised by the case of Vladimir Petrov, self-confessed Soviet agent, separated in the public mind from the election, the members added.

Menzies did not, as expected, announce a Dec. 10 election during a debate in Parliament Tuesday. Government members said he now plans to make his first announcement on the election at a meeting of the Liberal and Country government parties Wednesday.

Menzies told the House of Representatives Tuesday that Petrov has identified "scores and scores" of Russian spies working in Western countries. Communication with Britain's intelligence agencies had showed that Petrov's statements "are confirmed by information held abroad."

CRITICIZES EVATT

Petrov, former secretary at the Soviet embassy here, sought political asylum in Australia, taking Kremlin documents with him. His wife later joined him.

Menzies followed his statements with a bitter attack on Dr. Herbert Evatt, leader of the opposition. He said the Labor leader's recent announcement that he wrote to Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow showed that he had "broken all records" as opposition leader by communicating with the foreign minister of another country "to get a distant and unexamined denial of charges found to be true by an Australian tribunal."

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop and ma went to a party last night, and this morning at breakfast pop said, That little Mrs. Freem was rather attractive, didn't you think so?

You seemed to think so, I dont quite know why, but I'm sure she would be the first to agree with you, ma said. But dont act me, because I'm in no position to advance an honest opinion. I barely glanced at her, she said, and pop said, Do you mean you didn't think that blue dress she had on was rather ravishing?

I certainly did not, although it surely seemed to attract the men, judging by the deluded way they flocked around her like flies and honey, ma said. Besides, her gown wasn't blue, it was a most hideous shade of green, and it wasn't improved by those silly bangles around the excessively low neck line, she said, and pop said, Oh well, her eyes were what attracted me, they were really expresaive, dont you agree?

Well, if fishy goggle eyes can be expressive, yes indeed, to say the least, ma said. But really, I mean frankly, as far as expressiveness goes, it was the rediculously extreme way her eyes were made up that told me all I wanted to know, she said, and pop said, Would you like to retract your statement that you only glanced at her.

Most certainly not, ma said. A woman's single glance reveals more than a man's gawking ever, as far as another woman is concerned. So laff away, if you care to, she said.

Which he did.

U.S. Fights Sale Of Stimulants To Truck Drivers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government drive to break up the illegal sale of stimulant drugs to truck drivers in the United States was disclosed Tuesday when 42 arrest warrants were issued in half-a-dozen states.

Attorney-General Herbert Brownell said the prosecutions were being started after a year - long undercover investigation. In that operation Food and Drug Administration inspectors posed as truck drivers and travelled interstate routes in vehicles disguised as commercial motor carriers to track down the places where the drugs were being dispensed.

The stimulants involved are known as amphetamines and are usually referred to among truck drivers as "benzies," "goof balls" or "co-pilots."

The drivers who use the drugs employ them to stay awake on long drives.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ellen Carden (Mother of 3)

Some of the most successful visiting adults I know mark friends with shy year-olds by "delaying action." Paying no attention to the little one at the outset often arouses enough curiosity for the lad or lass to gravitate toward the stranger. Once interest has been indicated, the friendship can usually be furthered with a chain of jingly keys, a bright colored hankie or most any safe and indestructible object.

MISSING LINK BETWEEN ANIMAL-REPTILE

George Whitaker, a preparator in the department of geology and paleontology at the New York museum of national history, holds a line drawing of a trilyodont skull and a block of sandstone containing such a skull found in Arizona. Trytlodonts, cat-size intermediates between reptiles and mammals, became extinct 175,000,000 years ago. They have long been thought of as the "missing link" between fossil reptiles and the mammals that evolved from them. Mr. Whitaker was a member of a museum expedition which this summer discovered a group of trilyodont fossils in Monument Valley, Ariz. (Central Press Canadian.)

Duplessis Will Not Participate In Health Plan

DOLBEAU, Que. (CP)—Premier Duplessis Tuesday rejected possible Quebec participation in a national health insurance scheme and said the province's public charities system is better suited to its people.

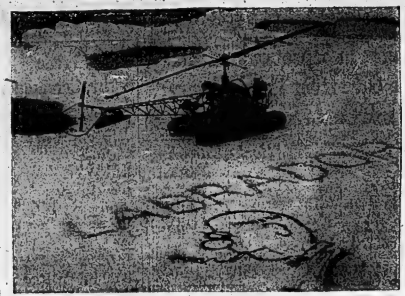
Mr. Duplessis made his government's view known in a speech following the blessing of Hotel Dieu Hospital in their pulp and paper manufacturing centre 260 miles northeast of Quebec City.

His statement came in the form of a reply to Georges Villeneuve, Liberal member of Parliament for Roberval, who spoke a few minutes before Mr. Duplessis.

Mr. Villeneuve said there is a need for a national health insurance scheme which could respect the particular needs of Quebec.

Prime Minister Considers Plan Most Practical

REGINA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday in a telegram to Premier Douglas that the federal government considers guaranteed bank loans as "the most practical method" of dealing with the farm cash shortage.



The telegram answered the Saskatchewan premier's message last week, asking advances on farm-stored grain instead of bank loans to which farmers were taking strenuous objection.

Mr. St. Laurent's telegram said: "Re your telegram of Oct. 21 concerning advances to farmers for grain stored on the farm, on studying this problem carefully and having in mind our experience with the 1951 crop, it was apparent to us that only a relative small number of farmers would in fact require assistance.

"After considering all possible methods of doing this, including those you mention, we concluded that the most practical method is through the banks who have regular facilities available to handle this kind of business."

Mr. St. Laurent referred to the 1951 legislation under which the federal government agreed to back $20,000,000 in bank loans. But farmers borrowed less than $650,000.

Cambridgeshire Won by Retrial, Favorite Loses

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—Retrial, an English-owned 18-to-1 shot, won the 113th running of the Cambridgeshire handicap stakes today. Turk's Blood was second and Swept was third. Manalo, 2-to-1 favorite, finished out of the money.

Retrial won by a neck over Turk's Blood in the mile-and-a-furlong race on which the Irish bookmakers' sweepstakes are based. Turk's Blood, 10 to 1, and Swept, 20 to 1, were separated by a head.

Monk Shon was fourth in the field of 40 starters. Record field for the Cambridgeshire was 48 in 1951.

Retrial is owned by Lady Zia Wernher who is already assured of toppling the list of winning owners on British tracks this season. She won the first-prize of £3,438, Turk's Blood won £378 and Swept landed £185.

Plan to Rescue Crew of Plane Down in North

MONT-JOLI, Que. (CP) — Rescue is expected today for the two-man crew of a C-46 air freighter forced down Tuesday by a fuel shortage between Fort Chimo and Knob Lake in Quebec's northern wilderness.

Aboard the Maritimes Central Airways plane were pilot Francis Balskie, 34, of Hastings, Pa., and co-pilot Emerson Cheesman of Toronto.

A spokesman for the airways office here said another company plane has been in almost constant touch with the men, uninjured in the crash landing on snow-covered muskeg.

Clemency Urged For Epileptic Who Slew Janitor

WINNIPEG (CP)—A plea for clemency will be forwarded on behalf of 26-year-old Donald Earl Hambleton, sentenced to be hanged Jan. 11 for the bludgeon slaying of a building caretaker.

A recommendation for mercy was made by a Court of Queen's Bench jury when it brought in a verdict of guilty Tuesday night after five hours' deliberation.

"I can imagine your difficulties in this case, as I can my own," Mr. Justice Ralph Maybank told the jury. "Your recommendation will be conveyed by me to the governor-general-in-council.

"I would add that even if you had not made your recommendation, I would myself have written urging as strongly as I could for clemency for the prisoner. I would like you to understand I not only agree with your verdict—it was the only one you could return—but I agree most heartily, and I only hope your recommendation will be granted."

Hambleton stood erect while receiving sentence then sat down and sobbed with his face buried in his hands. Before he was removed from the prisoner's box his father, Reginald Hambleton, who earlier had testified about his son's epilepsy, walked over and talked to his son. Mrs. Hambleton, who also testified earlier, was not in court when sentence was passed.

The verdict climaxed six days of evidence linking Hambleton with the slaying May 28 of James Henry Wolrich, caretaker of a downtown warehouse building.

Evidence was introduced showing that Hambleton had entered the warehouse building, ransacked some offices and was discovered in the basement by Wolrich. In a statement to police Hambleton was quoted as saying he struck Wolrich "a few times."

Testimony was that Hambleton had been drinking with two companions during the afternoon and evening of May 28. His parents and three doctors testified that Hambleton had suffered from epilepsy since a child. He often had seizures and at other times had mental "blackouts." Hambleton suffered an epileptic fit in court Tuesday.

Plan 20,000 Homes

TORONTO (CP) — A four-year project to build 20,000 low-priced homes in metropolitan Toronto and involving a total expenditure of more than $300,000,000, was announced Tuesday night by Consolidated Building Corp.

The first 290 will be built in north Toronto in the Richmond Hill district, the announcement said.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In case hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. WORKING HARD

Coach Danny Cox, exhibiting a clean-cut touch of Kid Flu, sent his TPT charges through a stiff workout last night readying for Friday night's all-important opening game against the Whitby Dunlops, who pry the lid off the official season tonight in Kingston.

Davy Jones, recovering from a severe charley horse suffered in the All-Star game, confined himself to skating and will be ready for Friday. Keith MacDonald showed no ill effects from a three-stitch jaw gash and the rest of the crew appeared to be in good shape.

Coach Cox has named Bobby Taylor up to a front line with Doug Day and Peter Jones and said the trio was working well. It was stated that Peterborough's Toody Greenlaw has quit hockey because of business pressure. Chum Fyrin, Gus Leonard and Bert Hill will likely form the Peter line, with Vern Geyer, Davy Jones and Keith MacDonald picking up where they left off last year.

McMaster, Wilson and Sammy Mulholland were going great guns on the defence. The TPT's will work out every night until game time with all eyes on an all-important first victory.

WACKY SEASON

The 1955 baseball season will be inscribed (in gold in Brooklyn) in the official archives as the year in which the Daffy Dodgers from Flatbush won their first world series after knocking off eight pennants. It will also go down in history as being productive of some of the wackiest, most bizarre incidents that ever befell baseball clubs and players.

One of the wackiest stunts, if not the most bizarre, was that of the paid baseball nut who hired himself to sit atop a flagpole high above a building in Milwaukee and stay there until the Braves had won seven games in a row. He remained on his lofty perch for 15 weeks and came down six days before the season ended. He wasted his time for the Braves did not come up with the seven-game streak and by that time it was too late.

Other incidents that knocked the record book cocky included, the one where a pitcher worked four scoreless innings with a fractured wrist. Others were, a runner scored from first on a bunt; a batter hit a legitimate home run and was credited with a double; a starting pitcher made only one pitch yet he was charged with a defeat; a shortstop was knocked out going for a grounder and a "bunt" double won a game.

Now, let's get the details on these screwy goings-on:

FIRST:

Cincinnati rightfielder Bud Podbielan slid into second base in the third inning against Brooklyn and hurt his right wrist. Despite some pain, he remained in the game and pitched scoreless ball until the seventh. X-rays the next day revealed a fractured wrist and Podbielan was sidelined for ten weeks. June 7 at Brooklyn.

SECOND:

Chico Carrasquel of the White Sox, was on first when Nellie Fox bunted down the third-base line. Gus Triandos, Baltimore third sacker, left third uncovered in making the play on Fox. Carrasquel rounded second and moved to third, where he was safe on a close play. When the Orioles argued with the umpire without calling time, Carrasquel scooted home without drawing a throw. August 23 at Chicago.

THIRD:

Pitcher Don Newcombe of the Dodgers, belied a long drive to the top of the right centrefield screen. The ball landed in the street and Newcombe circled the bases. The Cardinals argued that the ball had passed through a hole in the screen and were upheld. Under the ground rules, the blow was a double. However, three days later an investigation showed that there was no hole anywhere in the vicinity of where Newcombe's drive was hit. June 4 at Brooklyn.

FOURTH:

Baltimore lefty Art Schallock started against Kansas City. On the first pitch, Vic Power of the Athletics singled to left. Schallock then complained of a twinge in his left shoulder and asked to be relieved. Power eventually scored the first of three A's runs. Baltimore never caught up so Schallock was charged with the loss. August 3 at Baltimore.

FOURTH:

Ron Northey of the White Sox, slashed a grounder over second base. Kansas City shortstop Jerry Schypinski and second-baseman Jim Finigan collided as they went for the ball. Schypinski was knocked unconscious and left the game with minor injuries. Northey got a double. September 25 at Kansas City.

SIXTH:

The Yankees and the Red Sox were tied 5-5 in the top of the fourth. Jim Piersall of Boston, led off with a bunt down the third-base line. Andy Carey of New York, let the ball roll and it hit the bar. By the time he picked it up, Pierson was headed for second and he reached there safely. He scored on a sacrifice and infield hit. The Red Sox won 10-5. July 4 at New York.

Turns in Sensational Effort To Give Irvin Third Victory; Hank Ciesla Scores Winner

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Al Rollins scored a National Hockey League shutout Tuesday night. Nobody deserved it more than big Al.

He was sensational in goal, stopping 33 shots as Chicago Black Hawks defeated Boston Bruins 2-0 at St. Louis for their third victory of the 1955-56 campaign. The last time Rollins came up with a shutout performance was March 19, 1954, when he stopped Boston 7-0.

Since then—and for the season before that—the 29-year-old netminder must have felt like a clay pigeon in a shooting gallery. Opposing players breezed through a weak Chicago team and beat Rollins unmercifully.

But things are better this year. Tuesday night's win sent Hawks into a second-place tie with Bruins and New York Rangers. Each has eight points, three behind the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. It's been a long time since a Chicago club has been that high in the league standings.

It was the only game of the night and the first time Chicago home engagements shifted to St. Louis to handle a hockey game in that U.S. city. A crowd of 5,668 saw Hawks take the victory on goals by Hank Ciesla, junior from with St. Catharines TeePees last season, and veteran Johnny Wilson.

Ciesla scored at 9:28 of the second period to give Hawks a 1-0 lead. He banged Hec Lalande's pass behind goaltender Terry Sawchuk.

Wilson drove a long shot from the Brain Shielded Sawchuk at 16:47 of the third period. Defenceman Allan Stanley was given an assist on the goal.

Although Sawchuk, former star with Detroit Red Wings, was beaten twice, he was great. He kicked out 30 Chicago drives.

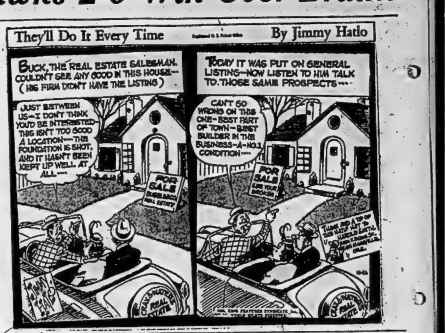
SIGNATURE BOOK STOLEN

BRISTOL, England (AP) — An autograph hunter was blamed by police today for the theft of a book containing the signatures of the Queen, Princess Margaret and Queen Mother Elizabeth. The 36-pound tome belonging to the Church of England Children's Society vanished from a railroad station where it was to be picked up for exhibition at a church bazaar. An official described the book as "irreplaceable."

Chisox Trade Busby, Carrasquel For Larry Doby



CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox' 18-year search for a reliable clean-up hitter apparently had ended Tuesday when they obtained slugging Larry Doby from Cleveland Indians.

In their biggest deal since the departure of trade master Frank Lane to the St. Louis Cardinals several weeks ago, the Sox gave the Indians shortstop Chico Carrasquel and outfielder Jim Busby. It was a straight player transaction.

The Sox, who have finished third in the American League race the last three years, long have had a weakness in the No. 4 spot in the batting order. They haven't had a consistent long-ball hitter since Gus Zernial drove 42 runs across home plate for them from 1954 to Doby, the first Negro player in 1937, the American League, potentially fills the bill. The 30-year-old veteran of eight full-seasons with the Tribe has a major league lifetime batting mark of .286 and a slugging average of .502.

He has blasted 202 homers and driven in 731 runs.

Kramer Dangles Bag of Gold Under Aussies' Sniffing Noses

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Jack Kramer arrived here today to dangle his bag of gold personally under the noses of Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, amid increasing hints that the two young Aussies may join his professional tennis tour.

"If Kramer has a new offer, I'll give him a good hearing," said Hoad while waiting for the American money-man to put in an appearance. "I almost accepted his first offer."

"Hoad and Rosewall, the 20-year-olds who won back the coveted Davis Cup for Australia this year, rejected Kramer's pro offer less than two weeks ago. They said they would work for Australian sporting goods companies and continue to play amateur tennis.

Now apparently, they're wavering.

Only a few days before he received their refusals to team up with him, Kramer had signed American ace Tony Trabert for an estimated $75,000. Trabert and Rosewall in the fold, the tour would not pack much glamor.

So Kramer decided on a face-to-face meeting in a final effort to sign them.

Lacrosse Coach Calls It Quits

VICTORIA (CP) — John (Red) McMillan is quitting as coach of the Canadian lacrosse champion Victoria Shamrocks.

McMillan, who led the club to victory over Peterborough Trailercades last month after three years of trying, said Tuesday the decision to resign was "entirely mine."

"When we won the Mann Cup this year I achieved what I had set out to do as coach," he said. "I can go no further as coach and now will be able to spend more time with my family."

Topflight Talent On British Soccer Block

LONDON (CP) — Safe high-priced football talent is up for sale in the English Football League—most of it at the desire of the individual players.

Cockney Eddie Bailey, long the brains in the Tottenham Hotspur attack and nine times an England player, wants to leave the first division team, now anchored at the bottom of the league with only five points. Portsmouth is reported interested. Sub-goalie Ron Reynolds has had his request rejected.

Scottish Allan Brown, who cost Blackpool £27,500 in 1950, wants to get back home. Tommy McDonald, another Scot, says he's tired of playing second-string for Wolverhampton Wanderers.

Teammates Joe Baillie and Doug Taylor, like Bailey, have made good enough to make first teams elsewhere, also want to leave.

Bill Paterson, a £22,000 player acquired by Newcastle last year, is dissatisfied, too, and veteran Trevor Ford, Welsh and Cardiff City centre forward whose various moves have involved more than £70,000, is reported willing to go north where he has business interests.

American Wins Jumping Event

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP)—In a duel of team mates, Billy Steinkraus of the United States edged W. R. Ballard of Toronto on elapsed time in the two-round event in the International jumping competition at the Pennsylvania Horse Show Tuesday night.

Each rider had four faults against him after the two rides, Steinkraus scoring a clean performance on the last ride of the night. But the American rider's total time was 72.4 seconds to Ballard's 88.6. Brig.-Gen. Humberto Marlles of Mexico was third with eight faults.

Tuesday night's wins gave the United States the lead in the international low-score competition with 4½ faults to Canada's eight. Ireland was third with 16 and Mexico last with 26. The final event in the three-leg competition will be held Friday.

WINS JUMP

OTTAWA (CP)—A team led by John Sifton of Winnipeg won the inter-city jumping competition at the Ottawa Winter Fair Tuesday night.

Pace Tells On Slammin' Sam

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Sammy Snead, after two decades in the golfing limelight, admits he is slowing and will cut down it his tournament appearances in the future.

The Slammer is getting ready to perform for the seventh time as a member of the United States Ryder Cup team against the British at the Thunderbird Country Club here Nov. 3-5.

Talking to his old friend, golf tutor Alex Morrison, who is on the arrangements committee for the cup matches, Snead said:

"Sooner or later something has to give."

This may be Snead's last competitive appearance in California. He has not played in the Los Angeles Open or other California events since he defeated Ben Hogan in a playoff for the L. A. crown in 1950.

Gilson Turns in Sparkling Effort In Mercurys' Win Over Bulldogs

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Bobby Gilson, starting his ninth season with the Owen Sound Mercurys, turned in a brilliant goaltending chore Tuesday night to spark the Sounders to a 3-2 win over Windsor Bulldogs in their OHA senior "A" game before 1,700 fans.

The Bulldogs tested Robbie Robert 40 times and found the chink in his armor only twice. In contrast, the Mercurys had 34 drives at Marv Edwards.

Jackie Hamilton, Jack Taylor and Ted Reid scored the goals for the Mercurys who led 2-1 and 3-1 at the rest period. After being thwarted repeatedly, even when they had a manpower advantage, the Bulldogs finally beat Gilson in the third period, coach Jim Peters punching home a short shot. Gord Haidy scored their other marker in the first period.

Seldom was there a full complement of players on the ice in the final period as referees Frank Slota and Frank Chase handed out 11 minor penalties and two misconducts in the stanza which took nearly an hour to play. All told, there were 23 minor penalties, 13 to Owen Sound.

The win hoisted Owen Sound into first place, two points ahead of the K-W Dutchmen whom they play tonight in Kitchener. It was the third straight loss for the winless Bulldogs.

Irish Rider For Irish Nag

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Pride of the Irish has changed the lineup of Laurel's International horse race Nov. 11.

Tommy Gosling had been listed as jockey for Passalprop, the Irish Derby winner and one of nine horses entered in the International.

Passalipper is owned by the Irish government and will run in the colors of its president, Sean T. O'Kelly.

Gosling was born in Scotland.

The people of Ireland complained to President O'Kelly they wanted their horse ridden by a son of the Ould Sod. The word was passed to trainer Paddy Prendergast.

He replaced Gosling with T. M. Burns 20-year-old native of Belfast.

Larks' Nest Rent May Be Higher

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes may face a higher rent bill next season if the city of Montreal has its way.

The city intends to ask Quebec in the Montreal bill, for the right to tax educational and religious properties which are used for "lucrative purposes." It was learned Tuesday night.

According to the proposal, properties which are rented regularly would be liable to the tax on the real valuation while properties rented only occasionally would be taxed on the rate of rent.

The Big Four football club currently rents the stadium from McGill University for six days a year with the option on a seventh and if is assumed the property would be taxed on the basis of rent collected.

Russians Scout Yankee Boxers

LONDON (AP)—A pair of Russian amateur boxing officials headed for home today after "scouting" the United States in a tit-for-tat with England Tuesday night. The Russians withheld comment, but their confidence over Soviet chances in the 1956 Olympics could hardly have been shaken by the U.S. showing.

The U.S. team, which the Russians consider their biggest threat in the Olympiad at Melbourne next fall, won only three bouts from the English—who last week were able to whip only two of 10 bouts from the Russian team.

V. I. Ogurenko, team trainer for the Russians, and V. G. Stepanov, Soviet ring official, were among 10,000 fans who sat in on the international bouts at Wembley Stadium and saw the U.S. squad suffer its second sound defeat in five days. Last week, the Americans lost 8-4 in Ireland.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

Before Dick Irvin, veteran of hockey teams, signed to become the pilot of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National League, there was the usual pre-signing discussion over his contract.

Irvin was doing business with Jim Norris, principal owner of Hawks. After the basic salary was agreed upon, there were written into the contract, one by one, various bonus clauses. This is quite the usual thing. Hawks had been last in the League through 1954 and 1955, and naturally owner Jim Norris gladly agreed to a bonus conditional on the team finishing in the play-offs, meaning fourth place or better.

"Now" said Irvin, this being agreed upon, "put in another bonus clause."

"For what?" enquired owner Norris, figuring the last bonus had been settled."

"For Hawk entry into the Stanley Cup final", said Irvin quietly.

Norris shrugged, wrote in the clause, and was ready to hand the contract over to Irvin.

The grey-haired coach held up his hand. "One more clause" he said. "A bonus if we win the Stanley Cup."

Norris signed for the bonus. "I'll be very happy to pay this," he said, "and all the other bonuses too."

Returning to Chicago, Irvin, at 63 years of age, leaves Canadiens after coaching that team since 1940, and developing such players as Richard, Lach, Bouchard, Geoffrion, Bouchard, Bill Durnan, Gerry McNeil, Doug Harvey, Dickie Moore, Tommy Johnson, Jacques Plante, Jean Beliveau and many other greats Canadiens have been under his leadership year after year, a potent factor in the National League, winning the Stanley Cup three times, the League title four times in a row.

Irvin is leaving the Stanley Cup finalists to take over the tail-end club. "You get in a rut remaining in one place," was his comment as he became the 19th Hawk coach since the team moved into the major league in 1926.

"COLD CANADIAN" A HIT AS FIERY VERDI HEROINE

Canadian-born Lois Maxwell only non-Italian in the cast of Aida", proved that geography plays no part in love, whether it be, in this latin lore or the passion that flares on the hot sands of the Nile. Miss Maxwell plays the rival of Sophia Loren, Italy's most luscious screen siren, in the first spectacular opera film in color winch will be presented in conjunction with the I.F.E. Releasing Corporation at the Capitol Theatre in Belleville, evenings only, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, November 7, 8, 9.

Ever Director Clemente Fracassi who was not too enthusiastic about having a Verdi heroine played by a girl from cold Canada, had to admit she was a revelation in the role. His appraisal was confirmed by critical and popular acclaim throughout all Europe.

Miss Maxwell, who ran away from her Montreal home at 16 to join a Canadian Ensa company to entertain soldiers in Europe, studied at the famous Accademy of Dramatic Art and appeared in several West End productions. She was spotted by Warner scout and appeared opposite Ronald Reagan in "That Hagan Girl."

Returning to Italy in 1949, she appeared in "Tomorrow is Too Late", the first foreign actress to have a major role in a post war Italian film. Since then, she has made many Italian pictures in Rome.

N.Y. Police Commissioner Will Not Open Private Files to TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — A situation has arisen which involves the government of New York City and a commercial television interest. In itself it has scarcely created much of a stir very far beyond the suburbs, yet it holds some interesting implications.

In brief the situation is this: Mayor Robert Wagner directed the heads of city departments and agencies to make their files, equipment and manpower available to New York TV Productions, Inc. This firm is headed by Theodore Granik, who has been associated with radio and television for 25 years and also happens to be a friend of Wagner.

Granik's idea appears to be an interesting one: Dramatization of the operations of a big city government, Wagner's motive appears understandable: Every mayor likes to publicize his city — and here was a chance in one big package. When police commissioner Stephen Kennedy received the order he politely but firmly declined to make secret files available to anyone. His stand is courageous and altogether admirable. He appears to be just about the first custodian of any files of personal cases who has not made them available to the monstrous appetite of television.

HELD IN TRUST

Well, what's wrong with TV programs based on the files of this and the cases of that? Some mildly entertaining programs occasionally are ground out from these sources, true. But a basic principle is involved.

The files of any government belong to the people who elected that government. The duly appointed custodian of such files holds them in trust for the taxpayers who, incidentally, accept his judgment that they cannot see them. Why then, should one source receive access to those files for the purpose of commercial exploitation?

Many TV producers are watching closely the developments in the New York case. As yet, an insufficient number of suits for invasion of privacy have been brought and too few judgments rendered to make it clear just how far television can go with programs which change a few names and slick up a few incidents.

Only time will tell whether some television producers have dug deep into a gold mine or have grabbed a bear by the tail.

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	3 ♥	4 ♦	Pass
4 N-T	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Double	Pass
7 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

West did not have quite enough stuff for his simple overcall of three hearts. He feared the slam his opponents might head for. So he tried to throw sand on their tracks.

It is obvious that his seven heart bid was a deliberate thing at a sacrifice. But south refused to permit the north double of it to stand. He was influenced in this by the score it would mean.

Slam was worth more points than the loss west might take. And south had hopes that his own side might have a grand slam. At any rate, he decided to make a stab at it.

The opening two bid by south was a game-going signal. The north free response was a guarantee of at least one sure trick there. So, deciding his own trump suit could stand alone, south probed slam.

His four no-trump was signal for asking about aces and kings. The six clubs in response is Gordon convention for showing two aces and no kings. Thus, opponents must have four kings.

However, he knew the two red kings would be no menace. So, he could anticipate a good try at six spades. And when pushed by west, he decided to go all out for all the tricks.

Opening lead from west was club jack and grand slam looked like a tight squeeze. It was a squeeze. How tight, you shall see.

Grecian Beauty, Irene Papas Latest Candidate for Stardom

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's a long way from the strife of war-torn Athens to the glamor of Hollywood, but dark-eyed Irene Papas has made the trip.

Irene is MGM's latest candidate for stardom, and the first Greek girl with any memory to make a dent in Hollywood. She is starring in her film here, opposite James Cagney in "Tribute to a Bad Man."

She has dark brown hair, long and wavy, and is a statuesque 5 feet 6, weighing 130 pounds with a day waist. The Greek way to pronounce her name is "ireeny."

DEEP AND BAD

She has smooth, dark skin and classic features. The most remarkable feature about her are the eyes. They are black, deep and sad.

"People ask me why I have such sad eyes," she remarks. "I can only tell them to look at their grandmothers' eyes. They will find the lines of sadness there.

"We Greeks are an ancient people. We have had our share of woe. Even the eyes of new-born Greek babies are old and sad."

But theatre standards are so high in Greece that actors have to possess more than looks.

With rare exceptions, you can't get in Greece unless you've had high school diploma and three years' training in dramatics.

OFF BEATEN PATH

If Greek actors are licensed and well trained, then why haven't they invaded Hollywood?

"I think it's because Greece is off the beaten path of London, Paris and Rome," Irene explained. "Sweden is also out of the way, but Garbo set the precedent for other Swedish actresses to come here."

Her MGM bosses are so happy with Irene that she might well set off a Greek invasion rivalling the Trojan War.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Thursday, Oct. 27, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Several planets, well aspected now, augur for a beneficial and productive day if activities and tasks are managed smartly, intelligently and quietly. Plan for future advancement.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Friendly help from many quarters this stimulating day. Personal affairs, heart interests, home and family matters honored. Look forward; heed good advice.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Not a wholly stimulating period for mental tasks, study and research, but it is a promising period for your work and activities. Calmness, patience and good humor are essential.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Strong influences from your Moon, Venus and Saturn are very encouraging for artistic and home interests handling foods, farm supplies, mechanical and industrial trades.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—You can make headway now in your special occupation and in matters allied to it. Labor, trades, activities requiring high skill, electronics, aeronautics, mechanical activities generally advance.

August 24 to September 22 (Virgo)—Personal matters, trades, industry, most branches of government, state and federal, military affairs under benefic aspects. Don't worry, keep ahead.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You may find studying, writing and other mental work not as easy as on some days, but sound, practical and social activities are supported. You can gain, advance in your interests now.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — DON'T permit contention to interfere with your ambition and achievement. This is a period for greater doing, getting ahead in work, conferences, planning, management. Don't overdo, however.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Money matters may seem a little more difficult and results slow in coming but keep on working for high goals and don't permit obstacles to defeat good aims. A good day on the whole.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn and other planets in auspicious positions now, should prove stimulating. Turn your very best effort to whatever your demands, duties. Don't be timid; graciously go forward to attain.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Be brief in statements but not rude or so. It is important now to cut needless red tape and get down to essentials quickly—but not nervously. System, consistency and affability needed.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Don't strive after the unreasonable now but do put in your claim for work "well done" and you have fairly direct opportunity and friends. Be sure you do not send either or both away by being too forceful in expressing opinions or a too-knowing attitude. Scorpio natives are among the brightest and most capable folks but display some superior attributes in an unattractive way. Be humble, as the truly great usually are, and never let flatterers or smooth-talking individuals sway your good judgment. You can achieve distinction and money gain in whatever field you labor, as long as you permit your finer traits to rule. Birthdate: Theo. Roosevelt, 26th United States president.

TO A SUCCESSFUL MAN STOPPED BY SALARY RESTRICTIONS

By ordinary standards you are rated a success. Yet you know that in your present position you will never have the opportunity to show what you can really do and earn.

Today, due to expansion of business, we can offer you an opportunity to make a business connection with no restrictions on earning power. Our Company is nationally advertised and the largest organization of its kind in the world.

As our representative, you would be in business for yourself — but you would make no capital investment, carry no inventory, have no rent or payroll to meet.

The man chosen will be carefully selected and professionally trained to develop his full potential. He will then be sent to our Marshall Sales Training School at our expense and will receive a salary during his training period. He will also be thoroughly field trained upon his return.

If you feel that you have practically reached the top in your present work and you honestly believe that your annual income should be much higher, and are between ages 23 to 45, own a late model car, write Box 212 Ontario Intelligencer and an interview appointment will be arranged. All replies treated with strictest confidence. Our own associates have been informed of this ad.

ENVOY ESCAPES INJURY

The blast caused only slight damage. UN officials speculated that the attacker may have been a disgruntled Palestine refugee.

BISHOP DIES

ENNIS, County Clare, Ireland (Reuters)—The oldest Roman Catholic bishop in the world, Rt. Rev. Michael Fogarty, 97, died here Tuesday night after two weeks of illness. Bishop Fogarty was a strong nationalist and opposed British rule in Ireland. Many schools in the Irish republic will be closed for a week as a mark of respect.

After dinner pop's newspaper dropped on the floor and his head started to bob, being suppose to be bad for his night's rest, and ma said, William, are you falling asleep?

Well yes, the news in the paper all seems so praceful for a change, I thought I'd celebrate the occasion with an appropriate little doze, pop said, and ma said, Goodness, I dont see how your conscience allows you.

Heck! What's my conscience doing here? pop said, and ma said, Today is your last chance to send your old friend Ralph Miller a greeting card so it will reach him in time for his birthday with an airmail stamp. You been reminding you for a week, ever since I saw the date mark and down on my callender, she said.

By golly that's a thought, pop said, and ma said, Then you better translate it into action, Ralph Miller sends you a card on your birthday every single year like proverbial clockwork, and he's lucky if he gets one fron you once in 5 years, she said.

I wish I had a greeting card, pop said, and ma said, I've got an emergency birthday card right in my desk, so all you have to do is wake up and slide it.

No sooner said than done, pop said, and pritty soon his head started to bob again, and ma said, William, Ralph Miller is still waiting for his card.

I'll soon put a stop to that, pop said. I give you power of attorney to sign my name to it, and I give Benny special permission to take it out and mail it.

The result being ma got the card and made pop wake up long enough to sign it with his fountain pen.

Princess Still Undecided Word Reaching Govt.

By HAROLD MORRISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA (CP) — Princess Margaret is still undecided about marrying Group Captain Peter Townsend.

That's the latest word reaching the Canadian government through informal and confidential reports from London, informants disclosed Tuesday.

They intimated the government would express no opposition if the 25-year-old princess, third in line to the throne, should decide to marry the handsome, 40-year-old British air attache.

It was understood the confidential reports on the state of the much-publicized romance originated with the United Kingdom government.

How they were transmitted was not made clear. Presumably they were handled through Canada House, the London office of Canada's high commissioner to Britain, Norman Robertson.

NOTHING DIRECT

Informants said the Canadian government does not expect to receive a formal direct communication from the U.K. administration until Princess Margaret makes her decision. They recalled that the government was promptly informed when Prince Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor, broke with tradition and decided to marry a divorced commoner, giving up the throne in 1936.

If Princess Margaret decides to marry Group Capt. Townsend, also a divorced commoner, there will likely have to be legislation in the Canadian parliament.

Since the Queen of Britain also is the Queen of Canada, Canadian legislation would also have to be brought before Parliament to remove the princess' Canadian succession rights.

Arthur Godfrey Fires Three More

NEW YORK (AP) — A co-producer, an orchestra leader and an announcer have been fired from Arthur Godfrey's radio-television staff without forewarning or any reason given by their boss.

Latest of 12 firings by Godfrey in a little over six months, the dismissals were announced by the Columbia Broadcasting System Tuesday while Godfrey was at Harrisburg, Pa., for the national horse show. CBS simply said Godfrey gave no reasons for the firings. When questioned about this at Harrisburg, Godfrey replied:

"Do I have to give reasons? I'm running this job and if I can't fire and hire people to suit myself, I'm going to quit myself.

"It is my show and when I see it is time to make changes, I make them."

Dismissed were Larry Puck, a Godfrey co-producer for five years; Jerry Bresler, musical conductor on the "Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts" program for two years, and George Bryan, announcer on the same program since it started ten years ago.

Forecast Tax Cuts As Orders Placed For Arms Decline

$200,000,000 Drop Possible In Orders for Fiscal Year

By HAROLD HORRSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of tax cuts in the government's next budget emerged today on the basis of reports that arms orders have been slipping.

While actual federal outlay for arms is estimated to rise in the current fiscal year by $33,000,000 to $1,020,000,000 from $970,000,000 a year ago, orders placed for future delivery have declined.

From authoritative quarters it was learned they have dropped by $113,000,000 in the first half of the current fiscal year from the high last April 1 to $40,000,000 from $453,000,000 a year ago.

SEE HUGE DROP

The experts said that if this trend continues—and it appears likely to do so—the end-of stop for orders placed in the fiscal year may total more than $200,000,000. They believe this may be reflected in a similar decline in actual government expenditures during the next fiscal year—1956-57.

Finance Minister Harris is not expected to announce his budget until next spring. The government's decision on tax cuts will depend on the country's economy and the federal need for revenue.

However, Mr. Harris is almost sure to aim at a balanced budget rather than the accumulation of surpluses. He forecast a deficit of $160,000,000 this year but the economic boom—larger than he anticipated—is likely to reduce the deficit to smaller proportions.

INTO NEXT YEAR

Federal economists believe the boom will sweep over into next year. The government's budgetmakers would have greater room to make tax changes under conditions which would lead to higher revenues and smaller defence outlays.

For the current year, government outlays on arms are forecast at:

Mid-Canada radar line construction, $56,000,000; defence construction, not including the mid-Canada line, $100,000,000; aircraft $270,000,000; ships, $75,000,000; guns, $14,000,000; ammunition, $50,000,000; general maintenance equipment, $205,000,000; purchases in Britain and the United States, $80,000,000.

These figures are based on estimated expenditures by Production Minister Howe. They do not cover such items as civilian wages, air force bases and other general administrative costs handled directly by Finance Minister Harris. The over-all defence budget this year has been placed at $1,775,000,000.

LOST—ONE BRIDGE

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—Provincial police have been asked to locate a 40-foot bridge, apparently stolen. Complainant was Marcel Guilbert of Acton Vale, Que., who bought the bridge near Valcourt after the Richelieu Bridge Company had dismantled and carted away.

Voters' List Shows Man Has 2 Wives

TORONTO (CP) — Albert Cook protested Wednesday to Toronto township council that because of an error he was listed in last year's voters' list as having two addresses.

"You think you have troubles," said councillor Leslie Hughes. "As a result of the last year's voters' lists I have two wives. I haven't seen the other one yet."

Still Deadlocked In Voting For UN Council Seat

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The UN assembly failed to break its deadlock over a hotly-contested Security Council seat today as it resumed voting after a week's recess.

Today's initial ballot was the 19th since the assembly first voted two weeks ago Monday to pick formerly had been held by Eastern European countries. The candidates for the seat are the Philippines, backed by the United States, and Yugoslavia, supported by Russia and the British Commonwealth countries.

The vote on the 10th ballot was 59 for the Philippines and 24 for Yugoslavia. Three delegates were absent and three abstained.

To be elected a candidate must receive two-thirds of all the votes cast.

POSTPONE VOTING

The 11th ballot was unrestricted, or not limited to the Philippines and Yugoslavia. It failed, however, to produce any significant change. The vote was: Philippines 30, Yugoslavia 24, South 24.

On the 12th ballot, also unrestricted, the Philippines received 32 votes, Yugoslavia 24 and India 2.

Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon then proposed that the assembly postpone further voting for 10 days. The assembly voted 21 to 18 in favor of Dixon's proposal and the meeting was adjourned immediately.

The Russians meanwhile took to the floor momentarily to attack Yugoslav's bid for the seat.

As the General Assembly prepared for the new round of balloting Russia circulated warnings that the outcome would test the "Geneva spirit" on the opening day of the Big Four talks there.

In an unusual step, the Soviet delegation circulated an article from the communist party newspaper Pravda, charging the United States with exerting "crude pressures" in pushing an Asian power for a seat which Russia claims belongs to an east European power.

The article drew tart criticism from Britain, although she is backing Yugoslavia for the council seat. A British spokesman labelled the statement "misleading" and "unhelpful."

MIDDLE EAST MOST CRITICAL COLD WAR FRONT

Communist Pressure Expected to Increase

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP) — High American officials agree the Middle East has become the most critical theatre of the Cold War.

The Communist threat, they feel, currently is more menacing in this sketch-region than in western Europe and the Far East, long East-West trouble spots.

These officials say Russia and its Communist allies undoubtedly plan to step up pressure in the Middle East, chiefly by sending weapons to Arab countries such as Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia. Also expected are new Soviet offers of economic aid.

Washington officials think it extremely unlikely that the Russians will feed Western plans to stop arms shipments to prevent a potentially disastrous Arab - Israeli arms race.

In fact, there is some evidence that the Russians might be trying to foment trouble by spurring on both sides in the Middle Eastern feud. The United States state department says it has new information that "approaches have been made by Soviet-bloc sources to Israel representatives" apparently with the idea of supplying war gear to the Jewish state too.

Israel has expressed concern over Egypt's deal for Red arms, and Premier Moshe Sharett has served public notice that Israel will seek arms from any place in the world to offset the Egyptian transaction if the big Western powers do not meet its requests for munitions.

Although increasingly alarmed over the Russian threat to the Middle East, the Western Allies appear to have no concrete program for countering the Soviet moves. The U.S. is "considering" but that its main role—for the present, at least—is to watch developments carefully while urging all concerned to remain calm.

Coldwell Wants To End Nuclear Weapons Tests

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, MP, has called on the end to nuclear weapons tests was urged Wednesday night by M. J. Coldwell, MP, CCF leader.

"Let us not take any chances," Mr. Coldwell said in his opening warnings by various scientists that continued tests might result in a build-up of radioactivity which might doom future generations.

Canada could play a vital role in the United Nations in urging that tests throughout the world should be stopped until a scientific survey determines how far the tests are dangerous.

"This is not too much to ask and it should be done at once," he said. The statements were included in a partial text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

'Had Wonderful Time' Says Coldwell After 24 Hours Stranded in Rockies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty train passengers, among them prominent political figures, reached Vancouver by bus from Hope, B.C., late Wednesday after being stranded 24 hours by washouts in the Coquihalla pass, 110 miles east of here.

"We had a wonderful time," said M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF party. He was en route to a Vancouver island speaking engagement.

He and Arnold Webster, leader of the CCF opposition in the British Columbia legislature and Arthur Turner, CCF MLA for Vancouver East, passed Tuesday night playing bridge with tricemen S. C. Kloepfer of Penticton, B.C., and "reading and talking."

The 30 walked over a 150-foot suspension bridge made from the rails of a washed-out section of a 60-foot-deep cut through the CPR roadbed 12 miles east of Hope. Once across, they boarded a special railway coach which took them to the Hope station.

"We were actually very lucky," Mr. Coldwell said. "We understand that bridges we passed over were by the skin of our teeth and badly they will have to be repaired. It was lucky we were going through with the same as it washout."

The washout occurred during a wild rainstorm which took out portions of the roadbed before and stranded Britain 67 on the Kettle valley line.

Fred Joplin, CPR divisional engineer, climbed across the sagging rails and ties and went into Hope by track speeder to pick up $100 worth of bread, meat and milk for the stranded passengers.

He carried the food hung in carriers across the track as he calwalked back to the train.

Archbishop of Canterbury And Princess Talk for Hour

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret spent an hour with the Archbishop of Canterbury this afternoon at Lambeth House, official home of the Church of England primate.

The fact that her visit was announced through the only two reporters accredited to Buckingham Palace inspired speculation that Margaret's romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend is reaching a climax and that Margaret discussed the question with the archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

The princess drove to Lambeth Palace accompanied by a police-van, waiting, stayed an hour and then returned to Clarence House, the London home she shares with Queen Mother Elizabeth.

The main obstacle to a marriage with Townsend is the fact that he is divorced. The Church of England, of which the Archbishop is the head, opposes the marriage of divorced persons.

No official reason for her visit was given immediately but since obviously Princess Margaret would wish to hear the archbishop's views it is believed she is taking any decisive step.

This suggested that a decision appeared near on the question of whether Margaret intends to marry Townsend.

Meanwhile, the issue was being argued in newspapers which previously had maintained a dignified cousion of Margaret's future.

The Manchester Guardian said Wednesday that if Margaret marries Townsend it would be a match which many Britons would not regard as a marriage and she would have to relinquish her right of succession to the throne.

The Manchester Guardian and several other newspapers disagree with The Times today. The Guardian pleads for "the same rights and freedom in their personal affairs as other ordinary decent citizens."

A leading provincial newspaper, the Liverpool Daily Post, comes out uncompromisingly on the side of opponents of the marriage.

In an editorial it declares: "Private inclination and interest must give way to public duty."

Referring to the Royal Family as the link which united the British Commonwealth, the editorial says:

"It is nevertheless a link that can only be maintained if the link does not receive that support from the rest of the family which she, and we, have the right to expect."

Hostility to Butler Budget Shocks British Government

LONDON (Reuters) — Government supporters today expressed shock at the wide hostility aroused by the emergency mini-budget hastily unveiled Wednesday by R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer.

The stepping-up of the purchase tax, with a 66⅔ per cent levy on "luxuries" even the humble rolling pin, caused immediate dismay even among a section of the government's own parliamentary supporters.

A flood of immediate critical reactions from trade interest ranging from automobile manufacturers to small shopkeepers was followed today by blame-throwers almost every section of the press.

Newspaper criticism of Butler's budget is concentrated particularly on the chancellor's failure to make simultaneous reductions in public expenditure.

The independent and influential London Times says many had hoped Butler would take the opportunity "to get current public expenditure down to a more manageable level to prevent the economy being so heavily loaded than it suggested at the impact of every moderate economic disturbance."

To them there is almost total disappointment."

The pro-government Daily Telegraph says that, taken as a whole, the chancellor of Butler's budget was "a disappointment." He had treated the whole argument for a reduction in government expenditure "with less than either his usual accuracy or his usual logic."

The Daily Herald, voice of the labor opposition, calls it "a bad deal budget."

It is a budget sharpened into a sword and turned exclusively against the living standards of the people," the newspaper declares, saying that the ordinary people have been asked to make austerity while the wealthy kept the millions Butler had given them in the spring budget.

Two Are Killed, Five Injured In 3-Car Crash

HAMILTON (CP)—Two persons were killed and five injured Wednesday in a three-car pileup on Highway 2a, about 10 miles southeast of here.

Police identified the dead as R.F Winder, 46, Niagara Falls, and Donald Lafleur, 45, of Crowland, driver of two of the cars involved.

LaRose's wife, Rita, was reported in critical condition in hospital here. She was thrown through the windshield of her husband's car.

Also in hospital in less critical condition were the two children of Winder, third car, Mr. and Mrs. George Green of Hamilton, their daughter Patricia, 5, and Mrs. S. Warren of Montreal.

Provincial police said they have conflicting accounts of what happened. Winder's car was believed to have emerged from a sideroad onto the highway and collided with the other two. All three cars were demolished.

British Soldier Dies in Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) British police today fired tear-gas bombs at crowds rioting Cypriots as violence swept two main cities here.

As mobs of anti-British students hurled stones and bricks at club-wielding soldiers in Limassol and Larnaca, the British Army had its first fatality in the months of terrorism on Cyprus.

A corporal died in a hospital to day from wounds received Wednesday night near Paphos when terrorists exploded a hand grenade at an army truck he was in.

U.S. Experts Think Ontario Toll Road Needed

TORONTO (CP) — United States highway officials are convinced a toll highway across southern Ontario from Niagara to Windsor would be logical and feasible, but Ontario legislature select committee on toll roads said Wednesday.

The committee said such a highway is an inevitable development in Ontario's road system, the committee said in a report.

Highway engineers, who recently completed a tour of several toll highways in the U.S., said the U.S. officials felt the four - lane highway from New York to Buffalo and similar highways planned for Michigan would increase the need for such a highway in Ontario.

The committee was told that experience has shown that the traffic flow from one toll highway leads to the need for another.

American officials were confident, the committee reported, that a traffic study by an agency outside the government would show that a proper highway between Fort Erie and Windsor could be paid for by tolls.

CRAZED YOUTH SHOOTS UP HOTEL, THEN KILLS SELF

Police Fired Shots During Siege

TORONTO (CP)—A 22-year-old immigrant, armed with a 12-gauge shotgun, shot and killed himself early today after exchanging shots from of his hotel room with shot for more than an hour.

The senseless bombardment sent guests from the downtown Ford Hotel scurrying for safety, and dozens of police hurrying to the scene, armed with revolvers, shotguns and tear gas.

The immigrant, Zarano Borg, found his shotgun and ammunition before police broke into the fourth-floor room.

Police said they fired only a few shots during the siege. One detective identified variously as George Knowles and Roy Soplett, shot through a window as Borg while Borg was talking on the telephone to the hotel manager.

HIT BY BULLET

The police bullet struck Borg in the right side. Borg is believed to have shot himself after being struck by the police bullet.

Police fired when police, led by Inspector George Holmes, burst into his gas-filled room. He was found in a pool of blood amid fragments of plaster from the shattered walls and ceiling and empty shotgun casings.

His semi-automatic weapon was beside the body.

Although Borg's room, in the east wing of the 19-storey, 15-storey hotel, overlooked busy Dundas street, he did not fire any shots through his window. However, as officers ran down the fourth-floor corridor, Borg reached his gun around the doorway and sent a blast into the ceiling. Police ducked for cover.

An officer, detective John Brewster, went to the lobby and called Borg on the hotel telephone. He asked Borg to come down. Borg replied:

No. There's too many people down there."

Brewster called Borg again. This time Borg said:

"Just leave me alone."

THREW THE BOMB

A policeman then threw a tear gas bomb into the room. He inched along a ledge from an adjoining room and entered the hotel through a window as Borg fired away at the walls. The room looked as though it had escaped through holes in the door. Fragments of the wooden door were ranged from 15 to 25. Nobody was certain of the exact number.

Borg's room was a wreck. There was a big hole in one wall, and the floor was littered with pieces of the floor, sprayed with plaster dust.

The shooting started about 11:30 p.m. as many of the guests were in their dinner-jackets preparing for bed. An hour later firemen and police were still picking up the pieces. One fireman called for an inhalator to revive the gunman, but another one said:

"He doesn't need one. He's full of holes."

Money Ousts Cupid from Front Pages in Wake of Budget News

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP) — Money ousted Cupid from the spotlight in British newspapers.

Front-page attention to Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Townsend shrank to the vanishing point. Instead, the newspapers went in for big headlines on Butler's budget in the Kitchen."

R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, Wednesday raised by 20 per cent the retail tax on everything listed now as luxuries, from paste and automobiles.

What's more, he almost sang compared with the sharp ache in your personal pocketbook!

The editors plainly were happy to have something to talk about other than the royal romance, in which there were few developments visible to the naked eye. These were limited to:

1. The princess, along with the rest of the Royal Family, was a dinner guest at the residence of the Portuguese ambassador. She left half an hour after midnight, alone.

2. Townsend saw Margaret at her residence for an hour and a half yesterday before she went to the dinner.

3. Buckingham Palace disclosed, in response to an inquiry, that the princess will pass up the annual royal film performance next Monday night. It will be the first time in 20 years she has missed it. No reason was given.

4. The first joke about the romance which cracked on a program of the BBC.

Comedian Bill Kerr, pretending to read a newspaper bulletin, said: "Britain facing another crisis—they had tea together again today."

But one thing is sure amid all the speculation.

The British housewife could have bought hand-operated carpet sweepers Wednesday for £3. Today it cost £3 2s.

West Will Offer Reds Guarantees If Germany United

Another Geneva Conference Gets Under Way Thursday

Polly No Expert On Influencing Traffic Cops

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — There's a Crowe in Tampa who wishes a certain parrot would learn when to keep his big mouth shut.

Usually this parrot is a glum old bird. He'll watch television for hours without a word.

Wrestling alone stirs him. When that appears on TV, Polly hops up and down, shrieking: "That's it! You get him!" But less actually worded phrases of encouragement.

A few days ago the parrot became ill. His owner, Frank H. Crowe, took him to a veterinarian.

Arrived home the bird went through a red light and found a traffic officer right at hand.

Crowe explained he reached the intersection just as the light was changing and feared the ill parrot would be jarred to the floor by sudden application of the brakes, so he just coasted through.

Crowe thought he had the officer convinced until the parrot poked his head out the window, looked the policeman right in the eye and squawked:

"You — — — — —!"Deleted is a four-word phrase referring to maternal ancestry).

A ticket followed without further conversation.

GENEVA (AP) — Russia and the Western powers opened another conference here today to see whether they can agree upon a formula for unifying Germany and securing permanent peace in Europe.

Foreign ministers of the Big Four nations settled down to work in the council room of the Palace of Nations at 4:15 p.m.

Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan of Britain, U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay had agreed beforehand to press Russia's V. M. Molotov to accept German unity on Western terms.

They were prepared to confront the Soviet diplomatic chief with a two-part program, offering to guarantee Russia against German aggression in future if Russia will agree to merge East and West Germany through nationwide free elections. The Western ministers are convinced a free German vote would be overwhelmingly anti-Communist.

NO CHANGE EXPECTED

Barring a reversal of established Soviet policy, Molotov was expected to insist that before German can be unified new conditions must be created in Europe by abolishing the north Atlantic alliance and building up a new European wide security system.

Before meeting before the foreign ministers—although not taken into account in pre-conference planning—is the fear that Middle East tensions between Israel and Egypt could flare into full-scale shooting war.

State Secretary Dulles, Foreign Secretary Macmillan and Foreign Minister Pinay are expected to protest to Foreign Minister Molotov about the arms being sent to Egypt, since they deem the Russian government responsible.

SHARETT ON WAY

Israel's Premier Moshe Sharett left tonight from Paris to make his own protest to Molotov and to press for Western arms and protection for Israel. He conferred in Paris Wednesday with Dulles and Macmillan.

The Israeli premier said on arrival that it is up to the civilized world "to see to it that Israel is not called upon to fight again . . . a war it will if she must."

The American and British ministers, along with France's Pinay, are expected to have decided against rushing arms to Israel or formally guaranteeing its security at this time. They evidently hope to redress the situation by other means.

The Middle East question is not particularly one for formal Big Four sessions, but rather for private and dinner-table meetings. Many such side gatherings are expected during the three to four weeks that the Big Four are here.

The Western ministers have arrived in a tougher mood than when they themselves in order to maintain

Austin Watkin New President Of Bowling Club

Enthusiasm over past performances and hopes for continuance of co-operation was expressed at the annual meeting of the Lawn Bowling Club, held at the club house Wednesday evening, when Austin Watkin, a member of the club for many years, was the unanimous choice of the members for the office of president in the coming year.

The reports of the finance, tournament and house committees were given with President Orlo Smith in the chair and every report showed progress during the year, except in the matter of membership. This item was seen in the treasurer's report, when it was shown that the membership had decreased by sixteen from the previous year. Gerald B. Hyde reported for the membership committee showing that receipts were a little above that of last year but there was still a lot of work to be done to keep the competition up to the standard of the club. Argue, who was the chairman from the beginning, handed over the secretary of the committee then presented a sizeable cheque to the club.

In speaking of the Corbin competition, Bruce Miller, a member who had in any way contributed to the success of the tournament and thanked Jack McArthur and Harold Parker for their work. It was decided by the membership to have individual chairmen for the various events that are sponsored by the club so that the tournaments will get the proper support.

Percy Graham, reporting as tournament chairman, stated that the tourneys had far exceeded in revenue those of past years and that was brought about by Asst. Gerald Hyde and his father sponsoring each tournament and the O'Keefe Brewing Company sponsoring sunshine cup. The Corbin tournament was a decided success and probably in the years to come will equal the Corbin in attractiveness to outside bowlers.

PRESIDENT THANKS ALL

Before turning over the chair to the incoming president, Orlo Smith sincerely thanked all, who in any way had contributed to the successful year just passed. Particular mention was made for some members, who did outstanding work for the club. Garn Dobbs as greens chairman; Gordon Edwards as treasurer were thanked and especially the greens-keeper, Jack Smith, for his faithful loyalty to the club.

In accepting the office of president, Austin Watkin thanked the members for the honor conferred on him and hoped the same co-operation would be shown him as has been shown to presidents in other years. The president stated he was determined to balance the budget and suggested drives for 25 new members would be made. He thought there were too many losers and not enough wins among the members of the club. He also drew attention to decorum and secretary should be appointed for that task. The secretary was also handled separately in the club the same as the Corbin competition is handled.

The illness of Cliff Argue was mentioned and the members all wished for a speedy recovery for a member who has materially assisted the club through the years. He was made an Honorary President of the club. After the nominating committee had proposed a slate of officers for the coming year, a spirited election was held and the following were elected;

EXECUTIVES

Honorary Presidents, R. J. Wray, Cliff Z. Argue;

President, Austin Watkin;

Vice-president, Orlo Smith;

Secretary, Claude D. Tice;

Treasurer, Gordon L. Edwards;

Executive Committee, Ernie Jones, George McGee, Jack McArthur, Bruce Miller, H. J. Sidervocrs, and Gordon Watkin;

Auditors, Doug Row, Harold Parker.

Ernie Jones, chairman of the club games committee presented Fred Harper and Ken Bulford with trophies for winning the doubles championship of the club. Ernie Vance, Ernie Jones and W. Murdoch for winning the trebles title.

The doubles pair of Bruce Miller and Gordon Watkin, who brought distinct honor to the club by winning the Ontario Doubles title and were sponsored in the Canadian championships held in Hamilton were honored by the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, when the president, Orlo Smith presented them with a scroll from the Association. Gordon Watkin on behalf of the team thanked for the honor and expressed his pleasure of winning for the local club the Ontario Doubles title and stated the same team would be after further honors next summer.

He Was No Spy, But Laundryman After Business

YOKOHAMA (AP) — Japanese officials today indicted a Chinese laundryman on charges of spying for the United States naval base at nearby Yokosuka.

But a U. S. navy statement indicated that the laundryman merely was passing information to beat out his competitors for laundry business from navy ships.

The Yokohama prosecutors office identified the Chinese as Ku Yuan-pin, 34, and said he had collected information from navy personnel about operation of the base and movement of warships. An American spokesman said, however, that "the navy investigation has to do with suppression of passing classified information on ship arrivals to two Chinese laundrymen who used that information to gain an advantage over their competitors in the ships' shore laundry business."

Reduce Murder Charge in Fatal Beating of Child

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Robert Edward Randell, 27, of Embro Wednesday was committed for trial on a reduced charge of manslaughter when magistrate Mitchell ruled there was insufficient evidence to warrant committal for trial on a murder count.

The charge arose from the Sept. 13 death of Randell's three-year-old stepdaughter, Cynthia Falconer from a beating. He was ordered held without bail.

Major crown witness at Wednesday's preliminary hearing was Dr. John Pennliston of Stratford, pathologist who performed the autopsy.

Dr. Pennliston testified that the cause of death was "surgical shock due to multiple superficial injuries." Crown attorney A. C. Whaley asked Dr. Pennliston to define superficial injuries because to most people superficial injuries meant slight injuries.

Dr. Pennliston replied that superficial injuries mean injuries to the surface of the body as opposed to internal injury.

Dr. Pennliston said he found that bruises on the back ran from the base of the neck to halfway between the knees and ankles. He said "the bruises were so numerous it was impossible to distinguish one from another."

Only 'Fancy' Apples Will Go to Britain

OTTAWA — With the limited reopening of the United Kingdom market for Canadian apples in the past year and the development of strong international competition for a share of the market it has become necessary to ship only the better grades.

To ensure that only the better grades are shipped, the Department of Agriculture announced that it is considered desirable to limit shipments to the United Kingdom to "Canada Extra Fancy" and "Canada Fancy" grades for all varieties except Golden Delicious which may still be shipped at the minimum grade of "Canada No. 1."

Effective immediately, therefore, inspectors are instructed to withhold certificates for "Canada No. 1" grade on all varities of apples except Golden Russet when shipments are destined for United Kingdom markets.

Asks Government Assist in Care Of Drug Addicts

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hospitals Association Wednesday urged the provincial government to take a hand in the care and study of drug addicts.

A resolution passed at the final session of the annual meeting proposed that the government give consideration to the development of facilities to assist in the care of addicts.

Establishment of an institution similar to the Ontario Alcoholism Research Foundation was suggested.

Speakers said general hospitals try to avoid admitting narcotics patients because of the special care and attention they require and the length of the treatment period. Ontario hospitals, operated by the government, handle patients who apply to them but there was no clear-cut definition of their authority to do so.

Tales of Screams Spark Manhunt In Chicago Area

CHICAGO (AP) — Reports of screams during the night of Oct. 16 had police searching two sparsely settled areas of Chicago's northwest side today for clues to the brutal slaying of three young boys.

The nude bodies of the strangled, beaten youths — Robert Peterson, 14, John Schuessler, 13, and his brother Anton, 11—were found in a forest preserve just northwest of the city limits Oct. 18. An autopsy showed that they were killed two days earlier.

So far police have uncovered no real leads to a solution of the ghastly crime. They haven't even determined where the youngsters were killed.

Two persons living near a dumping ground northeast of the woods where the bodies were found have reported hearing muffled screams shortly before midnight Sunday, Oct. 16.

Police searching the area Wednesday found that the ground in some places is covered by a greasy film. The stain boys had dark, oily stains on their feet.

Two residents of an area farther west, in which several riding stables are located, also reported hearing screams the same night. Detectives said they were paying particular attention to the stables in searching that area since they believe, on the basis of the foot stains, that the boys either were killed or held captive for a while in a dirty place such as a stable or garage.

Farmer's Dream Of Son Growing To Manhood Fades

WINNIPEG (CP) — An old farmer's dream that the son he lost 38 years ago lived and grew to manhood faded today.

The step-mother and step-brothers of Ray Johnson Tharp of Turaz, Sask., said they are certain he is not the son of Alfred Emmes, 72, of Ideal, Man.

Emmes' son, Ernest, disappeared from the family farm in 1917 when he was three years old. One theory was that someone had spirited him away. Another was that he had fallen prey to wild animals.

But Emmes never surrendered his hope and his searches led him to Ray Tharp. He said Tharp had a scar on the second finger of his left hand that was the same as one Ernest had as a baby.

MOTHER KNOWN

However, Mrs. John Tharp, 69, now Mrs. Fred Church, said Wednesday night in Teulon, Man., that she was given her stepchild by his mother, a waitress named Netty Parker, in Wilcox, Sask., in 1911, long before Ernest Emmes' disappearance.

There was no formal adoption she said, but she raised the boy as her own.

In Winnipeg step-brothers Abner and Frank Tharp said they are certain Ray could not be Emmes' son.

Date Stone of New High School Truly Laid by Sen. Fraser

TRENTON (Special) — Brilliant sunshine poured down through openings of grey overcast yesterday, when Senator A. C. Fraser, with trowel in hand, laid the date stone in the new $200,000 high school at the west limits of the town. The ceremony attracted large numbers of school children and leading citizens of the town. The Trenton High School air cadet band was in attendance.

The silver trowel used in the official ceremony was presented to the Senator by a member of the Trenton Board of Education, Hubert Campbell. The engraved inscription of the trowel read: "Presented to the Hon. W. A. Fraser by the Board of Education on the occasion of Laying the Date Stone Trenton High School, October 26, 1955." Mr. Campbell introduced Senator Fraser by calling the many accomplishments that led up to his becoming Trenton's outstanding citizen. Mr. Campbell spoke on behalf of the Board of Education.

SPEAKER GIVES ADVICE

Senator Fraser offered advice to parents and school children in his remarks. He contended that the lives of today's children were influenced in the home, church and school. "It is my opinion, that if anyone of the three are allowed to fall down the child is missing something in his training." He maintained that it was the duty of parents to discipline children before entering school. "It is the duty of the church to guide them," he said, "and children should be taught the fundamentals that make good citizens and pupils of the paintial edifice of education available for their learning."

Senator Fraser wondered if the boys and girls of today appreciated the pleasant conditions under which they live. He asked if they appreciated the sacrifice the people who made it possible for them to enjoy all the freedom that predominate this country affords. He felt that the boys and girls of today were better looking, in better health and dressed better than 70 years ago because of the sacrifices of the people before them. "They have an advantage they should exercise as citizens of Canada," he declared. "You are living in the best country in the world, make it your job to become a good citizen," he advised in conclusion.

Senator Fraser complimented architect Burwell R. Coon B.A.Sc.

A copper box containing newspapers carrying articles about the new school, photographs, and other documents was placed in the stone by Katherine Lonergan, president of the Students' Council.

OFFICIALS GREETED

Mayor Ross Burtt greeted the officials on the platform and welcomed school children and the public to the ceremony.

A. Cummins, Inspector for Public Schools, Belleville, brought words of congratulations from the Hon. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario, and officials of the Department of Education. He considered the ceremony a great step forward in the education of Trenton and the addition to Trenton's educational facilities a symbol of the great growth of the province. "Trenton is particularly fortunate," he said, stressing that the acquisition of the new high school was a step forward in the development of "better and better education for children here."

Chairman of the Board of Education, Grant Rathbun, said the laying of the date stone was a landmark in the educational progress in Trenton. He welcomed interested parents, ratepayers, service club members and citizens. He paid thanks to M. Sullivan Construction company, the general contractors.

Went Without Dinner to Buy Sweeps Ticket

SOUTH BERWICK, Me. (AP)—A 40-year-old shoe cutter, who went without dinner to buy a $3 Irish sweepstakes ticket, won $140,000 Wednesday on the Irish sweepstakes.

"I'm going to rest for a while after a shock like this," said Richard St. Laurent, who was informed of his luck while working. "It was the first sweepstake ticket I ever bought," said St. Laurent, who earns $80 a week. A tax expert estimated that St. Laurent, father of four daughters, will be able to keep about $60,554 after taxes.

THE SPADINA ELECTION

There are several interesting features about the Federal by-election in the riding of Toronto-Spadina, won by the Progressive Conservative candidate, Charles E. Rea.

There will be general satisfaction at the failure of J. B. Salsberg, the Communist candidate, to come even close to challenging the leadership of the winning candidate and his Liberal rival. As Mr. Salsberg is a man of admitted ability and energy, and as he had represented the riding for thirteen years in the Ontario Legislature, this is pleasing proof that the voters of Spadina are no longer willing to regard Mr. Salsberg's personal attributes as justifying a disregard of his political convictions. This is as it should be.

The victory of the Progressive Conservative candidate will be received with general elation by supporters of that party, but two factors ought not to be overlooked. One is the fact that the character of the electorate may have changed since Donald Arthur David Croll won the seat in 1953. Immigration and Toronto's rapid growth, accompanied by the tide to the suburbs, has made this true of many of the old Toronto ridings. Secondly, one wonders how much of Senator Croll's 13,000 margin over his Progressive Conservative opponent was a tribute to Croll the man, rather than to Croll the Liberal politician.

The Canadian Press report pointed out that the 6,708 votes obtained by Charles E. Rea, the winning candidate, was a total "only slightly larger than the 6,554 polled by the losing Progressive Conservative candidate in 1953." But since the total vote in the riding declined by almost 8,000, with the Liberal vote dropping from 13,489 to 6,108, Mr. Rea's relatively larger" vote was, in fact, a very impressive achievement.

SANTA IS COMING TO TOWN!

Santa Claus is coming to town!

The jolly old saint always does put in an annual appearance, in every city, town, village and hamlet throughout the nation but the reference is not to his business call on Christmas Eve but to the reconnaissance trip at a more leisurely pace which most communities are privileged to witness earlier in December.

Belleville children will not be surprised to learn that the city's firemen have played a leading role in arranging such a trip for Santa.

The firemen have already earned the gratitude of the young generation of Bellevillians, for their supervision of a playground and for assistance in the city's program of sport.

Sometimes we wonder whether all Belleville residents realize how fortunate they are to have a fire department where the members display this spirit.

By the very nature of their work, firemen are not busy every minute of their working day. If they were it would be bad news indeed for the city. They also serve who only sit and wait, but this is not always recognized. There are communities where the firemen are the object of continual criticism for their "inactivity". One does not hear irresponsible talk of this nature in this city. For that the firemen can thank themselves. Nobody is going to "fire their fire wagon" while the long list of youngsters they have befriended have a say—and that is a comforting situation not only for the firemen but for property owners generally who would be the heaviest losers by any misguided campaign against the department.

DOG-GONE RIGHT!

It has been established, legally, that in the United States a vicious dog has no right to bite a public servant. It has further been agreed that a public servant in danger of being bitten has the right to kick a vicious dog in self defence.

The Court of Appeal of the Civil Service Commission at Washington brought forth the latter intelligence. In Oklahoma a dispute concerning the case of a postman who had been dismissed for kicking a vicious dog in self defence recommended that he be reinstated.

Common sense would seem to govern man's relation to the bad behavior of dogs but unfortunately, common sense has been sorely tried with respect to the treatment of dogs and other animals by a sincere but mis-directed concern for animal welfare.

It is encouraging to note that common sense has at last been given official recognition by judicial recommendations that will ease the hardship of dog owners.

The recent ruling from Oklahoma brings to mind the story of a postman who was hailed into court for protecting himself against a dog with a pitchfork. The dog's owner, in his complaint against the postman, if he had been truly frightened by the dog, could have protected himself by attacking the dog not with the tines but with "the other end" of the pitchfork.

The postman's succinct reply was to the effect that he would have used the handle "if the dog had attacked with its other end."

"Industry" a publication of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, recently started a story, "Each time a telephone rings in the office of a Canadian stock exchange, a new line is written in the optimistic chronicle of Canadian business."

Fairies Slight Kangaroos

(The Times of London)

A kangaroo escaped from the Bristol Zoo recently and enjoyed an hour's liberty during which it visited a high speed smong cars and buses whose drivers stopped in astonishment. It is not clear whether the astonishment registered in the faces of the drivers reflected their wonder at the agility of the animal or surprise and incredulity at its existence.

The vast majority of the British public is not on terms of personal acquaintance with lions and elephants, tigers and giraffes, yet somehow these impressive creatures are familiar, as the kangaroo is not. They are, as it were, Noah's Ark animals, at one in woodcut unity with the denizens of the farmyard, and have been lined up two by two on the nursery floor; they and others like them, are the favored inhabitants of the Jungle Book; they populate the myths and legends of childhood lore. The kangaroo, on the other hand, had the misfortune to belong to a continent that was discovered too late, and although Mr. A. A. Milne included Kanga and Roo among the friends of Christopher Robin, the remains on the outside of the charmed circle.

Not only did the kangaroo come on the scene too late; but his background is not what it should be—he lives in the wrong landscape. The fairy tale and the animal story seem by their nature to demand woods and jungles, whereas the kangaroo, although he can be at home in these, is equally attached to mounds and leaping over treeless wastes. But the fathers of children whose good fortune it is to encounter magical beings and animals endowed with the gift of speech and, in the end, to marry their daughters were required to fill up forms, and the word 'wood-cutter' would never with monotonous regularity in the space reserved for occupation. The difference between the woodcutter's world and that of the kangaroo family is a great and fixed one—Goldilocks, for instance, could never have found herself entangled in the domestic affairs of three kangaroos.

Nevertheless, the kangaroo is an animal of character, with qualities to recommend it other than its endearing and individualistic manner of carrying its young. It is altogether unfair that, when it does get any publicity, it should be forced to appear sporting a ridiculous little cricket cap and engaged in a conversation with a lion carrying a bat. Kangaroos have the right to feel insulted—sprinkbroks, incidentally, are seldom forced into the indignity of wearing anything more ruggee shorts —and the citizens of Clifton who saw one in action, however rare and incongruous the setting, saw a thing of power and beauty.

Diagnosis

(Winnipeg Tribune)

An ulcer sufferer on the bus the other day said he attributed his condition to ten years of working between a guy who whistled and one who knocks out his pipe against the side of his seat.

Prohibit Or Regulate?

(Hamilton Spectator)

There are two main approaches to the control of prized filth in the form of so-called comics of sex, crime and horror. One is to tackle it at a source, as if it were a narcotic drug and ban it outright. The other is to handle it like liquor, regulate its distribution at the point of sale.

Five years ago, Parliament took the former course with an amendment to the Criminal Code which makes it illegal to "make, print, publish, distribute or sell" crime comics. Its success has been dubious.

Now Mr. Arl Child proposes that the Legislature try the other method. He announced that he will introduce a private bill prohibiting the sale of "crime comics, horror and illicit sex publications" to persons under eight, ten. It is questionable whether he can count on any greater success than Parliament has had.

Mr. Child contends that his legislation would work in the same way as that which forbids the sale of liquor to bee to minors. There is, however, a considerable difference. The tavern keeper knows what is in his bottles: he only owns on him is not to pour it for costumers who are legally too young to drink. But the periodical operator, however, would have a different onus: he would have to decide which of the publications in his racks were in fact "crime comics, horror and illicit sex publications" within the meaning of the bill.

Mr. Child has asked: "If we get into censorship—and that's the point from which this problem has been attacked in the past—who's going to censor what we read?" Is to say what's right or wrong?" It is a valid question. It is the basic question in whole business of controlling printed filth. Any censorship must be implicit in regulating the sale of muck as it is in forbidding it to children in the first place? Is Mr. Child not proposing, in effect, to shift the onus of censorship from down the to the unfortunate little man at the end, who is peddling the stuff, to whoever for the job, and to impose on him th a responsibility for "saying what's right or wrong"?

With all due respect to the author of the bill, however, we admire his courage in grasping one of the nastiest of today's social ills it seems to us that the solution to the problem of printed pollution is likely to be found in the federal approach — only executed better.

The present Criminal Code section is simply not broad enough. Nor tough enough. The publishers of crime comics is hauled up before a magistrate's court where the worst he can expect is a fine of $1,000 or less—an amount which fas a Mr. E. Davie Fulton, the Conservative Justice critic, pointed out in the chief parliamentary foe of the bill, would be a mere licence fee in effect just a liceence fee to allow the printer to stay in business. The two, together, involving a prison term, as the comparable law in the United Kingdom now does, and if the prohibition were extended more broadly over gore and horror fields, there would be no need to regulate the sale. Ignore it, and ignore the muck would not be there to sell.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A surprising statement was in the newspapers recently with a very high, if not the highest accident rate on the highways.

The holiday motors could be in this situation were not stated. That the highways are overcrowded at time of traffic, as compared to the spring and summer months, might be true. But motorists can't drive faster, approach sideroads with less alertness in the autumn. Pavements are sometimes in poor condition, but pavement is improving. Shoulders have shrunk and washed away. There have been more leaves on the road in October than other months.

But a gas station attendant gave me a surprising angle. I was on an extended motor trip through Saskatchewan, Green and White Mountains to see the autumn colors, which are more than fine, perhaps anywhere else on earth except the less accessible Laurentians, square mile for square mile. I mentioned to the serviceman that I had a nasty scare a few miles back when a white-headed old typhen with a car full of elderly women, had cut in on me on a sideroad, and I had to swerve one inch of side-swiping me.

"Yep," said the Outlander, "you got to be alert in October. The roads are crowded with elderly drivers. These old boys have got on motor trips after the kids are off the highways, and they are just as many of these old fellows as there are young ones. They are crazy kids that go cow-boyin' over the road in autumn. Many of them have no right to be at the steering wheel at all. They have been failing for twenty years. Their eyesight has grown poor, so has their speed or less. Their muscles are drying up, as they ought to know, even from walking up and down stairs. Yet they sit at the wheel and creep along at sixty and seventy miles an hour, with an air of the greatest confidence in me.

Well, that point on, I took note of the number of elderly drivers on the October highways, and it was astonishingly high. Perhaps the gas-group has something to do with October's casualty list.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SAY THE NICE THINGS

I like to hear nice things said about anyone, but especially about those people I always a greeting and big-hearted thing to do.

Who are we to judge another person? So many times we have failed to say something heartening who tells me that for many years it was planned, but neglected. It is nice to get letters in life. As Dr. Samuel Johnson once said: "No letters are delivered to the grave."

Say the nice things you have thought for so long you would like to say—and say them today—now. You may give your friend a shock, but it will be a pleasant one. Not only in letters, however, should nice things be said to another, but through word of mouth. It's really wonderful how nice things, in words, do. Often they are embellished in transit.

Say the nice things about a man or woman upon his or her entering a party or gathering, showing by a sign that that person has dignity and character. We couldn't have a party without saying something mean about a person we only knew by hearsay. Then we could say something nice! We can always have that privilege. It would be like turning on an extra light!

You need never regret saying something nice about a person, but you may regret bitterly saying something mean about a person behind someone never met or known. Saying nice things may be to a potential friend!

Obligations of Old Folks (2)

That game, or active hobby you are learning and enjoying (which you should have learned way back in high school), that fun which takes you out in the open air with your friends, can also allow you to return to the home of your children or their children, feeling self-confident, relaxed, and comfortable enough to let them live their own lives.

Perhaps the angriest howls of young folks arise against old folks are aimed at this strange insistance of the old folks upon running the lives of their grown ones. (The second-loudest howls are caused by the time and service demanded by the old folks. And next time we'll speak of this necessary evil.)

You came by your wisdom through living, not through your parents' interference. Your children must follow the same path.

You cannot save them from learning. You would not, if you could. So why try? If they are not idiots, they can read, listen, watch, grow. You will not save them the pitfalls if you tell them, nor the agonies you're so well aware of, by telling them what to do. You can only postpone their education. So stand by, ready with the cold cure and the hearty tent and suffer them to bat their heads against the same old stone walls you found your self, matter what warnings or threats you bring forth they'll have to bit it out for themselves, if not now, then later, when you're not around to help them.

One great theologian said to his parishioners, when they asked for guidance in spiritual matters or rather, family matters, "I don't think I can advise you at this time, for I don't yet know what you've planned to do."

TV Phone On Its Way

(Calgary Albertan)

Whether we like it or not the TV-telephone is on its relentless way into modern life. After making a successful demonstration in San Francisco its sponsors are now predicting that the telephones with a view of the speaker will be a normal feature of North American life "probably in the 1960's."

This gimmick is frightening in its social impact. It can prove not a little embarrassing too as it turns the privacy of the home into the glare of public view. Yet it can be distinctly useful in business and industry.

While the TV-telephone could provide a vital link with the police system for catching criminals it could also give a government unlimited power. That prophet, George Orwell would be right again.

Stamp Machine Has Sales Talk

(Milwaukee Journal)

Postmasters at their convention in Boston have had been introduced a talking stamp machine. You put in the coin, and your ear drummed on the machine says:

"Now buy some more and save a lot." Then, as you wait, it calls: "Thank you, these stamps are sanitary."

A major company is putting a new pair of men's shorts on the market. They have a red left leg, a green right leg and a white seat—and they're called "port-and-starboard."

There's a new tooth paste that comes in bourbon, Scotch and rye flavors.

In Canada there's a new insurance company that will sell auto insurance to drivers of all ages.

What's it all add up?—Well, one thing at least. If you're caught in the web of those shorts talking back to a stamp machine with absorbent teeth paste and breath, you can't buy any of that Canadian auto insurance.

U.S. Will Man Radar Line

(Windsor Star)

The issue of outside assistance for the manning of Canadian defences has been raised again as a result of reports that up to 2,000 U.S. armed services personnel will operate the American-built DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line across the Canadian Arctic.

The exact number of U.S. servicemen stationed in the Arctic comes under the heading of "classified information for security reasons," but it is estimated some 15,000 are divided between the three bases in a minor diversion, Ernandland, Fort Churchill, Edmonton and along the Pinetree radar warning line.

It has been suggested that Canada will have to either come up with subscription or depend to a much larger extent on U.S. forces for its defence. Alternatively, the help of Canada's NATO partners, apart from the United States, might be sought. All this discussion seems to be out of pers pective.

Military authorities are agreed that the defence of Canada's northern territory by airborne ground forces, except in a minor diversionary attack, is scarcely feasible. To resist a minor assault, Canada has a highly mobile airborne brigade. The military experts believe this should be sufficient for so far as land defence is concerned for a long time ahead. Anti-aircraft defence comprises mainly a number of interceptor squadrons which rely on radar control from several lines of radar stations. Some of these squadrons are stationed in the United States and Uncle Sam also has squadrons in Canada.

The principle of U.S.-Canadian joint defence of North America is undisputed. But so that Canada would have the feeling as well as the substance of sovereignty, it is of course desirable that the matter of troop stations there should be Canadian. There seems to be no danger it will be otherwise in the foreseeable future, largely by Canadians.

Our Arctic Old as Egypt

(Ottawa Journal)

These-kilometre belts of pottery and arrowheads as delicately formed as if they were made by a watch were being used on an Arctic plateau while the Egyptians were building the pyramids 4,500 years ago.

That is the fascination of the discovery made on the Firth River by Dr. MacNeish of the National Museum of Canada and others on an archeological expedition.

The British have found their islands for less than 2,000 years, and the Egyptians have been in the Nile Valley for 6,000 years. Yet we have thought of them as very old and leave little thought to the possibility that in North America there were long horns and were dying thousands of years ago.

The cautious Dr. MacNeish declines to say, until radiocative dating tests have been made, how old are the bones he found beside the ancient tools twenty miles from the Arctic Ocean. But he concedes that the pottery remains were similar to Siberian finds 3,000 to 5,000 years old and the stone tools like the arrow-head can be thousands of years older than that. He has uncovered the traces of nine different villages, some previously unknown to North America.

No Valley of the Kings, this bleak eminence was not a necropolis of the dead awaited for the deer or other game now vanished from the earth. Neither is that treasure in the sense of gold or inlaid thrones will ever be found in the sands.

But there is magic here in the unfolding of a story we have missed and can only share the excitement of the archaeologists who turn the pages as they dig in the rubble and ice.

Even with the additional U.S. dar personnel for the DEW line, the Defence Minister told the House of Commons last session that all the radar stations will be eventually manned largely by Canadians.

The Search for The Day

TRAIN UP A CHILD

The Bible says to train up a child in the way he should go, and when he becomes a man, he will not depart from it.

The modern idea has arisen that children are not to be trained up in the way they should go. They are to be left to themselves. They are like seeds which need only sunshine and fertile soil and little care to cause them to develop into a life full of beauty. The idea is that the only safety for the validity of the inner life which, if given a chance to develop, will grow into something strong and beautiful. But the Bible does not liken a person to a seed, which needs only to be developed. Man is a creature who, with divine help, must be led into the experience of being a child of God. This requires something more than sunshine and love. Man is also a creature of the earth, and the storm and the rocky ledge and the poor soil have much to do with producing the statelliness and strength of the tree, as the fertile soil and sunshine.

Yes, train up a child—and do not be afraid to do it. The whole scheme of family life has been constructed on the assumption that you know more than the child in your charge. Of course, you ought to be either in jail or in an asylum, and the child should be in an orphanage.

First Commencement Exercises At Secondary School Success

Ninety - nine students at the Quinte Secondary School received Intermediate certificates at the school's first commencement exercises Wednesday afternoon.

An impressive number of parents and friends of the students attended the exercises, which featured an address by Mr. A. O. Drysdale, the presentation of certificates by principal L. F. Reid, a brief musical program and a reception in the cafeteria. A students' tea dance concluded the afternoon program.

"The most helpful judgment an employer has of a prospective employee's ability is his 'teacher's opinion' of him," said Mr. Drysdale.

"Some of the best workers we have have only a public school education, but generally speaking, given two groups of men of equal number, one group with grade 8 or less and the other with a high school education — you can expect to find a greater number of suitable employees amongst the high school graduate group."

"I would say that 90 per cent of the jobs in the average industrial plant do not require any more than a public school education, but it is in that remaining 10 per cent group that most of the chances for advancement occur. These are the jobs you should be preparing yourself for."

"In our complex society, the ability of a man to perform a certain job is only part of what we expect of that man. The working-man needs more than just skill and smartness — qualities of character are more important — stability, tolerance, co-operation and self-restraint.

"Man is an unsolved mystery and there is no slide rule that will tell you whether a prospective employee will be good on a particular job. But I believe that you will find in the high school group a greater percentage of young men, who have these qualities of character.

RESENTFUL MEN NOT WANTED

"We don't like a resentful man who cultivates a criticizing discontentment, who deprecates authority and passes judgment on company policy. Industry expects each employee to do his own thinking. He should have the ability to study facts, assimilate information, come to a conclusion and act accordingly.

Mr. Drysdale, using the analogy of an industrial process to illustrate his points about education, said that "parents supplied the raw material, the school power supplied the material, teachers supply quality, control and business, industry and the pensioners are the customers.

"Having been particularly interested in the construction and equipping of this fine building, now, as in my business I am interested in the product.

"May I wish your students every success in your efforts and ambitions," he concluded.

Mr. Drysdale, superintendent of the Canada Cement Company plant at Point Anne and a member of the Bay of Quinte district high school board, was introduced by Mr. E. A. Craighead and thanked by student Mac Haig.

The commencement exercises opened with a processional of those receiving certificates and the staff to music supplied by a student group. Singing of the school song by all students was followed by two songs by the choir, "Jesu, Son of God," by Mozart, and a lively ditty entitled "Rowing Song."

Principal L. F. Reid welcomed parents and guests, including Mr. A. E. Hall, principal of the Belleville collegiate, and Mr. Roy Dulmage, secretary of the school board.

He explained that the intermediate certificate, since the discontinuance of the Grade 8 diploma is important because it is the first recognition of completion of a vital portion of the student's education.

Mr. Reid, assisted by Mr. Jack Sisson, distributed certificates to 99 intermediate graduates.

Mr. Roy Sills, chairman of the Bay of Quinte district high school board, and chairman of the program, brought greetings to students and guests from the board.

He congratulated students for their progress and urged them to be diligent in their studies.

"The board is happy with the principal and the staff," he said. "We chose them carefully because teachers have great opportunity and great responsibility of molding the lives of their students."

"I am happy to say there is good co-operation between our two (high) schools. We expect and hope for a friendly rivalry. Already the students at this school are developing a school spirit and an esprit de corps".

EUCHRE PARTY

A lovely party was enjoyed Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Bentley, South George Street, for the bride-to-be Miss Marion Joslyn.

Euchre was played. The winners were: Mrs. Betty Adams, Mrs. Margaret Pringle and Mrs. Jeanette Green. The room was decorated with beautiful streamers and a buffet supper was served. Some 32 guests were present from Trenton and Belleville.

Weddings

OSTLER—WHITE

White 'mums and white gladioli formed the setting in Wall Street United Church, Brockville, for a pretty wedding at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, November 17, when Miss Carole Ann White, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. White, 361 King street west, Brockville, become the bride of John Gilbert Ostler, fifth son of Mr and Mrs. John Russell Ostler, 20 Broad Street, Brockville. Wedding music was played by William Tufford.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of oyster colored satin with scoop neck line, full skirt and short sleeves. Her long gloves and shoes were of the same shade as the dress and she wore a small velour hat in oyster shade, with veil to match, with sequins. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of bronze 'mums.

Mrs. Elizabeth Williams of Trenton, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and wore a street length dress of Dior blue chrysaline. She carried a Colonial nosegay of yellow and bronze 'mums with a large 'mum in the centre.

Mr. Calvin White, 361 King Street West, Brockville, brother of the bride, was groomsman and Mr. Welland Williams, of Trenton, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was usher.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where refreshments were served. Assisting in receiving the guests were the parents of the bridal couple. Mrs. White wore a two-piece ensemble of black and copper rodier wool, with black accessories, and Mrs. Ostler wore a blue-grey taffeta dress with scoop neckline and matching accessories.

After a wedding trip by motor the bride and bridegroom have taken up residence in Brockville. For going away the bride donned a suit with brown skirt and rose pebbly box jacket and brown accessories.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Montreal, Trenton and Athens.

Teachers Meet At Bancroft

BANCROFT — Over 40 teachers of the Central and North Hastings Local of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation met on Monday, October 24th in North Hastings High School.

The meeting was opened by Mr. A. F. Zeltler, staff representative for N. H. S. Mr. Gordon Wragg, principal of N. H. H. S. welcomed the visiting teachers.

Mr. L. F. Reid of the Quinte Secondary School, Belleville, president of district No. 10 O.S.S.T.F. was introduced by Mr. H. R. Cross, president of C. and N. H. Local.

SECONDARY S. PROBLEMS

After Mr. Reid outlined some of the problems facing Secondary School teachers of the Province, the meeting turned to a discussion of some of the matters to be discussed at the district meeting in Belleville. This chiefly concerned problems of increasing the number of teachers and improving the status of the teaching profession. It was decided to hold two meetings of the Local each year with the fall meeting in Bancroft and the spring meeting in Madoc.

After the meeting adjourned, refreshments were provided under the supervision of Mrs. G. Wragg, head of the home economics department of N. H. H. S.

Crippled Children Guests at Christmas Party

Santa Claus came early for crippled children in Belleville and Trenton when on Saturday they were guests of the Women of the Moose at a Christmas party held at the Moose hall. Among the handicapped kiddies at the party held to celebrate Mooseheart Day were Sharon Rushlow, Betty Ann Allen, Jeannie Grier and Larry Seamen, shown above with Santa.

On Saturday afternoon, the Women of the Moose held a Christmas party in the Moose Hall for the handicapped children of Belleville. Five visitors from Trenton were present.

This party was held early to celebrate Mooseheart Christmas which, this year, October 27, to ensure that all monies and gifts will be at Mooseheart so that no child will be left out at Christmas.

The children were brought to the hall by car so that the party would be under way by 2.00 p.m. Those who transported the children were, Hazel Whitmarsh, Myra Kaiser, Jennie Soule, Norm Bartlet and Art Hansen.

CHRISTMAS TREE

The hall was decorated in Christmas style with all the trimmings, including a Christmas tree in front of the hall, beautifully decorated with gifts and candy.

A sing-song was held with all the children taking part. The singing was led by Co-worker Nellie Shandraw and accompanied by the pianist, Irene Reed.

As the pianist played "Jingle Bells", Santa Claus appeared in the doorway dancing and singing. He went around to the children hugging and kissing them. He was then given a chair in front of the room, where a large chair awaited him and had the children sing a song especially for him.

The gifts were then given to each child by Santa with a large bag of Christmas candy and nuts. Santa Claus was assisted by Ruth Mintz and Marian Madden.

Santa talked to many of the children but then had to leave as he said he had a lot to prepare for the tree in front of the hall, beautifully decorated with gifts and candy.

Another sing-song was with the children, little Betty Anne Allen sang a solo while she put her new doll to sleep.

Enticing refreshments consisting of sandwiches, fancy cookies and hot chocolate were served. Each child was given a Christmas cracker with a hat.

Pictures were taken by Mr. Peacock.

The refreshments were convened by Co-worker Elizabeth Simpson, with Co-workers Emily Jefferies, Mrs. Jales, Mrs. Brimen, Nellie Scrymgeour, Audrey Donley, Nellie Shandraw, Irene McMurter, Edith Burrows, Sr. Regt. Mary Van Dusen and Marian Madden.

The children were then taken home.

The party was convened by Child Care chairman Ruth Mintz.

Canadian Soprano Sings to Self To Perfect Voice

By RUSSELL ELMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Singing to herself is one of Canadian soprano Mary Bothwell's usual daily tasks.

For hours each day this golden-haired Torontonian, one of North America's few native "Lieder" singers, shuts herself up in a sound-proof Park avenue apartment with a tape recorder. Then she studies recordings of her voice as part of a rigorous schedule in preparation for her concerts.

Miss Bothwell's exhaustive study are necessary in mastering Lieder (the German word for songs), a type of art song in which the singer's interpretation is all-important. Usually composed to texts from Germany's lyric poets, the music is designed to follow the meaning of the words more closely than is usual in musical settings of poems.

YEAR'S PREPARATION

"To be a Lieder singer you must understand everything about the songs," says Miss Bothwell. "You have to study the lyrics, the poet and his background, the poet and his relationship with the composer and even how the song came into being."

So much study is necessary that it takes Miss Bothwell about a year to prepare new material for a concert, in which she may sing as many as 25 songs.

Bahms, Schubert and Schumann are probably the best-known composers of Lieder. Miss Bothwell, however, specializes in the works of Hugo Wolf and Richard Strauss. She has made several first recordings of their songs.

Her interest in Lieder began while taking daily singing and piano lessons in Toronto. Later she studied at the Toronto Conservatory of Music and went on to make her European debut in Salzburg in 1937. The following year she made her New York debut at Town Hall, where she appeared again this week.

In 1947 Miss Bothwell opened the Promenade concerts at London's Albert Hall singing under Sir Adrian Boult. Two years later she sang under the same conductor at Toronto's Varsity Arena. More recently, she's had her own radio program at Newark, N.J., and this summer made a European recital tour.

Coronation Club Delighted With European Talk

The Coronation Club of Bridge Street United Church held its October meeting in the ladies' parlor of the church, conducted by Mrs. L. Read and her group, which included Mrs. J. Seekings, Mrs. MacKillican, Mrs. O. Summers, Mrs. M. Lovelace and Mrs. R. Edwards.

Following the devotional and business portions of the meeting, Mrs. M. Lovelace introduced Mrs. Marion Sirstion to the club. Mrs. Sirstion, most talented young violinist, charmed her audience with her renditions of the two selections, "A Song of Love" and "An Old Refrain." Mrs. Stratton was accompanied by Mrs. H. Griffin at the piano.

GUEST SPEAKER

Following these violin solos, Mrs. L. Read introduced Miss N. Merry as guest speaker of the evening.

Miss Merry, widely known in Belleville and district, told of her recent European trip.

With vivid description she took the club from "L'Arc de Triomphe" to the "Appian Way," from the food in London to the cafes of Paris; from the mountains of Switzerland to Venice; from Roman Arthur's tomb, within the walls of the oldest church in England, to The Catacombs of the early Christians, with her fascinating word pictures, and then through Rome—the Eternal City—and through the beautiful city of Florence.

While speaking of Florence, Miss Merry stressed the intense pride that the Florentines have in their city and suggested that it might be an example for those here whose civic pride is not quite what is might be.

Miss Merry was thanked by Mrs. R. Edwards for the most thrilling account of her trip.

A brief social service hour brought the meeting to a close.

St. Peter's Holds Thank Offering Meeting

St. Peter's, Madoc, "Thank-Offering' meeting was held in the church with the president, Mrs. Field Allen reading a poem on "Thanksgiving".

Mrs. Jack Bailey read Psalm 118, "O give thanks unto the Lord for He is good, for His mercy endureth forever." Prayer by the Rev. M. W. Heslip followed and a poem "The Grace of Gratitude" was read by Mrs. Cecil Woods.

The president introduced Mrs. George White, who took the assembly on a wonderful trip, showing some of the beautiful places they had visited in the land where history was made many centuries ago. A great ocean liner in New York harbor which took them on their journey was viewed with interest, passing the fort on board ship; ports of call; sailing vessels, large and small. Other places of interest were the Holy Land, the walling wall of Jerusalem, the garden of Gethsemane which has been made beautiful; the desert country with their wise old golden faces; also what the hand of man had built in the days of long ago, also Greece, Naples and Rome in all their splendor; before crossing the waters, there was a glimpse of England with its old homes and soft green lawns.

But the highlights of the travels came when crossing the ocean to view the maple trees in their autumn beauty; the rocks; the tumbling streams; the rugged grandeur of the home town.

Miss Yankleek thanked Mrs. White for showing these fine pictures which all enjoyed.

Mrs. Franks rendered a solo "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go, Dear Lord", gave a reverence of responsibility of Christians to those in other lands.

After the closing prayer, refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Curry, Mrs. H. Sharpe and Mrs. D. Blakely with Miss A. Yonkies and Miss E. Healip pouring tea.

HOPEFUL OF ACCORD

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Maj. Gen. E. L. Burns of Ontawa, UN truce chief in Palestine, said Wednesday he was hopeful that "in the long run" a peaceful solution can be found to the dispute between Israel and its Arab neighbors. He flew into New York for consultations with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Chrysanthemum Tea, Bazaar Held by Bayside Wesley W.A.

Tiny scintillating Christmas trees, in red, blue, silver and green with frost-tipped branches, and an avenue of bronze-colored chrysanthemums made a most attractive setting for the first bazaar and chrysanthemum tea sponsored by the Bayside Wesley United church W.A. in Tabernacle church, yesterday afternoon.

Those receiving were Mrs. R. Percival, wife of the pastor of Wesley church, Mrs. E. F. Windover, president of the W.A., and Mrs. H. Mooney.

Mrs. R. A. Rowley, wife of the pastor of Tabernacle church, graciously welcomed the Wesley people and impressively opened the bazaar.

Within the quadrangle, formed by the tall, green pillars, the eye-catching tables of fancy work, aprons, and candles were arranged, and near by, the post office and the ever-popular home-cooking.

TEA TABLE

Inviting to the tea room with its dainty refreshments was lighted by a crystal bowl of bronze and gold chrysanthemums, and flanked by tri-branched crystal candelabra with tall, yellow lighting tapers, was the gracious hostess, Mrs. J. Stewart, and those who presided at the silver service were Mrs. R. A. Johnston and Mrs. G. Wambolt, Mrs. G. R. Grahame and Mrs. F. Denyes. Each guest table had its centre of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Those who served the daintily prepared plates of sandwiches and adorable little cakes included Mrs. R. Hall, Mrs. S. Grosvenor, Mrs. R. H. Martin, Mrs. F. Christopher, Mrs. H. Denike, and Mrs. A. K. Hubbs.

Replenishing plates, Mrs. A. Saylor, Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. J. Waite, Mrs. McNary while Mrs. E. Bush prepared the cheering cups of tea.

In charge of the dainty fancy work table with its lovely orange crochet doily with yellow edge, and centred by a rose; crocheted tea cosies in checkered white and green; black knitting bag with red, yellow and blue polka dots; plaid shoulder bag; pretty tea cloths with embroidered ends; tea cloths with strawberry design; fancy pot-holders, dainty hankies with lace edge; lace-edged pillow slips, some with embroidery as well; little brown pull-over mitts, socks, padded coat hangers; dish cloth panties; lovely, blue felt bonnet with appliqued colorful flowers, and a yellow-bellied Peter Rabbit, rear-ed back on his haunches in glee. These fine articles were convened by Mrs. H. Rutter, and Mrs. E. Bulmer.

In charge of the tempting little cups of chocolate fudge, divinity fudge, maple creams, chocolates, and peanut brittle, and nut-topped creams, were Mrs. F. Wallis, Mrs. William Johnson and Miss D. Genereau.

ATTRACTIVE APRONS

The apron table was literally covered with a variety of attractive aprons of all designs, colors in prints, chambrays, factory cotton; checked ginghams, and many others, all well made, and useful, as were the dark grounded ones with their white star design. Some were edged with colorful cretonnes, and one which caught the attention was in pointed, panel effect in plain green and dotted white broadcloth. There were also children's aprons. In all, a fine display. Those in charge of the fancy work were also in charge of these.

The lovely table of tiny, scintillating Christmas trees was in charge of Mrs. H. Young.

The parcel post counter had a number of parcels to be called for on the receipt of a specified sum which the post mistresses, Mrs. D. Rush and Mrs. Frederick convened.

DELECTABLE COOKING

The home-cooking table, convened by Mrs. C. Wright, Mrs. H. Wright and Mrs. D. Gunn, was a bower of delectable pies, lemon, apple, fruit, pumpkin; tarts, cookies; while cakes; chocolate cakes; hermits; taffy tarts; little cup cakes; enticing loaves of home-made bread; chocolate squares; a basket of Macintosh apples, gleaming red; date breads; and a picture of a layer cake iced in pale pink with points tipped in silver.

The fine bazaar and a dainty tea, bringing much praise to the general convenors, and to Mrs. W. Denyes, convener of the tea room.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

POISE AS AN ASSET TO BEAUTY

Pausing at the threshold to take a deep breath before entering a room gives one the appearance (and feeling) of poise.

No matter how beautiful a woman may be, if she has not acquired poise she is wasting the assets that are hers. And what is poise? Well, it's a combination of many things, none of which, however, are too difficult to learn. One of its most important qualities is a lack of self-consciousness. Once you have trained yourself to think of others and refuse to worry about what others are thinking of you, you will have taken a big step toward acquiring poise, you will then be able to enter any gathering—even one made up completely of strangers—with that certain "air" which makes others want to meet you and get to know you. On other hand, if you allow into a room and you were afraid someone were going to bite you, no one will even notice you and, if they do, it will probably be with the mental observation, "Now what little mouse is doing here?" And once you start giving the impression of being just a "little mouse", your rating as a glamour girl vanishes at once.

Have you ever noticed how a really good actress makes her entrance upon a scene? It's dramatic, isn't it? And yet she is doing nothing dramatic at all. She is just walking into a room as you and I do dozens of times a day. But how she does it is something else again. Here's one little stage trick which you can practise to the privacy of your own room and which, when perfected, will make your entrances dramatic and give you the appearance of a well-poised woman. Just before entering a room where a shindig is in process, pause politely for a moment, fill your lungs with air (which inevitably raises your head), then hold the air in your lungs as you step into the room to greet your host, to acknowledge friends and to meet new acquaintances. That moment of filling your lungs with air while the head is held high gives one a look (and a feeling) of buoyancy which silences all chatter immediately.

Good posture is also one of the elements of poise. Learn to stand, walk and sit with an effortless, light, fluid ease of movement. Don't "stumble" into a room and don't sprawl in a chair. A good way to practise walking with ease is to try it going up and down stairs—head held high, moving with rhythmic, graceful motions and without looking down at each step as though you feared you were going to trip over it. Once you have mastered the art of walking beautifully up and down stairs you will walk beautifully anywhere.

Learning to use your hands gracefully also contributes to an appearance of poise. Only the jittery woman uses her hands too freely in conversation, clutches her theatre program as though it were going to get away from her and otherwise shows evidence of tenseness in her hand movements. Practise graceful hand movements before a mirror and, when taking with others, learn to use your hands as little as possible. The inflections of your voice should be used for emphasis rather than awkward gestures with the hands. But above all, concentrate on the person with whom you are conversing. Be really interested in what he, or she, is saying and forget yourself. That is, in essence, the real secret of poise.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS ISN'T AS BIG A PROBLEM AS YOU'RE MAKING IT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm going to be 21 in a few months, and as far back as I can remember, my mother has always said that as long as I did what was right, she had nothing to worry about. My parents always know what I do and who I go with, and never once have they tried to choose my friends for me or anything else. In return, I respect them.

A few years ago, I started dating a fellow I grew up with. He turned out to be a wonderful boy, kind, considerate and respectful toward everyone.

But his mother is not like mine. She chooses his friends for him and most everything else, and she doesn't want him to go with me. She never told me right out, but would tell others and it would get back to me. Finally, a year ago, I broke off with this boy, and I've tried to forget him, but it's no use. I've dated a lot of fellows, gone out with my friends, and have a job where I meet people, yet nothing seems quite right any more.

I see this fellow occasionally on the street, but we both turn the other way. I've been told he wants to talk to me and ask me out again, and although I would like to go, I would have to refuse because of his mother.

Would you say I was right in acting as I do? — Ruth

Dear Ruth:

When you broke up with this boy, did you give him the real reason? If you didn't, I think you should have done so and given him a chance to take a stand with his mother and assert his right to choose his own friends.

On the other hand, if you did tell him the truth, and he failed to take any such stand, then I think you are better off without him. Any young man who lacks the character to stand up for his rights, or who is so indecisive that he doesn't know what he wants and has to have some one tell him, is not a very worthwhile friend, and certainly would not make the kind of husband a girl could be proud of.

Since you haven't told me whether or you did, or did not, explain just why you were breaking off, let's assume that you didn't explain. In that case, then I think you make a mistake to turn away when you see this boy on the street. For if, as you say, you have reason to believe that he would like to make up with you, you might create the opportunity for him to do so by giving him a polite greeting. If you make the greeting just a friendly, casual one, it won't look as though it were a definite bid for renewing your friendship. At the same time, it won't slam the door in this face, in case he is really thinking of making such a bid.

Then, if he does take advantage of the opportunity to be friendly again, and ask you to come back, tell him just what you have told me—that you would like to, if his mother were not against it.

Which brings us right back to where we started from—if he doesn't want your friendship badly enough to assert himself with his mother, all well and good. If he doesn't, you don't want him. It's as simple as that, so don't be making a big problem of it.

Everybody Is Young On Hallowe'en Night

By Mary Moore

Being a firm believer in parties and especially those for children, young people, old people and mixed up people, I practise what I preach. Hallowe'en is nearly here and it is the ideal occasion in the year for all-out fun.

You can think up better invitations than this (thank goodness!):

There's a wise old owl in a tree,
He too-hoos at you and me
His mournful song
Even wakes up the ghosts
So we're throwing a party
And they'll be the hosts.

You can come to it too
If you can stand the strain.
We promise strange food
Games to tax your poor brain.

But if you come dress queer
We don't know who you are.
Just leave your card Maggie
Or a mayonnaise jar.

(I marvel at the chances I take.)

Let the kids in on making the party invitations—it's such fun! Get good training for the years ahead when they are on their own.

FULL TAFFY

Two cups corn syrup, 1 cup white sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1-4 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix together corn syrup, sugar, butter and vinegar in a saucepan and bring to boiling, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Boil to 260 deg. Fahr. (small amount forms in very hard ball when tested in ice cold water). Remove from heat, stir in baking soda and vanilla. Beat until smooth and creamy. Pour into greased pan and allow to stand until just cool enough to handle. Pull candy with fingers until it has a satin-like finish and is pale in color. Pull into long strips 3-4 inch in diameter, quickly snip into 1-inch pieces with buttered shears. Cool on waxed paper. If desired wrap each piece in little squares of wax paper.

APPLES-ON-A-STICK

Select 6 choice red dessert apples, 6 wooden skewers, and wash apples and dry them well and remove stems and insert skewers in stem end. Make a syrup by combining 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup corn syrup, 1-3 cup water and a few drops of red vegetable coloring in a saucepan. Cook stirring until it boils. Cook without stirring to soft crack stage (280 deg. Fahr.) (I do not recommend making this without thermometer.) If you have no thermometer, test small amount by spooning it cup granulated sugar, 1 cup corn syrup, 1-3 cup water and a few drops of red vegetable coloring in a saucepan. Cook stirring until it boils. Cook without stirring to soft crack stage (280 deg. Fahr.) (I do not recommend making this without thermometer.) If you have no thermometer, test small amount by spooning it into cold water. Remove from heat and add vanilla or cinnamon flavoring. Immediately place pan over boiling water, to prevent syrup thickening. Hold apples by skewers and, dip in syrup, twirling. Remove quickly, drain, place on wire rack over waxed paper to cool and harden.

CORRECT FORMS FOR VISITING-CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it ever correct for a woman's visiting cards to be engraved with her first name? Mrs. Mary Graham, for example? — Divorcee

No . . . this form is never correct on a visiting-card.

1. A married woman's visiting cards should be engraved:

Mrs. Peter Alan Brown

2. A widow's visiting - cards should be engraved as they were when her husband was living:

Mrs. David Lee Jones

3. A divorcee's visiting-cards are engraved:

Mrs. Robinson Scott (Robinson her maiden surname)

Or, if she wishes to indicate her first name:

Mrs. M. Robinson Scott

(These forms also are correct when engraved on the first page of folded-over cards, informals.)

ANOTHER TELEPHONE-ETIQUETTE QUESTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

May I please add another "perplexing" telephone-etiquette question to those that several of your readers have sent you recently? My question is this: When I answer the telephone and a strange voice asks "Who is this?"—(or, more usually, "Who's this?")—must I give my name? I try to answer my telephone courteously, but I certainly fail to see why I should give my name. As a matter of fact, I really don't think it's sensible to give it. However, if I don't I'm stumped as to what to say. Your help, please. — Reader

I agree with you a hundred percent that it doesn't make sense for you to give your name to this "strange voice." It is entirely courteous for you to turn the question back where it belongs, and say politely "Who is calling?" . . . this usually results in the explanation "I guess I have the wrong number."

NEW ADDRESS ON CHRISTMAS CARD ENVELOPES?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a question concerning Christmas cards. I realize it's early, but I want to get plans made before my husband returns. He is coming home from Africa in December. We have been living with my parents for two years, and now we have finally found an apartment. And we are going to move in so that we can spend Christmas there!

1. Would it be proper to put our new address on the envelopes of our Christmas cards? (Some of our friends know about our apartment, but there are many who do not know.)

2. How should we sign our cards? They will not be imprinted with our names. We have a one-year-old son. — A.

1. Indeed it is proper to put this new address on all the envelopes of your Christmas cards . . . and practical that you are planning to register this new address. You might even, for this use as well as for many other uses, have good looking stickers made, printed with the name and new address . . .

Mr. and Mrs. John Allen
3 Home Ave.
Haven 2, New York

(When possible, include Zone-number with address.)

2. When a child is included in the signature . . . I'm sure you would like to include this very young man in the signature, and I think you should . . . so here's how one's name first. For example:

John and Marie and little Johnnie
Or: The Allens . . . John and Marie and Johnnie

(You sign your informal names, of course . . . not "Mr. and Mrs.")

C.A.S. Work Explained To Study Guild

The work of the Children's Aid Society in the county of Hastings was explained to the members of the Woman's Study Guild at the October meeting held Monday evening at the Children's Aid Society office.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Seldon. The secretary, Mrs. Meades, read a letter of appreciation from the Guild's foster child, Renato Sermoneta, who said that the money sent to him through the "Save the Children Fund" enabled him to continue his studies at a technical institute. The members unanimously decided to renew their sponsorship of this Italian boy for another year.

SPIRITUAL NEGLECT

The worship service, conducted by Mrs. Archibald, dealt with the subject "Spiritual Neglect of Children," and included a reading from chapter eighteen of Matthew.

Mrs. Wilson introduced Mr. Kerr, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society. Mr. Kerr outlined the history of child welfare legislation in Ontario and explained that the society, under the supervision of the Department of Welfare, provides hour services in the community; it cares for neglected and deprived children; it does preventive work among potentially neglected children; it assists the unmarried mother to plan for the future of her child and it supervises adoptions.

Although child welfare legislation has been in existence in this province for only 84 years, the laws are considered so advanced that they are a pattern for the rest of the world and the United Nations frequently sends delegates to observe the work of the Ontario Department of Welfare.

388 NEGLECTED CHILDREN

There are 300 neglected and dependent children in Hastings county who are under the care of the society in approved foster homes. The society arranges the adoption of about 40 children each year. These services are paid for by government grants but there are no government funds provided for the assistance of unmarried parents or for the care of the potentially neglected child in his own home. The services of a social worker to do preventive work are provided for solely by contributions from the Community Chest.

Mr. Kerr stressed the fact that the public could best aid the society in its work by expressing a continued interest in the welfare of all children in the community.

Mr. Thomas, Mrs. Fry and Mrs. McLauchlin of the Children's Aid Society staff, answered all the many questions put to them by the members and conducted a tour of the building.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses of the evening Mrs. Gibson Mrs. Buck and Miss Elliott.

Kindly Couple Foster Parents To 34 Children

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — Thirty-eight persons are living in an eight-room farm home here on little more than $55 a week, it has been learned.

That is the income of Bert Whyte, a General Motors Company employee.

He and his wife, Bertha, are dad and mom to 34 foster children and two of their own in a stone farm home west of here.

For seven years the kindly couple has been receiving youngsters of all ages. They were broke when they started and their debts now are bigger than ever.

And the children are still arriving. They've come from New York city, Toronto, Detroit, London, Ont. and the Bowmanville area. Last weekend six more arrived and more are expected.

But the middle-aged pair voice no complaints. They say they believe it their Christian duty to look after the children and they have never shut their door to a needy child.

DOESN'T MIND

Mrs. Whyte said she doesn't mind making $5 beds a day, packing lunches for 13 school-going children, washing 300 diapers at a time or mixing batches of rolls and doughnuts by the hundred.

The Whytes receive family allowances for only two of their charges. Out of Mr. Whyte's $55-a-week come 14 quarts of milk and a dozen loaves of bread daily. Some of the parents help out with small cheques now and then. The farm grows its own vegetables, fruit and keeps hens and cows.

It wasn't until last year that the Whytes began their project in earnest. They became registered as an infant's boarding home with the local medical officer of health. During last winter they looked after 12 infants, 11 in diapers.

"These children are hungry for love and we're trying to give it to them," said Mrs. Whyte.

APPEAL TO BIG FOUR

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Protestant church leaders Tuesday night defied their Communist government 'and appealed to the Big Four conference in Geneva to deliver 18,000,000 Soviet zone Germans from oppression. ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

IVANHOE. — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S., was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Harry Benson, on Thursday afternoon.

The president opened the meeting by reading a poem "Lord Show Us I" "r". The Rev. W. H. V. Walker led in prayer. The Scripture lesson, found in 2 Timothy 2, was read by Mrs. Harold Thompson.

A short business session followed. Mrs. Harry Thompson and Miss Beatie Fleming were appointed to bring in a slate of officers to the November meeting. This meeting will be held in the evening preceded by a pot-luck supper.

The conference for all adult leaders to be held November 4, in St. Andrew's church, Belleville, was announced. Miss Ruby Walker, Miss Irene Stringer and Miss Ellen Douglas will be present.

The chapter "Crime and Justice," in the study book was reviewed by Mrs. Harry Benson.

Unemployment is a great contributor of criminals. Crimes will be committed more readily in a nation of largely uneducated people, not yet schooled in the importance of social responsibility. Crimes will be committed also in a nation in which religious differences are so strong.

The government of India is struggling with the difficult problem. The Christian schools and churches are contributing their aid by giving moral guidance to those who can be reached.

A letter entitled "Lights and Shadows in Far Formosa", written by Lillian R. Dickson, was read by Mrs. John McInroy. This told of 700 leper patients in the leper hospital, their problems and their great courage.

Three Canadians Hit Jackpot In Irish Sweeps

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

An octogenarian, an immigrant and a housewife hit the jackpot in the Irish sweepstakes Wednesday, each winning $140,000 when Retrial came first in the Cambridgeshire Handicap Stakes at Newmarket, England.

Albert Stock, 83, English-born retired service station operator of Valois, a Montreal suburb, was so excited "he hardly knew what to say" when he heard the news.

So said his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Clark, who acted as spokesman. Mrs. Stock is 85 and the couple celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last July.

"My parents are not making any plans until they see the cash," said Mrs. Clark with a smile.

SOLD BUSINESS

Mr. Stock, native of Farnham, England, came to Canada nearly 50 years ago and operated a service station in Montreal until selling the business five years ago.

Kurt Grund, 26, night - shift worker at a Sudbury nickel mine, had to be awakened to be told he won $140,000. Grund, native of Breslau, Germany, who came to Canada only four years ago, broke down and sobbed, then said "Thank God, but I don't believe it."

Grund said he hopes the money may help find a path to freedom for his mother, brother and sister, now in East Germany.

The third first-prize winner was Mrs. Ginette Maisville of Montmartry, Que.

Mrs. B. K. Fallis of Lockerby, Ont., held a ticket on Turk's Blood, which came second at Newmarket. Mrs. Fallis won $36,000.

Bert Linton, Oshawa, held the sole Canadian ticket on Swept, third-place horse, and he wins $25,000.

Mr. Linton, 63-year-old plant watchman, went into hiding after hearing about the windfall.

Record Price Paid for Stamp At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—An unidentified man Wednesday paid a record $4,200 for a stamp of Canadian or British North American origin. The stamp originally was worth 12 pence when designed by Sir Sanford Fleming in 1851.

History of the stamp, known as the Dundas 12d Black, is obscure. It was bought Wednesday at an auction of the J. N. Sissons Stamp Auction Galleries. Bidding started at $2,100 and quickly increased to $4,200.

The stamp was formerly owned by the late J. D. Smart of Oshawa. He purchased it several years ago for $2,200.

Winner Says Money Will Not Change Pattern

SUDBURY (CP)—Sarah Fallis, a middle-aged housewife and grandmother in suburban Lockerby, said Wednesday she doesn't expect the $56,000 she won on the Irish sweepstakes will change her pattern of living.

Mrs. Fallis held a ticket on Turk's Blood. Except for a trip to Mexico, which she and her husband, Beverly, have planned for some time she said it will not much affect their future.

Mr. Fallis, employed by the International Nickel Company in the mechanical department of Ia Garson mine 10 miles from here, was working Wednesday when his wife phoned him the news. He rushed right home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fallis own their own bungalow, well furnished with most modern conveniences. They plan no extravegant expenditures. They moved to Lockerby five years ago from Hamilton where they had operated a small business. They celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary July 31 and have one grandchild.

Sorcerers Still Cast Evil Spells Over Primitive Eskimos

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Deep in the Arctic in areas where a few whites have set foot, sorcerers still cast their evil spells over primitive Eskimos.

So great is the natives' fear of these men that the shamans, as they are called, need not lift a hand to do a day's work. Their word is the Eskimos' command. By cloudery, or not to curry favor, is sure death, in the belief of some of these Eskimos.

The sorcerers' tales were brought to this Hudson Bay port, 610 miles north of Winnipeg, by Rev. Etienne Danielo, 44-year-old member of the Roman Catholic Oblates of Mary Immaculate, recently posted to Churchill after serving 20 years at their Pond Inlet mission on the northwestern tip of Baffin island.

ARMED WITH DEVIL

Father Danielo, who after years of Arctic silence jumps at the sound of a telephone, said he knew of at least 25 shamans living among the Eskimo tribes.

He told of one, whom he named Pingasut (not his real name), living among the Tunnuermiut Eskimos at Pond Inlet, some 1,200 miles north of Churchill.

The natives believe Pingasut has contact with the devil. They are certain he has a magical power over those he wishes to destroy and that he has been responsible for the deaths of many of their relatives and friends.

"Everybody is afraid of him," said Father Danielo. "I think if it were not for the fact that the RCMP are always around he would have been shot by the natives long ago. He has no friends at all. Even his wife is afraid of him."

The priest said the 42-year-old Pingasut claims he is no sorcerer but that he's "acting in his usual way."

SILENT MENACE

Last year an influenza epidemic killed 25 natives in the Pond inlet area. The wife of one of the victims claimed Pingasut had cast a spell on her husband. He sat at the entrance to the couple's igloo for hours, saying and doing nothing. Shortly after Pingasut left the man when the sorcerer's brother asked the RCMP and the priest to help him.

The Eskimo had been suffering for several months from an infected finger which apparently would not heal. He claimed Pingasut put a curse on him so that he would die.

The Eskimo said his brother was a murderer who deliberately killed his father in a fit of temper. Pingasut denied it, saying it was an accident on a hunting trip, but no one would believe him.

UNDER FATAL SPELL

Pingasut's first victim, according to the natives, was a young Eskimo who died three years ago. He mentioned the sorcerer's name in his delirium and the natives believed he was under Pingasut's spell. Some time later a young woman, who died of hunger, claimed in her dying moments that she had been killed by the shaman.

Pingasut's third victim was a young girl, whom he wished to marry. Her parents objected and Pingasut warned them that he would cause her death. The girl later died of hunger, her feet frozen and gangrened. In her final moments she claimed that Pingasut had made her his victim.

Pingasut then proposed marriage to the fiancee of another Eskimo. Her parents refused the marriage so Pingasut warned that her children by any other husband would be orphaned. The husband died in July, 1954.

"Pingasut is known for miles around," said Father Danielo. "His power will probably last until he is dead."

The Brittany-born priest, who made only one trip out of the north country in his 20 years' service—in 1947 he returned to his home in France—said the power of the sorcerers should diminish as more contact is made by the Eskimos with the white men.

"Education is the only solution," he said.

ARCTIC MISSIONARY

Rev. Etienne Daniels, 44-year-old member of the Roman Catholic Oblates of Mary Immaculate, was recently posted to Churchill, Man., after serving 20 years at the order's mission at Pond Inlet on the northwestern tip of Baffin Island. He brought back with him the tales of the primitive Eskimos of the Far North who believe the power of the sorcerers who cast spells over the members of the tribe. (CP from National Defence).

Although Father Danielo pleaded with the Eskimos not to believe in shamans they would not listen. They claimed Pingasut acts like the sorcerers of old. He looks into space, does secretive things, hums and murmurs magic formulae and unintelligible sentences.

Pingasut has been married twice. His first wife died, leaving him a daughter, now 20.

"He wanted to get married again but nobody wanted to marry him," said the priest. "Finally some old girl married him. He has three children by her now."

Father Danielo first heard of Pingasut's powers a few years ago when the sorcerer's brother asked

STIRLING

Heavy Rains Bring Forth 2nd Pea Crop

STIRLING. — Last Friday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ashley, Trent River, picked two, 11-quart baskets and a six-quart basket of luscious green peas. This is most extraordinary for this time in October. On Saturday they took the peas to Belleville market and sold them in berry boxes. Mr. Ashley planted six short rows of peas after he harvested the early cabbage and the recent heavy rains gave the pea patch a new lease on life. Hence the heavy production, the second time this season.

On Friday evening Jack Frost came along and frost thick ice, thus ruining gardens and flowers.

Immediate Action to Provide Prairie Farmers With Cash For Wheat Urged by Drew

OTTAWA (CP)—Immediate action—by Parliament if necessary —to provide prairie farmers with cash for their held stocks of wheat was urged today by Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Drew said the new federal plan of guaranteeing bank loans on farm-stored grain will be cumbersome and unsatisfactory. He advocated instead purchases of wheat quotas on the farm by the Canadian wheat board, with delivery on demand when congestion eases in grain elevators.

He also urged a new export sales drive through recruitment of "a top-flight sales force" and an immediate study of the whole wheat situation by the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economy.

A special session of Parliament should be called immediately if needed to authorize purchase of farm-held grain.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, commenting later, said no consideration has been given to calling a special session of Parliament or asking the Gordon commission to study the problem.

Mr. Drew called an hour-long press conference to elaborate on his wheat proposals, made previously during his recent western tour. He leaves Friday for Fredericton and a two-week swing through the Maritimes.

The 41-year-old Conservative leader, looking fully recovered from the cold which kept him a week in hospital at Winnipeg, said prairie farmers need cash immediately for taxes, living expenses and preparations for next year.

They were almost entirely dependent on wheat sales, but were prohibited by law from selling elsewhere than to the wheat board, a federal agency. Under present rules they could get no cash for wheat unless it was delivered at grain elevators.

Mr. Drew said the government's bank loans system is unsatisfactory because banks do not have the trained staff to handle loans on grain. Under his proposal, he said, "the risks involved are negligible and it has the advantage of adopting a mechanism already available."

Low-grade wheat now taking up much of the elevator space should be moved out and sold for livestock feed—perhaps at a loss. The government and Parliament could decide how to make up the loss.

That would clear the way for this year's crop of top-grade wheat, which could be sold on world markets with a determined sales effort.

Courts Will Be Asked to Clarify Marketing Laws

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Wednesday Ontario and the federal government will be asked to clarify the two governments' powers with regard to farm-marketing legislation.

Theodore Parker, a Stratford farmer, has challenged the legality of Ontario's hog-marketing legislation obliging farmers to sell their hogs through a co-operative.

The premier indicated in a press statement that once the two governments' powers are clarified they will know where they stand and what they can do.

His statement followed a conference with Ontario farm-marketing organizations and government officials.

NONE OF A SERIES

The conference was one of a series considering what steps should be taken to strengthen legislation and to obtain legislation, provincial or federal, which would meet the requirements of farmers in marketing various commodities.

"For many months the government has been considering, with the representatives of Ontario farmers, of agriculture and other farm bodies, the powers of the province to pass certain farm-marketing legislation," Premier Frost said.

"The present uncertainty had its beginning in certain court decisions which were made upwards of 20 years ago and which left in a high degree of uncertainty the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada and that of the provinces."

WOULD BE DEFENDED

The premier said Ontario had made its decision known two or three years ago—farm-marketing legislation which was passed or contemplated would be defended in the courts.

Every step possible would be taken to strengthen the legislation either by constitutional amendment or by complementary federal legislation if such could be obtained.

The matter was discussed at the two federal-provincial conferences this year and it appeared the position of the other provinces was the same as that of Ontario, he said.

Sunday Sports Association, headed by James Dunn, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and Stephen Juba, independent member of the legislature for Winnipeg North.

Mr. Juba said he intended to introduce in the legislature a private bill which would authorize municipalities to pass by-laws allowing commercial sport on Sunday afternoons.

A referendum was to be decided on a straight majority.

Under present law Sunday sports are allowed but backers must take up a collection to defray expenses.

Commercialized Sunday sports are prohibited under the Lord's Day Act, a federal statute. Provincial legislatures, however, have the power to vary this act by passing their own laws.

Average Quality Of Market Pigs Is Declining

GUELPH (CP) — The average quality of pigs placed on the Canadian market in the last 30 years has been declining, Dr. K. Rasmussen, an official with the federal department of agriculture, said Wednesday.

Dr. Rasmussen was speaking to the annual Ontario livestock conference at the Ontario Agriculture College.

He said his department's experimental stations, which have been doing special swine research, must continue their work for the development of various new breeds or advances in the industry will stop.

Producers are more interested in economical performance than in what the pig looks like, Dr. Rasmussen said. Therefore the breeding program had to be based on the producers' interests. A desirable breed to develop is the one which cross well with the popular Yorkshires, he said.

Austerity, Work, Sacrifice With No Promised 'Pie in Sky' Argentine Regime's Program

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A policy of austerity, work and sacrifice with no promise of "pie in the sky" was placed before the Argentine people today as the new government called for a stringent program of economic rebuilding.

Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi said the country is confronted with the "most disastrous situation in our economic history."

He put the blame squarely on ousted president Juan D. Peron, saying the "irresponsible and corrupt" 10-year rule of the fallen dictator had left economic chaos.

Making a detailed radio report Wednesday night, Lonardi said Argentine gold and dollar reserves totalled $1,680,000,000 at the end of the Second World War. Now, he said, Argentina has an internal debt of $5,000,000,000 and a foreign debt of $727,000,000, and reserves are down to $450,000,000.

Argentina piled up vast reserves during the war by selling wheat and meat to the Allied powers. When Peron came to power at the end of the war, Argentina was at its highest pinnacle of wealth from wartime profits.

"The system of hiding the truth has ended," Lonardi said. "Ten years of irresponsibility and...corruption have led us to the most disastrous situation in our economic history."

"If not come to hand out cajolery nor to promise pie in the sky. I address the...nation...to ask efforts of abstinence and sacrifice."

Continuing his gloomy—but expected — economic analysis, the hero of the revolt which overthrew Peron said:

"Argentina no longer is the great exporting nation of before...There are no exports with which to pay for a single machine or single piece of equipment for industry or transportation, but we will take urgent measures to remedy this situation."

If Argentina tightens its belt, he continued, gives the country's farmers and ranchers a new lease on life, fosters a revived private enterprise, beckons for more aid and slashes a lopheavy bureaucracy, it can march to a new greatness in the family of nations.

General Motors To Show Billion Dollars Profit

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp., the world's largest industrial firm, apparently will show a net profits over the billion-dollar mark for 1955—a record figure never before reached by any business enterprise, GM's net income for the first nine months of this year beat the record $834,000,000 earned in the full year of 1950.

Disclosing this Wednesday, GM president Harlow H. Curtice and chairman Alfred P. Sloan said "the automobile industry is experiencing the best year in its history."

GM factories in the United States and Canada sold more cars—3,622,000—in the first nine months this year than in all of 1954.

Total dollar sales of all GM products set a nine-month record of $9,544,000,000, which nearly equalled total sales for all of last year. Earnings in the first nine months of 1954 were $7,219,000,000.

SHATTERED RECORDS

Earnings for the nine months shattered all prior records. After setting aside a thumping $1,085,-000,000 for U.S. and foreign taxes, GM had a net profit of $913,000,000. This compared with $326,000,000 in the first nine months of last year after taxes of $614,000,000.

The report points out that GM's per-share earnings now are computed on the basis of a three-for-one split of the common stock. On Sept. 30 each share of GM common was split into three new shares. Figured on that basis, earnings for the first nine months were equal to $3.31 a share, compared to $2.19 a share for the like year-ago period. Earnings for the third quarter were equal to 90 cents a share against 38 cents a year earlier.

Sales of all General Motors products—ranging from ball bearings and kitchen appliances to aircraft engines and diesel locomotives—totalled $3,031,000,000 in the July-Sept. quarter, up from $1,133,000,000 in the like period quarter of last year. August-September period of 1955,

Force Twelve to Quit Hydro After Some Stores Disappear

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission said Wednesday 12 employees who were found to have taken items of surplus equipment valued at $4,600 have made restitution and resigned.

A carefully-worded statement by the commission said the 12 employees, all from the communications department, appropriated articles of communications equipment for their own personal use. No names were disclosed.

The "misappropriation" of property was discovered by the commission's security organization after the Bell Telephone Company took over much of the commission's private wire-communication services in southern Ontario.

The statement said that as a result of the investigation by officers of the communications department, a substantial quantity of material and equipment became surplus and it became apparent that it could be sold except at very considerable prices.

"The security division discovered that under these conditions certain members of the communications staff had appropriated articles or equipment for their own personal use.

"Restitution was made and the resignations of these employees of were accepted. Twelve were involved."

A commission spokesman said some of the employees involved were engineers who had been working on the commission's inter-plant telephone system before Bell Telephone took over.

The surplus equipment included non-standard items which could not be sold to the telephone company. There was virtually no other market for the equipment, the spokesman said. The resignations touched off rumors among Hydro employees that mass firings had taken place.

Dr. Richard L. Hearn, Hydro chairman, said several commission employees not connected with the misappropriation of material and equipment resigned recently to go to other jobs.

Sunday Sports Lost by Slim Margin of 152

WINNIPEG (CP— — Winnipeg voters apparently have rejected Sunday commercial sports by a slim margin of 152 votes.

The final count early today showed 34,485 votes against the city seeking the necessary provincial legislation while 34,333 vote in favor.

City clerk George Gardiner said that because of the close vote he would examine the rejected ballots of the referendum, which held the spotlight in the city's 1955 civic elections.

Only 42 per cent of the 162,004 eligible voters turned out at the polls.

Nine vacancies are to be filled on both the city council and school board. There was no mayoralty race—Mayor George Sharpe was elected last fall to a two-year term.

The Sunday sports issue, first raised last September when city council agreed to hold a referendum on the subject, became a subject of heated controversy.

Strong opposition came from a citizens' committee and the Manitoba chapter of the Lord's Day Alliance, an organization of churches. Leading churchmen expressed their personal opposition and ministers preached against Sunday sports during their regular services.

Flew Airplane Into Bank To Get Even

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man fired Tuesday by a Bank of America branch at International airport rented a light plane Wednesday, then flew the craft into the bank in an apparent "get-even" suicide crash.

Witnesses said the pilot, Benjamin Fauth, 28, directed his plane through a large window in a new, unoccupied addition to the structure.

Fauth was killed. Two bank employees suffered minor injuries from flying glass.

REPORTS SAFE PILL

TOKYO (Reuters) — An American scientist Wednesday reported on a "useful and safe" contraceptive pill that can be taken by mouth which he said may be developed soon. Dr. Gregory Pincus of Worcester, Mass., will make official reports on his findings to the fifth international conference on planned parenthood on Friday.

Five-Acre Chunk of London Chinatown Used for Housing

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The homely concrete charms of a housing project are destined to replace the aura of Oriental opulence, mystery and opium long hanging over London's Limehouse district.

A five-acre chunk of Chinatown is giving way in the next year or two to apartment blocks under the London county council's reconstruction plans. The civic hall be erased later.

Some 500 Chinese, all that remains of the colony begun 150 years ago, will be dispersed. Thus ends one of London's biggest myths.

The Chinatown of Fu Manchu, rich mandarins, silk-lined vice dens and pigtailed assassins existed only in the imaginative writings of such authors as Sax Rohmer, Edgar Wallace and Thomas Burke.

Not that the old warren of narrow cobblestoned streets wasn't a rugged place in its heyday. Seamen of all nations thronged its ready-fisted dockers and the Chinese community catered to countrymen visiting between voyages. It still does.

But London police smoked out virtually all the opium hangouts a small, grim secrets for the most part—in the 1920s. Gambling fled away. The blitz added the crusher, the Limehouse causeway, a landmark, now is just a brass nameplate.

The residue of peaceful, anglicized Chinese is crammed into Pennyfields street, a collection of restaurants, lodging houses for seamen, small stores and dwellings. The north side of the street is going first, and the south—or larger portion of Chinatown—follows.

The residents are dismayed at the prospect of scattering, rupturing their strong community ties. Yet the end has been in sight for some time.

At its peak, Chinatown numbered 10,000 population. Liverpool now has the largest Chinese community in Britain. The dissolving of Chinatown's allure was under way in the 1930s, although tourists still made a point of looking over the area which even then lacked the attractions of North American counterparts.

Limehouse had a past long before the Chinese appeared on the scene. Its name derives from a thick lime house that used to stand in the area, and which did a roaring trade after London's Great Fire.

Its docks were the departure point for such English mariners as Sir Walter Raleigh.

Perhaps the best commentary on its real character in recent years is the fact that Clement Attlee, the mild-mannered leader of the Labor party, represented it for nearly 20 years in the House of Commons until the constituencies redistribution of 1949.

Youth, Redhead Held for Robbing Vancouver Bank

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 23-year-old youth and a pretty young redhead were held here today in connection with a $10,000 bank robbery —Vancouver's seventh so far in 1955 and the 15th within a year.

Wednesday's robbery of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in the eastern suburbs was carried out by two masked youths who, police said, fled in a stolen car driven by a young woman. Another man was in the car.

Manager J. E. Mennie said it was the second holdup of the bank within a year. Last Nov. 21 three robbers made off with $1,500.

Mennie and three employees were held at gunpoint while the young gunmen "cleared out nearly every note in the place."

The robbery brought to $35,170 the amount grabbed from Vancouver district banks in 1955.

At New Westminster earlier this month, $3,100 was taken but the fastest haul was nearly $20,000 early in January. Three men were jailed and most of the money was recovered.

One of the year's seven robberies was unprofitable. May 18 a bandit lost his nerve at the last minute and ran out without a dollar.

Last winter, Vancouver police equipped some cars with sub-machine guns to answer the threat.

Between Nov. 4 and Dec. 3, bandits held up eight banks and escaped with a total of about $65,000. Nervous bank employees tripped many other false alarms as the raids reached their peak in the first three days of December. Two holdups took place on both the first and third of the month.

West Huntingdon

ENDEAVORS CLASS

WEST HUNTINGDON. — The Endeavors Sunday school class held an inspiring meeting at the home of its former teacher, Mr. and Mrs. George Ashley of Belleville, on Thursday evening.

The program was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright, Mr. Philip Carr offered prayer and Mr. Alex McCurdy read the Scripture lesson. Mr. Mac Sarles contributed a reading; Mrs. Ambrose Wright and Miss Eleanor Wright were heard in a duet.

Mr. Philip Carr introduced the speaker, the Rev. Laurie Price, minister of Calvary Temple in Belleville. Mr. Price brought an inspiring message based on the subject "The Value of a Soul".

Mr. Arthur Wilson voiced the appreciation of the class to the special speaker and those who assisted on the program and to Mr. and Mrs. Ashley for opening their home for the meeting.

Following the business period and benediction, Mrs. Ashley served refreshments.

FAREWELL GIFTS

A farewell party was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Don Spencer and family on Friday evening in the United church.

Mr. Philip Carr was chairman for the evening's program. Mr. Alex McCurdy led in community singing and Miss Hazel Grant gave a piano solo; Miss Beverley McInroy also gave as a solo "The Bible Tells Me So". Mrs. Harold Thompson gave a reading and the Misses Pauline and Bernice McCurdy rendered a duet, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Delbert McCurdy.

Sharon and Donna Hammond also gave a duet and Mrs. John McInroy a reading.

Mr. Arthur Wilson offered prayer and Mrs. Don Fargey read the special address. Mr. Harold McGee, on behalf of the community, presented Mr. and Mrs. Spencer with a handsome coffee table and to Lenny and Kay illustrated books. Don and Marion and Lenny expressed their thanks for the gifts and invited all to visit them at their new home at Thomasburg.

The remainder of the evening was spent in partaking of refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. John Benson and family, of Toronto, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sarles, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilson attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Herrington of Madoc, on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammond and family were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hammond of Cobourg.

Planting Strikes Could Be Used

HAMILTON (CP) —A Hamilton Labor leader says farmers could use "planting strikes" to wring higher prices from local canning companies.

Stewart Cooke—area supervisor for the United Steelworkers Union —(CIO-CCL) says farmers should be able to bargain with canners and processors for price contracts before planting. Then, said Cooke, they could refuse to plant crops for which they were not sure of getting fair prices.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

STIRLING

W.I. Hears Talk On Procedure

STIRLING. — Stirling Institute sponsored a short course "How to Conduct Meetings" for their own branch on Friday from ten a.m., to 4 p.m., with luncheon at noon.

Mrs. A. Armstrong, of Newmarket, was the department officer in charge. She gave an interesting outline of Institute procedure, and emphasized the need of every branch making the appointment at their annual meeting of an assistant secretary - treasurer. This lady would then be available in any emergency.

On Saturday, a rally of West Hastings' District W.I., was held with 36 ladies in attendance, with representatives there from Wallbridge, Bay of Quinte, Uniondale, Chatterton, Pine Grove, River Valley and Stirling Institutes.

OFFICER REQUIREMENTS

The Extension Service course, in charge of Mrs. Armstrong, was based on "What Makes a Good Officer?" and outlined good institute procedure. She stressed voting by ballot, not giving excessive praise to one person and neglecting some one else equally as good.

There were two sessions with a pot-luck dinner served at noon.

While in this district, Mrs. Armstrong was a guest of Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, and enjoyed the weekend in Stirling, and attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian anniversary.

On Monday, Mrs. Armstrong conducted a course at Foxboro, and on Tuesday she was at Seymour East, at their hall at Menie, in Northumberland county. She left by bus on Wednesday to conduct another course at Grafton.

Mrs. Armstrong is a farmer's wife, living near Newmarket, Ontario, who takes time off from her busy life to conduct courses for "The Extension Service" as provided by the head office in Toronto.

Diesel-Engine Draglines Opening New Seams of Coal In Remote Sections of N.B.

By DON HOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MINTO, N.B. (CP) — Diesel-engined draglines are laying bare the coal seams of this remote corner of the Maritimes coal empire, but hardened shaft miners are looking to a rebirth of underground pile next year.

Increased industrial activity in New Brunswick has kept bright the otherwise gloomy Maritime coal picture and mine officials predict there will be jobs for 600 miners here with the opening of new shafts.

Long-armed draglines, with a daily digging capacity equivalent to that of 150 men, are currently producing 80 per cent of the coal mined here.

"That's just the opposite to what it should be," said one grimy miner. "These fellows hardly get their hands dirty."

PRODUCT OF WAR DAYS

The 'lines moved into Minto during the Second World War when a manpower shortage forced operators to turn to machines to get coal out of the ground and into defence plant furnaces.

When the miners returned, the dragline had earned a permanent spot in the economy of this area which depends solely on coal for its existence.

Huge mounds of earth blemish the town's outskirts. The dune-like rockpiles grow higher each day as 10-ton buckets strip valueless earth from precious coal.

In some places, the draglines sit like bulky predators on the edge of 77-foot trenches as surface miners shovel the bared coal into waiting trucks.

REHABILITATION COST

Lorne Crawford, a sturdy independent whose stripping methods have produced 30,000 tons of coal so far this year, is in sympathy with critics who want operators to level the mounds or plant trees on them when the coal is exhausted.

"They should be levelled or planted," he says. "But where's the money coming from?

"If the government would return five of the 14-cent tax we pay on a ton of coal, then we'd level it."

Another independent estimated, however, it would cost 50 cents a ton to rehabilitate the 500 acres stripped annually.

Present prices for Minto coal are $7.85 a ton when sold to pulp mills or railways, and $8.10 to power stations. Between 700,000 and 900,000 tons have been mined this year.

NON-UNION MEN

Crawford owns one of the area's 15 or 20 draglines that each dredge between 300 and 400 tons of coal a day. His mining crew totals 21, including a $6,000-a-year dragline operator and his helper. All are non-union men.

"My men wouldn't join a union," says Crawford. "They know they are better paid than they would be otherwise."

Mathias Wuhr, grizzled, 57-year-old sub-district board member of the United Mine Workers District 26 (CCL) which embraces 11,000 Maritimes miners, is an underground miner who sees the dragline as a threat to his men.

"Some of the strip mines are working 24 hours a day while the shaft mines are down to one shift," Wuhr says in a voice still bearing traces of the German homeland he left 41 years ago.

"The shaft miners don't like it. Our (union) local membership averages about 450. Seventy - five years ago there were about 1,100 to 1,200 miners here.

"The 'lines employ very few men, but they get more coal."

About 250 men, mostly non-union, are working the strip mines.

SHAFTS MAKE COMEBACK

But Wuhr is optimistic about the future for the underground miner. "The new shaft mine is making a comeback in Minto," he says. "There are three new shafts ready to operate between now and Christmas. We're going to have a shortage of miners next year, . . We'll need a total of 600 men."

He sees no place in Minto however for the 725 miners released when the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation closed its No. 1-B colliery at Glace Bay a few months ago.

"Our average seam is two feet and our men work lying down," he said. "The Glace Bay miners wouldn't work here. They're used to standing up and digging in eight- or nine-foot seams. They'd have to learn to work all over."

COAL COMMUNITY

The New Brunswick coal mining community of Minto expects to mine 1,000,000 tons this year and find a ready markets for it. Most of the coal will go to railways, pulp mills and power plants in the province. A Canadian Pacific Railway line runs through the Minto area. Production is small compared with the annual production in Nova Scotia of more than 5,000,000 tons. (CP Photo).

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A GOOD START!

The TPT's leave the senior "B" hockey barrier with a flying start beginning with their inaugural here against the Whitby Dunlops tomorrow night. The Cowpens got their goat off their chests, take a respite then trek to Cornwall to take on Frank Marie's flying Colts on Sunday afternoon. They sip homewards and on Tuesday night take up the cudgels with their arch-enemies the Kingston Goodyears in Memorial Arena. The next night they adjourn to Whitby for the second puck conclave of the young season with M'sieu Wren Blair's hotshots. Not bad for a start.

Meanwhile down east the Brockville Magedomas and Cornwall Colts usher in the senior season with the pair clashing in Brockville tomorrow night. According to press reports both clubs are well stacked with products of the Ottawa Valley and veterans of the Quebec Hockey League, not to mention junior players of French-speaking clubs who have hopped the age hump.

The hon. Kitch Stanford, Brockville Magedoma's impresario, has combed the valley and the local printed word has it that he has an illustrious array, most of 'em French names, attached to Maggie contracts—or something. Meanwhile Master Ray Miren and Frank Marie down Cornwall way, have not been idle and their advance thumpings of the publicity drums would indicate that the Colts have already got a few Debbins of puck-chasing repute into the home corral.

But the proof of the hockey pudding, like its culinary counterpart, is in the eating—and there may be many a slip twixt the puck and the corner before the season is wound up. All-in-all, with the possible exception of the TPT's, the senior B group of this season has rounded up an array of illustrious names. Leaf-type looks like a championship year and in the news columns—but much remains to be seen. And you won't be able to garner much until the troops have got over the training aches and down to midseason form. Bill and for all, the schedule-making powers-that-be gave the TPT's and Whitby plenty of early opportunity to shake the summer cobwebs from muscles and joints. The TPT's play four games in five nights and the Dunlops three in four nights. Not a bad kick-off.

A GAME AND A MAN

The eyes of the Intercollegiate football world will be focused in general on Kingston Saturday—and in particular on a mighty stem of gridiron dynamite that wears the Tricolor.

For on that day ensues what has been termed the "Battle of the Giants" when Varsity's highly-rated Blues clash with the rod, gold and blue of Queen's University. The teams are all even-stephen at the top of the Intercollegiate gridiron ladder.

The third-year sensation of the Tricolor, youthful Ronnie Stewart, 185 pounds of football atomic energy, will be a marked man. Not that Stewart will care. It would bother him if he weren't marked.

This five-foot-sixer, ace of the Tricolor backfield, has already established an enviable Intercollegiate touchdown record. He is hailed as one of the greatest, if not the greatest halfback ever to wear intercollegiate cleats. And he should reveal in his greatest story when the Tricolor bouts with its ancient arch-enemy from Toronto.

He is as elusive as a butterfly's sigh. He is the Scarlet Pimpernel of intercollegiate football for the foe 'search him here, they search him there. They search for him most everywhere."

Last week against the University of Western Ontario Mustangs Stewart sat on a one-man show that was hailed in football circles the province over. He streaked across for three touchdowns. And his performance is all the more creditable because he was without the familiar company of Gary Schreider and Bill Surplis, two halfback wills-o'-the wisp.

Saturday, Stewart will spotlight a galaxy of backfield stars for the Blues' assault, including Al Noonan, will be back in tie entirely. And on their performance may hang an intercollegiate championship.

Coach Frank Tindall, not usually inclined to pay flowery tribute to his players in public, probably made the longest laudatory speech in his life the other day when speaking of Stewart. Said he:

"I cannot pay too much in tribute to this amazing thinker and player. He is the greatest I have seen in the Intercollegiate Union since I came to Canada in 1928. His sense of opponents' plays with unerring precision and he is 'on' that ball all the time. He goes places with such speed, evasiveness and elan that those of us who watch can hardly believe what we see."

Michael J. Rodden, steeped in football lore, writes from his vast gridiron experience—and Mr. Rodden, who definitely knows a football player when he sees one, has this to say about the starry Queen's backs:

"Another question concerns the all-time status that should be settled to this remarkable bundle of football skill known as Ron Stewart. In less than three full seasons Stewart has rocked up 24 touchdowns and has thus tripled the record established by the immortal George Richardson; a quarterback; shortly after the turn of the century.

"Many famous players have worn Queen's regalia; many have scored a lot of points but never before has there been such a touchdown scourge in the Intercollegiate Union as is this little speedster who was mistaken as a candidate for a waterboy role when he first applied to Frank Tindall for a football uniform. Stewart, unquestionably, is in a class by himself."

Rex the Hex Has Whammy Eye

CHICAGO (AP)—Rex the Hex did it to Philadelphia Eagles and Chicago Cardinals think he can do it to Cleveland Browns Sunday.

Cards think he is the best hexer since Evil-Eye Finkle, the boxing camp hatbiter who was supposed to put the hex on fighters.

Rex the Hex, however, is a dog—a collie with one blue eye and one brown one.

Eagles' Dick Bielski missed a 29-yard field goal attempt in the final minute on Sunday's 24-24 tie game with Cards.

"Rex was right on the Cardinals' bench at the time," says publicist Eddie McGuire. "He had his blue eye trained directly at Bielski. The poor guy never had a chance."

Murphy Paces Bounding Blues To Triumph Over Champions; Duff Gets Both Toronto Goals

By The Canadian Press

Ron Murphy is more than a month ahead of his goal-scoring objective in the National Hockey League.

Murphy was told by coach Phil Watson to score at least 30 goals in his 1955-56 season with New York Rangers. Watson said four goals a month would do it.

The 22-year-old Murphy sent his season's total to eight Wednesday night as he scored twice to help the Rangers to a 6-2 triumph over Detroit Red Wings at New York. The season opened last Oct. 6 and at this rate Murphy will be well over the 30-goal mark by the time the 70-game grind ends next spring.

In the only other engagement, the Maple Leafs pulled a surprise 2-1 victory over the leading Montreal Canadiens before a sellout crowd of 13,843 at Toronto. The win moved Leafs into sole possession of fifth place.

FIRST PERIOD—NIL

Murphy's two goals and an assist sent him into a first-place tie with teammate Dave Creighton in the individual scoring race. Each has 12 points.

The Rangers took over second place in the team race. They have 19 points to 17 for Canadiens—a single point behind Canadiens.

It was not only Murphy who came up with an outstanding game.

New York goaltender Lorne Worsley, who was rumored for an indefinite period, was pressured by Detroit into a mild penalty.

Then Creighton, Hebenton, Prentice and Murphy set Rangers out in front 6-1 in the third before Lindsay's record-tying marker at 19:11.

Rookie Dick Duff, a 19-year-old left winger, scored both Toronto goals as Leafs made it four straight games at home without a loss. They've won three of them. In the road Leafs have lost all five games.

SCORED IN SECOND

The first period was scoreless and centre Jackie Leclair opened the scoring for Canadiens at 3:37 of the second frame, driving home a 30-foot shot after Dickie Moore's pass from behind the Leaf net.

Duff evened the count at 16:25 of the same period with his first NHL goal, fooling Montreal netminder Jacques Plante from about three feet out.

The young Leaf forward won the game in the third period. He took a pass from George Armstrong and beat Plante with a 10-foot shot at 2:20.

Referee Frank Udvari, who called infractions closely, handed out 16 minor penalties, 10 to Canadiens and a 10-minute misconduct to Montreal defenceman Tom Johnson for arguing too strenuously after Canadiens were given a penalty for one of their men leaving the penalty box too soon.

Pete Conacher May Play For Farm Club

NEW YORK (CP)—General manager Muzz Patrick of New York Rangers said Wednesday night he is trying to arrange for Pete Conacher to play with one of the Ranger farm clubs or some other suitable team on a "loan" basis.

"Conacher is potential big league material and a much better player than the National Hockey League draft price ($15,000) and we're not going to let him go until a suitable arrangement or trade can be made," Patrick said.

Conacher was suspended by the Rangers after he signed his contract and refused to report to his assigned farm club — Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

UNABLE TO REPORT

Tuesday general manager Terry Reardon of the Reds said that Conacher had been unable to report to Reds because of personal affairs in Canada. The Reds had announced that George (Dutch) Blair had been acquired on loan from Buffalo in exchange for rights to Conacher.

It was thought that Conacher, a native of Toronto and son of NHL great Charley Conacher, might be able to play for Buffalo since it was closer to his home.

"A suitable arrangement with Buffalo might be possible," Patrick said, but no commitments have been made as yet.

Blues' Coach Plans Attack Against Gaels

TORONTO (CP) — Fickle Lady Luck kept the University of Toronto Golden Gaels out of the intercollegiate playoff final in 1954 but coach Bob Masterson of the University of Toronto Blues says he doesn't intend torely on luck this year.

Blues and Gaels clash Saturday in Kingston and the game looms large in the scheme of things to decide this year's Yates Cup winners.

For Frank Tindall's Gaels it's a must game. They were beaten in Toronto 16-11 the first time the two teams hooked up this fall.

The Gaels are tied for first place in the four-team intercollegiate union but Queen's must beat the Blues to qualify for a playoff.

Gaels, who last won the title in 1951, figure this is their year.

Wily coach Masterson says he plans a new attack he hopes will net 30 points. "That's the only way we will beat Queen's now that Gus Bracci is starting to hit on his passes," Masterson says.

Quarterback Bracci, who came to Queen's from Temple early in the fall, failed to show in Toronto but Masterson says his scouts report a steady improvement in the Queen's quarterback's throwing arm.

Last week in London Bracci's misdirected passes with long flings to leave Mustangs dizzy. Queen's won the game 23-17.

'Miss Supertest' Will Attempt New World Speedboat Mark On Picton's Colorful Course

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

PICTON — Canadian and world speedboat records may be shattered and established here over the weekend.

Picton's tree-fringed waterway, storied in speedboat archives will be the scene of the trials.

Tremendous 2,000 horsepower, a potential of 200 miles per hour lies hooded in the trim hull of "Miss Supertest," owned by the Thompson brothers of London, Ont. Bill Braden, Waterdown, Ont., one of Canada's crack speedboat drivers, will be at the throttle when the boat makes the attempts.

Braden will send "Miss Supertest" over a special measured course in an effort to break the Canadian record of 138 miles per hour set by the former "Miss Canada IV" and the world record of 178.3 miles per hour at present held by "Slo-Mo-Shun" of California.

Sunday has been set as the official date for the trials. The time is not known, everything depending on waves, wind and weather. It may be the crack o' dawn or high noon.

"Miss Supertest" which succeeded "Miss Canada IV" as the nation's hope for world speedboat supremacy is said to be valued at $240,000. Her power plant, a Rolls-Royce Grimson engine is said to have cost $75,000.

Optimism reigned in the camp here today following the test run of Miss Supertest yesterday. James Thompson, co-owner of the speedster told this reporter "the course is the best water Miss Supertest has ever tested. That goes for the United States and Canada."

Thompson was a trifle [illegible] in predicting any records for his craft. "We will go after the 'Canadian record first" he said, "but I believe that with yesterday's [illegible] in our favor we shall be able to lower the 138 m.p.h. mark set by Miss Canada five years ago."

If Miss Supertest takes the Canadian mark in her stride Braden will gun her for the world record held at the moment by the American speedster 'Slo-Mo-Shun' owned by A. Sayers. Slo-Mo-Shun's mark is 178.3 miles per hour.

Thompson said he was "satisfied with Miss Supertest's performance in the first trial run." It is likely other test performances will be staged before the big events of Sunday.

Sanction for the trial has been given by the Canadian Boating Federation for Saturday, October 20. The boat must travel both ways within 4 hours. In case of bad weather extensions can be granted.

The course is a five-mile straightaway in a north - south direction in the Long Reach off the high shore Picton to Green Point, Highway No. 41. "Miss Supertest" will roar down the first two miles then at full speed will race time in the middle official mile, with an extending two miles remaining.

Three official timers at each end of the course will work on shore handling the stop watches from which the time will be computed.

The course runs north and south. The most startling is a few hundred yards west of Cole's Ferry.

Among the speedboat notables here are Danny Foster, driver for Guy Lombardo, who will act in a mechanics advisory capacity, and his mechanic, Roy Duby. Other members of the boat party are Bruce Wells, designer of the boat's gear-box; Vic Leghorn and Doug Wimperis, mechanics for "Miss Supertest"; A. S. Eadie and William Turner, of the Rolls-Royce Company, and an ex-Bellevillian, Lloyd Hicks, Ottawa, supervisor of Supertest.

This pretty Prince Edward County town is agog over the event. Hotels are crowded to capacity. Many racing officials and speedboat men are in town. Newspapers of the district are represented. Toronto, Detroit and other metropolitan centres have sent figures connected with the sport. Many prominent Canadians are here.

Commodore Jack Cole and members of the Prince Edward Yacht Club are going all out to make the event a red-letter day in Canadian speedboat history.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police craft will patrol the course. It is urgently requested that all pleasure craft keep away from the scene of operations during the runs. This is very important. Remember Campbell's "Blue Bird" in her disastrous attempt to capture the world's jet-propelled boat honors.

Barrie Flyers Edge Biltmores In Opener

BARRIE (CP) — Barrie Flyers opened the 1955-56 Ontario Hockey Association junior A season on the right foot Wednesday night as they defeated Guelph Biltmores 2-1 before 7,400 fans.

Action in the first period was ragged at times with both teams missing numerous opportunities. Guelph had the better chances but poor shooting and outstanding goal tending by Bob Senior kept the slate clean.

Barrie scored in the second period as Guelph were a man short, Cherry carrying in behind the net and laying a perfect pass out to Raineri. Partridge came right back at the face-off, walked around one defenceman and drove a high shot at the top corner to make it 1-0.

Biltmores tried hard to come back in the third and were rewarded with a goal as Harper scored on a pass from Ozyko. They then applied the pressure for the remainder of the game but without success.

Four Mustangs Leave Corral After Game

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Four seniors will be playing their last football game at home in the University of Western Ontario colors when the Mustangs face rejuvenated McGill Redmen in the final 1955 senior intercollegiate game here Saturday.

The four Mustangs in their final year are fullback Ralph Simmons from Toronto, defensive halfback Byron Young from Peterborough and two London athletes; Captain Ted Collins, a tackle, and guard Doug Drew.

Lack of size may keep both Drew and Young from pro football, but Simmons and Collins are both considered to have excellent chances of making the grade.

Saturday's game should prove to be a real battle as the Mustangs fighting to escape finishing in the cellar, after McGill pulled a big upset last Saturday by downing Toronto 16-9.

Reds, Bears Win In American Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Providence's high-flying Reds, who finished in the cellar of the American Hockey League last year were in first place today on the strength of the play of two former New York Rangers.

The Reds acquired 21-year-old Bill McCreary and Camille Henry, 1953-54 National Hockey League rookie of the year last season, and the two pounded home goals in Providence's 3-2 victory over the Buffalo Bisons Wednesday night.

In another AHL game, the Hershey Bears outclassed the Springfield Indians 7-2 decision, who hasn't won an AHL pennant since 1946, raced ahead of the idle Cleveland Barons by one point. The Reds have nine points.

McCreary scored the winning goal with less than three minutes remaining in the final period after Henry's goal late in the second period broke a 1-1 tie. Larry Wilson scored Buffalo's first goal and Providence's Paul Larivee matched it early in the same period.

New Grist for Mills

Watson's 'New Loop' Rangers Make Gotham Scribes Happy

NEW YORK (AP)—After years of desperation and sagging interest, New York hockey writers suddenly seem to have found enjoyment in their work.

The bundle of colorful material provided by Bill Watson and his "new look" Rangers has made the writers perk up and the result has been almost daily bright feature stories on the local sports pages.

For a time last season things got so bad that many New York newspapers ran stories only on the actual games. There also were periods when the Rangers hardly would get a mention for a day or two at a clip.

Wednesday, every afternoon New York paper had a story on a different Ranger player and one paper even ran two lengthy stories.

Perhaps the fact that the season still is young and the new Rangers provide a natural reservoir of information may have something to do with it, but the writers in unbending themselves seem to have taken heart from the fighting spirit of Watson, the old pro, and the club's will to win.

This long-looking spirit, which could provide the shot in the arm the sport has needed in New York for years, was the theme of most of Wednesday's stories and has been since the season opened.

A sample of this afternoon's work:

James Burchard in The World Telegram: "Honest Andy real bargain for Blues". (A feature on Andy Hebenton, the former Victoria star, and how Ranger general manager Muzz Patrick claims he outwitted his father, Lester, in getting Andy, dubbed by coach Watson "the honest worker.")

Barney Kremenko in the Journal-American: "Bills keep Creighton angry, fit." (A story on Dave Creighton, who says he was so mad at being traded to five clubs within a year that he has decided "to give it an all-out try with the Rangers.")

Jerry Mitchell in The Post: "New Blues have 'mean' look." ("A mean look that becomes them," writes Mitchell in a lengthy yarn on Wednesday night's game in the Garden against Detroit Red Wings won by Rangers 6-2).

The Post also devotes a whole column by Milt Gross to Lou Fontinato, the Ranger defenseman who Muzz Patrick describes as "a guy who will mix it with a bull, go holds barred."

Watson and Patrick both admit they have had to sit on Leaping Louie occasionally to calm him down. Jerry Bill figures Fontinato "is just the kind of player who could help many over his five sisters if they suddenly loomed in his path."

Rocky Willing To Meet Moore

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano is perfectly willing to fight Archie Moore again, provided the public wants a rematch and Archie "wins a couple of fights in the next few months."

So said the champ here today, adding that Jersey Joe Walcott hit him much harder than did venerable Archie.

Because of income tax, Rocky said, it isn't profitable to fight more than twice a year. He figures the next defence will be in June.

Royals Edge Shawinigan 3-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals clung tenaciously to the heels of the leaguepacing Shawinigan Falls Cataracts Wednesday night with a 3-2 overtime victory over the hapless Chicoutimi Saguenayens.

At the same time, the Cataracts held Trois-Rivieres Lions to the Quebec Hockey League cellar with a 5-2 triumph before 3,200 fans. The Royals, trailing Shawinigan Falls by three points came from behind a 2-0 deficit to force the game into sudden-death overtime. Lulu Denis' goal, with Kelly Burnett and Andre Corriveau assisting proved the winner after six minutes of extra play, beating goalie

Holman KO's Boardwalk Smith

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—John Holman, a massive and notoriously slow Chicago Negro, smashed Boardwalk Billy Smith back into fistic oblivion Wednesday night, knocking him out with a violent right cross at 1:43 of the seventh round.

The plodding Holman pursued Smith ruthlessly through the first five rounds but finally caught him in the sixth with a series of left uppercuts, followed by a left hook that dropped Smith under the ropes for a nine-count.

Holman caught the tired Smith quickly in the seventh, knocking him flat on his back with a right to the head. Smith got his knees at nine but was unable to make it and was counted out by the referee.

Kitchener Dutchies Win Three in Row Hand Mercurys 5-4 Overtime Defeat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen apparently don't let poor showings in exhibition games bother them. Dutchmen couldn't untrack themselves in their pre-season games and won only a couple of the eight or so contests played.

But Wednesday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, Canada's representatives for the 1956 Olympic Games won their third game in as many league starts. They defeated Owen Sound Mercurys 5-4 in overtime at Kitchener.

The win moved Dutchmen into a first-place tie with Mercurys, who were handed their first defeat in four games.

BEAT CHATHAM

Stratford Indians defeated Chatham Maroons 4-2 at Chatham in the other game. Stratford's win was Maroons' third loss in as many games and left them in the cellar with Windsor Bulldogs, who also have lost their three starts. Indians are in third place with two victories in three contests.

A Kitchener crowd of 2,429 saw Billy Colvin break up the game at 6:55 of the 10-minute overtime session. It was the third goal of the game for the youngster who graduated from Junior B to St. Michael's Majors in the junior OHA last season.

Bob White and Jack McKenzie scored the other Dutchmen goals. Jack Popiel-Mercurys with a pair of goals, Ken Green and Ted Reid got the others.

Owen Sound jumped into a 3-1 lead during the first period. Dutchmen made it 4-3 in the second and outscored Mercurys 2-1 in the final frame. McKenzie's goal was up the overtime period.

A crowd of 1,900 watched the Chatham game. Stratford was ahead 2-0 after the first period and led 3-1 after two frames.

Lou Bendo, Dinny Flanagan, Harry Pavlika and Jimmy Filotti scored for Indians. Mike Delich and Jim Connelly produced Maroons' markers.

Goodyears Tie Whitby Dunlops

The Kingston Goodyears and Whitby Dunlops were deadlocked once in overtime last night before 2,043 fans in Kingston's Community Centre to tie 3-3 in the opening game of the 1955-56 OHA senior "B" schedule.

The Goodyears were fighting an uphill battle most of the way, with Whitby leading 1-0 at the end of the first and 3-2 going into the third period. Kingston tied the score at 3:55 on Schnarr-who's marker and took a 4-3 lead at 12:24 with Don Bellringer banging home passes from Senior and Nicholson. Fred Eicher sent the teams into overtime with Whitby's fourth goal, a shot from Bonello.

Jack Irvine's Limestone City crew went in front at 3:15 of the 10-minute overtime session with Bellringer completing a three-way play with Senior and White. Whitby surged back at the 5:32 mark however, with Bonello rapping home Eicher's pass for the 5-5 score.

The line of Don Bellringer, Don Senior and Jack White sparked the Goodyear attack. Bellringer notched two goals and an assist, Senior one goal and two assists while White drew two helpers. Les Douglas and Sam Sanchenko netted the other goals.

Don McBeth fired two of the Whitby goals with Eicher and Bonello claiming one goal and one assist each. Harry Smith also scored.

Referees Walsh and Topping handed out 14 penalties, three to Whitby including two miscondicts to Harry Sinden.

The same two clubs meet in Whitby on Saturday night while Whitby visits the Belleville TPT's on Friday evening at 9.00 p.m.

Family Trust Takes Over Detroit Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—A family trust took over the ownership of the Detroit Tigers baseball team today but its membership is only a matter of time before the famous American League baseball team would be sold outright.

The list of fiddlers for the property now held in trust for the five children of the late Walter O. Briggs is growing longer. High on the list is another famous Detroit name—Henry Ford II.

Still hopeful of keeping the Briggs name on the fine stadium is W. O. (Spike) Briggs Jr., Walter's only son. But his efforts appear wrapped in legal red tape.

LEGAL TECHNICALITIES

The ownership change to the trust fund was one of many legal technicalities surrounding the baseball franchise. The Briggs Commercial and Investment Co., which held the baseball stock, was dissolved, effective today, under the terms of the Briggs will. And the stock went into the trust fund. However, there is a difference of legal opinion as to whether a trust can properly own such a precarious property as a baseball team.

Another legal question is whether Spike Briggs can be a proper fiduciary for the club since he not only is a beneficiary of the trust, he is one of three executors of it.

JAMES LEADS WIFU

REGINA (CP) — Gerry James, Winnipeg Blue Bomber halfback, has an edge of 16 yards over fullback Normie Kwong of Edmonton Eskimos in the race for Western Interprovincial Football Union ground-gained honors.

Statistics released Wednesday night show James with a net gain of 1,174 yards against 1,058 for Kwong. Both marks surpass the league record of 1,043 yards established last year by import fullback Howard Waugh of Calgary Stampeders.

The two homebrew gridders have one more game to switch places in their totals. On Saturday night Bombers and Eskimos play to the Stadium-Exhibition Bowl, while Exhibs entertain the Stampeders in the final league games of the season.

Head Signs With Kramer

SYDNEY (Reuters)—Australian Davis Cup star Lewis Hoad has signed a tentative agreement with American impresario Jack Kramer to turn professional, it was reported Wednesday in Sydney.

Hoad's father revealed the existence of the agreement after a hotel-room meeting with Kramer. Because the brilliant athlete is under 21 and Kramer is not a member of Australian law, the agreement is not legally binding until it has the signature of Hoad's father and the approval of a district court.

Kramer said Hoad would "discuss money offers tomorrow."

Hoad and playing-mate Ken Rosewall recently turned down reported $50,000 offers from Kramer in Brisbane. Rosewall said Wednesday night he is not interested in any new offers by Kramer.

Joins Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP)—Bob Celer, quarterback with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, rejoined the team Wednesday night after being released from hospital.

Celer suffered a concussion in last Saturday's game against Sarnia Imperials. He was admitted to hospital here Sunday and released Tuesday.

Celer will be in action Friday night when Dutchmen meet Toronto Beaches in the final league scheduled game of the season here.

'Highway Patrol' Being Based On Actual Work of Officers

TV-Radio Column

By CHARLES MERGER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let me sing you the ballad of "Highway Patrol." This is another of those television film packages that use actual experiences of highway patrol officers in 48 states" it says here.

It's popping up at various times all over the country, and a couple of nights ago it popped up on WCBS-TV in New York city. The tires screamed in at 7 p. m. just as several hundred thousand kids were finishing their supper and tuning for the TV set.

Broderick Crawford, the star of the show, is a smart tough cookie—this con is an' setting' up roadblocks an' stuff. The con knows for sure is smart because we cut back to him an' see he has a flat an' needs it fixed an' all that an' says who fixed it an' gets away. . . .

Crawford's smart con, because he knows the roads are blocked an' he stops his car by the road an' walks over the car jack an' goes about 50 feet into the bushes. Along comes a highway patrol car but an' out gets this young trooper an' his car is drawn. Gee, these cops are dumb. He runs back to where the con is—an' the con bops him on the head with the back of the head an' maybe kills him. Whot a wing on that con.

See, the con puts on the trooper's uniform an' tears off in the police car with patrol headquarters tryin' to contact their man on the short wave an' the con is smart enough to know they'll interrupt him as he does a smart thing. He stops a school bus with two little kids in it an' warns the driver he'll flow his brains out if he speeds.

So they come to a roadblock. A cop gets on the bus an' the kids all of a sudden the con's contact an' the driver 'em enough turns children a whole block. Gee, these cops are dumb. See, they act down the road a way an' the con makes the driver turn off an' stop. He slugs the driver on the back of the head, but he don't slug the li'l kids. See, he's really sort of kind-hearted. I guess but everybody's against him an' everything.

Anyhow he puts on the driver's clothes an' drives the bus to this restaurant where he's arranged to meet his contact. All this time, you see Crawford figurin' what this guy's doin', but there's one step behind him, Crawford is next week.

War Photographer Repeats Exploits

One of World War II's most famous combat photographers, Bob Landry, has just finished filming the war all over again.

On Army Firing Grounds near Yakima, Washington, Landry photographed America's most decorated soldier, Audie Murphy, as the actor-hero re-enacted for Technicolor CinemaScope cameras his wartime adventures in Universal-International's "To Hell and Back" held over today only at the McCarthy Theatre.

Landry, who was in every major theatre of operations in both Europe and the Pacific during World War II, spent eight hours a day taking pictures of Audie as he enacted the combat experiences which won him 33 decorations, including the Medal of Honor.

"Bob treated the movie location just like he did the war," Audie recalls.

"He showed up every morning, wearing the full gear of a combat correspondent. He even called scenes 'primarily Seiefings.' And in his room at the hotel, he had but three books to read—'A Farewell to Arms,' 'Sherbrook' and 'Guard of Honor' to keep him in practice."

"Shucks, this guy Landry is a bigger ham than I am!"

The large supporting cast of "To Hell and Back" is headed by Marshall Thompson, Charles Drake, Gregg Palmer and Jack Kelly. Jesse Hibbs directed and Aaron Rosenberg produced.

South was the declarer at a grand slam contract of seven spades and got West opening lead of club Jack. When dummy had went down, he saw at once that the danger was from both black kings.

It is not likely that the leader also had the king of clubs with such a hand, so he limself set a been sudden death for south to take a chance at letting the first trick come around to his queen.

Therefore, dummy club ace was shot on the first trick and a trump was returned from there. It was a temptation to finesse fortunately for south he decided to climb on with the ace and the king dropped.

This took the load off everything except clubs where it looked as if a trick must be lost to opponents. With no other place to park it, the only hope in such a situation is to try a squeeze.

Declarer cashed seven more trumps and the heart ace to reduce all hands to three cards a piece. In his own south hand were left a small diamond, a small diamond, and queenie of the clubroom.

Dummy was still with the heart jack and in diamonds with the ace and nine. West kept two diamonds and heart king to menace south jack. East hung on with two diamond honors and club king to menace south queen.

South led the last trump by south. West dare not give up the heart king. So he flings one of his diamonds. When he does this, dummy jettisons his heart jack which has served its literal purpose.

This puts east on the spot. He dare not abet the club king and his alternative is to throw a diamond honor. So, south simply leads his diamond and dummy takes ace and nine for the final tricks.

A squeeze menns trouble. Here, that goes double.

Jim Stewart Admits Wanting To Play Lindbergh Role in Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — James Stewart admits that the story of his yen to play Charles A. Lindbergh on the screen sounds too amazing to be true.

That's why he told it reluctantly. "People would say it's a publicity story," he remarked.

Stewart is playing the famed flier in the story of his Atlantic hop, "The Spirit of St. Louis." He has returned from filming locations in France, Ireland and Greenland and soon starts the Hollywood shooting.

"I was a nut about flying, too," he recalled, speaking of his days as a lad.

"When Lindbergh made his flight I happened to be out of school. I had scarlet fever, I think. Anyway, I'd hang around the family hardware store, looking for something to do.

"It was making window displays, so I got a piece of pasteboard and cut it out like part of a globe. At one side I put the Woolworth building and at the other the Eiffel tower. Then I made a model of Lindbergh's plane.

"After he took off I'd check with the local paper and move the plane amazing to be true, but it came in."

Jimmy met his long-time idol at dinner not long ago. The conversation went something like this:

Lindbergh: "I think you'll do a good job in the picture."

Stewart: "Thank you. I'm sure going to try."

Lindbergh: "Have you got a pencil and a piece of paper?"

Stewart supplied them and Lindbergh scrawled his name and phone number. He handed the paper to Jimmy. "If you're ever in New York, give me a call," he said. That was the extent of the conversation between the two, both noted for their taciturnity.

Jimmy said he understood Lindbergh may come here to watch some of the filming — "if you never can tell; he's a pretty mysterious man."

At The Belle

Everybody's Dream Film Coming To Town, In CinemaScope, Color

By paying a considerable sum of money in addition to the record price paid for the stage comedy hit, "The Seven Year Itch", which is in the third-year of its continuous run on Broadway, Twentieth Century-Fox received permission to release the motion picture version concurrently with the play. Consequently the film, which stars Marilyn Monroe and Tom Ewell, will have its Belleville premiere tomorrow, Friday, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

The supporting cast includes such stellar players as Evelyn Keyes, Sonny Tufts, Robert Strauss, Oscar Homolka, Marguerite Chapman, Victor Moore and Roxanne.

George Axelrod, brilliant young playwright who wrote the comedy for the stage, collaborated with Billy Wilder in preparing it for the screen. The pair took advantage of the numerous gifts of the CinemaScope cameras to give the story much more scope than was possible on the stage. Many scenes, such as "The Hayride", which were referred to in dialogue on the stage, are actually shown on the screen.

Tom Ewell, who originated the role of Richard Sherman, the summer-vacationing husband with the roving eye and vagrant imagination, repeats it for the screen. In the story he resolves to lead a quiet life after sending his wife off to a summer resort, but his vivid imaginings result in a continuous chain of hilarious incidents. Like most husbands he has moments in which he considers himself as a Casanova, desired by many beautiful women. When he invites "The Girl", Marilyn Monroe, in for a drink he really complicates matters, for like his air-cooled apartment so much that she moves in to stay for the summer.

A plumber, played by Victor Moore, becomes a village gossip when he officiates professionally in extricating Marilyn's toe which gets stuck in a faucet while she is taking a bubble bath. Of course this all takes place only in Ewell's overactive imagination, which she has the word of his 'affair' spreading to his wife and to Miami.

Even the counselling of a friendly psychiatrist, who points out that the summer heat may affect the libido, is to no avail in quieting the workings of Ewell's conscience.

The most publicized scene in "The Seven Year Itch" is the famous skirt-blowing sequence which was filmed in location shots in New York City, the locale of the story. When Director Billy Wilder shot the scene the Lexington Avenue was jammed for two blocks with more than 2,000 persons, plus a battery of news cameramen and reporters. The skirt-blowing of Marilyn's skirt blowing over her head as she stood over a subway grating made newspapers throughout the country.

TO A SUCCESSFUL MAN STOPPED BY SALARY RESTRICTIONS

By ordinary standards you are rated a success. Yet you know that in your present position you will never have the opportunity to show what you can really do and earn.

Today, due to expansion of business, we can offer you an opportunity to make a business connection with no restrictions on earning power. Our Company is nationally advertised and the largest organization of its kind in the world.

As our representative, you would be in business for yourself — but you would make no capital investment, carry no inventory, have no rent or payroll to meet.

The man chosen will be carefully selected and, profession-ally appraised for strong sales potential. He will be sent to our National Sales Training School at our expense and will receive a salary during his training period. He will be thoroughly field trained upon his return.

If you feel that you have practically reached the top in your present work and you honestly believe that your annual income should be much higher, and are between ages 25 to 45, own a late model car, write Box 112 Ontario Intelligencer and an interview appointment will be arranged. All replies treated with strictest confidence. Our own associates have been informed of this ad. C25-21

WINCHELL SUIT UPHELD

NEW YORK (AP)—A State Supreme Court justice Wednesday decided a motion to dismiss a $7,000,000 suit brought by Walter Winchell against American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres Inc. in a contract dispute. Winchell complained that last Feb. 10 he asked the company to protect him against any damages resulting from his broadcasting, and said he wished to be released from further services if the company denied his request.

TOOLS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD HANDYMAN

The "Do-It-Yourself" trend that has developed across Canada since World War II has spread to such things as art and etching for household decorations, as shown by Trent Fay, and his aluminum etched tray. This is one of the displays at the annual Canadian Handyman show in Toronto, which exhibits tools, paints, wallpapers, household projects and assorted accessories to the handyman diet such as liquid leather paint. Though it's a "handyman" exhibition, women are showing just as much interest in power saws, [illegible]

Faure Again Asks Confidence Vote In Risky Test

By HARVE HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—Premier Faure, recent victor in two crucial tests in the French National Assembly, has demanded a third and even riskier vote of confidence.

The result could throw him and Foreign Minister Pinay out of office at the very start of the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Geneva.

Backed into a corner by defeat on two procedural questions Wednesday night, Faure shut off further debate until Thursday by demanding the vote of confidence. Until Friday then, the premier, a master of political manoeuvring, will have an opportunity to cast about for additional support.

Had a decisive vote been taken this morning Faure probably would have been beaten.

NO HESITANCY

The point that the Big Four foreign ministers are starting their meeting in Geneva today seems to have caused no hesitancy among deputies who want to throw the government out. The fact that an adverse vote would cripple France's representation at the international meeting got only passing mention in Wednesday night's debate.

But it was the same last week when the premier asked for a vote of confidence on Algerian policy. He won that one easily, 306 to 254, after the deputies had a weekend for reflection, though on a preliminary procedural question they had defeated him 303 to 274.

Faure asked for a vote of confidence this time after the deputies voted 289 to 286 to take up a Socialist resolution.

Earlier the assembly refused, by a vote of 303 to 275, to give priority to a mild government formula "taking note" of government declarations on its general policies.

Times Is Attacked For 'Ultimatum' Bullying Princess

Savage Assault on Paper Is Made by Daily Mirror

LONDON (Reuters) — An unexpected weekend journey to Scotland by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh today set off fresh speculation on Princess Margaret's romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, a divorced commoner.

The Queen will travel more than 400 miles tonight by train to spend less than 48 hours with her cousin, the master of Elphinstone. The Duke flew this morning to the Scottish nobleman's home at Drumkilbo.

The Queen and the duke will return to London by train early Monday morning.

Britons are wondering why the Queen chose to make this unusually long journey for a short weekend visit—particularly as it will be two weeks after she returned to London from Balmoral Castle, which lies about 35 miles from Drumkilbo.

MRS. WILLS' BROTHER

The master of Elphinstone, 41, is the brother of Mrs. John Lycett Wills, who was hostess to Margaret and Townsend at Mill House in July at her country house near Windsor and more recently in London. Newspapers then dubbed her "royal matchmaker."

Reports have persisted that the princess and Townsend, should they decide to marry, might get a decision on the wedding ceremony.

Princess Margaret's plans for the weekend were not immediately known, nor did Townsend disclose his intentions.

Government quarters said no official development in the royal marriage question is expected over the weekend.

Queen and Duke Make Hurried Visit to Scotland

By RANALD MACLURKIN

LONDON (AP) — The widely read Daily Mirror has bitterly charged the influential Times with an "ill-disguised attempt to force Princess Margaret into giving up the man she loves by a bullying ultimatum."

In one of the most savage attacks ever made by one British newspaper upon another, the tabloid says The Times' editorial lecture to the princess on Wednesday has been "no relation...to the views of the vast majority of people."

The Mirror, which claims a daily circulation of more than 4,500,000 — the world's largest—describes The Times as a "newspaper selling 221,972 copies a day."

MUST BE CONSULTED

"It speaks for a dusty world and a forgotten age," says The Mirror. "Any idea that The Times and its stuffy cronies speak with authority is finally going to be scotched."

The Times editorial said the marriage of the 25-year-old, princess and the divorced air force hero "must send, a divorced commoner, would put the Royal Family in an impossible position, adding that such a marriage would force Margaret's own renunciation of public life as did the love of the Duke of Windsor for Wallis Warfield Simpson nearly a score of years ago.

The editorial received wide attention because of the weight the opinions of The Times are known to carry among High circles.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, ranking prelate of the Church of England, is on the paper's board of trustees.

The princess, at her own request, went to see the archbishop and had a 35-minute interview with him Thursday.

As head of the church, the archbishop is perhaps the most determined opponent of the princess marrying a divorced man. The absolutely held tenet of the church is against remarriage of divorced persons whose former mates are still living.

A press spokesman for the archbishop said "it was a private meeting and it cannot be discussed."

The Mirror says The Times editorial was the "first sinister move in a plan to force upon the princess a cruel choice — give up Peter Townsend forever or be banished from the royal circle."

She must presumably spend the rest of her life like the luckless Windsors, without roots, without responsibility, without duties.

"Thus speak the self-ordained bishops of Printing House Square, headquarters of The Times, in their cozy star chamber far from the world's troubles," the tabloid thunders. Sir William Haley, the starchy editor of The Times, has retired his black cap and passed his savage sentence."

The Mirror says a poll of its readers showed 96 per cent of those writing believed the princess should be allowed to marry Townsend, but The Times says "trying to keep up with the 20th Mat, the Royal Family must not even briefly dedicate [illegible] pursuing a gifted and busy public life."

Woman Killed, Husband Hurt In Q.E. Crash

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. J. Ashton Comly of Clarkson, Ont., was killed and her husband critically injured today when their small English car collided head-on with an empty gravel truck on the Queen Elizabeth way.

Comly said four cars were involved in the crash.

The truck driver, John Brown, 25, of Toronto, and the drivers of other vehicles involved, Mike Mikitas, 31, of Toronto, and Stanley Banning, 55, of nearby Oakville, were uninjured.

Police said Brown's truck swung over the centre boulevard, travelled west onto the east lane of the highway, sideswiped Mikitas' car making a left turn and continued down the east lane colliding head-on with the Comly car. Banning's car collided with the rear of the truck.

Brown said police his brakes failed to hold.

Mrs. Comly was thrown against the windshield and her husband trapped behind the wheel.

FAURE AGAIN WINS ASSEMBLY CONFIDENCE VOTE

Will Move Election Date Up to December

PARIS (AP) — Premier Edgar Faure today won a vote of confidence from the National Assembly, clearing the way for quick debate on moving up France's national elections to December. The vote was 371 to 259.

The victory was the third for Faure this month over the hard-left assembly. Each time he had been put in a difficult position and had seemed to be on the point of defeat.

The subject of today's vote was the government's general policies. The assembly adopted merely "takes note" of statements by Faure on his financial and economic policies which have guided the government, and the results obtained. Rejected were Socialist and Communist motions expressing no confidence in the government.

Behind this fracas the real issue was the question of moving up general elections to December, as Faure has requested. The next election of deputies had been scheduled for next June. But the Premier's important decisions must be taken in the first six months of 1956 which would require continuity of the parliament to back the solutions reached.

RETURNS TO GENEVA

The victory enabled Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay to resume his seat at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Geneva. Pinay flew here this morning to participate in the showdown vote, but hoped to be back in the Swiss city in time for the afternoon Big Four meeting.

Pinay had said Thursday in Geneva that "I cannot validly represent France while there is danger of a crisis."

Former premier Pierre Mendes-France was one of those voting against Faure today, though both are members of the Radical Socialist party. The Mendes-France forces in the assembly had worked hard to find some means of retarding the elections.

Also present today was Maurice Thorez, secretary - general of the French Communist party. It was his first appearance in the assembly chamber in the five years since he suffered a paralytic stroke.

9 of 10 Murders In Ontario By Immigrants

TORONTO (CP) — Deputy Attorney General Clarence Magonet told Thursday night more than 90 per cent of the murders in Ontario are committed by Europeans committed by European immigrants.

Mr. Magone told the Ontario Probation Officers Association it unfortunately a great many Europeans "find their way into our penitentiaries."

He said he didn't know what the reason was, whether it was because of lack of screening or something else.

Once Wielded Savage Red Pencil, Now Soviet Beauty Is Interpreter

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP) — Dark - eyed Nina Sergeyivna Ratiani, who used to wield a savage red pencil in the censor of Russian newspapers, has turned up in Geneva the picture of sweet Russian reasonableness.

"Censorship!" she said with a touch of disdain. "Oh, no, all that's behind me now. But those were amusing days, weren't they?"

They may have been amusing for Nina with her battery of sharp pencils, but not for Western correspondents trying to get their war news past the censor's eagle eye. As a censor Nina was fair—but awfully tough.

"What are you doing in Geneva?" she was asked.

"I'm on the Soviet delegation as an interpreter," she said, "but to put it precisely — an interpreter primarily of Russian into English and English into Russian."

As a trim-figured, full-bosomed Soviet beauty with a flair for dress and charm, Nina has fired the imagination of scores of reporters at the Geneva conference and caused dozens of flash bulbs to be exploded in her direction.

Nina has a pretty linguistic colleague in Geneva, Lubov Vidiasnova. Lubov in Russian means love. Lubov, or Love, interprets Russian remarks into French.

Russia Gaining on Western World in Know-How--Solandt

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Russia is gaining on the Western world in know-how, says Canada's chief defence scientist.

Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the Defence Research Board, said Thursday night the Western world must pull up its socks to keep up with the Soviet where scientists and engineers are concerned.

In a hard-hitting speech to the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association, Dr. Solandt declared the output of Russian scientists has been such that of the United States and may soon exceed that of the major nations of the free world combined.

"If efforts to increase the number and quality of scientists and engineers fail in the free world as a whole, peace will be jeopardized and if they fail in Canada alone our prosperity will disappear," he said.

Dr. Solandt spoke to delegates at a dinner meeting after Lt.-Gen. H. D. Graham, Canadian army chief of staff, told them at a luncheon gathering that atomic weapons may mean a end to the ground forces in any future wars.

Gen. Graham, however, spoke of the prime importance of ground power and added that:

"In spite of the dreadful destruction from the air by guided missiles or any other methods it is almost certain that armed ground forces would eventually oppose each other on a battlefield."

There appeared to be parallels in the views between general and the scientist, as when Gen. Graham said:

"It is expensive and unwise for countries to lay up the many and complicated and elaborate weapons that would be called for in modern warfare. Stocks and reserves should be kept to a minimum, from the standpoint of economy and from the standpoint that we must be ready to take advantage of new types of equipment."

Dr. Solandt, in a somewhat similar vein, said:

"It is quite clear that in the thermonuclear era our problem in Canada is not to have a widespread industrial base prepared for mobilization but rather to have adequate continuing industrial production to keep our relatively small forces fully being continually armed with the latest and best weapons and equipment.

"Particularly in the field of air defence, weapons systems are changing so rapidly that this is a task that will put the Canadian taxpayer, if not Canadian industry, to the utmost."

In giving the comparative standards of Russian and Western scientists, Dr. Solandt said:

"It is only a little later the free world felt confident that it was maintaining a steady but increasing its lead over the Russians in weapons development. Recently this lead has been increasingly obvious that, at least in certain fields, the free world believes the Russians were actually overtaking it in front."

He added:

"If we are to remain free we must strive to be more and more to the scientific advances of the defence of the free world. If we are to remain prosperous we must do the research and development that is necessary to produce more and better goods more cheaply to compete effectively in world markets."

Retaliatory Raid by Israeli Is Staged on Egyptian Camp

JERUSALEM (CP)—An Israeli military informant said 50 Egyptian soldiers were slain and 20 captured early today by an Israeli force which stormed and occupied an Egyptian frontier post. Israel said the raid was in retaliation for an earlier Egyptian assault on an Israeli police post.

An Egyptian spokesman in Cairo said four Egyptians and four Israelis were killed in clashes in which took place at Kuntilla, about three miles inside Egypt-Israeli territory. The spokesman said the Israeli force was driven off. Egypt filed a protest with the Israeli-Egyptian mixed armistice commission.

An Israeli army spokesman said the raid was the "purpose of the Israeli counter-action was to emphasize what Israel considers clear to Egypt—that their attack on Israel would be met by counter-attack."

He added:

"If they leave us alone, we will leave them alone. If they want us to leave them alone, let them leave us alone. The Israeli action was directed against an Egyptian military post which carried out attacks against Israeli territory. By contrast with Egyptian practice, soldiers are still in Israeli territory, the Israeli forces have returned to Israel.

"We want nothing from Egypt. Let them keep out of Israel and we shall keep out of Egypt."

The action followed an Egyptian attack Tuesday on Israeli police. Two were demilitarized El Auja-Nizana border zone, the spokesman said. Egypt charged that Israeli forces here regarded Thursday night's raid as a "declared answer."

Egypt charged Thursday that Israeli forces in the demilitarized zone had killed two Egyptian police units. The Egyptians said withdrawal of armed forces from the area had been repeatedly requested by United Nations truce observers, but Israeli forces had remained "disguised as police and guards."

Israeli military spokesmen countered with a charge that Egyptian forces had entered the zone near the Sinai border and entrenched themselves.

Israel also charged Thursday that a Egyptian military patrol entered the demilitarized zone in northeastern Galilee and clashed with an Israeli police patrol.

A few hours before Thursday night's newest attack, Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett arrived at the scene of the big four conference to protest shipment of Communist arms to Egypt and to seek security guarantees from the West to counteract the growing Arab arsenal.

Diefenbaker's Solution

Could End Surplus Problem By International Food Bank

HAMILTON (CP) — The solution of world food surpluses, including wheat, is formation of an international food bank, John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of the House of Commons for Prince Albert, said here today.

He said he felt the free nations must give immediate consideration to establishment of such a bank as a long-term solution to the problem of feeding the hungry people.

The bank would store surpluses from countries where there is no needs when agricultural production is reduced through drought or other cause.

In a speech to the Canadian Club, he said that during his present tour of eastern Canada, talks with business men have convinced him the eastern provinces recognize and appreciate the perilous wheat situation in western Canada.

He said he does not believe in a give-away plan for Canada's produce, but "there is a major need for farm produce in these countries and these markets should be utilized."

The international defence affairs expert for the Progressive Conservative party said the current "unity" policy of the Russians has resulted in a pronounced weakening of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

There has been some suggestion that Canada might, in the interests of preserving and maintaining the solid economic defences of North America, withdraw our army and air force units. That would be an inexcusable and unwarranted course.

"It cannot be forgotten that the only reason we have had peace in Europe is that free nations have negotiated in strength."

Mr. Diefenbaker said such a withdrawal would weaken NATO and result in other countries reducing their contributions.

QUEBEC'S BIGGEST SHIPYARD SWEPT BY MAJOR BLAZE

Half Yard Destroyed; Loss Totals Million

By ALEX DIMEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAUZON, Que. (CP)—A multi-million-dollar fire swept through Davie Shipbuilding Ltd. during the night, leaving half of the largest shipyard on the St. Lawrence river a mass of twisted steel girders and, smouldering rubble. Early estimates put the loss at more than a million.

Shortly after the blaze began at 7 p.m. Thursday, anxious knots of families living nearby began evacuating their homes as showers of sparks fell over the area.

The fire was brought under control at about 1:30 a.m. today.

Two houses a few feet from the shipyard limits caught fire and were severely damaged. Four sheds also outside the yard were destroyed.

R. Black, general manager of Davie Shipbuilding, said it was impossible to accurately assess the damages. He said, however, they would run into "millions of dollars."

CAUSE NOT KNOWN

He said the cause of the fire has not been determined but an investigation will get underway immediately.

A total of 200 firemen from Lauzon, neighboring Levis and suburban City were called in to fight the blaze. Fireman Wilfrid Chevalier of Quebec City was undercome and injured when he tumbled from the roof of a house which was partly on fire.

Several ships under construction in the yard were not threatened by the flames. The only ship of major size being built at the moment was said to be a destroyer escort for the Royal Canadian Navy.

At the outset of the holocaust many families began lugging furniture and trunks out of their cluttered homes. Some struggled with heavy stoves and refrigerators.

Statuettes of the Virgin Mary appeared in many windows and some were set modestly bonfire on chairs and tables. Other families knelt in prayers as the towering flames, clearly visible across the St. Lawrence river in Quebec City only two miles around, lit up the night sky.

1,000 LOSE WORK

About 200 employees were on the night shift when the fire started and had time to leave the premises safely as well as to get important files and other property.

Mr. Black said virtually all work on the shipyard will be halted "for some time."

The shipyard now employs about 1,200 men. At peak periods of employment there are about 2,000 men, Ernest Gray, mayor of Lauzon, said he will seek all possible assistance from Quebec provincial authorities to aid the unemployed and gave assurance that the city has helped fight the fire.

It was the first major fire in the history of the shipyard, a subsidiary of Canada Steamship Lines. Davie's is the largest by the largest shipyard in area in Canada and one of the oldest.

Both Sides Reject Other's Proposal At Geneva Meet

Britain, France and U.S. Offer USSR Guarantees

GENEVA (CP) — Britain, the United States and France today offered the Soviet Union a nine-point "treaty of assurance" providing for guarantees against aggression by a united Germany allied with NATO.

Russia countered with a proposal for a European security system embracing "all European states irrespective of their social systems" and the United States.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov submitted the Russian plan at the second session of the Big Four foreign ministers conference as British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan advanced the Western plan.

NOT ACCEPTABLE

A Soviet spokesman said the Western proposals were unacceptable because they proposed inclusion of a reunified Germany in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Russia wants NATO scrapped.

The Soviet plan was promptly rejected by the Western ministers, U. S. Secretary Dulles, French Foreign Minister Pinay and Macmillan.

"France, the United Kingdom and the United States of America are decided to enter into a system of European security which, as in the Soviet proposals of the Russian memorandum of May 31, would be contrary to the treaties of Washington and Brussels," Pinay declared.

The Soviet proposal was substantially the same as that suggested by Premier Bulganin at the "summit" conference in July. It was then rejected by the West.

The Western plan provides for a radar-equipped East-West buffer zone along a reunited Germany's borders with Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The aim of the treaty would be to bind Russia to agree to reunification of Germany and its membership in NATO. The treaty would become fully effective only if a united Germany and a united West Germany is now.

The Western plan once again proposed free elections under Big Four supervision as the means of uniting the divided country.

It calls for step-by-step negotiations which would lead to a total aggression pact between East and West, with safeguards for a reunified Germany decided to enter the Atlantic pact and the Western European Union.

This is designed to meet Russia's contention that her security would be menaced by a united Germany which joined the Western defence alliance.

The proposed security pact provides for a comprehensive inspection system to be set up in an agreed zone and would be linked to the Atlantic pact members would control it on the Eastern side.

British Troops Fire on Rioters in Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (reuters) — British troops today fired on rioters in a village as anti - British outbreaks swept the island of Cyprus.

The shooting came in Morphou, 25 miles west of this capital, where troops opened fire on a stone - throwing mob, wounding three Cypriot Greeks, two of them seriously.

The soldiers had been unable to quell the rioting with tear gas.

Rioting also burst out in Nicosia and other parts of the island.

In three other cities of the Mediterranean island colony, British troops and police fired tear - gas shells to subdue angry mobs of demonstrators demanding that Britain quit the island and leave it free to unite with Greece.

The rioting in Nicosia followed a church service conducted by Archbishop Makarios, Greek Makarios, fiery, black-bearded leader of the Enosis movement for union with Greece.

Woman Killed, Husband Hurt In Q.E. Crash

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. J. Ashton Comly of Clarkson, Ont., was killed and her husband critically injured today when their small English car collided head-on with an empty gravel truck on the Queen Elizabeth way.

Comly said four cars were involved in the crash.

The truck driver, John Brown, 25, of Toronto, and the drivers of other vehicles involved, Mike Mikitas, 31, of Toronto, and Stanley Banning, 55, of nearby Oakville, were uninjured.

Police said Brown's truck swung over the centre boulevard, travelled west onto the east lane of the highway, sideswiped Mikitas' car making a left turn and continued down the east lane colliding head-on with the Comly car. Banning's car collided with the rear of the truck.

40 Hydrogen Bombs Could Wipe Out Civilized Order of U.S. or Russia

OTTAWA (CP)—Perhaps as few as 40 hydrogen bombs carried by 40 planes could obliterate the industrial potential and civilized order of any of the attacking forces in Russia, a competent defence official estimates.

The estimate by Professor J. I. Jackson, a member of the directing staff of the RCAF Staff College at Toronto, appears in the latest issue of "Current Affairs," a bimonthly pamphlet for the armed forces published by the defence department.

Prof. Jackson's 28-page article on air power is understood to reflect the views of many senior RCAF officers. The author won the Distinguished Flying Cross while serving with an RAF squadron in Scandinavia during the Second World War. He writes:

"With the advantages held by the offensive, it would seem unwise to assume that the defensive could guarantee protection.

"Even if a defence could destroy 90 per cent of an attacking force a proportion incredible by Second World standards, only 400 bombers would be required to have 40 reach their targets. . . .

"Similarly, only a few or 40 hydrogen bombs could obliterate, instantly, not just the industrial potential but for all practical purposes the very civilized order of a major power, such as Russia or the United States.

"With such a small basic striking force required, the offensive has the opportunity of achieving surprise, for less time is needed to have enough new and higher performance bombers ready for operation."

Madoc Driver Sent to Trial

Lloyd E. Pogue, of Livingston St., Madoc, was committed for trial following a preliminary hearing on a charge of negligence in charge in magistrate's court.

The charge arose out of an accident on August 7 in Belmont township about one mile west of Havelock on Highway 7 in which Pogue's car was in collision with one driven by Mrs. Estelle Robert Hale of R.R. 2, Norwood. Defence lawyer Trevor Clarke elected trial by judge and jury.

Constable Archibald Eadie of the OPP was investigating and said that it was raining and the pavement was wet. He found both cars in the south lane of Highway 7, and partially on the south shoulder. He estimated damage to Pogue's car in excess of $500 and about $500 in the Hale vehicle. All three occupants were taken to the hospital.

He said that Pogue was sitting on a guard fence, and although he could not say how it could understand what he said without difficulty. He said that Pogue had to be assisted by himself (Eadie,) and Junior Nesbitt to the ambulance. He suffered cuts and injuries and cuts to the head and hands.

Pogue admitted being the driver of one car.

Mrs. Dorothy Hale said that she was driving east with her husband when they met and made a line of traffic. Pogue's car, she said was some distance out in front of it. Pogue's car suddenly it swung across the road toward them.

"I attempted to turn left to avoid the collision, but didn't have time," she said.

Mrs. Hale said that she thought Pogue's car struck the shoulder, then swung back once it was on the north corner of the two cars that collided.

Pogue was remanded on $500 bail. Two other charges, one under the highways traffic act, the other under the liquor control act will be heard on December 13.

The chairman was R. L. Smith, vice-chairman of the section, who also for the time being is Canadian man, who was absent because of illness. The meeting was introduced by S. S. Silltoe and thanked by R. H. Tapper.

Toronto Truck Driver Charged After-Accident

Following consultation with Acting Crown Attorney Harold Graham, Provincial Police at Belleville have charged Gerald Eddie Buchanan, Toronto truck driver, with criminal negligence and careless driving arising from the Highway 2 crash Tuesday morning, which killed the life of James W. Cleary, R.R. 4 Belleville.

An inquest originally scheduled for Thursday into the death of Mr. Cleary has been cancelled.

Mr. Cleary was fatally injured when the car which he was driving was crushed under the bridge abutment by a cement laden truck on the four-lane highway a short distance from his home.

The driving charges against the Toronto driver were laid by Provincial Constable P. V. McKenna who investigated the accident. Buchanan will be summonsed for court appearance at Belleville.

Police Blotter

Ray Roth, R.R. 7 Belleville, has every reason to think that he is all caught up on his bad luck for a while.

Shortly before noon yesterday he was driving on Coleman street when opposite Corbin Lock on approaching car forced him to swerve and as he did so struck a hicle collided with a parked auto. Damage of about $90 was caused.

Later in the afternoon while his car was parked on the municipal parking lot on Dundas Street, W., at the east end of the C.P.R. bridge, Roth's overcoat was taken from his car.

Some time after midnight last night thieves were busy with hubcaps from the late model convertible owned by Paul Mercier, Belleville jeweller. Mr. Mercier had parked his car in his driveway in Parkwood Heights and this morning found the hub caps missing.

Sinclair to Leave

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fisheries Minister James Sinclair will leave Vancouver for Ottawa in an RCAF plane Saturday, his executive assistant, Alistair Fraser, said Thursday night.

The minister, recovering in hospital here from jaundice and a broken vertebra, will be lifted aboard the plane in a stretcher. Mr. Sinclair was injured back Aug. 4, in Petropavlovsk, Siberia, when a scaffolding collapsed.

Growth of Scout Movement In City 'Phenomenal' Members Told at Annual Meeting

Richard D. Arnott last night was elected president of the Belleville Boy Scouts Association at the organization's annual meeting.

He succeeds Oliver Owen, who, in turn, was elected honorary vice-president.

Mr. Arnott discussed resolutions passed by the Union at its 45th annual convention held at Memorial Hall, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on November and Monday of this week.

He spoke in favor of the resolution calling on the federal government to pay its subsidies on farm products direct to the producer rather than to packers and to industry. He stated that such a policy would free the price of farm products to seek its true level in the market on a basis of supply and demand.

He stated that the support prices of 82 cents a pound for butter contributes to the butter surplus and keeps the price high to the consumer making butter non-competitive, pricewise, with margarine.

Mr. Cormack also discussed a resolution calling for support of the corner stone on the basis that it would be more equitable and desirable for the slashing of prices paid producers for farm products.

Fleeting reference Cormack remarks those present discussed farm problems pertaining to the marketing and margarine competition for butter.

Harold Murphy, president of Local 181, gave a detailed report on the convention held at Guelph.

"One American Scout even offered a Scout Scout $100 for his belt."

One of the lasting impressions he took away with him was the harmony displayed by the Scouts, he said, and also shown "that man can live in peace with fellow man and nations in harmony with one another."

Some ideas on Scouting activities also were offered by the retiring by Field Commissioner Art Jackson. He urged the leaders to take their troops on more outdoor excursions and let them indulge in out-of-doors activities. Interest in proficiency badges not common to Belleville should be encouraged and the scope of subjects for which they are awarded could be enlarged.

"Your expansion has been tremendous," he praised the organization.

Mayor Lewis told the meeting he was resigning as district commissioner in order to devote more attention to his responsibilities as regional commissioner for Scouting, A, Region and Area.

"We are extremely proud of the success of the movement here in Belleville," he said. "Scouting officials who had worked with him as district commissioner. "It was through their efforts and tireless work that scouting in Belleville stands as high as it does in headquarters and throughout the province," he said.

Before the meeting ended Mr. Lewis supervised a ceremony in which Mrs. Lee of the association's members was awarded the Gilwell Beads — one of the highest honors in scouting. Receiving the award was Joe Eliard, cub master of Holy Rosary troop.

Delegates named to the annual provincial scout meeting next year were Mr. Arnott, Mr. Leggat and Mr. Jamieson. The new district commissioner also will be a delegate.

Following is the executive committee for the new year:

L. Andrews, J. Deacon, W. N. Hurst, W. J. Doyle Jr., N. C. Tilker, Frank Sellwood, Lorne Cameron, A. V. Lanteach, R. W. Munro, H. W. Pointer, J. Ritchie, Dr. J.R. Scott, Lloyd Smith, Group Capt. J. Watson, S. Thompson, R. Collins, J. Trafford, F. L. Boyle, W. Argue and A. S. Lewis.

Past commissioners are Angus Duffy, A. S. Lewis and R. Brown.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The Stock market was moderately lower and business was light in late morning dealings today. Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,503,000 shares compared with 2,085,000 Thursday.

Most industrial groups were lower although prices generally were a shade above their first-hour level. Irregular strength appeared in papers, refining oils and constructions. Steels, liquors and miscellaneous issues led declining sections.

Mines were little changed. Hudson Bay led better seniors with a ¼ advance after announcing an extra dividend payment.

A few uraniums advanced, including Consolidated Denison, ¾, and Beaucage, 15 higher at $2.40.

Petrol was 12 cents ahead at $2.91 in a trendless western oil group.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 7-32 per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today, Thursday's noon rate 99 25-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.79¾, against $2.79.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP)— Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was barely steady with offerings in excess of a quiet demand with cautious undertone.

COLOR DYE DANGEROUS

BOSTON (AP)—A color dye used in making Hallowe'en popcorn cats may cause a cathartic reaction when eaten, the Massachusetts department of health said Thursday. Distributors who have purchased them should take all possible steps to recall the orange-colored cats, the department warned.

BOTH SIDES

Under the security treaty, each party would agree to withhold military or economic aid from any aggressor and would agree to settle all international disputes by peaceful means in accordance with the United Nations Charter.

The treaty proposed by the West would have as its essential signatories, officially said, Britain, the United States, and France. Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia and eventually a unified Germany.

NINE PROVISIONS

Its nine provisions, in brief, are:

1. "Renunciation of the use of force" in settling international disputes except in accord with the United Nations Charter.

2. "Withholding support from aggressors."

3. "Limitation of forces and armaments." Communist and Western forces would be balanced and limited in a zone set up along unified Germany's eastern boundaries and reaching deep into Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

4. "Inspection and control." East-West inspection teams would check the size and disposition of forces permitted in the security zone and "warn against any preparation for surprise attack."

5. "Special warning system." Russia and the Western powers would set up radar warning systems in the German and Communist sectors of the zone.

6. "Consultation." Member nations would consult on means of carrying out the treaty.

7. "Individual and collective self-defence." The right of such defence, including membership of the Western powers in NATO, would be recognized. Included in this section is a provision on withdrawal of forces under which Russia would have to yield to any request by unified Germany to pull its forces out of East Germany, though NATO forces would be stationed in the country since Germany would be a NATO member.

8. "Obligation to react against aggression." This is the action clause, pledging the members to take "appropriate action" to meet aggression as defined in the treaty.

9. "Entry into force by stages." Some sections of the treaty, such as renunciation of use of force could come into effect as soon as German unification was agreed upon by the Big Four.

Pinay put forward the western plan late Thursday but because of a procedural wrangle with Molotov it was not published until today.

Holland Firm Will Establish Canadian Plant at Trenton

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton's team of industrial commissioners, Senator W. A. Fraser and Kenneth J. Couch, has triumphed again. This time they have been responsible for the acquisition of a Dutch industry which has the earmarks of becoming an expanding manufacturing concern employing a considerable number of local people, while processing Canadian raw materials.

The official announcement reads: "The old-established Dutch manufacturing firm, Glue and Gelatin Works, of Delft, Holland, will establish its first Canadian branch, plant in Trenton, it was announced today by the Hon. W. M. Nickle, Ontario Minister of Planning and Development. A six-and-a-half acre site on the Carrying Place Road has been optioned and construction will begin in the spring on a factory having a floor area of 20,000 square feet, similar to one of the parent plants in Delft.

THREE SHIFTS TO OPERATE

The new plant in Trenton will operate on three shifts and will produce edible and technical gelatin for use mainly by the food, photographic and pharmaceutical industries. Special machinery will be brought over from Holland, but this will be completed with Canadian fittings. All employees, except the plant manager, who will come over from Delft, will be hired locally. Funds for the initial investment of about $500,000 have already partly been transferred from Holland.

C. M. Hage, managing director of the parent firm, and W. C. Thoms, technical sub-director, were in Toronto and Trenton this week completing negotiations. Mr. Hage, who has been thirty-six years in the gelatin business, said that his company has been established for over seventy years and that it has been exporting gelatin for sale on the Canadian market for over thirty years.

After the Trenton plant is in operation customers in Canada will be supplied from the Canadian branch.

Mr. Nickle said that negotiations which began last May led up to the selection of a site and that Senator W. Fraser and Kenneth Couch, former mayor had been instrumental in securing this important new industry for Trenton.

Later Mr. Hage reported that the parent company has acquired a charter to carry on business under the name of Delft Gelatin Canada Limited. He explained that the equipment employed in the manufacturing of the firm's products was similar to equipment used in processing dairy products. He made special mention of the high standard of cleanliness maintained in the plant.

The site is at the south limits of the town on the south side of highway No. 33 a few yards east of the east boundary of the sprawling settlement of permanent homes and cottages in Murray township. As the expansion of the town flows over into adjoining townships it is noted that the Delft company is the second to choose land in Murray township, the first being Quinte Machine, constructing a modern spacious plant on highway No. 33 just north of the town's northern limits.

Three Aircraft Dispatched From Trenton Station

TRENTON (Special) — RCAF air search and rescue centre here dispatched three aircraft at dawn today to aid in locating a light civilian aircraft missing since last week, with two men aboard, somewhere northeast of Ottawa.

Two Dakotas and an Otter left the base to help scour the St. Veronique district of Ontario for an aircraft piloted by J. L. Dussault, of Montreal, missing since last Friday. Mr. Dussault is believed to have had as a passenger a Mr. Belanger, also of Montreal.

Dussault set out a week ago from Veronique, which is about 80 miles northeast of Ottawa, for Lac Mazanaska, a distance of 50 miles. He was carrying Mr. Belanger, who is reported to have been going to the lake for a rest. Dussault then returned to Veronique for supplies and since his second departure for the lake has not been heard from.

The cabin was checked, but only by two sleeping bags were found. It is presumed he returned to Mazanaska and that he and Belanger are together.

Radio stations in Ottawa and Montreal districts are broadcasting requests for information on the two missing men.

ANOTHER POLICE SHOOTING

Monday evening of this week G. T. Evans, a Northern Ontario criminal lawyer, said that there are too many police shootings in Canada.

Since he was speaking at the fall session of the Porcupine and district police school, his views apparently have the approval of the authorities responsible for the manner in which policemen conduct themselves.

Mr. Evans told the officers that they should not use firearms unless they are required for the protection of their own lives, or the lives of citizens.

There will be many who will contend that this is too narrow a limitation on the use of firearms by police, that there are circumstances when lives are not endangered but a policeman still has a right, nay a duty, to use firearms.

The difficulty is to determine where the line should be drawn.

The line, though, surely ought to be drawn in a manner to prevent a policeman from firing at a man who he merely suspects may have broken the law in some manner.

In the Sutton district around Lake Simcoe, north of Toronto, a posse has been hunting a man believed wounded by a bullet from a policeman's gun. Chief Leonard Donner of Sutton-Georgina township police was making a routine patrol when he saw two men. One shot is believed to run. Donner fired three shots. One shot is believed to have hit one of the men in the right shoulder.

There is no hint in the Canadian Press story of the incident that Donner had any reason to believe that a crime had been committed before he saw the men.

Certainly if there had been any serious crime of which the men had been suspected, it would have been mentioned in the story.

The report says the men "failed to halt for police questioning." Did they know it was a policeman who shouted at them to halt? Even if they did, is the policeman's gun to be used to force any person to halt for questioning?

Answer that latter question in the affirmative and one advocates a system of police control which, while it might have effects, would certainly bear little or no resemblance to the traditional British principle that a man is to be considered innocent until he is proven guilty.

TRADE AND THE EXCHANGE RATE

Royal Bank of Canada president, James Muir, almost a year ago, described the premium on the Canadian dollar which prevailed at that time as "a tax on exports" and "a subsidy for imports." Mr. Muir, in common with other thoughtful Canadians, felt that Ottawa should invoke monetary policy to lessen the adverse effect of a premium Canadian dollar on this country's trade prospects.

Subsequent to Mr. Muir's remarks, The Bank of Canada did increase interest rates and thus make it more advantageous for government and corporate financing to be done in Canada, thereby curbing the flow of U.S. dollars into this country. The result was that the premium on the Canadian dollar diminished, and the "tax on exports" and "subsidy for imports" became less onerous.

In recent weeks the premium on the Canadian dollar has further declined, making the inflow of American capital into Canada has been lessening. The result has been to encourage exports, discourage imports, and provide more employment for Canadians.

That a Canadian dollar at par with the U. S. dollar will be sufficient to correct the unhealthy excess of imports over exports, however, appears highly improbable. For so long as the tariff wall continues to penalize Canadian exports through high tariffs and other trade restrictions, while Canadian trade policy allows the present freedom of access to this country's markets for U.S. goods, the cost advantages enjoyed by U.S. manufacturers producing for a mass market will remain.

FREE AFTER 17 YEARS

Austria celebrated on Tuesday. That was the day that foreign occupation formally ended.

There are adult Austrians who cannot remember when their country was not occupied by foreign troops. For foreign occupation of Austria was seventeen years old—the Nazis had preceded the Russians, Americans and Britons.

The Nazi occupation lasted seven years, that of the anti-Hitler alliance ten years. There is a sobering note in the length of the latter period of occupation. It is now ten years since the end of the Second Great War and, while the occupation of Austria has ended, there is no sign of a similar withdrawal of foreign troops from Germany and still less for a restoration of self-government to those satellites of Russia behind the Iron Curtain.

By comparison with the First Great War and the adjustment period which followed, we have now reached the opening days of 1928, which was to see the start of the world depression, and are just four years away from the rebirth of German nationalism with the advent to power of Adolf Hitler.

It is impossible to foretell the future, but a second Hitler by the fall of 1950 appears one worry we are likely to be spared.

THE TWO DEATHS

It seems that twice some mortals Although he still may live a day
die. The man he used to be is dead.
The first time, when aside are cast
Ambition and the will to try, When he gives up, abandons pride
The second time, of course, As something he can do the last. without,
When man no longer cares to 'Tis then the man he was has strive died
Nor hopes to reach the goal Although he still may walk

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A friend of mine who keeps goats was showing me over his small suburban goat ranch.

I was fascinated by the goats, little slim white creatures with weird yellow eyes that had vertical slits for pupils. What was most interesting about them was their indifference. They were the most unapproachable animals I had ever inspected. They paid no attention to their owner or to me, but went right on nibbling, twitching, moving with queer stilted motions, though motor cars roared past, aircraft went over, doors banged, distant voices shouted. They never paid the slightest attention.

Yet, every once in a while, each goat would suddenly halt its busy activity, motionless, frozen, and stare yellowly at nothing. And nothing had occurred to attract its attention. There it would stand, every few minutes, aloof, staring—at nothing.

I called my friend's attention to this curious habit, and asked him what they were listening to.

"I've never been able to figure that out," he admitted. "I imagine they are listening to their food digest."

My interest in this curiously alert goat behavior was roused by the fact that there are a great many people, especially pretty girls and women, who have exactly the same habit. You will see them on buses and in bobsleys, or just generally waiting for friends in the doorways of stores, or, for that matter, right on the curb in some home. There they sit or stand, bright, alert, pretty, staring at nothing, apparently listening. For years I have asked myself what they were waiting for. Nearly what could be in their minds, these pretty, wide-eyed, slender girls?

I guess we have the answer. They aren't seeing anything, hearing anything, aware of all thinking of anything. They are merely listening to their food digest.

I realize this is a pretty unromantic conclusion to come to. But you just keep your eye peeled next day or so. See how many dear little slender white nanny goats there are, to be noticed around on the buses, the store entrances, the lobbies, or by golly, on your chesterfield.

Makers of Hour Glasses

(By Clarence Dean in the New York Times)

The sands of time bring business, from all over the country to a dusky little room on Lexington Avenue first below Fifty-sixth Street.

Anachronistically, the clock and watch establishment of Greenhill & Rogers occupies the manufacture of hour glasses. It believes itself alone in the trade.

Joseph G. Rogers, one of the partners, concedes that the demand for hour glasses as timing pieces is less than scant. But the call from theatrical producers, decorators and other fanciers of the unusual is surprisingly brisk. There have been numerous evidences of a fad for using hour glasses as lamp bases — a caprice that Mr. Rogers does not encourage.

The shop makes and sells about 200 glasses a year. They range from those eight inches tall to measure half an hour to the four-teen-inch model that tells a full hour. There is even one giant, two and one-half feet tall, that takes ninety hours to run. The smaller glasses cost $35 to $40.

The firm specially made jobs. The Columbia Broadcasting System recently bought six for television use, timed for two, three and five-minute operation.

Mr. Greenhill, who is also a silent side issue with Greenhill & Rogers. They are primarily dealers in antique clocks and watches. They made one a few years ago and placed it in the window, merely as a novelty. But right away people started coming in asking to buy a glass. The demand has continued, although advertising has been confined to word-of-mouth. Production facilities are limited.

Making the hour glass is certainly a hand operation and it calls for skill in glass blowing as well as wood turning. But that is no problem for Mr. Rogers and his partner, Mr. Greenhill, who, generations of watch and clock makers — Mr. Rogers' in Australia and Hungary, Mr. Greenhill's in England — and they inherited the versatility of the hour glass.

The operation begins with blowing the pear-shaped bowls. They are fashioned from a highly heated, hollow cylinder of Pyrex glass and joined with neat precision of apertures for the sand to pour through.

The trick is to get both bowls as nearly identical as possible. If too unlike, they are judged for emptying will vary.

The sand, also, is critical matter. Only a high quality of fine silica sand may be used and it must be washed at least seven times and finally filtered through a silk screen so the grains are uniform in size.

Determining how much sand to use in the glass is a process of trial and error. The maker must confirm his judgment with a stop watch before the bowls can be sealed and set in the wooden frame.

Split-second timing never can be achieved in an hour glass, Mr. Rogers says, but "given an hour's variation" he will be right. Even when all the controllable elements have been reduced to a minimum, ing of the sand grains may cause some variation.

Mild-mannered men in their early forties, Messrs. Rogers and Greenhill have craft in a tranquil little cosmos of deeply shining clocks and slow-paced pendulums. Collectors drop in to chat and tarry for hours.

And Mr. Rogers and Mr. Greenhill are collectors, too. They are building a mammoth Swiss cuckoo clock that William Bell made in Rilton, Switzerland, "around 1800," the painting with the real-life clock in the church tower. "But," they will tell you softly, "these are not for sale."

Sweeper Won Many Friends

(Montreal Gazette)

Pietro Lagrippo was a man who made something out of his job. For 15 years his job was to sweep the streetcar tracks and shelter near the Boulevard in Westmount. Not only did he do his work well, but always had a cheery welcome for commuters.

To be sure, his job exposed him to the weather in all seasons. He could be seen out in a drenching rain, or buffeted by a blizzard. But he always managed to keep other people's spirits up, also, as even bad weather was only part of life and to be taken as it came.

When the buses were put on that route Pietro was moved to another, moved to another location. But the commuters kept him in mind, and through the years felt free to say something like a few unnatural it just having him go without a kind word and a cheery wave of what he meant to them.

Last week a ceremony was held, especially for Pietro, but he was presented him with a silver tray and a gift of money. These gifts were made by the commuters to assure him that he would not be forgotten.

It was a human and admirable gesture. It is all too easy to criticize those who make public office ten without taking into full consideration the difficulties involved when someone serves well year in and year out, he deserves to be remembered.

Praise is deserved by those who have served well and not all concerned with money. But praise is due most of all to Pietro Lagrippo. He showed how much may be done to make life easier for others by those whose work brings them in contact with the public.

He put something of himself into his job. And much as he will appreciate the gift to him, he will no doubt appreciate even more this evidence that his 30 years of cheerful service to the travelling world did make such a very real difference to the lives of others.

Red Tape In Cotton Patch

(Milwaukee Journal)

Down in Cuba, Ala., Joe Killian runs a cotton gin. Tourists often drop by quite often and wonder how he can find anyone growing cotton — they'd like to see it and maybe peel off a boll or two. Joe, who is a humorous fellow, has put a "a little old cotton patch" back of the ginning machinery. He put up a sign: "Tourist Cotton Patch— It's Free".

Along came delighted tourists, followed by stern department of agriculture officials. The latter told Killian to plow up the patch. He had no cotton allotment, they said. Excess cotton would depress the market. It would start a downtrend in prices.

Joe argued. The agents grew more stern —plow it up or face a fine. Joe wrote to Secretary of Agriculture Benson. He explained why he had his "little old cotton patch" — 16 rows of cotton on less than one-tenth of an acre. He wasn't going to sell it, he explained. He couldn't eat the whole "little patch" wouldn't produce more than 63 pounds of cotton. Benson answered — by sending a copy of the cotton allotment law.

Killian "went" and paid their little

Beecham Hits State Culture

(Edmonton Journal)

Peppery Sir Thomas Beecham, the eminent British conductor who once turned on the podium to tell a noisy audience to "shut up," has taken a sharp crack at state control of culture. He has hoped that his words were read in Ottawa, where there seems to be a feeling that Canada can be uplifted by the simple process of pouring tax money into it.

The essence of the British musician's caustic conclusion is that public corporations established to bring culture to the masses have, in fact, debased the cultural heritage. The Western Australian Sir Thomas appears to place his faith in a free market for the creative arts, with the public supporting artists and writers independent. He is against government influence in such a way as to please some board or other which dispenses the public funds.

It is good to hear from a man of Sir Thomas' eminence in the field. As a member of a pill-making family he may have been born with a silver spoon in his mouth but he has made his own name in the world of music. He has had a bitter pill for many in both Britain and Canada to swallow, yet a stiff antidote is needed for the popular belief that a nation can lift itself up by its cultural heritage with an expenditure of public money.

Mere Rumor Did Wonders

(Calgary Herald)

For the past two weeks in Calgary one of the chief subjects of conversation, wherever it may be accompanied by chuckles, has been the practically miraculous way in which motorists have been motorists approaching intersections.

The miracle burst forth practically full-blown when it was learned that a police officer had been detailed to keep an eye on any motorist who didn't yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian at an intersection was living himself up for a $10 fine, which is by no means high.

No such by-law amendment had actually been passed by the city council, so such amendment has yet been approved, but the beginning to look at least a little doubtful if it ever will be passed, in its present form. City Council, as it has before, is just thinking about it.

But the rumor grew and Calgary motorists who have been almost standing their cars right up on their hind legs to avoid jay-walking pedestrians recently, to yield to pedestrians, have been the cause of quite a few chuckles.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Without Benefit of Anesthetic

I intend to be present, without benefit of anesthetic, for my biggest role. Besides, I want my baby to be with his father and mother from the very start, not with a lot of strangers making queer noises. Who wants the most important event in her life to occur in an operating room with the Not-As-Of-Stranger routine? Ugh!

So says movie star Jan Sterling (Mrs. Paul Douglas) who will have her baby any day now (maybe before this is printed). The physician who attended Coleen Gray, another movie star, whose first baby was born in hospital in the ordinary way, her second at home the natural way, is attending Miss Sterling. The physician prefers that his patients have their babies at home.

What do you poor Mrs. Milquetoast characters think of that? Your trick specialists will be indignant if they hear about it. It is not so easy to make a natural case of childbirth at home.

In reference to the use of an anesthetic, Coleen Gray says that when her first child was born, in a hospital, the "regular dose" they gave her "a shot of something towards the end of the first stage of labor, and the next thing I knew I had a baby. They told me I should have been grateful. I wasn't. They had put me out against my wishes. I had wanted to be present at my baby was like. So, when she was going to be born, I decided I would have - - - natural childbirth."

In other words, childbirth without fear.

Now, now, Mrs. Milquetoast, please don't start screaming till you get this fact through in your head: In natural childbirth an anesthetic is always ready and the patient can have it whenever she wants it.

Knowing that you can have the anesthetic at any time you want it you don't want it. At least I didn't," says Miss Gray.

I do know several potential mothers who are untutored or more likely wrongly educated about childbirth and experiment this fact if or when the neighbors and the operating room people tell you it is not for refined, civilized women to endure natural childbirth and the hospital is the only safe place to have a baby.

When I say home is the safest place to have a baby I am sincere. From long observations of the best available statistics I am convinced that both maternal and infant mortality and morbidity are lower in the home than in the hospital.

In reference to the use of anesthetics, Coleen Gray says that when her first child was born, in a hospital, the "regular dose" they gave her "a shot of something towards the end of the first stage of labor, and the next thing I knew I had a baby. They told me I should have been grateful. I wasn't. They had put me out against my wishes. I had wanted to be present at my baby was like. So, when she was going to be born, I decided I would have - - - natural childbirth."

In other words, childbirth without fear.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BIG AFFAIRS AND LITTLE

It is amazing to encounter the skill which people sometimes develop in one field and the complete lack of skill in another. For instance, there are hundreds of men who are quite expert in what we but regard the operation as so difficult that they never even try to learn.

Recently in a group of men who were talking about automobiles, one of the men said that he could do-it-himself and that he took great pleasure in doing so. To the astonishment first all these years he had been trying it unsuccessfully, and once during the time he had it occurred to him what was wrong and how he could have corrected. He fumed and sputtered and complained—and a friend showed him in thirty seconds what the trouble was.

It should be said in all fairness that women probably work out personal difficulties more resourcefully than do men. Men are suited to lack of skill in specialization, which arise in making of a living and the management of large affairs. Women usually do handle personal situations with more resourcefulness than men. The man standing in front of his wife and asking her to help him find a tie is an example of the difference in aptitude between men and women.

A healthy civilization depends on the strict differentiation of functions between men's work and men's work. We may some day discover that the changed status of women, and the disposition of the sexes to be like each other is the most important factor in the modern world—and perhaps the most unfortunate.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WILL DOES IT

It's the will that backs up all our desires. It both forms and breaks habit. It is the spirit of youth alive with in us all, long after the days of youth are ended. It draws friends to our side. It's the will that presides over the functions of the mind.

When you decide upon an important matter, it is the will that goes over. Its strength and power are judged only by results. A weak will, or one indecisive, might just as well not be. The human will is one of the most useful endowments of all that the Creator has given us. Even a little consideration of the will about habit—the Will does it. This Will of ours is quite like a General ordering his army of people.

We should make this Will of ours the servant and not the master. Why borrow another one's Will very well! We are on our own, and why would honesty want it to be any other way? If we have a Will that has served us well we are grateful we should be!

The top command to that Will of yours may isolate you from many of your friends and associates at times, but better that than fear. They will, in time, return to you. There is a difference between a willful man and the man or woman with a strong will!

The Only Road

Capitalism is a social system that should be defended just because it exists here, but because it respects, whatever may be said, to the needs of the whole of humanity, without rejecting their rights. It is still the only way that shows us the road toward reality.

Suspend Terms On 2 Brothers For Conspiracy

TORONTO (CP)—Two brothers convicted of swindling a finance company of $31,000 were placed on suspended sentence Thursday. Magistrate T. S. Elmore said he let them off without a prison term because he found the conduct of the finance company and a bank employee deplorable.

Virgil Herrold, 36, and his brother Herbert, 30, were found guilty on 25 charges of false pretences and one of conspiracy to defraud the Traders Finance Corp., Ltd.

Magistrate Elmore said a suspended sentence in such a case is unusual." But he considered the conduct of Douglas Smith,branch manager of the finance company, and Roy McKee, manager of a west end bank "deplorable."

Mr. Smith denied any knowledge of bogus car-sales transactions while Mr. McKee denied receiving a "free loan" of a new car from the brothers in payment for making their cheques good to the finance company although their bank account was overdrawn.

Memorial Tablet To Saunders May Be Scaled Down

TORONTO (CP) — A proposed memorial for the late Robert H. Saunders, former chairman of Ontario Hydro, will have to be scaled down if it is to be accommodated in the Canadian National Exhibition park here.

The memorial consists of a park 508 feet long fronting on the Ontario government building at the CNE. It would contain extensive flower gardens, a pool, flowing water and a memorial tablet.

Kingsley Graham, chairman of the committee which already has raised $50,000 for the memorial, said Thursday night his group is willing to consider scaling down the plans.

During a meeting of city council here suggestions were made that the memorial be erected in Niagara Falls or Cornwall, near the St. Lawrence river development. To this, Alderman Frank Clifton replied:

"Mr. Saunders was a native of Toronto and the mayor. Let us, if at all possible, keep it in Toronto."

Churchills Deny Caterwauling In Prison Cells

LONDON (Reuters) — Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer Churchill today denied in court that they respectively howled like a dog and meowed like a cat in their prison cells.

Churchill, nephew of Sir Winston Churchill and brother - in - law of Prime Minister Eden, was appearing with his wife on charges of using insulting words and behavior.

The couple, both artists, were originally arrested on drunk and disorderly charges last month. They denied all charges and were remanded on bail today for a further hearing Nov. 17.

Police testified at the last hearing that the Churchills made queer animal sounds after being booked at the jail.

PRISON DIRGE

Churchill, 50, told the court today that the inmates joined in howling was his attempt to sing the prison dirge from the second act of the opera Fidelio. He admitted he did not have a very good singing voice.

His wife Kitty said the queer noises she made were "a private way we have of speaking to each other."

"And your husband's response—does he bark?" the judge asked.

"No," she said.

FEMALES THE WORST

The Churchills said the trouble started on their way home from a tavern where they had had a couple of drinks. They got into an argument with some Congregationalists standing outside a church across the street from the Churchill home in Adam and Eve mews.

Churchill said the church caretaker tried to hit him, saying: "I have been waiting to do this for a very long time."

"The female Congregationalists —especially one very large one— were very inciting on the subject of hitting," Churchill said.

Asked what he did after being released on bail later in the evening, Churchill said: "We went straight back to the public house and had a drink."

A CADDY FOR EACH

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—George Morris, 71, owner of an office supply firm, bought the 1956 cars Thursday—one for himself and one each for his four adult children and one for his plant manager. The bill for the five high-priced sedans and one convertible totalled nearly $40,000. Morris said he just wanted members of his family and his plant manager to have expensive cars.

Woman Charged In Robbery With Violence

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Catherine Pilling, 22, of New Westminster, B.C., Thursday was charged by police with robbery with violence in connection with the $26,000 holdup Wednesday of a Vancouver branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

A male suspect was still being held by police without charge.

Two masked youths with guns held four staff members of the bank at bay, then ordered the teller and the bank manager to open the bank safe.

They fled in a car which police said was driven by a woman and escaped with loot now estimated at $26,000.

He plans to spend Tuesday and Wednesday at Sault Ste. Marie.

Supt. Declines To Tell Findings Of Investigation

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Canadian National Railways has completed an investigation into a freak accident which claimed the life of an engineer near Ingersoll Oct. 7, but superintendent C. I. Warren, of the London division declined Thursday to reveal the findings.

"We don't choose to release the technicalities involved in the investigation. Everything we are to release was made public after the accident," said the superintendent.

Engineer Edward Pritchard was killed and brakeman Alex Campbell and fireman Leonard Laur were injured when a sidecut connecting two rear drive wheels on the engine of a freight train cracked off and flew into the firebox, releasing live steam into the cab. Mr. Laur is still in hospital here "improving slowly" from head injuries and severe burns.

Premier Frost Attends Funeral

RENFREW (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario Thursday attended the funeral of James S. Dempsey, the controversial figure he refused to endorse in the June 9 provincial election.

Rev. A W Downer, Speaker of the Ontario legislature, officiated at services in St. Paul's Anglican church. Burial was in the Thomsonville cemetery.

Mr. Frost flew here from Toronto to be present at the services. Mr. Dempsey, Conservative member of the legislature for Renfrew South since 1945, died of a heart attack in a Toronto hotel room Monday at the age of 68.

Last spring Mr. Dempsey took the official endorsation of the Ontario Conservative party because of unreported party-campaign contributions. However, he was nominated and won the election but was not re-endorsed by the party.

Approve Plans Of Sewers, Water Mains and Plant

CORNWALL (CP) — Osnabruck township council has approved plans for sewers, water mains and sewage disposal plant for new town No. 1 and tenders for their construction will be called immediately.

Members of the council met with officials of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission this week to discuss the new site which is located just north of relocated Highway 2 about 12 miles west of here.

The new town, as yet unnamed, will accommodate between 1,000 and 1,100 residents of Aultsville, Dickinsons Landing, Farrans Point and Wales. All four villages are scheduled to be flooded when waters of the St. Lawrence are backed up by the gigantic power project.

Contact Club Holds Hilarious Party

Sounds of music, laughter and gay voices drifted out from Christ church parish hall, Monday evening when members of the Contact Club held their husband and wife party.

The occasion was convened by Dorothy McCormick's group and the whole evening was a tremendous success.

NAMES GAME

It began with a names game which was won by Lois Beeby.

This was followed by a contest in which the girls piled their shoes in the centre of the floor. The idea was to which husband could find his wife's shoe first, and put them on her feet. Aaron Hume was the lucky winner.

Afterwards there was square dancing called by Fred Page, who did a superb job of putting everyone through their paces. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

ROUND DANCING

There was, of course, round dancing, too, and a wonderful get-acquainted musical game led by Fred Page.

The prizes for the spot dance went to George Wonzacott and Jean Flindall.

A designing contest was arranged for which eight men were asked to volunteer. Each was given a couple of newspapers and a card of safety pins and told to choose himself a model and design a dress for her. It was great fun and the dresses were just out of this world. Stan Wiggins declared Fred Beeby the winner with his creation for model Catherine Soulis.

REFRESHMENTS

Delicious refreshments were prepared by the group and served by Mrs. Lorne Bamber, Wil Fayle, Thelma Saunders, Lois Beeby, Evelyn Wharam, Mildred Blanc, Trudi Francis Anderson, Trudy Sands, Helen McCormick, Florence Wood, Jean McDonald and Dorothy McCormick.

Aaron Hume thanked the wives on behalf of all the husbands, for a wonderful evening.

Club president Marguerite Cooke announced that there would not be a meeting next Monday evening.

"What makes of our homes is more important than what our homes are made of."

"No failure is ever final unless you make it so".

"What shall we fail to get in the home and school, they get on the streets."

"Let us put ourselves on the back and give ourselves a good push at the same time."

"Sometimes we rust on our laurels."

"Canada's greatest wealth is her people and we should be especially thankful for Christian homes, happy families and ideal community life. A nation cannot rise higher than the level of the homes."

"In our community life we find expression and development of our individual talents, our opportunities for happiness and a good useful life. The Women's Institute is a community expression of common interest and spirit Surely our motto "For Home and Country", is most beautifully chosen. It stands for all that is noble and good in so far as women's place in home-making, community improvement and nation building is concerned.

"If it were possible to place a money value on the service of kindliness and friendliness, we would find that the figures would be stupendous. We realize though it is much easier to get support in doing the big things. It is in the common place everyday responsibilities and services that we would place the emphasis. Each individual owes something to the life of the community in which he lives."

Mrs. Campbell closed with the reading of the poem "The Bridge Builder."

The hostess and the refreshment committee served refreshments.

A short business session followed. The president stated that the rummage sale which was to have been held this coming Saturday, in November. She asked all those who could help at this sale to be at the hall by 9.30 a.m.

SCOUTER WELCOMED

Betty Gibson introduced and welcomed 2nd Belleville's Scouter Richard Rowbotham. Scouter Rowbotham described the World Jamboree, the events which preceded this gathering and the outcome so far by his scouting life.

For some weeks previous to the jamboree, the Scouts practised and had courses pertaining to camping. This was done under the leadership of Mr. Ken Moore. He told of their trip to the RCAF Station, Trenton, and of their tour through the Northern Electric plant here.

At the Scouts arrived tired and weary at the campsite, they were warmly greeted by the Jamaica Scouts.

At once the boys felt like "old friends" and with new exciting adventures ahead, these Scouts looked forward to the next ten days of camping.

ARTICLES DISPLAYED

As Scouter Rowbotham had attended the Canadian Jamboree in Ottawa in 1953, he was aware of the articles he wished to obtain through bargaining. These were shown and examined. There were neckerchiefs from Brazil and Kentucky; neckerchief slides from Texas, England, Canada and other States in the United States. These were most interesting and one in particular was part of a skeleton from some small animal.

There were also pins, coins, and badges from many countries and ties and souvenirs from the jamboree itself.

Scouter Rowbotham wore his 'hoedown' jacket, explaining how he obtained it; what the badges and souvenirs were and why he is so proud to be an owner of this interesting item which he stated, could be worn on special occasions only.

He described some of the articles he had taken to the jamboree for trading purposes. One was neckerchief slides, which he had made from a Davy Crockett hat.

He told of his trip to the Toronto Exhibition, describing in detail the highlights and also of the tours to Niagara Falls and return to the United States.

A thrilling experience was the meeting of boys whom Scouter Rowbotham had met at the Canadian Jamboree two years previous and never expected to see again.

Since the Jamboree Scouter Rowbotham had been writing to some of these Scouts. One letter he received stated "I am looking forward to the work in Scouting ahead of me. I do hope to attend the next jamboree which will be held in England in 1957. It will be

HIGHLIGHTS

PUBLIC RELATIONS

After luncheon, Mrs. G. C. McAuley again addressed the conference on "Public Relations". Home and School members when they attend meetings and meet other parents find that they are invaluable in this field.

Mr. K. Young, director of community programs, Department of Education, spoke of the need of planned programs and hobby craft for children and adults. There are booklets and pamphlets issued for this purpose which are of special help to program conveners.

A lively question box period followed and a variety of questions were answered by the principal speakers.

Dr. Eaden Hay, director of Education for Peterborough, gave the summary bringing to a close an instructive and inspiring day.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T TRY TO RUSH THE DATING SEASON

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 13 years old, but I look at least 16. And because I look older than I really am, I have a problem about boys.

When boys ask me to go out with them, I tell them my mother says I'm too young. Then they accuse me of thinking they're not good enough for me, or of just not wanting to go.

Do you think a girl of 13 should be allowed to go out with a boy, with another couple, if all are well-behaved people? — A.

Dear A.:

Whether or not a girl of 13 should be allowed out on dates entirely depends, I think, on when, where and with whom she goes.

I certainly don't believe that her dating program should include any nights at all except on some very special occasion. A 13-year-old is just entering upon the teen-age period where regular hours and a great deal of rest and sleep are vitally important, if she is to grow into a healthy, happy, well-balanced young woman. Unwise living during this period may produce a nervous, emotionally unreliable girl, with a physical makeup which is not strong enough to provide essential resistance to all kinds of ailments.

So don't take the attitude that your mother is being unfair to you when she doesn't allow you to start regular dating, for no matter how much older you may appear than your real age, it's wiser for you to follow sound rules of health. In fact, if you really are developing faster than most girls of your age, these rules are even more important for you, because your system is using up your energy more rapidly and you need extra rest and sleep to keep that energy at a normal level.

So pay no attention to boys silly enough to make the kind of cracks you say they make. To take things slow and easy now will pay off as you grow older, and if you are wise enough to realize it, and to cooperate with your mother instead of quarreling with her, you'll become the kind of girl who will be admired and respected for her good commonsense—which won't hurt your dating chances one bit!

Now having said all this, I'll add that of course I don't mean you shouldn't have any dates at all. I certainly think you should. On Friday or Saturday night, an early movie, or a roller skating session, with a boy your mother knows and approves, is entirely appropriate. Then home and to bed at least by ten. And when there's something going on at school, or someone is giving a party, or some club you may belong to has scheduled a special event, it's right that you should go along and enjoy these things with the other young folks.

Just don't try to rush the dating, that's all. Be content to suit your fun to your age, and you'll find, later on, that you did the smart thing.

HOW TO CHOOSE A HAT

Hat-buying should never be done in a hurry. Take time to study the shapes that flatter every angle.

It is a truism that when a woman feels "down in the dumps" nothing perks her up like going out and buying a new hat. Men never understand that little quirk in women, but, after all, there's something quite logical about it. After all, a hat is a frame for the face. And a new frame often shows a picture to better advantage. Therefore, one should choose that "frame" with care. If your new hat "does something for you," makes you look and live up to it by putting an extra flutter into the eyes, a higher lift to the mouth, that's fine. You step out of the milliner's feeling like a new woman. But if the new hat is does nothing for you, you might just as well keep on wearing the old one.

In selecting a new hat, one of the most important things to remember is to take time. Never buy a hat when you're in a hurry and never go into a store with an idea so fixed in your mind that you can't change it. If you embark on a hat-shopping expedition with the idea, for instance, that you want a blue Breton, and firmly refuse to try on anything but blue Bretons, you may be robbing yourself of an opportunity to look utterly glamorous in something else. If you want the blue Breton to go with a certain outfit and you know that that type and color of hat is becoming, by all means, try one on and buy it if you want. But why not experiment with others while you're there? You may get some better ideas, after all. But really experiment. Don't take a hat the saleslady suggests, plop it on your head for a second or two and then take it off disgustedly saying, "I don't like it."

Give a new hat at least a three-minute test. If it's a type of hat you've never worn before, let the saleswoman ease it on your head and adjust it properly. Then view it from each side and from the back. Too many women look at a hat from the front only and then make up their minds. But it's a fact that many hats, while becoming to the wearer in the front, are far from attractive at the back. Study the new hat in profile from both sides. It is another fact that a hat can be extremely attractive when viewed from one side but not quite so devastating when seen from the other.

Take your coiffure into account. Let your hat and hair complement each other. If either one is not flattering to the other as well as to your face, it's not the hat for you. Take your neckline into consideration, too. If you have a natural long and slender neckline, don't choose a hat which will make it appear longer. And if your neck is inclined to be short and thick, try to find a hat which will make it seem longer and more graceful.

If you are buying a hat to go with one certain outfit, wear that outfit when you go to make your purchase. You can get a much better idea of how the two will go together than if you rely on guesswork. And don't ever wear a hat which, by its color or trimming, overpowers your face. After all, remember that, as we said before, your hat should be a frame for your face, should bring out your own beauty. The "frame" should never be so overwhelming that others look only at it and not at the pretty picture beneath.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

LETTER:

Have followed your column for some time and enjoy it to say the least, but woe is me, can't practise most of the recipes as we are only two, and the breadwinner is on an ulcer diet which eliminates as you know, sugar spices, pork, pastry etc. Help!

But I do have a recipe for crock pickles that can be whizzed through by any people. (I am one, as I do book work, typing, billing for a small one-man business.) Look after a 5-room home. The only explanation which needs be added to this recipe is re spices. These were approx. 20c cello bag . . . and half of one of these was used. After about 10 days start tasting your vinegar on the pickles or it will get too strong on the spice side. Take the spices out when the mixture suits your taste. I just let the crock sit beside my stove till I had finished adding the sugar, stirring well after each addition, then put them down cool (cool) and covered with one of my pyrex pie plates, let them sit for about a month and started nibbling. Wonderfully crisp and crunchy even after a year in the cellar.

CROCK PICKLES

7(Contributed by "Skippy".)

One 8-quart basket pickles cut in pieces into crock, 2½ cup salt and pour over boiling water to cover, stand overnight. Drain well in morning. One-half package pickle spice in cloth, 4 tablespoons salt, 4 tablespoons sugar, alum size of walnut, cold vinegar to cover. Add handful of sugar each day and stir until four (4) lbs. are used.

That's it. No heating every day or anything. They make themselves.—Skippy.

ANSWER:

Thanks Skippy. This will be too late appearing for this year's pickling, but while pickling is on our minds I thought I'd give it and ardent picklers can clip it for next year.

QUESTION:

I'm sending another S.O.S. My sister brought me a 6-quart basket of garden huckleberries. They are about the size of a wild grape but cannot be eaten raw, as they are very bitter. They cannot be cooked in syrup as they still are bitter in the centre. I mashed a few, put on the same amount of sugar and boiled them in their own juice—the juice was sweet enough but the berries were still bitter. I then added the juice of 1 lemon and it was eatable but left much to be desired. They are very hard to mash as they are very tough, but when mashed and let stand they have a large amount of their own juice. I hope this reaches you before you leave to see your young folks. If you have any suggestions I'll be glad to hear them.—Vicky.

ANSWER:

Hello again Vicky. I have seen the garden huckleberries that you refer to but have never worked with them. Maybe some of our readers will come to the rescue. The principle is to work on with hard fruits is to cook until tender in steam or plain water, then put them in syrup, bring to boiling, but let stand overnight, covered, for syrup to penetrate cooked fruit. Then reheat to sterilize and pour into sterile jars and seal.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TOASTS AT THE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At the wedding reception, what is said when proposing the toast to the bride? Who responds to this toast? Who proposes the toast to the bridesmaid (or bridesmaids, if there are several)? Who responds to the toast? —E.M.

"Here's to the Bride," or "I propose a toast to the lovely bride at this happy occasion today," or the simple and most usual toast "To the Bride," are all correct forms for that important toast to the bride. This toast may be proposed by the best man, or in some communities it is proposed by the clergyman who performed the ceremony. To this toast, or to the other customary toast—"To the Bride and Groom"—the groom responds. The groom may propose the toast to the bride's attendants or attendants, and the best man usually responds to this toast.

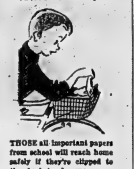
INVITATIONS TO AN INFORMAL WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of lack of time I cannot have my wedding announcements engraved, and so I am going to write them. I would appreciate it so much if you will please suggest the form to use when writing the notes of invitation to relatives and friends. (How should the notes to friends in the office be worded?) What kind of paper should I use? There will be approximately fifty guests. — Bride-to-be.

If possible, your mother, hostess of the wedding, should write the notes of invitation, or at least most of them. It is the way-of-courtesy for her to write these notes, particularly the invitations to your relatives and the groom's relatives, and to the friends of both families to be invited to the wedding. Or, for your informal wedding, it is entirely proper for your mother to give these invitations verbally or by telephone. Her notes might read (for example, to a member of the groom's family or a friend of his family):

Dear Mrs. Hall,



Philip and Susan are to be married in (give name of church and, if necessary, address) on (give day and date) at four o'clock, and Kenneth and I hope so very much that you and your husband will be able to come. We hope too that you will come here after the ceremony to drink a toast to the bride and groom.

Sincerely,

Mary Morris

Your mother (or you in her name) might write notes or telephone the invitation to your aunt or your fiance's next-of-kin friends:

"Mother has asked me to tell you that we all hope that you and Bill will be able to come to the wedding," etc. But you may, properly, invite your own very intimate friends, including your co-workers.

THOSE all important papers from school will reach home safely if they're slipped to the basket of your young rider's bike. Tie an ordinary clip-type clothespin to the basket, and it will always be ready to grab any loose lessons.

Neighbors' Aid Hears Talk On Eastern Trip

2nd THURLOW — The October meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. R. T. Boldrick, Belleville, on Thursday afternoon, with a fair attendance.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with Mrs. Robt. Atkins accompanying on the accordion.

The president, Mrs. D. Atkins, presided and welcomed all, especially Mrs. George Ashley and Mrs. G. Woods, who were present.

The correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Dent. Mrs. Harry Thomson gave the financial report to date and asked to have all bills handed in before the business meeting in November.

The Sick Committee reported sending cards, plants, fruit to the sick, and baby blankets to the new arrivals. All were sorry to hear that Mrs. Dan Whalen and Mrs. A. Dent are on the sick list.

The potluck supper of the Neighbors' Aid will be held at the Front Road church hall on November 2nd. All members and their families are cordially invited, also the boys of the 2nd Thurlow ball team and their wives are invited to attend.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

Mrs. J. Craig, Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, Mrs. C. Howard were appointed to bring in slate of officers for the business meeting in November which is to be held at the home of Mrs. George Ashley, 24 Greenlawn Ave., on the regular date.

Old minutes of 1936 were read.

Mrs. M. Mitchell led in community singing with Mrs. Robert Atkins accompanying on the accordion, which was enjoyed.

Mrs. A. Greatrix gave a travelogue of the recent trip she and her husband, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Clarke, had taken to the east coast, a distance of about 3100 miles. She told of the many interesting places and sights they had seen, describing the various farming communities, buildings and the bird sanctuary at Gaspe Peninsula, which was really beautiful.

The president thanked Mrs. Greatrix for the interesting and descriptive talk of their trip.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and Mesdames F. Mitchell, Whalen, Thomson and S. Atkins.

German Immigrant Praises Canada, Which He Calls Home

By DON HOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MINTO, N.B. (CP)—It takes only a few words for Hans Schatz, 46-year-old German immigrant, to assess the nation he is beginning to call home.

"Here you're a free man," he says. "You can do what you want."

In a voice that will always bear a trace of the guttural accents of his homeland, he says:

"After four years I like it better here than in Germany. In Germany, everything's organized. You have to get permission even to move from one place to another."

FAMILY SAFE HERE

The bond tying him to Canada is forged more deeply in his heart. Two of his five children bear brutal scars of the Second World War. His only daughter lost her hand and one of his sons was blinded in one eye when a shell screamed through their home during the Allied drive to cross the Rhine in the closing days of the war.

"What's how things started," Schatz said. "Things were very unsafe in Germany and we didn't know what was to come."

Schatz has found safety for his family in this dingy mining community where he practises the trade that earned him a position as underground supervisor in one of the great coal mines of the Ruhr.

He would be even more content if he were certain that the future of his sons and daughter could be assured in other parts of Canada.

SON IN COLLEGE

His second eldest son, 17-year-old Fritz, entered the University of New Brunswick this fall to study civil engineering. Education costs are being borne by an unidentified benefactor of whom Schatz speaks gratefully.

He hopes Hans, two years Fritz' senior, can find a job in the mines of Sudbury, Ont.

"There's not much hope here for a job," says his father. "In a couple of years up there maybe he'll be able to save enough to go to college, too."

His other children, Christel, 16; Kurt, 14, and Herbert, 12, are still in school.

Schatz arrived here in 1951 with little more than a few pennies jingling in his pocket. His entire family was with him.

"Before we left Germany we told the immigration authorities that 'either we all go together or we don't go at all.'"

FRIENDLY WELCOME

The slight, jovial miner was taken into the Minto home of Mathias Wuhr, president of the town's United Mine Workers' local, where he and his family lived for a week.

He got a job with the Black Diamond mine and switched two years ago to the Miramichi Coal Company, where he is employed as mine engineer and surveyor.

The Schatz family lives in a five-room home bought for $1,300. He also owns a half-ton truck he uses to commute between his home and the office of the area's biggest coal producer.

Schatz began working in the mines in 1933. His studies for a master of education degree ended when the government pensioned his father and "there was no money to continue."

He rose to become underground supervisor—comparable to a Canadian foreman—of a mine employing 3,000 men in the industrial centre of Duisburg.

From 1940 to 1942 he worked in the development of coal mines in the Southern Ukraine, at the eastern end of the Black sea. From 1943 until he came to Canada he worked again in the German mines.

Sunday School Lesson:

Jesus Went To Church

By ROY L. SMITH

In these days when church going is so lightly esteemed, and when such trivial matters are allowed to interfere with the worship habits of the average American family, it is instructive to note the fact that a long list of our national greats were consistent and habitual attendants upon divine worship. George Washington, for example, was a vestryman throughout all his adult years. Abraham Lincoln, though never a member of any church, was a regular worshipper in the house of God. Theodore Roosevelt, William McKinley, Woodrow Wilson—to name but a few.

The Uniform Sunday School for October 30: "Jesus Proclaims His Mission," Luke 4:-16-44.

Only twice in the New Testament is it said that Jesus did anything as a result of habit; once, when He went to the Garden on the Mount of Olives to pray, and the other time when He went to the little synagogue in Nazareth "as was His custom."

As a little boy, a youth, and a young business man in Nazareth, He had been a regular attendant upon the services of worship in the home town church. From all that we know of the program there was seldom anything very exciting about those occasions. As a matter of fact, the preaching was probably pretty dull as a usual thing. But Jesus went to church. It seems to have been the case that he found a benefit in doing so quite aside from the preacher, the singing, or the handshakes of friends afterward. That which made it a great occasion, and brought Him back Sabbath after Sabbath was the fact that somehow He had the feeling that he met God there.

IN WIDE OPEN SPACES

It is true, of course, that He could have worshipped out on the hillside, just outside of Nazareth. There were plenty of wide and open spaces there. And it is quite probable that at one time or another He did so. But the reason He was able to find and identify God in the open was because of the training He had been given in the synagogue.

There is a place—a great place—in the life of every man for communion with God in the open. But He who has never learned to recognize the voice of God in the sanctuary is not apt to hear Him distinctly in the forest.

SAME OLD STORY

The roll that was handed to Him that morning in the Nazareth synagogue, and the one from which He read, contained matters He had probably read again and again. There was nothing new in it. As a boy and a youth He had steeped His mind in the scripture (as is proved by the way He quoted it), and now in His great hour He turned back to it instinctively.

This world is not greatly in need of a new message, but is desperately in need of a devotion to the old messages. There is nothing new, for example, in the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution of the United States. Neither is there anything particularly novel in the Bill of Rights. But the hope of the nation lies in whatever tendency we develop for going back to these immortal documents.

There is a certain blind and unthinking confidence in our American life which assures us that we will come through all crises if we are only clever enough, and as a result we are trying to solve our problems with slogans and wisecracks. Sophistication may be brilliant but it is also shallow. It is like the varnish on the wood—thin and sparkling. But it is not the solid wood out of which great nations of life is made.

In all the history of mankind there is no record of any nation that has ever survived the loss of its religious faith. Churchgoing is still one of the highest forms of patriotism.

Egypt, Saudi Arabia Sign Military Pact

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt and Saudi Arabia signed a military defence pact Thursday.

Informed circles say the pact follows closely the pattern of the Syrian-Egyptian treaty signed last week in Damascus.

The pact is reported to call for the setting up of a permanent joint command, a joint defence fund and a joint war council to co-ordinate military planning.

Says Uranium Production Will Be $180,000,000

NEW YORK (CP) — William J. Bennett, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., Thursday forecast that Canadian uranium production will be a $180,000,000 business by the end of 1958.

However, he told the national industrial conference board here that the industry cannot remain healthy unless Canada finds export markets for the bulk of future raw atomic fuel production. Uranium output by 1958 would greatly exceed Canadian requirements.

Mr. Bennett also said Canada is considering an exchange of information on peaceful uses of atomic energy with a number of countries besides the United States and the United Kingdom.

Mr. Bennett told American industrialists attending the conference that by 1958 uranium production will be third in gross dollar value in the Canadian metal production field behind nickel and copper. He said uranium production by the end of this year will be eight times 1945 output. By 1958 it would be 30 times as great.

RATIFY AGREEMENT

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and Portugal Wednesday ratified an agreement simplifying the frontier between the African territories of Portuguese Mozambique and the British federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. The agreement, signed in Lisbon in November last year, provided for minor alterations to the frontier and was aimed at settling recent differences over the present line.

Russia Ready to Move for Full UN Debate on Disarmament; Votes for Peace-Atoms Agency

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Russia was reported to be ready today to make a determined fight for a full United Nations debate on disarmament without waiting for the Big Four foreign ministers to take up the subject at Geneva.

The UN political committee Thursday approved a Western-supported plan for an international agency to promote peaceful uses of atomic energy. Immediately after the 53-to-0 vote it became known that the Russians would move for a disarmament debate as the next item of business of the committee at today's session.

Diplomatic quarters said before today's meeting that the Russians would demand immediate debate on a Soviet item to ease world tension by prohibiting the use of atomic weapons and the reduction of armaments.

SEVEN ABSTAINED

The thumping endorsement of President Eisenhower's plan for an international agency to promote peaceful uses of atomic energy was only marred by the seven Arab members who abstained. It was reported that they stayed aloof because Israel was a co-sponsor of the resolution.

Chief Martin, Canada's delegate to the UN, was credited in some quarters with providing the key move that brought about the Indian agreement. The Canadian health minister appeared when India's Krishna Menon was speaking Thursday, and passed a message to him through a member of the Indian delegation. Menon then interrupted his speech and later announced that his country would support the resolution.

(Martin declined to reveal the nature of the talks which led to the Indian decision. Previously Menon had expressed a number of objections to the resolution.)

When word went out that the West had reached agreement with the Russians and India, both of them had rival proposals on the table, unanimity appeared certain. But one diplomat said that when it became known that Israel was one of the sponsors of the Western-backed resolution, the Arab league sent down orders to abstain on the ballot.

The resolution, which grew out of three weeks of debate and numerous behind - the - scenes huddles, carries these main provisions:

1. A second international atomic energy conference should be held within six months.

2. It asked Russia, India, Brazil and Czechoslovakia with other countries invited to negotiate privately on a proposed statute for an atomic agency.

3. Calls on secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold to make a study on the relationship the new agency should have to the UN.

OBJECTED TO BOOST

OTTAWA (CP) — Wellington Miller of Metcalfe, was remanded one week Thursday without plea when he appeared in court here charged with assaulting C. O. Dow, Orgoode township assessor, Mr. Dow complained that he was struck in the face by Miller who objected to a $175 increase in his assessment. Dow lost several teeth.

Canadian Navy Prime Necessity Says Mainguy

TORONTO (CP)—Maintenance of the Canadian navy remains a prime necessity, Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of naval staff, said Thursday night.

"Unless some future conflict should take place of a nature resulting in the total destruction of civilization—or even of man himself—I cannot believe that the safe passage of ships will not again be vitally necessary to our survival and that of our friends," he said.

He was speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the national council of the Navy League of Canada. Admiral Mainguy will retire as chief of the 30,000-man navy Jan. 16

Sea cadet Petty Officer Ronald DeForest of Guelph was presented with the president's trophy for showing the most outstanding qualifications of leadership among the nearly 10,000 cadets in Canada.

Referring to the navy' buildup in the last five years, Admiral Mainguy said:

"We have training facilities far beyond those that we had even a few years ago. We are developing our essential aviation branch to a high peak of efficiency. We are operating our ships now in squadrons where not so very long ago we were operating in single units or small and temporary groups."

He said the new anti-submarine destroyer escort St. Laurent, to be commissioned Saturday at Montreal, is the most modern warship in the world. Thirteen more escorts are to be delivered to the navy by 1958.

ENTRANCE BARRICADED

OTTAWA (CP)—Main entrance to the Parliament buildings was closed Thursday and barricades were put up around it when a 60-pound stone window ledge 240 feet up the Peace Tower was found loose. The ivory tower, which spires above the entrance, was being given a final inspection after workmen washed and painted its clock when the loose stone was discovered 86 feet above the tourists balcony 200 feet up the tower. The area will be blocked off until necessary repairs are made.

Utah's Drive on Polygamists Likely to Be Lengthy Task With 20,000 People Involved

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—State and local law officials say Utah's latest drive against polygamy is likely to be a lengthy, difficult chore, despite a start made this week with charges filed against four men.

"It's difficult getting the evidence against these people," said state Attorney - General E. R. Callister, "because for the most part none of them practice polygamy openly. And a lot of them have wives in different houses in different sections of the city — or of the state, for that matter."

Callister commented as officers continued to look for two men already named in complaints accusing them of unlawful cohabitation." Two others named in similar complaints have been arraigned and released on bail.

Sought are David Darger, 52, accused of cohabiting with four women, and Heber Smith, 39, charged with having five wives.

Free on $2,500 bail is Louis Kelsch, 49, stonemason, who was arraigned Thursday on a complaint charging him with having five wives. Police say Kelsch admits being the father of 31 children.

Carl Jentzsch, 54, surrendered voluntarily "to keep them from chasing me all over the country." Freed on $1,000 bond, he is charged with cohabiting with five women, and officers said "we're sure he has at least 20" children.

An investigator who declined to be identified had more to say on the difficult of pinning down evidence of polygamy.

"Some of the men," he said, "keep moving back and forth to a different home. That's one of their habits. Another one is, of course, they don't allow their children to talk to strangers or associate with other children in the neighborhood. They're kind of set apart even at school."

The unidentified investigator says it's his guess that there are "about 20,000 men, women and children in Utah" involved in the multiple marriages.

Officials say none of the persons charged with polygamy is a member of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) church, which discontinued the practice more than 50 years ago.

New Brunswick Economic Briefs Are Optimistic

FREDERICTON (CP) — The Gordon royal commission left this New Brunswick capital Thursday after hearing the most encouraging submissions to come from the Atlantic provinces.

While many difficulties and problems were pointed out, the 11 briefs and speeches heard here by the five-man commission were generally bright and optimistic about the future. The provincial government predicted New Brunswick was heading for the greatest expansion in 100 years.

The second longest brief, presented Thursday by the Atlantic provinces economic council, held confidence for the future, although it brought up several difficulties that must be surmounted.

Transportation and tariff policies should be changed, the brief said, to allow greater expansion of Maritime industry. Transportation problems should be viewed in the light of a national transportation policy which gave each region the greatest opportunity to contribute and receive an equitable share of the nation's economic prospects.

The provincial government brief, which took up all Wednesday's session, named lack of hydro development as the biggest obstacle to new industry. It said the natural hydro potential was there, but the cost of developing it was too much for the province. The federal government was asked to help.

Linotype Operator Swapped Wives With Friend

CHESTERTON, Ind. (AP) — A linotype operator who swapped wives with a friend was being hunted on his second honeymoon Thursday because his daughter died on his ex-wife's honeymoon.

The simultaneous wedding trips of the two couples and their children hit a snag when Karen John-son, 7, died in Granite City, Ill., Monday after suffering a strange throat swelling.

Driving toward California, somewhere ahead along U.S. 66, were the child's father, Richard Johnson, 36; his new wife, Margaret Heller Johnson, 36, and her four children.

Karen's mother, Mrs. Phyllis Johnson Heller, 29, and her new husband, John P. Heller, 36, headed on instead for Aberdeen, S.D., for a funeral and burial for the girl. With them were Mrs. Heller's younger daughter, Christine John-son, 5.

The two couples, friends for a year and a half, had been divorced Oct. 18 in Valparaiso, Ind., and swapped spouses the next day in a double wedding performed by a Michigan City, Ind., justice of the peace. They started out on California honeymoon trips within an hour of each other Saturday.

The couples took a California vacation trip together last summer, then both wives need for divorce. 13 Both alleged cruel and inhuman treatment.

Colombo Plan Contributions To Rise $5,000,000 in 1956

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Colombo plan contributions likely will rise by some $5,000,000 next year to a little more than $31,000,000 and this will include a portion of costs to help India build her first major atomic reactor.

Authorities disclosed Thursday that Canada has agreed to pay only one-half the costs of the $15,000,000 reactor, to be located on India's west coast near Bombay. India is to put up the other half.

The costs are to be spread over a period of at least two years. Canada's contribution will go towards the construction of machinery and equipment, to be built by Canadian firms under contracts let by the Canadian government. India's contribution will cover construction of buildings and other local works.

External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Colombo plan conference at Singapore Oct. 20 that Canada will bear both external costs and India local charges.

Mr. Pearson also spoke of Canadian government plans to ask Parliament at the next session to make a "significant increase" in Canada's over-all contribution. But he made clear the "bulk of the increase" would be for coverage of the reactor costs.

Canada's contribution to the plan was increased by $1,000,000 this year to $26,400,000, amid criticism from opposition parties which demanded a much higher contribution as a means of aiding in blocking the spread of communism in the Asian area.

Finance Minister Harris has already agreed to Canadian aid for the reactor and to consider a small extra allocation to cover contributions for the newer Colombo plan members, such as Burma, Indonesia, South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

25-Year Head Of Blind Institute Resigns Post

PICTON — Following 25 years of service as chairman of the Prince Edward Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Colin Carter tendered his resignation at the annual meeting in the parish hall, Tuesday night. He is succeeded by Harry Anderson. Mr. Carter was named chairman when the Advisory Board was organized.

"During my period of office I have never had a refusal for assistance requested," said Mr. Carter in expressing thanks to Board members, canvassers, County Council and the public. He recalled that before the Board was organized a tag day was held to aid the blind. About $100 was raised and all sent to C.N.I.B. headquarters. This contrasts with a yearly budget now of over $3,300, all expended as part of services to 33 blind people in Prince Edward. The work has increased by leaps and bounds he commented after mentioning the great variety of services and help now provided for the blind.

PERSONAL TRIBUTE PAID

Fieldman P. I. Timmins paid personal tribute to Mr. Carter as one who devoted a great deal of time to the work and was ever ready to stop in the midst of his business duties to discuss problems.

Chairman - elect Barry Anderson also referred to Mr. Carter's long and faithful service.

A formal resolution of appreciation moved by W. D. MacArthur and Phil Dodds was passed as follows: "That we, as members in attendance at the general meeting of Prince Edward County Advisory Board of the C.N.I.B., wish to extend to our retiring chairman, Colin Carter, our thanks and appreciation for the many years of willing service and guidance he has given to this Board. We also wish to extend the hope that he remains in good health and still actively associated with the Board for many years to come."

FLUNKED TEST

CHICAGO (AP)—George Noer, 28, paid $100 to take a lie-detector test to prove to his wife he wasn't running around with other women. He flunked, his wife said in Superior Court Wednesday. As a result, Judge John J. Lupe granted Mrs. Mary Alice Noer, 29, a divorce on cruelty grounds.

CNIB Branch Sets Objective For Year's Operation at $2,700

PICTON — Plans for the annual campaign to aid the 33 blind persons in Prince Edward County were discussed at the annual meeting of Picton Edward Advisory Board and the C.N.I.B. on Tuesday. The drive for funds will be from Nov. 1st to 30th and over the county. Committees in towns, villages and townships are now being set up. Objective is $2,700.

Treasurer, W. Rackabur reported a deficit locally on the year due to a re-arrangement of dates for canvassers. The report further indicated the great work being done on behalf of the blind.

Chairman Carter reported that as a result of interest aroused by the activity of the local Board there had been a $2,500. bequest to the Institute for the Blind.

Field secretary P. I. Timmins, who has served in this district for eleven years, recalled his first visit to Picton after he had succeeded Mr. Milton in office. Mr. Carter was chairman, Mrs. S. J. Collier secretary and the late E. J. Bronskill, treasurer. Creation of an advisory board had put the work on a firm footing. The work of the Institute has greatly increased, more persons being helped, types of services expanded and prevention work added.

TWO NEED OPERATIONS

Mr. Timmins said locally there were two cases which may need operations. He told of a Christmas party at the Home and said any county blind would be welcome. A Women's Auxiliary is doing fine work there, he said. He told of one lady here, who is losing her sight, who liked to play cards and a set marked in Braille is being provided so that she can continue her pastime.

Guest speaker Jerry MacDonald, who recently came from Alberta as Public Relations Officer in Ontario for the CNIB, told of plans to create understanding and sympathy for the work being done on behalf of the blind. Television, radio, the press and the public platform are to be used to acquaint the public with the work and the need. While the Institute provides many services for the blind, of which there are 4,000 in Ontario alone, the work of prevention is an important aspect. Last year in Ontario nearly 700 people lost their sight. It is necessary that cases where the Institute can help be reported. Last year twenty cases of blindness were prevented through services given by the Institute. In Ontario, 837 more people would be blind had not the Institute done preventive work through clinics, provision of glasses, etc. There is medical evidence to this effect.

Board members were urged to acquaint the public with the many services the Institute offers. Prevention should be stressed, said the speaker.

Jack Gale thanked Mr. MacDonald for his enlightening address.

Bob Padden, assistant to the Field Secretary, reported 33 blind persons in Prince Edward registered with the Institute. Twenty were being aided to prevent blindness and 30 other cases had been investigated.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Mrs. G. M. Hicks and Mrs. K. I. Mitchell were named as Christmas cheer committee. Mrs. Hicks gave a report of the preparation and distributing of parcels last year, with Mrs. G. T. Walmsley having assisted them.

Miss Muriel Casey, home teacher in home adjustments, handicrafts, embossed touch reading, typing, talking book records, told of her visits to a number of homes in the county. Such visits bring new hope and cheer.

ELECT OFFICERS

Officers and board members elected following report of the nominating committee, chaired by Mrs. K. I. Mitchell, are:

Honorary chairman, Mrs. S. J. Collier; immediate past chairman, Colin Carter; chairman, Barry Anderson; secretary, Mrs. G. T. Walmsley; treasurer, W. D. MacArthur; vice-chairman, Reeve Calvin Hughes, Harry Bowers, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Jackson, Mrs. R. R. Omo; public relations, Phil Dodds; board members, Mrs. Walter Bond, Mrs. Herb Daubney, John V. Graydon, Mrs. G. M. Hicks, Mrs. Morley Jackson, Mrs. W. S. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. McKibbon, Mrs. K. J. Mitchell, Mrs. Doug Parker, J. A. Clair, Wellington; Ken Needham, Northport; Major R. Robinson, RCSA; Donald Walker, Milford, the latter four being new members; associate member, Miss Jean Falconer, PHN.

Chairman Carter paid tributes to the support given by retiring members, J. L. Pickering, Rev. and Mrs. G. Hope Swayne.

Mrs. G. T. Walmsley gave a report on the local board's activities during the year.

Reporting for the Board of Governors of Quinte-St. Lawrence Home and Service Centre at Kingston, Barry Anderson reported 29 now in residence there. Cost is apportioned to the different advisory boards. The work done by voluntary groups and the condition and operation of the home were praised by the speaker.

Tight Race Predicted

Juniors Start Memorial Cup Grind, Hamilton Edges Teepees in Opener

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's junior A hockey teams—many with hot professional prospects—have started another season grind with the Memorial Cup their target. Things shape up as another tight race.

Barrie Flyers, who finished seventh in the eight-team league last season, and Guelph Biltmores kicked off the 1955-56 campaign Wednesday night. Flyers beat the Bilts 3-1.

And Thursday night, Hamilton Cubs, playing at home, scored a 4-3 victory over St. Catharines TreePees before 1,526 fans.

Jack Hendrickson with two goals, Max Schurm and Bill Binnie, with singles were the marksmen for Cubs who scored all their goals while TreePees were short-staffed by penalties.

Bob Butler, Ed Hoekstra and Art Stratton scored for TreePees.

Goalie Dennis Riggin, who accounted for the victory edge with his work in the Cub net, was involved in a third-period fight with Len Ronson and both got major penalties. Lloyd Haddon served Riggin's penalty.

HAWKS DROP OUT

The only team missing this year is Galt Black Hawks, which lost the joint sponsorship of Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League after last season. Boston switched to Barrie. Hawks are not sponsoring a junior A club.

Ranking high among the contenders are Toronto Marlboros, who won the Memorial Cup and Canadian junior hockey championship last season.

Barrie Flyers have nine new faces.

Coach Hap Emms received Bob Cherry, Roy Partridge, Bob Beckett, goaltender Rob Senior and John Chaszczwski from the Black Hawks.

Back from last year are defenceman Bill Hope and forwards Gord Loveday, Hubert Ball, Arnold Smith, Jack Kane and George Rasiers.

Sid Wozocki, 19-year-old centre from Lynn, Mass., already has earned high rating from Emms as "the best pro prospect we've had since Leo Labine departed for Boston."

Guelph coach Eddie Bush figures he has a club which will win its share of games.

Roy McMillan and Dick Wojick are back for another year with Biltmores' rearguard crew. And when football season is over Ron Howell rejoins his old teammates. He now is playing in the Big Four Football Union with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Ron Boomer is the No. 1 goaltender. Boomer was the understudy at Guelph for part of the 1954-55 term.

Marlboros and St. Michael's College Majors are rated as the youngest teams to perform in the junior circuit in many years.

Rev. John Crowley has taken over the coaching job from Charley Cerre and will be assisted by former Toronto Maple Leaf coach Joe Primeau.

Majors' goalkeeping problem has not been settled yet. Don Keenan, a juvenile last season, and Pete Kelly, with St. Michael's Buzzers in the OHA junior B league in 1954-55, are the candidates. Keenan appears to have the inside track. Centre Bob McKnight, from Kirkland Lake, and right winger Tim Hook, Peterborough, are likely prospects, says Father Crowley.

Marlboros have the makings of a strong defence with Al MacNeil, Ron Casey and Bob Baun back from last year's team. In addition, they obtained Noel Price from St. Michael's for a junior B player to be named later.

Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks are expected to finish better than their cellar showing last season. Canucks picked up two established stars from the Quebec Junior Hockey League which folded after last season.

Willie O'Ree, a left winger from Quebec Frontenacs and the only Negro player in the OHA, is expected to give Canucks much-needed scoring punch. Walt Bradley also is from Frontenacs.

Hamilton Cubs start the 1955-56 campaign with the league's top goaltender—Dennis Riggin. That alone is encouraging.

Besides Riggin, coach Ducky Skinner has seven experienced forwards — Cummy Barton, Brian Smith, Jerry Sullivan, Ken Stenlund, Bill Binnie, Bob Robinson and Gary Sharpe—back for another season.

St. Catharines TreePees will sacrifice some size for speed this season, but coach Rudy Pilous thinks he has a stronger-balanced club than last season.

Captain Elmer Vasko, Pat Kelly and Roy Greenen on defence; centres Ed Hoekstra and Bob Butler; and wingers Aly McDonald, Mitch Plata, Matt Thompson and goaltender Roger Day, who replaces Marv Edwards, are the nine players returning.

Irwin Gives 'Toe' Lesson; Hawks Maul Canadiens Before Hometown Habs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

AWAY WE GO!

Starry squads scintillating on paper; an upset, as usual of Old Man Dope and threatened wing-dings between clubs are keeping the senior "B" pot aboiling quite merrily.

Up Whitby way the scribes made no bones about the vaunted strength of the Dunlops, and while they did not come out flatfooted the names on paper impressed the rest of the pack that this would be the team to beat (and it may be at that) with sly suggestions tossed out that the Dunlops would kick off with the right foot and cut a wide swath adoung the rest of the pack from the opening kickoff.

Practically all through the pre-season semester there has been weeping lowels wringing real or make-believe water down Kingston way regarding the strength of the champions and the fact that a number of the stalwarts of 1954-55 had left the home corral.

Pre-season meetings saw representatives of all clubs bewail the high cost of players and other dough-kahing operational bugbears and all were agreed to be hit with the high-priced imports, let's play our homebrews and promising juniors and the drivil-take-the-hindmost.

So what happens?

Substantiating the Whitby impressions that the Dunnies would be a force to be reckoned with was the fact that the Marlboro held the vaunted Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's Olympic representatives, to a five-all tie and dangled near beat them in the bargain. The rest of the pack took this news with raised eyebrows.

Came the all-star game. The general impression was that the cream of the rest-of-the-pack would have trounced (so-called) Kingston Goodyear-Inside camp with something regarding a basketball score. Again what happens? The Goodies, giving the old rumore the bee-haw, came up with a squad that boasted the greater number of last year's champions, aided and abetted by new faces that almost stole the show.

The Dunlops' stock did not get any boost along the senior "B" rialto when the news seeped out that the Clinton Comets had laid the kibosh to a three-all tie on American ice.

Then came the opening game Wednesday night down in Roddenville. Discounting the showing made by the all-stars it was the general impression that the allegedly powe-packed Whitby squad would waltz through the Goodies in jig time. And again look who hoppens?

Just who has been kidding who? The Goodyears not only held the highly-touted Dunnies to a five-all tie but nearly snatched the victory after playing the usual amount of overtime.

And just to keep the ole pot a-sizzling comes rumors or words of "deals" that are causing various managerial eyebrows to twitch and those allegedly in the know to titter.

It is stated that Duke Doran, ex-Belleville player who was said to have signed a Kingston contract, now wants to transfer his puck-chasing activities to Clinton. The same goes for Pawchuk of the Goodies, in this corner's opinion one of the best players on the circuit last semester. The Dunnes twins, who scared the world with a gold-lined fence around it and a half-interest in Fort Knox to play here, suddenly signed with the Brockville Magedomas. Sich goin's on.

Now there has arisen the question of releases. If what this corner hears is correct, there is much ado about something going on, and it seems the boys around the circuit are loath to part with their 1954 players unless a certain amount of the coin of the realm is laid on the line.

The crux of the matter is what is the set price for releases? Strange what we hear the amounts differ greatly with no one willing to come across or even make a deal satisfactory to all concerned. And there it stands.

Of more importance is the fact that the TPT's open the season in Memorial Arena tonight against the Whitby Dunlops. Coach Cliff Cox says his charges are in good shape and he hopes to have the club at full strength. Eddie Redmond and Donlevy, former Peter, will be making their debut here in Dunlops uniforms. The Dunnies aren't feeling too well over that tie scuabble in Kingston and will be going all out for their first victory.

By the same token the Coxmen who have been grinding hard all week, will be out to rack up their first win, and the outcome should prove quite a tussle. Game starts at nine o'clock.

* * * * * * *

GET 'EM EARLY!

Word from Kingston is to the effect that the tickets for the Queen's-Varsity football game tomorrow afternoon are going like the proverbial hotcakes—and a record crowd for Richardson Stadium is predicted. Both teams are tied for top spot in the Intercollegiate Football Union and tomorrow's game will, no doubt, be a thriller.

Eyes will centre on the Queen's phenomenal halfback, 160-pound, five-foot-six Ron Stewart, rated as the best in the loop. Gary Schreiber and Bill Murphy, other backfield stars, who missed last week's tussle with Western Mustangs, will be back in action as will Al Koeman, another scintillating backfielder. A lot of football addicts from Belleville are making the trip.

Tomorrow morning this corner safaris to Picton to cover the "Miss Superiest" attempt at breaking the world speedboat record. Nothing like getting up before the crack o' dawn, especially on Sunday to work up an appetite. However, it should be well worth the effort.

SEALS MANAGER QUITS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tommy Heath resigned Thursday as manager of the debt-ridden San Francisco Seals baseball team.

Damon Miller, president of the Pacific Coast League team, accepted the resignation.

Heath was with the Seals five years, during which time he was plagued by a lack of funds and outstanding talent. His teams finished eighth, seventh, fifth, fourth and sixth.

The club now is for sale. Hank Greenberg of Cleveland Indians made an offer but withdrew it. The Milwaukee Braves have shown considerable interest in acquiring the Seals as a farm club.

Windy City Birds Register 4-1 Win Over League Leaders; Move Into Second-Place Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Dick Irvin ventured back to the Montreal Forum again Thursday night. Not even the Montrealers could give him the business this time.

Irvin sent his up-and-coming Chicago Black Hawks against the formidable Canadiens and surprised 13,758 fans with a 4-1 National Hockey League victory. It was quite a change from last Saturday, when Hawks were plastered 6-0 by the Habs.

The once-lowly Hawks came up with their first victory over Montreal since Jan. 24, 1954, when they won 8-3. The last time a Hawk club beat Montreal at home was Nov. 14, 1953—a 3-2 decision.

It was also Irvin's first win over his old team. He took over the Chicago coaching job this year when he left Canadiens.

The engagement was the only NHL action of the night. Hawks moved into a second-place tie with New York Rangers with 10 points, one behind the league - leading Canadiens.

Eddie Litzenberger, Johnny Wilson, Harry Watson and Ed Sandford scored for Chicago. Jean Beliveau tallied for Montreal.

Litzenberger shot Chicago into the lead at 2:40 of the first period when he fired a goal at an angle from close range. Wilson made it 2-0 at 5:36 with a backhander after picking up rookie Hank Cleaia's pass.

ONE MAN SHORT

While Wilson was serving a tripping penalty, Beliveau rapped home his second goal at 16:17. Bert Olmstead and Doug Harvey gained assists.

After a scoreless second period, Watson increased the Hawk lead to 3-1 as he beat goaltender Jacques Plante from close range on a relay from defencemen Benny Wolt and Sandford at 9:31.

Sandford closed the scoring with 59 seconds left in the game when he took Watson's pass and beat Plante.

Sandford, acquired from Detroit Red Wings in a trade last week, was the hero forward of the Hawks. He fitted in nicely as a centre for Watson and Litzenberger.

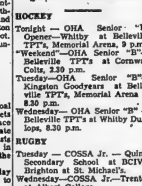
It was the first time in the Habs' nine games this season that Plante was beaten by as many as four shots. He had to handle 18 Chicago drives while Al Rollins stopped 27 shots for Chicago.

There are no NHL games scheduled tonight but four are on tap for the weekend.

Saturday, the last-place Red Wings take on Canadiens at Montreal, the Hawks meet the fifth-place Maple Leafs at Toronto and Rangers are at home to Boston Bruins, third and fourth spot. Canadiens are at Detroit in Sunday's only game.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS



Ron Murphy, whose eight-goal record for New York Rangers sets the National Hockey League pace in that division, and teammate Dave Creighton, whose eight assists are good for a first-place tie in that section, continue to lead the NHL scoring race.

With New York Nite Thursday night, they didn't get a chance to advance their 13-point standings. But the only one who managed to move within breathing distance of the Manhattan pair was Jean Beliveau, who scored Montreal's only goal as Chicago Black Hawks downed the Canadiens 4-1 at Montreal.

Beliveau's goal gave him a tie for third place with 11 points in the individual standings with Detroit's Gordie Howe.

Doug Harvey and Bert Olmstead, who assisted on Beliveau's goal, moved up into a four-way tie for seventh place with eight points.

'Hurricane' Meets Jimmy Slade

CLEVELAND, (AP) — Young Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson has little to gain and much to lose tonight when he meets Jimmy Slade in a scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout at Cleveland Arena.

Lippy Breitbardt, Jackson's manager, is rolling along contending a match with champion Rocky Marciano is virtually in the bag.

He says James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, promised him a championship match, providing Jackson "wins from Slade and either Nino Valdes and Bob Baker." However, a loss could push him right out of the heavyweight picture.

Jackson's pleasing Hurricane has split two close decisions with Slade, the first in April of last year but reversed the order of finish in a return bout last June.

Wanna Coaching Job?

Stukus Out as Lions' Coach Not Looking for Similar Job

By AL MARKLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — One last Canadian coach in Canadian pro football is out of work today.

Annis Stukus, 41, was ousted Thursday night as head coach of the British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Don Mackenzie, president of the club, said Stukus will be "offered a position with the organization, but I don't feel this is the time to talk about it."

Stukus said he is "definitely not looking for a job in the coaching end. I don't want to take over from somebody else's problems. It's nonsense while taking care of the ones you make yourself."

Directors of the club—24 of 29 were present—talked for more than three hours before casting the "fatal" close" vote to remove Stukus.

"Everyone agreed Stukus had done a tremendous job," said Mackenzie, "but we're in a position somewhere else to do better."

He said the directors were not unhappy about the club's performance but Lions have won 7 games and 11 losses. Lions played their last game of the season last week.

JOB IS OPEN

There was no mention, the president said, of prospects for Stukus' position.

"The job is open. . . Applications will be received now."

Stukus said he is going to take a few days before any future job with the Lions.

"This is the first time since I was 16 I've been out of work."

Asked whether he would seek a football job elsewhere if he didn't return to Lions, he said he "might consider it."

"I never expected this, so I just haven't given any thought to the future. Maybe I should have."

His $12,000-a-year, two-year contract expires Dec. 15.

Stukus was born in Toronto, played in school and junior leagues and in 1933 moved to Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four League. Argos disbanded in 1941 and Stukus moved to Toronto Balmy Beaches of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. He played with two other eastern clubs, then quit active fotball in 1946.

He returned to play and coach for Edmonton Eskimos, then quit again to work as a sportswriter in Toronto.

He came to Vancouver in 1953 and started Lions.

STAMPS CUT KYLE

CALGARY (CP)—Veteran Gus Kyle, burly hockey rearguard who has been with the Stampeders for the last three years, was cut from the lineup when coach Frank Currie brought his team strength down to the league limit of 14 plus goaltenders.

Kyle will become a scout with the Stamps' hockey organization and assist Currie in club operations, including handling Calgary's six-team junior league, organized earlier this year.

Week of Decision

Ottawa Riders, Argos Clash In Weekend Playoff Battles; Collegiate Eyes on Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

They'll be tidying up most of the loose ends in Canadian professional football this weekend.

With just four more games left to go in the Big Four and two in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, only one crucial game is on tap this weekend.

That's in the Big Four where the tail-enders take over the spotlight 4o decide the third playoff spot. Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts' both trying for a playoff berth, meet twice in their two remaining games.

Saturday they play in Toronto. A win by Argos would end it all. Argos are in third place with six points and Ottawa is last with four. Ottawa must win them both to catch a playoff spot.

Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats are assured of playoff positions. They'll just decide who finishes in first place in their two remaining games.

ALSO NEED TWO

Als have 16 points and Hamilton 14, and like Ottawa, Hamilton has to win both games to finish first.

In the WIFU, Saskatchewan Roughriders play in Winnipeg against the Blue Bombers Saturday in a pre-playoff game to end their schedule. The teams meet later for the right to go against Edmonton Eskimos for the WIFU championship.

Edmonton fills out the schedule with a game at home against Calgary Stampeders.

There's a key game in the senior Intercollegiate League Saturday. It's in Kingston where Queen's Golden Gaels play University of Toronto Blues in a game that probably will decide the league championship. That is, provided both teams win their remaining games. University of Western Ontario meets Blues in Toronto Nov. 5 and Queen's meet McGill Redmen in Montreal to end the schedule.

McGill and Western, who meet in London Saturday, are out of the championship picture. Mustangs are on the bottom of the standing with one point, a place they haven't occupied in 17 years. McGill has three points and Varsity and Queen's six each.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule winds up this week-end with two games. Toronto Beaches play in both against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in Kitchener Saturday and against Sarnia Imperials Sunday in Toronto.

Beaches are out to beat their last season's record of only one win. They defeated Sarnia 26-0 in Toronto last Sunday for their first win in 10 games.

Officials Say Ottawa Riders Not For Sale

OTTAWA (CP)—Two top officials of the Ottawa Rough Riders said Thursday that the Big Four football team is not for sale.

But one of them—general manager James P. McCaffrey—said: "However, if we received some fantastic offer we'd certainly have to consider it."

He qualified that remark by saying first: "Let's get it straight—the Ottawa football club is not for sale."

Asked what he would regard as a fantastic offer, McCaffrey replied: "Well, let's say $150,000 or over."

Earlier, club president Dave Gill said there is no thought of changing the ownership of the Riders.

"There has been no discussion whatsoever of selling the club," he said. He was commenting on a Toronto report that Riders officials —although officially not in the market for football club buyers— will listen to bids from $150,000 and up.

Gill said he did not know what would happen if someone made an offer for the club since he is only one of several persons with interests in the Riders and he had not heard the views of any of the others on such a sale.

Leafs' Horton To Play Saturday

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Tim Horton will play for Toronto Maple Leafs against Chicago Black Hawks here Saturday in their National Hockey League game, general manager Hap Day said Thursday night.

The 177-pound rearguard suffered a broken jaw and fractured leg when he was checked during a game late last season.

To make room for Horton, Jack Bionda, who has seen little action as a fifth defenceman, has been sent back to Pittsburgh Hornets, Leaf farm team in the American Hockey League.

Britons Bemoan Sale of 'Tulyar' To US Interests

DUBLIN (AP),— The British horse breeding industry today bemoaned the sale of Tulyar, 1953 Epsom Derby winner, to a U.S. syndicate for £340,000.

The six-year-old stallion, subject of a political controversy ever since the Irish National Stud paid the Aga Khan £250,000 for him more two years ago, was purchased Thursday by Arthur Hancock, owner of the Claiborne Stud of Kentucky.

"It seems that America is buying all of our good classic strains and in the long run Britain will suffer," said Marcus Marsh, who trained Tulyar. "If it continues America eventually will become No. 1 in the breeding industry."

"I am happiest and luckiest man in the world," said Hancock before departing for home Thursday night. "I have bought what I believe to be the greatest horse in the world."

Before selling the horse to the Irish National Stud, the Aga Khan turned down an American offer of $1,000,000. For weeks before the sale was approved by the Irish government, a heated debate raged. Those who opposed the purchase challenged the right of the government to spend so much money for a horse, even one of the calibre of Tulyar.

Quakers Win Over Stampeders

CALGARY (CP) — Veteran defenceman Howie Milford scored with one second remaining to give Saskatoon Quakers a 5-4 win over Calgary Stampeders in a Western Hockey League game Thursday night.

Other scorers for Saskatoon were Vic Lynn with two, Eldie Kobussen and Len Haley. Counting for Calgary were Doc Couture, Steve Wilick, Sandy Hucul and Jim McFadden.

Believes Godfrey Has Right To Hire, Fire Anyone on Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Few incidents in television have moved me less than the news the other day that Arthur Godfrey had fired three more of his hired help.

It's true that you feel sorry for anybody who gets fired. But it's also true that if you or I get fired the event will hardly make the news—unless we shoot the boss or abscond with the treasury.

When Godfrey first began firing members of what used to be called his radio and television family the public was enchanted by the mystery of why he did it.

In the past he fired Julius La Rosa on the air and was bitterly criticized. He tried firing people privately and was criticized for that. He explained that he was trying to improve his shows — and many didn't believe him. He tried open-and-shut explanation — and was criticized for that.

Personally I'm not much of a fan of Godfrey's programs. But I think he's within his rights in firing anybody he desires without explanation to the public.

There was a time — and back in the days when Godfrey maintained the theme that he and his employees were one big happy family—when it was necessary for him to explain why he'd changed his tune and kicked somebody out. But by this time it's obvious that Godfrey's entertainment empire is not just one big happy family. So what's all the excitement about?

No one who's been fired by Godfrey ever has been able to give a good explanation. All expressed surprise that the boom was lowered. It's also interesting that all, as far as can be learned, are doing at least as well as when they worked for Godfrey.

There are many important things happening in the world of television and radio today. But the relationship of Arthur Godfrey with his employees is not one of them.

Baseball Great Clark Griffith Dies After Colorful Career

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clark Griffith, one of the greatest figures in the history of baseball, died Thursday night at 85.

Summing up the career of the man he called "Pop," Calvin Griffith observed today:

"The old man lived an exciting life and he loved every minute of it. He had a wonderful life and a peaceful death. No man could ask for more."

Calvin, one of seven youngsters raised by Griffith and his wife, now is heir-apparent to Washington Senators, the club of which the elder Griffith had been president since 1912.

Few men have had as significant a role in the development of the sport. Griffith helped organize the American League and gave it added stature by luring the president of the United States to throw out the first pitch as far back as 1912.

THE NAME STUCK

They called Griff "the Old Fox" because of his cute antics as a pitcher. And the name stuck through a series of manoeuvres and deals that earned Senators prominence despite a dearth of big money.

With Connie Mack, former owner-manager of Philadelphia Athletics, Griffith had a high place in the hearts of baseball men. Griffith and Mack stood as the last big figures linking the sport with its early days.

Mack, ailing with a broken hip, was not advised of his old friend's death.

But from baseball men across the land came words of praise.

Dan Topping, co-owner of the New York Yankees, summarized it: "All I can say is that baseball lost a hell of a man."

Will Harridge, American League president, said: "He truly was one of the game's all-time great figures." And, he added, "I have lost a long-time friend."

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick, on a good-will tour of Japan, said that Griffith "will be long remembered for the contributions he has made to baseball."

Griffith entered Georgetown University hospital a week ago suffering from neuritis. Later he contracted stomach hemorrhages and lung congestion. After a week of apparently steady improvement, he suffered a relapse and died at 8:40 p.m EST Thursday night.

With him at his bedside were Calvin Griffith and the elderly gentleman's wife, Ann Robertson Griffith.

The Griffiths had no children, but raised seven hemorrhages, all children of Mrs. Griffith's relatives.

Griff—no one called him Griffith —had been masterminding the club up to his last days. Every deal engineered by Calvin or manager Chuck Dressen had to have Griff's final approval, and the "Old Fox" had been looking forward exactly to the 1956 season.

Born in a log cabin in Vernon county, Mo., on Nov. 20, 1865, Griff became interested in baseball at the age of 13, later pitching for

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Oct. 29, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Venus, Mercury and Moon aspects are not so auspicious today so caution is advised in all activities. An even disposition and hard work will help to produce good returns, however.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This day calls for kindly consideration of others, for patience with necessary work — and perhaps — some assurances. You can accomplish and earn time for recreation, too.

May 21 to June 21 (Gémini) — Big notations to heed now: Avoid hasty and testy remarks, quick or final client action. You and others will be happier if you show cheerfulness and a willingness to cooperate. Don't seek the unreasonable.

June 22 to June 23 (Cancer) — Moon's aspects indicates irritation's needless anxiety. But if forewarned, you should be able to thwart these tendencies. This day has good opportunities for those who seek them out.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You are advised to slow down to an intelligent and understanding pace. With proper foresight you can have a good day, though it may not be overstimulating nor too easy of accomplishment.

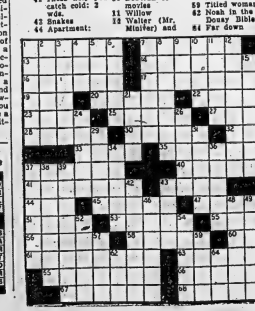
August 23 to September 21 (Virgo) — The solution of difficult mental problems and the production of brilliant ideas may not be entirely easy now. But it is well to have some so-called "off" days since they give time to replenish energy, rest and study.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Do not be inconsistent or foolhardy. Be direct, but gracious, determined in finishing matters. Take some time for diversion.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Some friendly indications though you may have to exert yourself with more adroitness than usual. Don't lose your temper. Calmness will pay off.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — If you mind is rightly trained and is kept occupied, you will not fret or worry about an occasional dull or unprofitable period. You will seek new methods, add to your knowledge and talents.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — "No one has a good market for bad merchandise." This can be applied to today's (any day's) work and activities. Good thoughts and good merchandise that will find their market.



January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — "As we must render account of every idle word, so must we likewise of our silence." A whole lot of sound sense in that saying. Make this day count strongly on the right side of judgment.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Moderation and good reasoning are needed now. Turn mediocrity into success by good management.

You born today are endowed with energy, determination, ambition; have many diversified talents. You appreciate talent, meeting people, and have admiration for those who reach positions of authority. You can accomplish a great deal yourself once you recognize the harmfulness of procrastination and correct any tendency you have to it. You have a natural gift for any speech and will strive to acquire deep knowledge of any subjects in which you are interested. You could become a fine orator; have talent for writing, acting, law, politics.

Samuel Crawford, Bancroft Boy, 8, Burned To Death

Six Others Suffer Burns As Fire Razes Their Home

Find Burglar Fast Asleep On Top of Safe

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 23-year-old porter, who apparently found unlawfulness a tiring proposition, was convicted of burglary Friday.

Employees of a motor company found Laurence H. Crowley atop an overturned six-foot-high safe — fast asleep — when they arrived for work Oct. 8, Nearby, police found a hatchet with which Court had been beating on the safe.

Court told the judge he had been drinking.

Ontario Brewery Workers Accept Big Wage Hike

TORONTO (CP) — The United Brewery Workers Union (CCL) on Friday night completed negotiations on the second of two package wage settlements which rank among the biggest ever reached in Ontario.

A contract signed with Brewers' Warehousing Ltd., gives 1,200 employees in 82 Ontario communities a three-year contract and the equivalent of a 58-cent hourly wage increase.

The union signed a similar contract covering another 1,200 brewery workers last week with Canadian Breweries Ltd. At that time a company official said it was one of the biggest settlements to be board of in recent years.

The Brewers' Warehousing contract must yet be ratified by the employees but a union official indicated it's a matter of form.

TO APRIL 1

The contract is retroactive to April 1. It gives employees a five-cent hourly wage increase from April 1, another five cents next April 1 and a further 10-cent increase April 1, 1957. In addition, a three-cent cost-of-living bonus will be incorporated into the wage rate Nov. 1.

The company agreed to pay the entire cost of an improved union plan rather than splitting it with employees. This is worth an estimated nine cents an hour, a union official said.

The company also agreed to pay a 33 weekly premium to clerks in Windsor, London, Hamilton, Toronto and Oshawa. Their hours drop soon to 8 p.m. instead of from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The union wanted the company to close in metropolitan plants at 6 p.m. to conform with hours in the rest of the province.

The company said early in negotiations it would hold firm on its refusal to discuss demands to be given a voice in certain management functions such as deciding how many cases shall work on a line.

The company agreed to keep an adequate number of men on each job but insisted it alone would determine how many were needed.

The second contract, that with Brewers' Warehousing, was signed after several days of continuous negotiation. The first was signed with Canadian Breweries only after a short strike of employees in five cities.

Brewers' Warehousing is owned by all Ontario breweries and supplies beer to hotels and to customers through its 200 retail stores.

2,000 CYPRIOT STUDENTS STONE BRITISH TROOPS

Briton Thanks Troops For Patience, Restraint

FAMAGUSTA, Cyprus (Reuters) —Two thousand students, shrieking anti-British slogans and demanding "Enosis" (union wt hGreece), today threw stones at British troops in this port city.

Troops and police took up positions outside two schools as students streamed out of their classrooms in a demonstration of protest against the British rule forbidden in similar demonstrations Friday. Two soldiers was slightly injured in the disturbance.

Meanwhile, Field Marshal Sir John Harding, British governor of Cyprus, today sent a message of thanks to the British troops for their "patience and restraint" in dealing with Friday's disturbances throughout the violence-racked island.

CURFEW LIFTED

Soon after dusk Friday night demonstrations were started at the Greek quarter of Paralimni, near Akhna, south of Famagusta, but police quickly dispersed the crowds.

The curfew in force at Limassol Friday was lifted today and will be in force only between certain hours. Incidents occur, British officials said.

Of about 900 persons arrested after the Famagusta riots, all but 28 have been released.

Canadian Design Of Naval Vessels 'Comes of Age'

MONTREAL (CP)—The chief of Canada's naval staff said today that the commissioning of the new-type destroyer escort St. Laurent marks a milestone in Canadian naval development.

Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy said the vessel's launch marks "not only the addition to the fleet of what we consider to be the most modern anti-submarine vessel in the world, but the first of a new series in our naval ship design and construction in Canada."

The naval chief spoke at the commissioning ceremonies at the ship-yard of Canadian Vickers Ltd., where the Canadian designed, 2,000-ton warship was built, the first of 16 in the series. The ceremonies were attended by many dignitaries, including Defence Minister St. Laurent. The ship is named for the river, not for the minister.

Vice - Admiral Mainguy's statements were limited to the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

WELL EQUIPPED

He said completion of the $15,000,000 atomic age vessel, which is loaded with the latest in armament, radar and sonic gear, represents the culmination of experience in a design and development effort that has progressed step by step before in Canada in this field."

The St. Laurent has rounded lines, much like those of a submarine, to help prevent icing in the Arctic. Her hull also is said to be completely sealed and operated from below decks in case of attack by atomic fall-out for two years to build. Five more of the same type are expected to be completed in 1956, five in 1957 and three in 1958.

Took Frozen Milk to Bed With Them, Thus Surviving Six Days in Arctic

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)— Three survivors, including a Canadian, of an Arctic plane crash told Friday of their survival for six days by taking frozen milk into their sleeping bags to thaw it for drinking.

They adopted the thawing technique after discovering that the frozen milk chips proved too icky to eat in the below cold of the black crash site.

R. F. Carling of Toronto, Canadian General Electric Company technician, suffered a back injury. Harold Brazell of Harpers Ferry, Iowa, a Western Electric Company technician, and Keith Lenhart of Anchorage, the pilot, were uninjured.

The men were flown to Barter Is'and, off the Arctic coast, Thursday night. A rescue party picked them up in two army-type "weasel" tracked vehicles and carried them seven miles to a landing strip.

They told members "of the U.S. Air Rescue Squadron they had to make a forced landing last Friday when the plane's carburetor iced up on a flight to a remote radar station.

Through six nights the two injured men laid Carling in the sleeping bags and then put the sleeping bags to make him as comfortable as possible. Lenhart and Brazell said they huddled together, sitting up, with one sleeping bag as a cover. They said they didn't lie down for six nights.

Their food supply was the case of fresh milk they were taking to the lonely outpost at Herschel Island.

An aerial searcher finally spotted the wreckage last Sat. of the Brooks range Wednesday.

Contracts for Highway 'Cloverleafs' and Bridges North of City Awarded

Contracts for the construction of the cloverleaf on Highway No. 14 (Maley) over Highway No. 401 north of the city and also for the bridge and approaches on Highway No. 37 (Tweed), crossing the new four-lane route, have been let by the Ontario Department of Highways.

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., for Hastings East, announced today that the J. McFarland Construction Company has been awarded the contract for the construction of the bridge and approaches over the new four-lane road on Highway 37. The contract calling for a granular base and hot mix for the approaches was awarded to the Hutton Bros at $139,420.

Construction of the cloverleaf on Highway 37 had previously been let to Peacock and McQuay Construction Company of Toronto. Somers Construction Company, Toronto, has been awarded the contract for the construction of the cloverleaf bridge on No. 14 highway and also for the grading of the short stretch of 401 highway between No. 14 highway and the Moira River. The contract also calls for paving. Amount of the Somers contract is $245,345.

Work on both projects will commence immediately.

Rival Plans for Regional Settlement Before Big 4

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union and the Western powers squared off today for a propaganda battle over German unity and European security—with no agreement that they will be able in the present Geneva meeting to begin seriously resolving their differences on these vital issues.

The Big Four foreign ministers' conference in the third week has already has developed a stalemate so complete on the German and security that diplomats say it is impossible to believe that practical negotiations can get under way in the near future.

In such circumstances, the arguments made by the foreign ministers here logically will be directed not toward persuading each other's minds but toward rallying public support, particularly in Germany, for their respective positions.

ARGUING FOR PEACE

Each side now is prepared to argue that its own plan for Europe and Germany is the best method for assuring peace.

Behind the propaganda fight, the existence of which neither side officially admits—appear to be contradictory aims and strategy under which shape up this way:

1. The Western powers believe they may eventually persuade Russia to accept German reunification on Western terms if they apply firm and patient pressure over several years. They reason that Russia needs a period of peace and international prestige while the Russians will, if necessary, pay a considerable price for it.

2. Russia for some months has been manoeuvring to obtain a truce in the Cold War in order to relieve world tensions, put the Western powers off guard, weaken the North Atlantic Treaty and concentrate on its own internal economic problems. Having achieved considerable relaxation of tension, especially since last July's conference of Big Four government leaders, Russia now is under pressure to hold what it has gained without giving up any territory or position of great value.

World opinion is important for both sides.

The Western powers may employ it as a means of pressure to inch the Soviet Union toward agreement on what they want.

Nonetheless, Germany is more important for Russia than for Western allies in the Western camp it almost entirely a matter of public opinion, and a reversal for the Western powers in this field could wipe out the gains they have already made.

The negotiations stalemate in the Big Four parley was defined clearly Friday when the Western ministers introduced their compromise plan for German reunification and European security, and when Foreign Minister Molotov presented the European security plan.

Molotov's program virtually was word for word the same as that which the West by now knows at the July "summit" meeting.

It called for an end to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and creation of an all-European security system, and for the withdrawal of divided Germany would each have membership.

Molotov said he would make proposals on Germany later, but that the way to settle the German problem was first to agree on European security and the end of what he called "military groupings."

The Western program took precedence in Thursday's session.

It called first for a solution of the Soviet-German conflicts creation and offered security guarantees for Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Security would become fully effective only after Germany had been united and had agreed to join NATO.

Flying Police Squads Formed To Beat Growing Gang Menace

TORONTO (CP)—If more teenage gangs break out in lakeshore communities around Toronto, police flying squads will be on the scene within minutes, authorities said today.

Police say a plan has been worked out by forces along the lakeshore to defeat a growing gang menace.

The squads were organized after four Toronto youths were severely pummelled and kicked last week trying to break up a midnight fight between teen-aged gangs.

Friday night young hoodlums from Toronto's east end were trouble in Toronto township were watched continually by police. Police said more than 20 teen-agers were lined up at one time with hands above their heads as they were searched for weapons. One youth was arrested.

Police said they had been warned a gang from Toronto was planning to wreck an emergency housing centre at nearby Lakeview. A Halton County Council meeting at the centre was cancelled because of the threatened attack.

They estimated more than 200 Toronto youths reached the area during the evening. Six police officers on duty all night kept them under surveillance.

Dan Mount, 18, of Toronto was arrested and charged with having an offensive weapon, a six-inch spring knife.

Police said they have reports some of the hoodlums have zip guns—home-made weapons firing .22-calibre bullets.

Lakeshore teen-agers say gangs arriving from the east end of Toronto wear "stomping boots," fitted with steel heels and toenails for kicking people.

Japan Will Sell Arms to Egypt If U.S. Approves

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese industry spokesman today said Japan intends to try to sell armaments to Egypt, but all contracts will be submitted to the United States for approval.

"Of course we will make overtures to Egypt, and we are certain that Japan can manufacture and sell arms to Egypt," said the spokesman for the Federation of Economic Organizations composed of all major Japanese business firms.

The spokesman said Japan is seeking arms markets in southeast Asia and elsewhere to help keep industries running, since American purchasing in Japan "by next year will almost peter out."

TOOK 100 ASPIRIN

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Regina Carter, 15, died Friday after swallowing 100 aspirins, coroner E. L. Smith reported. Members of her family said they could give no reason for the girl's action.

Police said if a riot broke out 75 officers could be on the spot within five minutes under the flying squad plan. Police at Etobicoke, Mimico, Swansea, Long Branch and Port Credit are in the plan.

CZECH EMBASSY UNDER EAGLE EYE OF MOUNTIES

Said Legation Tried To Recruit Agent

OTTAWA (CP)—The eagle eye of the RCMP's counter - espionage branch is trained on the Czechoslovakian and Polish legations here.

A report that the Czech legation tried to recruit a Toronto Czech as an undercover agent is being investigated by the force.

It was also learned Friday that the special branch for some time has been following up reports that the legations of Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia are attempting to lure immigrants from those countries back to their homelands.

Also under investigation is that some immigrants have been threatened with reprisals against their relatives if they didn't return.

The Toronto Star Friday quoted George Blemberg, 29 - year - old Czech refugee, as saying that he was asked by two officials of the Czech legation to collect information about well-known Canadian Czechs.

IDENTIFIED OFFICIALS

He said the two officials — he identified them as third secretary Antonin Dvorak and cultural attache Ludvik Svoboda — told him that if his work was satisfactory he would be taken on as a full-time agent in this field could wipe out the gains they have already made.

The negotiations stalemate in the Big Four parley was defined clearly Friday when the Western ministers introduced their compromise plan for German reunification and European security, and when Foreign Minister Molotov presented the European security plan.

Molotov's program virtually was word for word the same as that which the West by now knows at the July "summit" meeting.

It called for an end to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and creation of an all-European security system, and for the withdrawal of divided Germany would each have membership.

Molotov said he would make proposals on Germany later, but that the way to settle the German problem was first to agree on European security and the end of what he called "military groupings."

The Western program took precedence in Thursday's session.

It called first for a solution of the Soviet-German conflicts creation and offered security guarantees for Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Security would become fully effective only after Germany had been united and had agreed to join NATO.

No Enlargement Of Eisenhower's Heart Is Found

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower, past another important recovery milestone, has undergone a hospital conference today with Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson.

The president's doctors reported that now 4 days discloses no enlargement of his heart—and termed that the most significant single development of the week in his case.

The scheduled Eisenhower-Benson conference took on the aspect of a farm-policy session at first—affords the recuperating president an opportunity to say just how he feels about Ezra Benson et al Benson—and to make it clear whether he wants him to stay on in the cabinet.

The storm raging around Benson is linked to falling farm prices—a decline for which he contends the Democratic administration is not responsible.

Princess and Townsend in Country, Seen Facing 'Weekend of Decision'

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret and Peter Townsend were in the country today, and British newspapers spoke of the "weekend of decision" in their romance.

The princess, pale and serious, slipped quietly out of London Friday night after a 50-minute talk with the Queen at Buckingham Palace.

Special police detachments turned off traffic lights to red to hold up trailing reporters as Margaret's car moved out of the palace and headed south.

Townsend left London about the same time. Queen Elizabeth's private shake off pursuing reporters as he headed for the countryside.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT

There was no official announcement of the whereabouts of the principals in the widely followed and hotly debated romance. But by late evening heavy police patrols surrounded Uckfield House, the Sussex home of Lord and Lady Rupert Nevill, close friends of both the Royal Family and Townsend.

A Buckingham Palace vehicle earlier delivered luggage embossed with Margaret's cypher to the house, and the princess' personal detective stood guard at the gates.

The Queen took the overnight train for Scotland to join her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, who flew there early Friday. They plan to return Sunday evening.

The Daily Express says "these meetings, followed by dispersal of the Royal Family, revive reports that a momentous decision is involved about Princess Margaret's future."

Israeli, Egyptian Troops Move Into Demilitarized Zone

Further Border Violations Are Alleged by Both Sides

Are There No Men and Women Left in Land?

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel and Egypt today exchanged charges of new troop violations of the tense El Auja demilitarized border zone, which United Nations truce officials strove to neutralize a month ago.

Israeli officials here said two companies of Egyptian troops, about 300 men, had crossed Israel's territory along the El Auja-Nizzana border, about 45 miles south of Gaza, Friday. The Israelis said they set up an outpost in the zone in retaliation for the alleged Egyptian incursion.

CEASE FACT BROKEN

The Israeli foreign ministry issued a statement saying the two Egyptian companies reinforced two other Egyptian units which already had set up strongpoints in the zone. They said the moves were made "in disregard of the armistice agreements and of promises made by Egypt" to Canadian Major-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief of the UN truce observers, Sept. 27. Since then Burns has been pleading with both sides to observe the truce's neutrality.

Egypt sent Burns a note asking him to call on Egypt to withdraw from the position it allegedly had taken up during the Israeli incursious withdrawal by the Israeli troops.

Egyptian officials in Cairo claimed that the Israeli troops had penetrated Egyptian land "deliberately on Egyptian territory, which they occupied last month on orders from Burns.

AFTER CAMP DESERTERS

The latest reported penetrations came less than 24 hours after Israeli raiders destroyed an Egyptian army camp across the border at Kuntilla, south of El Auja. The Israelis said 10 Egyptian soldiers were killed and 20 captured in the attack.

Cairo said four Egyptians and four Israelis were killed, after which the Israeli force was driven off. Egypt made a strong protest to the UN-sponsored Egypt-Israeli mixed armistice commission.

At UN headquarters in New York Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi repeated previous claims that Israel was guilty of attacking Israel and is trying to maintain peace along the border.

Railroad Man Saar Premier

SAARBRUECKEN (AP) — Heinrich Welsch, a 67-year-old railroad man, was named Premier designate of the Saar by its parliament today. His selection represented a compromise between pro-German parties and the groups which contend the Saar is independent.

Welsch succeeds pro-French Johannes Hoffmann, who resigned as premier after Chancellor Adenauer last Sunday against a French-German plan for a pro-European Saar and industry-rich border territory.

The new premier will be in office until the government until new elections are held Dec. 18.

Doubt Death Of Worker Was Accidental

NORTH BUXTON, Ont. (CP)— Doubt as to whether the death of Francis Harding, a happy-go-lucky farmer of this small tobacco community, was accidental was expressed Friday by some residents of the area a mile south of Chatham.

The 32-year-old railway employee's mangled body was found Wednesday near a culvert on the west of the New York Central line near here.

His youngest brother, Medesty Harding, 23, said "I'm sure my brother had no real enemies" anywhere along the line and if I have to sell my house to raise the money I'm going to find whoever killed whom."

Buxton's doubts stem principally from the fact the dead man's wallet was found empty near a pail of milk he had bought at the store Wednesday. The second is that Harding carried $1,000 in cash with on a railroad that he knew so well. Having just received his wage of 1947 and living within 50 yards of it as he did.

With the sounding of the alarm firemen from both stations were away to the believed scene of the fire. The nets got away as quickly that the management at Lanning's did not have time to head off the run with a telephone report that the firemen were not required.

The only other run reported by firemen was a call to Howard St. for an over-heated stove.

Fox Crusade Closes Fourth Week on Sunday

By petition of the large audiences attending the Lorne F. Fox Party Salvation and Healing Crusade, Mr. Fox and his group made last minute changes in plans, in order to extend their services through the month. The campaign has witnessed capacity attendances with several hundreds turned away on every occasion, at the Collegiate auditorium. The extra week has added substantially to the many hundreds of people who have professed Christian conversion in the previous days of the campaign. The Full Gospel churches of the Belleville area, which have sponsored this series of meetings, have expressed deep satisfaction for the over-all results for the Crusade.

Sunday will definitely conclude the Crusade with two rallies in the Collegiate. At 7.30 p.m., The Fox Party musical ensemble will present a festival of sacred music. Included on the program, Ruth L. Fox, contralto, will sing "The Lord's Prayer" and "Open the Gates of the Temple."

Evangelist Lorne Fox, who is also a gospel musician pianist and organist in addition to his preaching ability, will present his original pianoforte arrangement to "The Holy City." Vocal quartets and the Hawaiian guitar ensemble, featuring Ray and Aden Troyer, will add to the program. The Rev. Mr. Fox will speak on the subject "I Men in Belleville That Cannot Be Saved". The evening service will climax with prayer for the sick.

At 2.15 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Mr. Fox will speak on the subject "All Speak with Tongues?" An anointing for service line will highlight this rally.

Mortgage on Shrine Temple Burned by Jubilant Members

Part of the documented history of the Shrine Club here went up in smoke last night, but the way the Sirines themselves figure, it was a blaze of glory.

For last night the club burned the mortgage on its temple at 51 Highland Avenue, with pride and a dash of justified self-congratulating the organization here at last had fully come into its own.

For the first time since its foundation just 11 years ago, the Shrine Temple are independent owners of all they survey in the Highland Avenue property, first taken over by them in 1946.

Several notables among the nobility of Shriners in this part of the world were on hand to witness the big event, together with a full turnout of Belleville Shriners themselves.

Heading up the list of the distinguished guests was R. Arnold Hall, Toronto, Potentate of the Ramses Temple, Toronto.

The mortgage was sent up in flames shortly after dinner.

Previous to that, the gathering witnessed the president of the club, Jack Bush, who thanked the various committees for their help in achieving the point of success signalled by the burning.

Mr. Bush also announced that the club this year has given $1,500 to the Belleville General Hospital to equip a three-bed room for paediatrics in its new wing. And a further gift of $1,000 to defray the hospital's building fund.

TRACES GROWTH OF CLUB

T. Storey, past-president and a chief Rabban of Ramses, then traced the birth and growth of the Shrine movement in Belleville. He recalled in its first meeting in the quarters of the Board of Commerce in 1946. About a year later the club moved to Campbell Street, into the present ones now occupied by Dr. R. J. Seed. The following year it settled down in its present quarters on Highland Avenue. With that move came an end to any shiftlessness in the club's make-up. It had at last found its own permanent residence and went hard to work to put things into proper and comfortable shape for posterity as well as the present.

However there was still the mortgage to pay off, but last night with the burning of that document to the club at last could truly call its home its own.

In a speech, specially prepared for the occasion, Potentate Taylor recalled to mind the aims of the organization and spoke on its crippled children's program—a field in which Shriners do not allow any grass to grow under their feet. Their aims in this direction are a spring of ceaseless work and achievement.

Potentate Taylor also showed a film on the Canadian All-Star game last year.

Among those present were past-potentates of Ramesses Temple H. B. McConnell, S. Richener Smith, Alec Brown and Dr. Cecil Mackie Madoc. Members of the Ramesses Temple band, assisted by Gordon Rabban; C. A. Fraser, High Priest; J. J. Carey, Oriental Guide; W. H. Massey, treasurer, Ramesses Temple, and C. M. Edwards, recorder for the Temple.

Brockville Trims Cornwall 10-2

Brockville unleashed a high-powered attack at home last night to whip Cornwall 10-2 in an O.H.A. Eastern Ontario Senior "B" fixture. This was the first game for both teams in the 40 game schedule.

As a result of last night's action, Whitby lead the pack with a win and a tie, Brockville Cornwall with one victory, Kingston hold third on the basis of a tie while Belleville and Cornwall have occupied one game each in as many starts.

Brockville had a narrow edge in the opening period last night and it held a 3-1 lead at the period's end. This was a rough twenty minutes. The middle session was rough, slaughter with Brockville upping the score to 6-2. This period was more even than the first despite Brockville's scoring edge.

The third and final period saw Brockville rip home four unanswered goals as play became wild and rugged. Three penalties each between Brockville fans and Cornwall players at the 17 minute mark and action was halted until order was restored.

Children Ready To Celebrate Hallowe'en

Cries of "Shell out!" will barrage the ears of city and district residents here Monday as hundreds of children celebrate Hallowe'en in the traditional manner.

Already a hint of things to come is to be seen in city stores, retailing in a fireworthy and weird get-upe of Hallowe'en costumes and masks which reveal the true spirit of the occasion since time immemorial.

Ghoulish headdresses, every part of fancy dress from the realm of horror are meeting good sales in stores, and it is evident that this year the session will be as gay and colorful as any Hallowe'en past, if not more so.

On the adult side of the celebration, parents already are stocking up on the candies and fruits used in answer to the "Shell out!" pleas. All in all, it looks like the young ghosties and goblins will be in for an enjoyable night time in the old town Monday night as providing they watch after their p's and q's and behave, that is, there are no ill effects to any of them from overeating or from the night with highway traffic.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE S. FOSTER

I WILL SING OF MY REDEEMER

I will sing of my Redeemer
And His wondrous love to me;
On the cruel cross He suffered,
From the curse to set me free.

I will tell the wondrous story,
How my lost estate to save,
In His boundless love and mercy,
He the ransom freely gave.

I will praise my dear Redeemer,
His triumphant power I'll tell,
How the victory He giveth
Over sin, and death, and hell.

I will sing of my redeemer,
And His heavenly love to me;
He from death to life hath brought me,
Son of God, with Him to be.

The hymn, "I Will Sing Of My Redeemer", might well have been the theme song of Philip Bliss if it had been written at the beginning instead of near the end of his gospel singing career.

For, all his life, Mr. Bliss loved to sing of his Redeemer and his song through the years helped thousands of non-Christians to find their way to the Savior. Sometimes songs were sung in the Dwight L. Moody revivals, sometimes in the meetings of that other great evangelist. Major D.W. Whittle. And, when he wasn't singing, Mr. Bliss usually was busy writing new gospel hymns or creating music for someone else's verses.

"Hold The Fort!", "Pull For The Shore!" "Wonderful Words Of Life" and a host of other gospel songs came from his own pen. So many of them written for use in the evangelistic meetings to which he gave so many of his best years.

The verses of "I will Sing Of My Redeemer" were written shortly before his death the and Mrs. Bliss were killed in an Ohio train crash in 1876) and were set to music by his friend and fellow singer, James McGranahan. Mr. McGranahan later took up the torch of writing song which Bliss had dropped, and wrote many new and popular evangelistic songs of his own.

Bulletins From Birdland

WARBLERS' WAYS

Warbler migration is about coming to an end now. The vanguard started off around the 10th of August, and waves of them have been passing through settled Canada off and on ever since.

Warblers are remarkably regular in their date of departure. For instance, yellow warblers always go the last week of August. Myrtles are generally the first to come and the last to leave; occasionally one may be found in our southern districts when winter has set in.

As there are something like 37 different kinds of warblers in Canada at one time or another, naturally, one description will not cover all of them, nor can they be expected to have the same habits. However, it is safe to say that they are all small (few over 5¼ inches), with tiny bills, sprightly actions, and bright colors. This family is peculiar to the Americas. Most of them best in our northern forests, beyond civilization; a few spend the summer where we are able to find them, and some just make Canadian soil.

All our warblers are migratory, but they winter in various places, from the United States fairly near our southern boundary, to Brazil in South America.

FAVORITE FLYWAY

Each species has its favorite flyway, and its own winter quarters. Yet they like travelling companions, and so they often gather in large flocks (sometimes several hundred at a time) made up of several kinds of warblers. The thing is, those that travel together must have similar food preferences, so that they can stop over at the same restaurants. Six or eight different kinds are sometimes noted feeding in one tree. And, by the way, they have definite places for resting and feeding that are apt to be used each year.

Little warblers are among the birds that fly by night as they require to see the tiny insects which constitute their food. They may join mixed flocks of other night travellers, and consequently can be found in daylight feeding with such birds as flickers, chickadees, Juncos, kinglets, and robins. A thousand or so individuals are occasionally discovered concentrated in a comparatively small section of woods.

Not all warblers are "good mixers". Black-and-whites migrate unusually slowly and regularly, advancing about the same amount each day. Cape Mays all spend the winter in the small island of Hispaniola, whether they nested in one of our middle west provinces, Nova Scotia, or Michigan.

A Lift For Living

Planning Soul Enlargement

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Do we feel hemmed in by our littleness, by some cramping situation, by the suffering of our souls?

A shoemaker recently won $32,000. Hard to imagine a much more confining and narrowing job than that of a cobbler, isn't it?

But that man who mended shoes with his hands set his mind to learning opera. He lived in a gracious world of song and beauty, and became so familiar with great operatic arias and singers that he answered the TV show questions to win the coveted prize. His thoughts lifted him out of littleness into largeness.

John Bunyan, from a cell in Bedford Jail, caught the vision of the Eternal City and wrote "Pilgrim's Progress." When a man has God with him, "stone walls do not a prison make."

A second thing God can do to lift us out of our littleness is enlarge our natures. It is most interesting to see a person occupying a prominent position and presenting an imposing front, only to find on closer acquaintance that he has a little nature. On the other hand, it is not heartening and refreshing to meet a modest, humble person possessed of a really great nature? And what do we mean by a big nature? For one thing, that largeness of mind which is above the slavery of smallness, pettiness, penury and little criticisms.

MODEL HUSBAND

Some time ago a woman wrote me asking if I could not preach some down-to-earth practical sermons on how to live with a nagging and disagreeable husband. I don't know whether I have had enough experience with husbands like that to be very helpful, for you see, in the home where I live the husband is almost a model. At least, that's what I think!

However, it is not hard to see what that harassed woman is having to endure...There she is, going through those household duties which are drudgery unless inspired by love and lightened by appreciation. And her husband does not give her credit for solving the difficulties she faces at market in these days of high living costs, and probably does not give her enough cash. Perhaps he has allowed the romance of that marriage to be drained away by dripping criticisms and dull morose silences. Little natures are so hard to live with in the same house!

When God is really Head of the house, as some old framed mottoes used to say, He inculcates a gospel of judgement in a willingness to give the benefit of the doubt to those who misunderstand us, to grant days of grace to those who are in debt to us.

ENLARGE OUR NATURES

And the Lord can enlarge our natures by making us magnanimous. William Hazlitt once said that of all virtues, magnanimity is the rarest, for there are a hundred persons of merit to one who will acknowledge merit in others. It takes a big nature to be magnanimous enough to forgive those who injure us, but a man is below himself if he is not above such insults. It was the ambition of Cotton Mather to be able to say that he did not know of any one who had done him an ill office to whom he had not done a good one in return.

Perhaps the most difficult side of soul-enlargement is being delivered from jealousy and envy. Jealousy is such a mean little sin. As Shakespeare said, "Jealousy is a sin which does not fill up a gulf but gets itself in a crack."

We are not often jealous of a person who is far ahead of us, but of someone in our immediate circle who has just out-stripped us a little. That is why jealousy often gets into a family, profession, or social circle.

LOOK BEYOND RIVALS

The Lord can lift us out of the littleness of jealousy by showing us how unworthy and petty it is, when there is so much room in the world for worthy effort and satisfying rewards. He enlarges the range of our comparisons so we look beyond our rivals and take our measurements before God.

When Dr. F.B. Meyer first began addressing the Northfield Conference, he drew great crowds. Some time later, Dr. G. Campbell Morgan became a visiting speaker at Northfield and was so popular his congregations surpassed those of Dr. Meyer. Meyer confessed that at first he was jealous of Morgan. He said: "The only way I can conquer feeling is to pray for him daily, which I do."

Yes, the Psalmist was right when he said, "When I was hemmed in Thou hast freed me often."

Hallowe'en Masquerade

By NANCY CLEAVER

Hallowe'en spells all kinds of good times for boys and girls—carving pumpkin faces and cutting out black witches with their broomsticks and great black cats with yellow eyes. But perhaps the most fun of all for younger children, and older ones too, is dressing up. The youngsters love to make calls on the home in the neighborhood in gala array.

Mother and Dad might suggest that there are more courteous ways to ask for a treat to eat than "Shell...out!" shouted in raucous voice.

In some communities damage to public and private property the last day of October by juveniles has become a problem. In quite a number of areas a service club or some other group interested in youth has made a successful attempt to channel high spirits and the desire for fun into more acceptable activities.

A masquerade party, with good music, refreshments and prizes, is quite a big order. It requires skilled leadership and co-operation in planning by the young people themselves. But it meets the urge of adolescents to gang together and "raise whoopee" Hallowe'en night.

Some tee-agers are quite happy in a hastily made outfit, while others will go to quite a lot of trouble to plan and make an original costume. Flour bags, old sheets and burlap material, such as is used in sacks; can all be dyed vivid or pastel shades at a very low cost. "I love dyeing!" one girl exclaimed, "you sure see results for your work."

REMAKE COSTUME

Often a daughter can use material in a discarded dress by washing it, ripping it and remaking it along the lines she wants. Sometimes a grandmother or aunt also is willing to loan, for a special gala night, clothes worn many years ago.

But "dressing up" should not be confined to Hallowe'en. A boy or girl enjoys pretending he or she is someone else. This is part of the attraction of drama clubs. Even little children love to act out a fairy tale or nursery rhymes on a stormy Saturday when they must stay indoors.

Mothers save themselves a lot of work if they will set aside an old trunk of a large box or carton of odds and ends for costumes. Not only dresses and suits, but gloves, scarves, hats, shoes, purses, etc., are all useful. Let Junior and Janey sort among this material and contrive their own outfits. A "make-over" does wonders for their satisfaction in the effects produced. The more originality and effort they put into dressing up, the more fun they will have!

VIEWS VARY ON CITY MANAGER'S DUTY

The executive and finance committee of the city council has been authorized to outline the duties and responsibilities of a city manager and to set the salary range for this position.

Its report will be required reading for every Belleville resident who wishes to be able to cast a well-informed vote, if he or she is ever given an opportunity to express at the polls an opinion about this matter.

It is relatively simple to define the duties of a city engineer or city treasurer and to suggest a suitable salary range, because these positions have existed for years in municipalities of varying size across Canada.

There is nothing easy, though, in the task facing the executive and finance committee in dealing with the position of a city manager. There are too few city managers in Canada to have established a pattern for the responsibilities of such an official. City managers are more numerous in the United States, but it is debatable whether American methods can be considered applicable, without considerable modification, to Canadian conditions.

There are some Canadians who consider that a city manager should be a type of benevolent dictator, with the power to overrule the decisions of an elected Council, yet with some sort of a magic touch which would still preserve democracy in the municipal sphere.

There are others who believe that a city manager should meekly follow the orders of the council, without even offering suggestions, but still by some mysterious method actually manage the affairs of the municipality.

There are those who believe that a city manager should be a civil engineer who also possesses sufficient comprehensive knowledge of municipal law and is "a man of sound business judgment, good common sense and pleasant personality."

There are those who think that a city manager needs only just enough knowledge of engineering, law, finance and public relations to enable him to keep both the council and the ratepayers happy.

There is thrill a wide range of possibilities as to what the report of the executive committee and finance committee will recommend should be recognized as the responsibilities for a city manager in Belleville.

The council acted wisely in tying in the setting of a salary range with definitions of a city manager's duties. The salary must be made to match the responsibilities, with every effort being exerted to make it compatible to salaries paid for positions with similar responsibilities elsewhere, which may involve the necessity of not paying overly much attention to salaries paid city officials here in the past.

It will strike many Belleville citizens that while the usefulness of a city manager will necessarily be limited to the field of his responsibilities, it will also be true that there will be a natural limiting factor. That will be the salary range. An employer generally gets just what he pays for.

Generally speaking, it is probable that if the job is well done, the more expensive a job of managing that is purchased by the council, the greater will be the saving in the long run.

If we are to have a city manager, it is not a question of whether we can afford the best but of whether we can afford anything else.

If we want the best, we ought to be prepared to pay for it, within reason. It will almost certainly prove the cheapest way.

Another good principle is to move with caution in making important decisions. And the selection of a city manager is one of the most important decisions to face city council in many years. There is no necessity for haste. The decision could well be held in abeyance to permit citizens several weeks to study the proposed responsibilities of a city manager.

LET US BUILD OUR OWN ROADS

United States highway officials are said to be convinced that a toll highway across southern Ontario, from Windsor to Fort Erie, would be "logical and feasible."

They think that it is an inevitable development and that traffic would be heavy enough for the road to pay its way.

Perhaps they are right.

It could be added that, because of the geographic location of southern Ontario, U. S. highway officials have a very real interest in the construction of such a road. It would be a direct link between Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo. It would link Michigan with the New York toll highway system.

It may strike some people that if the Americans desire the construction of this road and if they are convinced that tolls would pay for it, they could demonstrate their faith by financing the project.

That, however, would be the type of "easy" solution which would be likely to produce a flock of unforeseen headaches.

Whether toll road or freeway, let's build our own highways.

SMART DOG

I've read and heard and understand
When I've a growing dog to teach
I should be sharp when I command,
And positive and short of speech.
I've tried to teach him tricks in vain.
That he is smart I can't deny.
Too oft that dog has made it plain
That he is smarter than am I.

He knows, if he's content to wait
At table, where he shouldn't be,
I'll share with him what's on my plate;
No charge, but absolutely free.
"Roll over!" to order disobeyed.
Why work for what you needn't earn?
If man to learn is so afraid
Why any lesson try to learn?

He knows that always he'll be fed;
That he can freely come and go;
That I am soft of heart and head
And that is quite enough to know.
So there he is as yet untrained,
My simplest order he'll defy.
To friends the reason I've explained:
My dog is smarter than am I.

OFF THE RECORD

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 29, 1935

Mrs. Cyril Mott has left for her home in Sudbury after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Cherrie, Charles Street.

Miss Jessie Wellmaks, Redcerville, Miss Iva Horton, Corbyville, Miss Hazel Thompson, Belleville, Miss Ina Horton, Corbyville, Miss Minnie Moorecroft, Belleville, Miss Mae Reynolds, Corbyville and Miss Melissa Reid, Belleville, spent the weekend in Toronto attending the Young People's Convention.

Rev. Stanley Russell, pastor of the Ontario Provincial Police, Sudbury, was home to spend the weekend.

At the coming municipal elections the voters will be asked to vote on the question of daylight saving. The ballot will read: "Are you in favor of daylight saving time in this city from the first Friday in May to the date of the Belleville Fair for the years 1936 and 1937?"

The local option petition which has been received by city clerk, J. Wilfrid Holmes, will be laid before the city council at its next meeting.

As a result of the canvass in the city for the Belleville Red Cross Society the sum of $2,000, has been raised. In addition to this amount there is to be added the grant to be made by the city council and further contributions which were collected on Trafalgar Day. It is estimated that the total amount will exceed $2,000. The city council will probably raise $5,000, by debenture.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A couple of weeks ago, I went for a 1400 mile drive through the most beautiful autumn - painted mountains to be seen anywhere on earth: The Adirondacks, the Green, White and Berkshires - all part of the Appalachian chain. As mountains, they do not compare at all with the Canadian Rockies. But where the Rockies show massive eruptions of rock, pinnacled and streaked part way with fingers of snow and pine, the eastern mountains have declicious trees in most cases to their summits. Where the Rockies have a frigid majesty, the Appalachians have a warm nobility. Carried away by the beauty of the country, hour by hour and day by day, I began to wonder why eastern Americans in such great numbers come to Canada as tourists when they have such expanses of obviously glorious wilderness at their own.

A small-town banker who was cashing some traveller's checks for me gave me the general answer.

"It really isn't wild any more," he explained "It's beautiful, all right; but the deer are protected and herded, the fish in the streams are planted, everything is counted, a census is taken. See what I mean?" I saw what he meant, so going into these mountains, we feel like spectators. It's in Italy or Mexico beautiful color slides But do you see that picture?"

He polished to an old fashioned framed photograph on the bank wall, the portrait of a stern-looking old man.

"He was the founder of this bank," said the manager. "And over seventy years ago, he and a bunch of his cronies and fellow businessmen here, right in the heart of the Adirondacks, went and leased a big area in Quebec for a fishing and hunting club. Seventy years ago, in the mid-eighties. Well, I myself always spend my vacation in Canada."

It is not for scenery, then, that our tourists come each year bringing some hundreds of millions of dollars, which they leave, taking little but sunburn and snapshots in exchange.

Or is it fish, deer, moose, ducks and grouse?

Canadians, in general, and not just the sportsmen, are conservationists amongst us, must soon learn to appreciate what attracts our visitors.

Cynical About Women

A cynical friend says—women think they can run the world yet have to hire somebody to wash their own hair.

Are Englishmen Taciturn?

(The Times of London)

Another myth has taken its departure. If we are to believe Mr. Frank Milton, he who London magistrate, the taciturn Englishman is a being of the past. "We all," Mr. Milton is reported to have said, "have the habit of talking too much." There are talkers and talkers and a great deal depends on the occasion.

Set the average Englishman down unexpectedly — or even after dinner when he has had a couple of Atlantic telephone conversation about nothing in particular and it is astonishing how quickly he dries up. The opening courtesies last barely a minute, the weather is disposed of in fifteen seconds, and then there is the Awful Pause.

This, however, might almost be regarded as a public occasion, but let us take another in which even within his own home at the tea table — the Englishman is at his most favourable example: breakfast table conversation is definitely out of order — many of the Englishman's sentences are more than five words long.

It has been said more than once that the real success of the BBC's original Brains Trust was not that it uncovered many brains but that much information that stuck — except in the memory — was how a fly lands on the ceiling — but that it did suddenly reveal to millions of listeners that they were not alone in their conversation could be.

It is not that we have become a voluble nation merely since 1940. But even though to-day eight Englishmen are getting into a completely empty train or in a country platform are still likely to get into eight different carriages there has been a breaking down of reserve and barriers. If, by mischance, two of them do begin to get into the same carriage, it is just possible they will indulge in conversation.

The choice of the Englishman in these speculations is deliberate. Let us face up to it frankly. He has developed a voice that lends itself to prolonged hearing with pleasant modulations. The Scot and the Welsh can all beat him hopelessly at that game.

There was once a board of directors who, whenever they had anything particularly unpleasant to convey, always chose their Scotch director. They had come to the conclusion that even the most unwelcome things said in a Scottish accent sounded more tuneful and more acceptable than in any other.

And granted the truth of all the facts about American vigor and American enterprise the question does sometimes pop into the mind whether the timbre of the American voice (accent is another matter) has not something to do with the impression created. Through a kind of auto-suggestion it may be that we have got the Americans that way themselves.

It would be easy to end by pointing out that there has, so far as the British Isles are concerned, been a good of "the taciturn Englishman" but that, surely, is not entirely gallant but untruthful. For the fact is that, on the whole, it is the men who are the talkers of the world, as any one who goes about with ears to hear will know.

Lady Docker Not Admired

(Vancouver Sun)

Dear Lady Norah Docker. How dare you, at your age, attempt to upholster her $40,000, gold-plated Daimler coupe with six zebra skins. We do so agree with her, indeed we do — mink is fine but to zebra we are certain, also, that London's thousands who lined the streets to see Princess Anne's British automobile show told her so. Beside's mink's so common.

There are some occasions when we wonder deeply what's wrong with the social set-up. Some years ago publicity seeking of Lady Norah has made us feel a great deal. We have thought about slums all over the world. We have thought about starving. We have thought about the sweated and the underprivileged. Then we come to the conclusion that a little more knowledge, a little more with leisure, education and opportunities for the poor would change things. So, coming round to the problem like a squirrel in a treadmill cage, we then find ourselves asking, what is the matter with the world and those privileged to help put things right?

On all occasions we find, although we hate ourselves for saying it, is "Lady Docker".

Conformity Mental Menace

(Montreal Gazette)

Psychiatrist Karl Menninger, one of the famous Menninger brothers of Kansas, is quoted in Newsweek as saying he is increasingly satisfied with "psychosis" categories of "mental health," terms like schizophrenia, manic - depressive psychosis, melancholia, paranoia.

"A few of the suspect," he says, "that there is essentially only one kind of mental disorder — the unsuccessful effort to maintain some measure of emotional equilibrium in the face of severe disturbing stress."

In his recent book, "The Sane Society," the eminent psychologist Erich Fromm identified the major mental disorder of our time as the imposition of conformity. The sane society, he says, is democracy, in which "well-adjusted" to his community, his job, his superiors, his ideals.

Wrong, says Fromm. This theory is based on a fallacy of contemporary theory. "Mental health cannot be defined in terms of the adjustment' of the individual to his society: on the contrary, it must be defined in terms of the adjustment of society to the needs of man."

A couple of wry cartoons have received Menninger's new label with relish. Any conformity, in one, is a family is watching TV, but one child continues to read a book. There must be something the matter with him," comments the group. He doesn't want to fight with anyone during recess."

Does this mean that the "progressive education" idea, which allows the child "free expression" without disciplines, guards him against adult frustration? Not at all. The worst of the "free expression" theory is that it tends to deny the reassuring walls of disciplines and order that children need, to give him in the less tangible, less un-own understandable ring of conformity. being.

Scotland Yard Got Its Man

(By Wallace Reyburn, writing from London for the Toronto Telegram)

The tiniest of clues can bring a murderer to justice. Take this latest example of the way Scotland Yard's methods get their man.

A woman living in Potters Barbut outside London, took her dog for a walk one morning on a local golf course. When it got late she had not returned and her husband became worried and notified the police. Next morning the body was carefully found beside one of the trees.

The police had practically nothing to work on. Only tangible clue was that the dog had eaten a portion of the print of someone's bloodstained hand — less than half the size of a man's. It left a faint marker which they reasoned the murderer must have left the hand on when getting up after the assault.

As an amateur detective, how would you set about tracing the murderer from that minute clue? Well, Detective Inspector Scotland Yard went about it was like this. They felt sure the murderer was a local man so they put a team of their backroom boys to work checking the hands of every man in the district. They wound up with 27,000 prints of the right and left hands of 9,989 men. Then they sat down to laborious and routine work and check it against the fragment on the dog's paw.

For four months they worked—eyes downcast, shoulders bent, magnifying glasses literally straining their eyes over the thousands of prints. They had no machine specially fitted to take the strain off their eyes. They had to do everything by hand than comparing a fingerprint left on the scene of a crime with those of a suspect. It was a matter of way of knowing what part of the hand was handed print. Each print had been made from, so it also had the frustrating aspect of trying to fit a piece into a jigsaw puzzle.

Even at the end of those four months they were nowhere near in sight of solving the problem. They had studied only 4,603 of them — without success. But the detective in charge was handed print 4,604 had been examining it for only a few minutes. He looked at it, jumped up excitedly and exclaimed: "I've got it. This is it!"

It was correct and double-checked and finally, although the identification print was found on a youth living in the area.

Confronted with this evidence, he confessed, pleaded guilty at his trial at the Old Bailey and was sentenced to be detained during Her Majesty's pleasure.

He is allowed "free expression" within limits. He writes books, the staff of regulation to guide his expression.

Handed in hand with "free expression," for instance, is the system of streaming, instead of moderation should still be the ideal. Conformity is essential, up to a point; it must not be allowed to stifle individualism. And individualism should still be the ideal. Dualism must not be allowed to develop to a point where it is harmful to the community.

In either case, the result is a pampered person, a misfit, who will be a constant problem to his

Personal Health Talks

The Child's Tonsils Are "Bad", Eh?

Back in the days when medicine was still a profession I saluted and sometimes bent a little backward to hold the esteem of my erstwhile colleagues. As expressed in an editorial of my teachings, published in a Minnesota medical journal, "The fact that Dr. (Brady's) statements hold water somewhat over 50 per cent of the time should be a cause for congratulation rather than censure."

The Minnesota medical journal editorial was inspired by my advocacy of the diathermy (electrocoagulation) treatment as an alternative for tonsillectomy for infected tonsils. A fairly effective method that is safe instead of a fairly effective method that involves the risk of life in every instance.

I still plump for diathermy (electro-coagulation) treatment as the method of choice for infected tonsils.

Your life is your own, to risk recklessly if you wish. I'm a coward and wouldn't risk mine if I had infected tonsils. I'd submit to tonsillectomy if I had tuberculosis, actinomycosis or cancer of the cancer, with the lesion limited as yet to the tonsil. But no tonsillectomy for me in any other circumstances, thank you.

From numerous inquiries I gather that the ever ready operators expedite tonsillectomy (tonsil "removal") by giving parents that shabby line: "The child will continue to have cold after cold and other until those bad tonsils are out."

From the most authoritative statistics available (Kaiser's Children's Tonsils in Acute Disease) quote:

"Statistical studies on groups of children with control groups of like ages reveal only a slight benefit for the children whose tonsils and adenoids have been removed . . . It must be recognized, however, that colds do not bear in many instances a close relation to the tonsils and adenoids . . .

Removal of tonsils had been advised for 4,400 Rochester school children. Of these, 2,250 underwent tonsillectomy; 2,200 were not operated on. All of the children were in the 6 to 7 years age group. When the children were 16 to 17 years old, of the 2,250 whose tonsils and adenoids had been removed 44% were still subject to recurred colds, while 682 of the 2,200 whose tonsils had not been removed were subject to repeated colds.

The difference is insignificant, and the doctor who operates on such questionable ground is reckless, I'd say.

BASIC MORALITY

Most people do not appreciate the overwhelming significance of sound sex morality. Many regard looseness in this field of morals with a great deal of tolerance and declare that derelictions have been general in every age and that they should not get too worked up about them.

Sex morality is not the only morality to which we have to conform, but it is the basic morality upon which all other forms of morality rest. The reason for this is that sex is basic in life, first being God used it in His creation of the human race was to make man in his image and after his likeness. The spiritual side of our nature therefore is first and most important. Sex is basic because it is part of the original creation, the part which we all come into the world, and is the factor upon which home life is built.

Therefore unregulated sex behavior strikes at the basis of our lives. It is futile to talk about promoting great moral causes or establishing social and economic justice and world peace without strengthening the power of religion and world affairs of men who are negligent about sex morality.

All signs seem to point to the fact that incredibly casual courtship practices are almost universally accepted by our young people from fine homes and excellent backgrounds.

To say this is not to condemn the young people but it is to warn them and their parents that this kind of behavior leads to individual destruction and national collapse.

THE HAPPY HABIT

So much in life is a matter of view of life. They have the Happy Habit and they find it throughout the host of friends. It has helped to give them courage and hope, why not you? It is the best way to cure miseries and troubles to talk about.

In a number of books the Happy Habit serves. It is an excellent thing for the Mind and Body. It is a help in religion. People who are happy are good workers and they go ahead faster than those who are always unhappy in their work.

Graduates Asked to Become Clergymen, Teachers or Public Servants at BCI Exercises

Graduating students at BCIVS commencement exercises last night were recommended to become clergymen, teachers or public servants in preference to professional business people and trade workers.

Addressing the auditorium, crowded with students and parents, graduation speaker Norman McLeod, MA, B. Paed., principal of Toronto's Leaside High School said:

"Because of critical shortages I wish to commend for your consideration the possibility that you train yourselves and give yourselves to the nation in one of these three fields . . .

"Well aware that we need professional people and tradesmen in many branches of our life, I submit to you and your parents that the important all these are, the need for them is not nearly as great as is the desperate need for clergymen, teachers and members of council or parliament."

Some 32 students received honor graduation diplomas, while 146 were awarded their secondary school graduation diplomas and 145 intermediate certificates.

Mr. McLeod told them: "First among the professions stands the ministry of the Christian Church. No one equals the clergyman in importance in the community and no one can be more certain of satisfying and lasting reward. If you are in search of high adventure; if you wish to put your hand to something creative, symbolic of the frontiers of our land; if you would serve and enjoy working with them; if you wish to be in constant touch with greatness and always in the school of Christ — then the church will give you full scope for all your intelligence and initiative.

"If not there, then we need you in the teaching profession.

"If you love boys and girls; if you would enjoy that magic hand which can be captured in the midst of the teaching moment; if you like tuition; . . . if you want to be certain you are doing something worthwhile, then come along with us."

SHOULD PRESERVE SYSTEM

Regarding public service he had this to say: "I know full well that you must first earn a living, but I plead with you that when you are well on the way to achieving that end you think of devoting some of your time to preserving our democratic system.

"Who, if not you, should some day sit on board of education, council, in parliament, or in key positions of civil service? These can be thrilling experiences — hard work, yes, but rich rewards and that adding sense that you are rendering to the land of your birth a noble, thanks for the opportunity to live amid all our blessings."

Said Mr. McLeod: "Buckle on your armor, 'cock you out in these glorious days to live in stirring times."

He told the graduates: "I would ask you to consider and keep first in mind your own personal growth ness depends upon your will and your ability to serve your fellowman," and quoted Woodrow Wilson's "The princes among us are those who raise themselves and serve mankind"! to illustrate his point.

"I hope ever so sincerely that you have learned how to work," he said, adding further on: "All the days of your life you will be very much happier men or women if you work to earn your dollars."

He said they were graduating into a land of wonderful opportunity and in golden days when opportunities will come them out.

Concluding he said: "If you give to the world the best you have, the best will be given back to you."

Mr. McLeod was introduced by BCIVS principal E. A. Orr and thanked by James Musgrove.

Chosen to render the valedictory was Monika Bruchmann, who came away from the exercises with three scholarships. Biggest item of interest was the Queen's University $1,200 Watson Scholarship for proficiency in German.

BURSARIES AWARDED

She also was awarded the University Women's club $100 scholarship for the highest standing in grade XIII history, papers, and the Belleville Y's Men's Club Scholarship of $50 for highest standing in Grade XIII Mathematics.

Her valedictory address is published elsewhere in this issue.

Other scholarships and bursaries awarded were as follows:

(1) Robert Phillips, $500 Mowat Scholarship for proficiency in Grade XIII Mathematics, plus a Dominion — Provincial bursary of $500 for university study.

(2) Gary Hall, $400 Atkinson Foundation bursary.

Other Dominion-Provincial bursaries went to:

Jean Hamilton Gaylord, $250 for Teachers' College; Evelyn Addison for grade XIII; Evelyn Addison, Beverley Cuddy and Monika Whalen, each receiving $100 for Grade XII Scholarships.

Belleville Y's Men's $50 scholarship for highest standing in grade XIII history was won by Herbert Whitfield, while a $100 bursary from the Dodge Motor Company was taken by Jean Shoemaker, as most deserving student taking a one-year course at Teachers' College.

Chairman of the meeting Roy Sills; chairman of the high school board, told the graduates: "If there is ever a time in the school year when you need to pray for a school to be on parade, that is this time now."

He also had high praise for the district covered by the high school and said: "I believe that the organized district such as we have, is an example of the application of the democratic principles which we have in education.

"Your high school district is in a very healthy condition."

He reminded the students that in two weeks time will be Armistice Day which, he said, "should be observed as a Holy Day, and I should like the pupils of this school to give some thought to the boys who went out of this school, out of these classrooms . . ."

He thanked students and their parents overflowed into the gallery of the auditorium for the event. In all, addresses and presentations of graduation certificates lasted for two and one-half hours.

On the stage with the formally gowned members of the staff were Roy Dulmage, secretary of the High School Board; Rev. H. M. Davis, Bridge Street United Church, who also gave the invocation, and Harold Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School.

The evening concluded with a formal dance in the collegiate gymnasium.

Composer of Magic Music

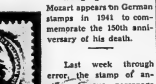
By NICHOLAS MIKA
(Article 3)

In Austria where the majestic Alps rise into the sky, is the attractive city of Salzburg. Thousands of people come here every summer to listen to the magic melodies of one of the most famous composers. They visit the house in which he was born two hundred years ago. And there they find his first violin and the harpsichord on which he played before he was five years old.

When the Empress Maria Theresa heard him play, she was so enthused that she knelt before the young lad in a tiny magician and allowed him to play with the princess.

When he was fourteen his father took him to Rome. There he happened to hear the long and difficult Miserere of Allegri. Enthusiastically at home he wrote down the whole score from memory, an accomplishment that no master of music had ever been able to achieve. The pope was delighted and made him a Knight of the Golden Spur.

This was triumph, light and pleasure. But as he grew older and his music began to change in his heart, he had to face the bitter envy of the well established court musicians. They jealously guarded their positions and blocked his way for the high ambition of his beautiful opera "The Marriage of Figaro" was almost ignored in Vienna. The only place it was given him a spontaneous acclaim was Prague. Encouraged and inspired he began to work in this golden town on his great opera "Don Giovanni."



The sweet and enchanting melodies that we have grown tired of hearing were often composed while his hands were stiff from the cold in his room. Sometimes he would dance with his wife to keep warm. Hunger and despair drove him to compose in a feverish rush. Like an obsessed man he created his masterpiece "The Magic Flute." But this opera brought him only a miserable profit while the stage producer filled his pockets. The composer was tired and ill and was not even able to attend the first performance.

One night a stranger dressed in black entered his room and asked him to compose a Requiem for a high reward. There was something mysterious about his appearance and the composer refused. But when he saw a bag of gold shining in the lamplight and left on the table, he sat down and began to write. While the music took shape in his mind, he suddenly realized that he was composing a Requiem for himself. Trembling, he tore the manuscript in pieces. But an implacable power compelled him to write again.

A few days later he was dead. The stranger went that a jealous Italian composer had poisoned him. But it seems more likely that he died of typhoid fever. It was a cold rainy day when he was buried. Two friends started off behind his casket, but before they reached the cemetery, they turned back. Only his dog followed him and the wind sadly sang farewell to the great composer Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart appears on German stamps in 1941 to commemorate the 150th anniversary of his death.

Last week through error the stamp of another famous personage was published. Alongside it is shown the Shakespeare stamp printed by Hungary in 1948.

BCI Valedictory Given By M. Bruchmann

Commencement exercises is an exciting time in the high school year.

It means the reward for years of work is in sight; acknowledgment of proficiency in learning; enthusiasm for gleaning knowledge, for arduous concentration.

Diplomas, bursaries, scholarships are handed out to those who worked for them. But there is always one valedictory assignment reserved for the student who has abided by all the above mentioned principles during school life — the valedictory.

Chosen as valedictorian for the BCIVS commencement exercises last night was Monika Bruchmann, Batawa, who finishes her high school education in a literal blaze of glory. She has been awarded a $1,200 scholarship for proficiency in German, another of $100 for the highest in eight papers in her class and a third for $50 for proficiency in English.

Following is part of her text, used in her speech last night:

CLIMAX OF SCHOOL LIFE

"Commencement — what is it our day—whether we were in the General, the Technical, the Home Economic or the Commercial course this is the climax of our high school life. Especially the examination time, have we wished this day were here and it seemed almost impossible. Five years is a long time when measured in days, hours, minutes and seconds; but compared to the average life span this is merely a fruitless fraction, however, which is probably the most important one for it is here because it assumes the position of the foundation upon which the freedom of youth and the responsibilities of citizenship. Our perhaps not so perfect, but our promised, we acquired a certain philosophy on life, an education that is in the words of Shakespeare "no mere acquisition of certain facts or of certain branches of knowledge, but that instruction and discipline which quality and dispose a person for his appropriate duties and disappointments in life, as a Christian, as a person in business, and also as a member of the civic community in which we live."

"BCIVS! We believe that have come to mean so much to all of us, that it has become a very special spot in our memory. We all can still visualize our first day at BCI, but, a little scared, bewildered by all the new, the unexperienced, the multiplicity of new impressions, the many big words.

We soon felt a part of our high school and this feeling became confirmed with every year. And this, our final year, I think, was the climax of our high school career. Never before did we taste high school life so to the fullest. Maybe it was the constant realization that this was the last—the last time we returned from the summer vacation, the last Christmas and Easter vacation always in the background — the finals.

ENVIRONMENT VITAL

Stephen Leacock once said, "the real thing for the student is the life and environment that surrounds him." In order to benefit from this "surrounding life," we must have good teachers. These were provided for us in a great variety of clubs, team efforts and social affairs.

The most important element of every school is its teachers. It is in their hands mainly "to make or break" a school. We were very, very fortunate to have had teachers like we have in our teachers. Their readiness to help with anything, whether it be a simple mathematical explanation — or the problem of choosing a career — it cannot be appreciated enough.

Anyone who has ever been in the process of writing an essay, horrible, hopeless geometry exam, will know what a teacher's understanding smile and his words "say not the struggle naught availeth" can mean at that time.

To everyone of you, teachers, parents, and all those who have been of help to us in so many ways, let me express on behalf of the graduating class, our sincere and our warmest "thank-you" for all you have want to do for all you have given us.

And to my fellow graduates, wherever you go and in whatever field of work you engage in — whether it be of a practical nature, in nursing, teaching, the commercial field or the pursuit of a higher education — let us make good use of what we have received, and gladly take on the responsibility placed before us, with determination and hope and let us accept the challenge of Ulysses. To follow knowledge like a sinking star beyond the utmost bounds of human thought — to strive, to seek, to find — and not to yield.

"Jest a Second"

"Aaaah ! !"

Display of Weaving, Ceramics Shown at Corby Library

An interesting display of weaving and ceramic sculpture, is being shown under the sponsorship of the Arts and Crafts in Corby Public Library for the next several days, through the courtesy of Mrs. Basil Kuglin.

The weaving, which consists of table sets in grey and white, including place-mats, and centre pieces; others in grey and wine borders, and some in beige, yellow, rose and green stripes on grey with plain green servilettes with fringed edges, was done by the students of the Mackay School for the Deaf, Decarie Blvd., Montreal, Quebec.

Weaving is part of their training, and the students work in co-operation with the studio in Montreal. This shop was formed in order to create a market and an outlet for their work to give them a means of self-support. The work is sold across Canada.

Besides the place-mats, a weaving loom with partially completed table runner in yellow with green stripes, was shown.

The ceramic sculpture consisted of pieces nicely executed; a shortened figure of early man. Mayan in limestone; a child's head in limestone, and a large female head in dark material (tin) with bead scarf, exhibited by Mr. Basil Kuglin, a resident of Foxboro, who is at present conducting a course in the Arts and Crafts Club. Mr. Kuglin, who previously taught ceramics in Kitchener, Ontario, is a graduate of the Ontario College of Art, Toronto.

Books on "Ceramics for the Potter", by Ruth M. Henle, described the styles of pottery with working designs; on sculpture, entitled, "Any One Can Sculpt", by Zeldenberg, showing the various stages from the initial step with the original lump of clay, through the portions of the anatomy, hands, feet, body, to the completed product: "Making Pottery Figures," by Drawbee, depicted the simple forms of pottery, and finally to the ceramic ornate, demonstrated to all and sundry that information of these arts should be obtained at the library.

Hand-weaving was explained and depicted by "The Art and Craft of Hand-Weaving, Including Fabric Design" by Lili Blumenau, with drawings by Martin Normen, which described basket weaving; rugs, draperies, and various other articles.

"A Short Dictionary of Weaving," by M. E. Pulchard, detailed the progressive steps and weaving mode. This book also dealt with spinning, dyeing and textile terms, as well as a beginners' guide to weaving and dyeing.

Hand-weaving, "For Pleasure and Profit", by Harriett J. Brown, showed the formation of the loom; preparation of the warp, weaving techniques and the growth of fibre and their manufacture into yarns; errors in weaving and their correction, and finally, "The Story of Weaving."

All these handy helps are available at the library for those interested in the art of creation.

Five Week Vacation for $301

BY SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

One day last July, while the mercury in the thermometer outside Don Reynolds' Brooklyn home flirted with the nightmarish number 96, Grace Reynolds turned to her husband and said, "Its snowing, Don."

And so it was. Not in Brooklyn, but in western Canada's Kootenay National Park, where the white-crowned Rockies make snow in July almost believable.

The Reynoldses were doing something they'd been building up to for a long time, a coast-to-coast tour of 14 border states and all the southern Canadian provinces. It lasted five weeks, covered 9,000 of the most beautiful miles in North America, and cost exactly $301, which is less than most couples spend on a two-week vacation near home.

The secret: camping out.

Mr. Reynolds was just one of scores of readers who wrote us after our recent column on America's fastest-growing holiday idea and dream answer to everyone's need to get away more than once a year.

Today an estimated 13,000,000 Americans camp out in the 4,500 national parks and forests and 2,000 additional state and provincial campsites in the United States and Canada. That's a lot of vacation in those hills and woods.

BEGAN AS WEEKENDERS

The Reynoldses started out as weekenders—they still camp out every other weekend—but soon found that campers are so relaxed, friendly and considerate, they decided to take a full-time vacation-and-hobby routine out of camping.

What is it that makes camping so different and special? In Don Reynolds' own words:

"On a typical day in camp most people get up fairly early—perhaps swim before breakfast or stroll through the woods. By the time you smell somebody else's coffee perking and hear their bacon sizzling, you're really ready for your own.

"During the day you might swim, fish, go hiking or sightseeing or just loaf and enjoy the outdoors.

"But the nicest time is the evening, when everyone gathers round the camp fire. There's usually someone with a ukulele or a harmonica and always, there is good talk.

"Before you turn in you take a long look at the night sky and breathe deeply of air so pure you can taste its cleanness. It's like being on a different planet, completely with the Brieze.

CHILDREN NO PROBLEM

Children, say the Reynoldses, are no problem at all. "We've met many families with two to six youngsters. Pop and the young ones share the chores, maybe because it seems like a game out in the open. And usually they have much more free time than they do at home."

Still wondering how they got this kind of vacation for only $301?

First, at a cost of only $8, the Reynoldses converted their 1954 sedan so that it would sleep two comfortably, by taking out the back seat and building a support of three-quarter inch plywood to hold a foam rubber mattress they had at home.

They already had an umbrella-type tent with no center pole which is the easiest type to handle. It includes canopy and mosquito netting.

For cooking there was a portable two-burner gas stove (actually unnecessary in most campsites with their outdoor fireplaces) and for storage of perishable foods, an ice chest ($15) sold by a well-known firm.

A minimum of unbreakable cooking and eating utensils, a folding table (also unnecessary in most parks), folding chairs, warm clothing, blankets and a water bag completed the equipment.

"With food supplies this sounds like a lot of gear," says Mr. Reynolds, "but we can set up or break camp in about half an hour."

FEES MODEST

They found fees at campsites modest, many charging only 50 cents a night, and the average ran three or four dollars a week.

Other expenses were food $72, round-trip bridge and tunnel tolls, $9; stove fuel and ice, $8; fees in national and state parks, $13; auto maintenance and gas, $200. (The basic equipment was additional.)

The Reynoldses would like nothing better than to exchange information with other campers and perhaps form a club. For readers who'd like to camp in New York—and others who are just plain ambitious—their address is 14 Danforth Street, Brooklyn, N. New York.

New Comers Welcomed At H-S Assoc. Tea

An afternoon tea was held on Wednesday for the mothers of children who have just entered Sir Winston Churchill School this year. Mrs. A. A. Wilson, president of the Home and School Association and vice-president, Mrs. F. Hitchon, Mrs. C. Powell and Mrs. A. Rump welcomed the mothers.

Mrs. D. Garlepy gave out name slips which were worn by all present. Mrs. J. Trainer, radio convener, was in charge of a "get acquainted" game where the mothers met other mothers and became better acquainted.

Prizes were won by Mrs. L. Hanover and Mrs. Briscoe.

Mrs. A. Wilson gave a short talk explaining the purpose of Home and School work and some of its aims.

Mr. C. Frederick addressed the parents. He expressed his pleasure at seeing the new mothers, who were obviously enjoying their tea in such pleasant surroundings. His pride in Sir Winston Churchill school was apparent when he invited any interested persons to visit the classrooms and view some of the work on display.

Mr. Frederick emphasized the importance of co-operation between the teachers and parents and the part the Home and School Association can play to help the progress of the educational set-up for the future benefit of Canada. He also asked the new parents to help out the executive in any way they possibly can by showing an active interest in Home and School work.

Mr. Frederick then introduced the teaching staff and Miss Cook, kindergarten teacher, spoke to the mothers.

Mrs. C. Frederick, wife of the principal, and Mrs. N. O'Neil, corresponding secretary for Central Committee, poured tea at an attractive table which followed out the fall theme. A beige lace cloth covered the table which was centred by a crystal and silver bowl of rust colored 'mums. Two silver candlesticks held rust colored candles. A standard of rust 'mums decorated the auditorium stage which made an effective background for the tea table; rust 'mums decorated the piano. The spacious auditorium with its pale green and subdued terra cotta walls, beige and sandalwood floorings, grey chairs and grey draperies at windows and across the auditorium stage could not help but lend itself in a most pleasing manner to tea or any other function to be held there.

Six ladies from Grade VI very kindly looked after the children while the mothers were enjoying tea.

Mrs. W. Soule, social convener, did her usual good job of supplying tasty sandwiches, small cakes and tea for the occasion. Mesdames Hitchon, Powell, Garlepp, Randell, Benson, Winstanley, Rump, Trainer and Woodcock served the mothers and teachers.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB

The Fellowship club of Holloway Street United church held its October meeting at home of Mrs. Ed. Fewtrey, Bridge Street. There was a record attendance.

After a brief business period conducted by the president, Mrs. Earl White, the balance of the meeting was in charge of Miss Helen Howley and her group. They were ably assisted by Mrs. Lorne Gilbert Gallegy, who gave an inspiring talk illustrated by flannelgraph. She called for prayer partners in her work of teaching children of all faiths in the Canadian home mission schools. The club was fortunate to hear such an inspired Christian worker.

The meeting was brought to a close with the serving of refreshments by the group.

HALLOWE'EN

On Hallowe'en night the brownies are out
To bring to the folk glad surprise.
So, the Scotsman agrees when ever he sees
The last of October arrive:
But chief in the, farm homes the brownies they bring
The best of good luck and good cheer,
On the last of October they run the farms over
With good fortune to last for a year.

In Ireland the fairies bring joy and successes
But sometimes they bring nought of good,
They dwell in the flowers, in the trees' fragrant bowers
And hide in the shade of the wood;
But the fairies are real to the good Irish folk
Though so small that they cannot be seen;
They dance in the night when the moon sheds her light
In the land where the shamrock is green.

But the gnomes and the goblins, the fairies and elves,
Have followed the flag of the free,
For here in the land where the maple tree stands
They flourish—as plain as can be:

For when Hallowe'en comes o'er the fields and the hills
The brownies delightfully roam,
They sometimes bring cheer but often I fear
They bring havoc and dread to the home.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAYBE IT'S TIME TO MAKE A FRESH START

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Does a man of 45 have the right to tell a girl that he is in love with her? Does he have the right to deprive her of the ten years that separate them? Does a girl as young as that know what love really is?

These are some of the questions that have plagued me for some time, and my worry over them has made me nearly insomniac to get along with and reunited in the loss not only of most of my friends, but even of my life work.

I've about decided to leave town without telling this girl what I feel for her, because somehow I seem to know that she doesn't want to hear it. I've lived nearly all my life in this town, and I'm afraid that when I leave, the local gossips will surely link it with this girl, and I couldn't bear to see her hurt.

So it all comes back to the same thing: Shall I start over somewhere else, or stay here, hide my feelings, and try to pretend that life is all right?—LONELY.

Dear J.T.:

First let me answer the questions you ask in your first paragraph, and I think I can do that pretty quickly, by saying: Of course!

It would be a very unusually mature girl who, at 18, would be ready to marry at all, let alone a young man of 29, and offhand I would say that the answer to the three of your questions would be a definite No. But if this particular girl actually is unusually mature, then marriage to a man ten years older than herself might work out all right. Since you tell me nothing of her personality, though, I would not be possible for me to make a guess at whether or not it would be wise for you to propose marriage to her.

What you say about feeling that the girl does not want to hear of your love for her, however, puts a wholly different light on the matter, and one which seems to suggest that your questions are beside the point. For if she is not in the least interested in you, why put yourself in the position of being turned down by her? Wouldn't that be pretty foolish?

Perhaps, of course, your heart insists on hoping that she may be more interested in you than your mind readily believes in us, and so it is urging you to ask her anyhow, and get the thing settled definitely one way or the other. And perhaps it might be a good idea for you to do this; otherwise you may continue to torture yourself with uncertainty.

Obviously, you are in a highly emotional state which, if you allow it to take over the direction of your life, as you seem to be doing, could go far toward ruining it.

So here's what I suggest:

Ask your girl and get her answer. If the answer gives you reason to be encouraged, then make an agreement to wait a year or so before marrying in order to find out whether or not the ten years between you really are too much, and also to give the girl a chance to grow up a little more.

If she turns you down, then pull yourself together like the adult you should be, turn your thoughts elsewhere and make a fresh start. Get yourself out of that town where you've spent nearly all your life and go to some big city where everything will be new and exciting. Find a new job, make new friends, acquire new interests—and the first thing you know, you'll have a new girl, too!

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

KITCHEN PRODUCTS FOR THE DRESSING TABLE

A few drops of ammonia, mixed with peroxide, and applied to superfluous hair with a bit of cotton will lighten it considerably.

No matter how well stocked with cosmetics a woman's dressing table may be, it is inevitable that at time comes when—and usually just at the wrong moment—she runs out of one item or another that is necessary to her beauty ritual. A little thought, however, and she might be amazed at the number of things she has in her kitchen which will serve the purpose.

Out of bath salts? Don't worry your pretty little head. Do you know that a little light starch put into your bath water will leave your skin as soft and smooth textured as a baby's? Try it sometime and you'll see.

Out of hair rinse? It doesn't matter. Get a lemon from the kitchen, squeeze all the juice from it into a bowl of warm water and you'll have the finest rinse that money can buy. Lemon juice is also fine for bleaching the skin on the hands and removing discolorations from nails. Use what's left of a lemon after the juice has been squeezed out of it on your elbows and you'll be surprised at how much dinginess you might never even have suspected is removed. Just take the half lemon and rub it in a rotary movement over each elbow for a few moments and then rinse. That's all there is to it.

If you have a little superfluous hair on your arms or over the mouth which is darker than it should be, a few drops of ammonia mixed with peroxide makes a fine bleach. Apply it with a bit of cotton, leave on for a few moments, then rinse away. Do not do this too often, however, since it may cause the hairs to stiffen. But as a temporary measure, the method's fine.

Going on a date but your eyes are strained and red—and not a drop of eye lotion in the house? Well, grab yourself a couple of teabags, soak them in hot water just as if you were going to make yourself some tea and then, putting one bag over each closed eye, lie down in a darkened room for

WHAT DOES AUTUMN BRING US?

What does the autumn bring us?
Wind and cloud and rain,
Mellow and golden sunshine
Parting the clouds again,
And a cavalcade of color
Passing o'er hill and plain.

And lo! in her hand she carries
Of fruits a golden store,
And freighted fields of harvest
With barn-bins running o'er,
And at eve a cozy hearth-fire
Within a glee-shut door.

What does the Autumn bring us?
The maple's crimson crown,
The blazing trees on the hill top
Like sentinels gazing down.
On the river's edge, where the suntachs
Are wearing their scarlet gown.

And soon the trees will be barren
And winds will wail and weep
And all the world of nature
Be folded in winter sleep;
But in the days may bring us
World peace, so calm and deep.
—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON—As I write the sun is shining and we have almost forgotten the four days' rain of the past week and flooded cellars. Factories are finishing canning pumpkin this week, and stack loads of the golden globes passing daily.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

NAMES OF AUNTS AND UNCLES ON INSIDE ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance and I each have several aunts and uncles whom we love with particular devotion. When I am addressing our wedding invitations, would it be proper for me to write on the inside envelopes to these close relatives "Aunt Jane and Uncle George" instead of the conventional "Mr. and Mrs."?

—Ellen S.

Yes this is entirely proper, and certainly does seem more suitable for these close relationships.

INVITE TO DINNER IN HOTEL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very charming couple, whom we met last Summer while we were on our vacation, recently invited us to dinner at their lovely home. We had a wonderful time, and would like to return their hospitality quite soon. But we are waiting to be able to move into our apartment. Would it be permissable for us to invite them to dine with us at a hotel? — E.S

Yes, indeed. The courtesy is in asking them to dine with you . . . the "where" of the hospitality is unimportant.

WEDDING CAKE AT WEDDING REHEARSAL?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've always dreamed of having a wedding cake! But because of special circumstances we can have no wedding reception. However, we are to have a rehearsal the night before the wedding, and I am wondering if we would all approve of our having the wedding cake then. — H.M.

I've never heard of this being done, but I too want you to have a wedding cake. So if there is really no other time to have it, plan to have it at the rehearsal dinner . . . with the prospective bride and groom cutting the first slice, to share together.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

You have helped me in the past, now I'm asking your help again please. My friends and I have been debating this question —when entertaining guests at home which is proper— to put the vegetables in serving dishes on the table or put the servings on individual plates? Your reply would be greatly appreciated— Mrs. R. B. M.

ANSWER:

This is a common problem because it is used to a custom to serve vegetables on little individual dishes. But now only sometimes done in restaurants and hotel-dining rooms. Use your china vegetable dishes. You as hostess serve the vegetables at your end of the dinner table, and your husband at his end carves the roast, puts the meat servings on the hot plates and they are passed to you for the vegetables and you then say which guest they are for in order of their importance. Unless you have a maid or butler to serve.

QUESTION:

You have kindly helped me with important events in my life and now I would appreciate some answers to "everyday" questions. My girl friends and I would like three kinds of fine wedding present and I have served grilled sandwiches and don't know what other kinds grill. Cheese rolls are proved popular . . . no seafood but salmon. . . no mushrooms . . something partly prepared beforehand. . . the different kinds of flour confuse me. . . will cake flour keep. . . should I have three kinds of flour on hand . . . for my angel food pan has 2 removable bottoms—one complete and one with the tube on. . . should I take the complete bottom out when making an angel food . . . would our small-family readers like a wonderful cookie mix recipe I have? Five different kinds of cookies . . . I was interested in your article which banned plastic and silver spoons for measure. . . . I had been using the wrong things. . . metal measuring spoons are hard to find . . . I hope pyrex measuring cups are o.k. . . . this is all now but I will be bothering you again as my favorite saying is "I'll ask Mrs. Moore." Many thanks for your column in the paper.— Grayce B.

ANSWER:

My master-baker friend says it is the soda in bran muffins that makes them dark. Here is his suggested recipe for you.

DARK BROWN BRAN MUFFINS

One-quarter cup dark brown sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 well-beaten egg, 1 cup all-bran, 3-4 cup buttermilk, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoons baking soda. (He says you may want to increase the baking powder to 1 teaspoon after you have tried this one—if so go ahead.) Blend sugar with shortening and beat in egg and bran and milk. Let stand ten minutes. Sift flour with baking powder, soda and, if desired, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Quickly stir bran wet mixture until just blended. Fill greased muffin tins 2-3 full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 25 to 30 minutes. 12 small muffins.

A good filling for sandwich grill sandwiches is

HOT GRILLED CHICKEN SANDWICHES

Serves 8. Mash yolks of 4 hard-cooked eggs with 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon minced chives, 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 raw egg yolk, 1-4 cup thick cream, 1 cup finely chopped chicken (or salmon or crab or shrimp). Mix well then add the whites of 4 hard-cooked eggs. Spread between slices of bread and toast in sandwich grill and serve at once. (These may be made under broiler if desired.)

I have mailed to you a column which appeared here Wednesday with a new creamed mixture I concocted.

I want to add "Blessings on you Grayce" for I remember you as the young girl who prepared her wedding reception food single-handed. I've answered your other questions by mail.

Garden Notes

Six Reasons For Pruning

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Many amateur gardeners become "clipper happy" when they get a pair of pruning clippers in their hands. Better pause before you prune. Think why you are pruning, then how you are going to go about it. It is not one of those hurry up jobs that can be zipped through in a hurry.

There are six reasons for pruning. Your shrubs need it for only one or more of these:-

1. To maintain plant vigor. Take out the oldest branches periodically. The frequency of pruning will depend upon the plant and upon habits.

2. To remove dead, injured, disease or insect-infested wood.

3. To balance top growth with the root system at transplanting time.

4. To control the form of the shrub.

5. To obtain the highest performance of bloom and fruit.

6. To rejuvenate old and unsightly shrubs.

The best way to reduce pruning problems is to begin with a selection of shrubs and to prune them according to a pre - determined plan.

It is good information to have for instance, that in informal and natural planting, shrubs should be set spaced at a distance of about three quarters the branch spread of the plant at maturity. Then you are most beautiful when allowed to develop their characteristic proportions and habits of growth, so plant them with plenty of growing room and prune them the barest minimum required to maintain an open structure.

Avoid these pruning errors:

1. A late fall pruning which leaves a deformed appearance over winter. Step frequently and get a long view of the shrub you want.

2. Pruning early spring flowering shrubs before they bloom instead of soon after afterwards. Forsythia blooms on two year old wood, lilacs bloom on new wood.

3. Pruning shrubs too severely, when they become old and ugly cut them to the ground line for a new start.

4. Cutting back strong growths at the top only. Giving shrubs a "rounding off" type of pruning destroys natural form.

5. Heavy pruning of ornamental fruited shrubs. Prune these moderately, before and after bloom.

Keeping at planting time, spading shrub beds is a waste of time and energy. It also destroys the shallow feeding roots. If weedy growth appears scrape it off with a hoe, rather than spade it under, then mulch the shrubs with leaves, or peat moss.

It has been found that chemical plant food when applied late in October or November is held in clay and loam soils until spring. So, while you are about the pruning job, you can get that job in too. Use a sprinkling can with one level tablespoon of fertilizer, or one cup. Sprinkle it round the base of the shrub, remembering that the feeder roots extend out to almost the same distance as the top growth. Apply a mulch which will not blow away and your plant food is there ready to disintegrate and feed the shrub when warm spring rains carry it down to the roots.

The amazonia forms of nitrogen which penetrate to the plant food makes a temporary chemical combination with the clay in the soil and do not leach away; also the micro-organisms are not active when the soil is cold, so this ammonia is not broken down into nitrates, which is the form of nitrogen easily leached away, and which is utilized by plants.

Hospital Grants Total Failure Says Coldwell

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—CCF leader Coldwell said Thursday night that the federal government's program of hospital construction in Canada is "an almost total failure."

He reiterated the CCF's oft-repeated demand that a national health insurance scheme be implemented.

In an address prepared for delivery to public meeting here, Mr. Coldwell said the hospital grants were inadequate from their introduction in 1948.

"Hospital construction costs at that time averaged approximately $10,000 per hospital bed," he said. "Yet the Liberal government's hospital grant was only $1,000 per bed for acute disease hospital construction and $1,500 per bed for convalescent or chronic beds to a limit of $13,000,000."

As a result, he said, the problem of constructing badly needed hospitals "is not much nearer a solution."

YOUR CAR

Preserving The Sheen On New Cars

By EUGENE MILNE

No unusual trick or treatment is needed to keep your new car gleaming as it did in the dealer's showroom. On a lacquer finish, a good coating of wax should be applied as soon as possible and renewed, of course, whenever necessary. Frequent washings are equally important to prevent dulling and scratching dirt particles, grease stains and corrosive salts from gaining too hold.

For baked enamel finishes, a different procedure is recommended. They require about three months to cure properly—that is, to form a thoroughly dry, tough surface and no wax should be applied, nor should they be procelainized, before time. While the enamel is curing through this final hardening period, however, don't spare the cold water washings to keep it clean. After three months, it is safe to wax or procelainize.

From S. H.: "My 1953 car has never used oil, but now I have to add a quart every 200 miles. Do you think worn piston rings are to blame?"

(A) No. When oil consumption suddenly increases like this, it is variably due to leakage.

NO PUMP FILTER

D.C. asks: "Why doesn't my 1953 sedan have a fuel pump filter and sediment bowl?"

(A) According to the car maker, it is not needed because of the efficiency of the self-cleaning filter in the fuel tank.

K.F. writes: "Last year, when temperatures went down to zero, my car was always very hard to start in the morning after standing all night in a cold garage. It usually sounded as if the battery were almost dead. When finally started, it would give no trouble at all until the next morning. If the temperature was higher it started without difficulty. The battery, startgr and generator were found to be all right. How can I avoid the same trouble this year?"

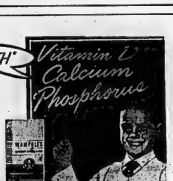
(A) Try a lighter grade of engine oil. In extremely cold weather, heavy oil will congeal and put too much of a load on the starter.

FLUID DRIVE SLIPPING

From G.C.: "My 1951 car with fluid drive ran perfectly until a short time ago. Now, the engine will race and seem to hesitate a bit before shifting into high. What do you suggest?"

(A) This sounds like excessive slippage which is usually due to low fluid in the fluid drive unit. If you have been maintaining the fluid level, then look for signs of leakage.

G.M. writes: "On an average of once a week, my five-year-year old car loses power on a modern ste poll, slows down for several hundred feet and then runs normally again. This trouble began a year ago but happens more frequently now. A mechanic thought it might be a sticking valve but wasn't sure when he road-tested the car. Everything else is in excellent shape."



(A) Have your mechanic make a vacuum gauge test on the valves. This is a quick and simple way to determine their condition.

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

READY TO GO!

PICTON — "Miss Supertest II", 3,000 horsepower chafing under her trim hull, swung confidently at her moorings at the Prince Edward Yacht Club here this morning.

The $240,000 beauty, which carries Canada's hopes for a national and world record here tomorrow roared down the stone-bordered bay on a final test of her tremendous power and the consensus was: "She is O.K."

The successor to "Miss Canada IV" which tried unsuccessfully to establish a world record here a few years ago has soared over the course on two trial runs this week.

The actual speed attained by "Miss Supertest II" during these runs was not given out publicly, but it was generally assumed that the trim speedster gave every indication of being in top form for the trials.

Mr. James G. Thompson of the Supertest Petroleum Corporation, who with his son, J. Gordon Thompson, chairman of the corporation board and both of London, Ont., are joint owners of the craft, was non-committal in post-test statement on Friday.

"The course was perfect," he said, "and the Supertest crew are jubilant over the results." Mr. Thompson did not give out any actual figures of the trial.

"But," he smiled confidently, "the boat gave every indication that she will beat the former record by a wide margin."

If "Miss Supertest" is successful in creating a new Canadian record, the crew will be instructed to put her over the course at top speed in an effort to establish a new world mark.

The Canadian record of 138 miles per hour was set by "Miss Canada IV", owned by Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, a few years ago. The world record of 178.5 miles per hour was set by Sian Sayers' "Sio-Sio" on California's Desert.

The present record is 101.32 miles per hour is not recognized in North America because it was set in a jet-powered craft.

Bill Braden, of Waterdown, Ont., one of Canada's crack speedboat drivers, went here today and will take over the helm of this "Miss Supertest's" bid for the Canadian record. Braden is well known in Canadian and American speedboat circles as a fearless driver. He has won several trophies and trophies awards in years of driving over American and Canadian courses. He selected the Picton nautical raceway because he thinks it is the best course of its kind on the North American continent.

Danny Foster of Detroit, driver for Guy Lombardo, famous orchestra leader, took "Miss Supertest" out on her trial runs and was beaming confidence when he stepped ashore.

If "Miss Supertest" is successful in her record-breaking attempt or attempts, they will be the realization of a three-year dream on the part of Mr. James Thompson.

"I am strictly here in a spectator's role," his father, J. Gordon Thompson said. "This is entirely Jim's show. He has been working on this for over three years."

It was stated here today that the record attempts may be run between 5.30 and 8.30 a.m. tomorrow.

Spectators can get a splendid view of the runs from the high shore banks of the Picton.

Some concern is being shown regarding operators of pleasure craft and other boats. The course will be patrolled by RCMP craft—and all craft owners are warned to stay clear during the runs.

ONE DOWN

It wasn't the best hockey in the world but it was an indication that fans hereabouts are going to be treated to some exciting shinny before the senior "B" season closes.

Too many cheap penalties was part of the TPT's downfall in the 6-2 defeat handed them by the Whitby Dunlops since four of the six Whitby counters were scored with the Coxmen a man short.

The Dunlops were not four goals better than the Teeps, but they capitalized on their manpower advantage besides throwing a packed defence in front of their goalie when the homesters threatened.

It is too early to criticize them since they have been on skates but a short two weeks or better, but the TPT's gave indications of being a force to be reckoned with once they get in stride. Whitby played better goaltending hockey all through, while their passing was extremely good for a seasonal debut.

Tony Parisi played a brilliant game in goal with two of the markers being screened shots from well out. On three occasions he outguessed incoming forwards who had broken into the clear. The Whitby defence was good while at times the TPT's could not get untracked in front of the nets.

The Coxmen trek to Cornwall on Sunday and on Tuesday take on the Kingston Goodyears in Memorial Arena. Wednesday they are the guests of the Dunlops in the opening game in Whitby. Over 1400 fans saw the opener here last night.

McGill Indians Tail Comets

MONTREAL (CP) — McGill Indians rallied from a first-quarter touchdown by Queen's University and went on to down the Comets 16-6 Friday in an intermediate intercollegiate exhibition football game at McGill Stadium.

Chuck Safrance opened the scoring when he went off-tackle from the five-yard line after a 40-yard Queen's drive along the ground. Ted Day made the convert.

McGill answered with an unconverted touchdown in the second quarter when Tom Gallagher took a 5-yard pass from Doug McGregor. The convert attempt failed.

McGregor added a single early in the third quarter and McGill went ahead on a safety touch shortly after the Indians intercepted a Queen's pass on the visitors' 10-yard line and Bob Rogers went over on the next play on a right-end sweep. McGregor converted.

McGill, which played last year in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence valley intermediate conference, is unaffiliated this year.

TO MANAGE ACES

QUEBEC (CP)—Gaye Stewart, 32-year-old coach last year of the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League, Friday was appointed "temporary manager" of Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League. He replaces Georges (Punch) Imlach, reported to be in ill health.

Rangers, Leafs Are Undefeated On Home Ice This Season; Hawks, Bruins May Turn Trick

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

National Hockey League clubs looking for the easiest ways of picking up points, if strenuous enough job any time, are advised to stay out of New York and Toronto. The Rangers and the Maple Leafs haven't lost a game on home ice yet this season.

Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks will tempt fate and hope for a reasonable semblance of the law of averages tonight. The Bruins make their first appearance in Madison Square Garden and the train-weary Hawks have finally got around to Toronto as a stopping-off place to their travels.

The third game among the closely bunched teams finds the last-place Detroit Red Wings taking on the brass-leading Montreal Canadiens in Montreal. These two hardy rivals battle it back at each other in Detroit Sunday night, the only weekend double billing in the schedule.

By the time all the battling is aided the league standings may have undergone a thorough shakeup. Canadiens, with a five-point lead, are only a single point margin over the Rangers and the Hawks and are only five points above the surprisingly erratic Red Wings.

The Montreal Forum hasn't lost their last two games, one on home ice, and the worried Red Wings are bent on taking Saturday and Sunday games and leaping up toward the top.

These back-to-back tussles will also provide an opportunity for the charter members of the Detroit Scorers' Union to do something about a couple of upstart New York Rangers, Jean Beliveau and Rocket Richard, montreal aces, and Gord Howe and Ted Lindsay, authoritative Detroit snipers, find themselves overshadowed and outscored at present by Dave Creighton and Ron Murphy. Such goings-on by anyone in Ranger livery haven't been heard of for years.

The fifth-place Toronto Leafs have a chance of moving up a notch if they can continue their home-ice streak and overcome the Black Hawks.

EDMONTON (CP) — Barbara Beddome, 18, a second year student at the University of Alberta, was chosen Friday night from among nine contestants as Miss Eskimo to represent Edmonton in the Grey Cup contest Nov. 26 for "Miss Grey Cup."

Indians Whip Dutchies 6-2 In Senior Tilt

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The fact that Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have been chosen to defend Canada's world hockey supremacy hasn't fazed teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Stratford Indians weren't overawed in the slightest by the Dutchmen power Friday night and proved it by whipping them 6-2. The victory left Dutchmen tied with Indians and Owen Sound Mercurys in a first-place tie, with three victories and a loss apiece. It was the first setback in four starts for Dutchmen, Canada's Allan Cup champions who will be Canada's representatives at the 1956 Olympic hockey championships.

CHATHAM WINS

In the only other OHA engagement, Jim Connelly's goal with 11 seconds left to play gave Chatham Maroons a 4-3 win over Windsor Bulldogs before 2,500 fans at Chatham.

Indians grabbed a share of the league lead with an impressive display of offensive strength at Stratford. Dutchmen, on the other hand, didn't show much punch. They were outplayed almost most of the game.

Bobby Mader, Art Hurst, Tommy Walker, Apples Flakbeiser, Johnny Muretich and Dinny Flanagan scored for Indians. Buddy Horne and Gerry Theberge tallied for the Dutchmen.

At Chatham, the victory was the Maroons' first of the season. Bulldogs were ahead in the league cellar with no wins against four straight setbacks.

Penalties proved costly to Windsor. Three of the five Chatham goals came while they were shorthanded through penalties.

Jack Armstrong, Don Bathgate John Ellesver and Connelly scored for Maroons and McElroy, Bruce Cooper and Eric Unger accounted for the Windsor goals.

Won't Apply For Stukus' Job

SEATTLE (AP) — Arnie Weinmeister said Friday he did not plan to apply for the job as coach as the British Columbia Lions football team, left vacant by the release of Annis Stukus.

The big tackle said he felt the Lions would not consider him for the job because they need him in the playing field. What if he was offered the post?

"Am offered. That would be a different matter," Weinmeister said.

Another former University of Washington player, Vic Lindskog, is coaching the team after the Stukus firing for him to decide whether to make a bid for the job.

Lindskog has been Stukus' backfield coach and had come to Seattle this week to scout the Washington-Oregon state game for likely prospects.

Well Fixed for Slades

'Hurricane' Zephyred by Jimmy Slade Chances for Shot at Title Ruined

CLEVELAND (CP)—"My plans worked out just fine," says spoiler Jimmy Slade, after surprise 10-round split decision Friday night ruined Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson's chances for the light heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Slade, a New York menace to contenders, wielded a hard left that snapped Jackson's string of 10 wins and sent him to the hospital complaining he "couldn't use his arms and legs working right."

Dr. H. M. Lambright was unable to find anything wrong but put the Hurricane under observation.

In a co-featured preliminary, Cleveland's Rocky Castellani pounded out a unanimous nod of Rankin, Pa., in a technical knockout 30 seconds before the scheduled round ended. A crowd of 7,797 paid $61,066 to see the Pollo Fund card at Cleveland Arena.

JACKSON FAVORED

The business-like Slade made nay with Jackson, a fancy favorite, clowned and danced, often failing to block punches that might have saved punishment to his jaw.

"I fought a planned fight and that did it," Slade said.

He added:

"This boy seemed to me to be a more determined fighter than he was when I beat him last year and lost to him this year. All my plans worked out just fine."

Jackson, a product of Far Rockaway, N.Y., carried 10 pounds more than Slade's 180 and seemed feather stoot.

Slade, who took some cuffing and mauling in the last seven rounds, hastened to add:

"And, you've hits harder than most people think, but the hits he did manage to make couldn't stop me from manoeuvring him."

Jackson, who never made up for the loafing he did in the early rounds, was not cheered by the decision. He said:

"I'm disappointed, and that's the only answer I desire to make at this time."

Only Judge Herb Williams' card favored Jackson, scoring it 96-95. He was outvoted by referee Tony Iu Branche's 96-94 and Judge Charlie Bill's 96-95 for Slade.

Jackson almost bit the dust in the third, taking a wicked left hook to the jaw, but otherwise escaped genuine trouble. So did Slade, who sported a slash above his left eye in the sixth but managed to keep it out of harm's way in the later rounds.

Six Eastern Football Clubs Face Big Day of Decision

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

This is the day of decision for six football clubs in eastern Canada.

In the Big Four, the first and last playoff berths are at stake as Hamilton goes against Montreal at Hamilton and the Argos in Toronto. First place also is in the balance as the Intercollegiate League as Toronto Varsity Blues oppose Queen's Golden Gaels at Kingston.

In western Canada, the teams are just playing out the string with nothing at stake. Most of the football action probably will take a back seat to an all-field manoeuvre by British Columbia Lions — the firing of coach Annis Stukus.

The teams most squarely on the spot in the East are Ottawa and Queen's. Both have to win to stay in confention for their league crowns.

COULD FORCE TIE

The Rough Riders, in last place two points behind the Argos, could force a tie for the last playoff spot with a victory. Then the teams would go back at it in Ottawa next Saturday in the final game of the season, with third place at stake.

Queen's also is faced with a win-or-you're-out situation. The Gaels are tied with Varsity for first place but have lopped the only meeting between the two teams this year. Under league rules, first place would go to Queen's today to force a playoff game.

In London, meanwhile, the University of Western Ontario Mustangs will be trying to pull out of the cellar and into a tie for third place with McGill against the fired-up Redmen.

Hamilton and Montreal, both assured of playoff spots, will be fighting it out for first place and the right to a bye in the first round of the playoffs. The Tiger-Cats trail the Alouettes by two points and must win at Montreal today and at a return engagement at Hamilton next week to take over first place. The Tiger-Cats are badly crippled by injuries, with Tip Logan, Bob Garside, Ken Starley and Tom Bischoff all on the sidelines. Montreal will be without their ace defensive halfback, Johnny Williams, but have an able replacement in Joe (Black Magic) Zaleski, former Winnipeg quarterback who will be playing his first regular league game with the Als.

The western teams wind it all up today with Saskatchewan at Winnipeg and Calgary at Edmonton. The Saskatchewan - Winnipeg game is billed as a playoff preview, with the teams slated to open a two-game, total-point semi-final in Regina Nov. 5.

The winner will meet the league-champion Eskimos for the right to represent the West in the Grey Cup game.

Yankees Win

KOBE, Japan (AP)—New York Yankees went on another hitting spree today and trimmed Osaka All-Stars 6-3 for their fifth win in six games of a Japanese tour.

The Osaka nine was the only score by Yanks' Japanese opponents in three consecutive games.

Whitby Dunlops Defeat TPT's In Penalty-Riddled Opener; Coxmen Bobbles Prove Costly

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Flashing a superior passing offensive and better finish in front of the nets, the Whitby Dunlops d efeated Belleville TPT's 5-3 in the opening game of the senior "B" hockey season here last night.

Productive of flashes of good hockey the game developed into a penalty-riddled affair with Referees Moon Flanagan and Jim Crombie handing out 21 penalties, 11 going to the TPT's.

The Dunlops raked into a two-goal lead in the first period with the TPT's knotting the count in the second frame and Sinden scoring the winner late in the period. Costly bobbles in the third set by the TPT's saw the Dunlops rake in to score three counters to clinch the victory.

Bob Attersley, last year's scoring champion of the group, led the Dunlops with two goals while O'Connor, Sinden, Bonello and Ned Attersley getting the other. Peter Jones and Vern Goyer scored the TPT's markers.

It was a goodish brand of hockey taking into consideration it was the first game of the season. The TPT's showed a lack of finesse around the nets and they had trouble at times organizing their attacks. Tony Parisi played brilliantly in goal as did Gerry Mulholland and Chum Fryia out front.

The game was scarcely under way when O'Connor drew first set blood firing the puck on a screened high shot from well out.

A minute later Gilmour got the gate for tripping but the TPT defence held off the Dunlop attackers. Fryia brought the crowd to its feet with a solo rush only to be beaten at the goalmouth by Donlevy.

Sinden got chased for interference and the TPT's swarmed to the attack, doing everything but poke the puck into the net.

ATTERSLEY SCORES

At the middle mark Wilson went off for tripping and Bob Attersley put the Dunlops two up with a slapshot from the blue-off.

Whitby's forces were better organized and Parisi stood out, fending off shot after shot.

Bonello got the gate for holding but the Belleville forces got their attacks organized. They rallied after the Dunlops were at full strength at 12:30 of the period to off the goalmouth efforts.

Sinden got a tripping penalty as the clock ticked off the seconds of the period.

Play roughened in the second period with Referees Flanagan and Crombie handing out eleven penalties. The old feud between McMaster and Flanagan broke out with both drawing majors for fighting.

Redmond slashed the boards after drawing a major and was promptly tabbed with a misconduct. O'Connor and McMaster both drew roughing penalties.

Peter Jones knotted the TPT's first goal from a goalmouth pass from Pat Gilmour slapping the puck between Whitby's legs.

GETS EQUALIZER

Redmond went off and the TPT's put on the pressure. Goyer almost slipped a pass out to MacDonald who raced in the corner, slipped it out to Goyer who drove it home for the equalizer.

A minute later Etcher broke into the clear but Parisi pulled off a brilliant save to thwart the Dunlop forward.

Play grew faster and rougher and the Dunlops drove in on a concerted attack. They executed a patterned passing play that ended with Sinden firing a screened puck past Parisi to put the Dunlops a goal up.

O'Connor and Gilmour drew penalties in the period closed.

THREE IN ROW

Chum Fryia opened the third period with a rush that carried him to the goalmouth but his shot missed a corner. Peter Jones got the gate for charging the goalie and the Dunlops hemmed the TPT's in with power plays.

Play surged up and down the ice with the Whitby club having the edge. They ganged the Coxmen with swift attacks finally beating Parisi with Bob Attersley scoring on assists from O'Connor and Gagnon.

Sammy Mulholland drew the first of three costly penalties with five minutes to go. He was closely followed by Davy Jones and Bob Attersley, With the TPT's two men short Dunlops raced in with Bonello scoring from Etcher and Redmond on a passing play.

The homesters fought back hard when Fryia drew a high sticking penalty with little more than two minutes to go. Ned Attersley dodged two opponents to score unassisted as time ran out.

Four of the goals were scored when the TPT's were a man short.

The teams:

Belleville — Goal, Parisi; defence, McMaster; centre, Leonard; wings, Fryia, Hill; subs, Goyer, D. Jones, MacDonald, P. Jones, Fryia, Gilmour, Mulholland.

Whitby — Goal Donlevy; defence, McGee, Wilson; centre, Bonello; wings, Ait, Etcher; subs, B. Attersley, O'Connor, Gagnon, N. Attersley, DeGray, Redmond.

Referees—Jim Crombie, Moon Flanagan.

Bill Swiacki Will Be Back As Argo Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Sonshine, general manager of Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four Football Union, said Friday night coach Bill Swiacki will be back as coach next year.

Sonshine made the statement when asked whether there was a coaching job in the Argo organization for Annis Stukus, fired Thursday night as head coach of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Swiacki has a two-year contract and has two year contract still to go and he'll be back for another season, Sonshine said. "There's been no thought otherwise."

URGED HIM TO STAY

Sonshine earlier Friday urged Stukus to stay in the game over if it's in a non-coaching capacity. He said however that Stukus urging wasn't to be taken as an offer from the Big Four club. Bar O'Meara, Montreal Star sports columnist, said Friday Stukus "might be the man for Argos."

Sonshine also said that O'Meara's statement that Argos will be in the market for a new general manager is not correct.

"I can assure Harry Sonshine won't be around next year in that capacity," he said in admission.

"WRONG IMPRESSION"

"I think Baz took the wrong impression from a conversation I had with him two weeks ago in Montreal. He asked me then if I would be back next year as general manager and I replied, 'I don't know.'

"I don't know what the club is thinking of, and I won't know until the annual meeting Dec. 3."

The much - criticized manager said however that if he is back with Argos next year he won't be around the club much time at the job.

"I have a lot of business to look after and I can't afford to be away from it as much as I was this season."

Hoad, Rosewall Remain Amateur

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's 20-year-old tennis stars, Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, will be back to defend the Davis Cup next year. They are remaining in the amateur ranks.

Hoad announced his decision Friday to U.S. promoter Jack Kramer, who has been seeking to lure the blond bomber into the pro ranks to tour with Tony Trabert, the American ace who already has turned pro.

Kramer had offered Hoad $25,000 Australian pounds ($56,000) to join his troupe and he told Kramer he would not sign as a pro for "personal reasons."

NEVER AGAIN

"Well, that's that, but I will never underestimate the power of women again," said Kramer. He said he was sure Hoad's wife had influenced the boy in his decision.

Rosewall, employed by a sporting goods firm, also received a substantial boost in his income as an inducement to stay with the simonpures.

The Australian Lawn Tennis Assn. does not propose to investigate the possibility that Hoad and Rosewall have damaged their amateur standing by signing the tentative agreements with Kramer.

Hornets Sting Barons 4-3 In Wild Game

PITTSBURGH (CP) — Twenty-seven penalties including a game misconduct to Eric Pogue of Cleveland were handed out Friday night as Pittsburgh Hornets broke loose with a pair of first-period goals to edge the Barons 4-3 in the wildest game of the American Hockey League season.

Pogue drew a 10-minute misconduct in the first period and then was banished for the remainder of the game when he continued to argue with the officials. The game misconduct carries with it an automatic $75 fine.

Eleven of the penalties were called in the bruising first session when Ron Hurst of the Hornets scored the first of his two goals after 1:30 of the opening minute minutes old. Joe Lund knotted the count for Cleveland a short time later.

It remained that way until Bob Haridon's second goal of the night the second period to put Pittsburgh back in the lead. Gordon came back with a pair in succession in the third period for Cleveland. But the Hornets iced the score again on Hurst's second goal and Gerry Couture provided the winning marker with less than four minutes to play.

SELL FAMED TARP

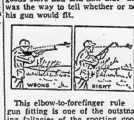
OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Rugby Union's famous tarpaulin has been sold.

CRU president Jim McCaffrey said Friday night the tarp, purchased in 1931 for $12,000, was sold to the University of Toronto. He did not give the sale price. The CRU bought the canvas field covering after the 1950 Grey Cup mud bowl game between Toronto Argonauts and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The CRU has covered Varsity Stadium with it before every Grey Cup game since.

McCaffrey said the CRU sold it "because we want to get out of the tarpaulin business." The chief reason was because of transportation costs—"it would cost a fortune to move it from the West to the East each year. Besides, it costs money to store it."

Solunar Notes



Hints On Wing-Shooting

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT.
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

Those of you who read this column regularly may recall that last year, along about this time, I spoke about a young man who was shooting a gun that did not fit him. He was having his troubles, missing birds which shouldn't have been missed.

One other day this fellow came into my office, pride of ownership shining in his eyes, carrying a brand new 20-gauge double. He had traded in that ill-fitting pump gun and now he had a gun that I could shoot.

"Look," he said. "This one fits." Then he set the butt plate in the crook of his right arm and curled his fore-finger around the front trigger. The man at the sporting goods store had told him that this was the way to tell whether or not his gun would fit.

This elbow-to-forefinger rule of gun fitting is one of the outstanding fallacies of the sporting goods trade. From it absolutely nothing of value can be learned. In this case, the gun stock was approximately one and three-quarter inches too short. This lamentable situation has been corrected by the addition of a wooden plate and a recoil pad. Now, at long last, that boy has a gun that fits him.

TESTING GUN FIT

So, when you buy a gun, don't depend upon the elbow-to-forefinger rule. There is not space here to tell you what to do to make a gun stock fit your particular requirements, but we can tell you quite clearly how to determine that a gun does not fit. Simply do this.

First shut your eyes, and keep them shut. Then mount the gun to your shoulder and settle your cheek comfortably against the side of the stock. Keep your eyes shut first and mount the gun several times to make sure that it comes up the way it will when it is in use in the field. Then open your eyes, both of them.

The line of sight from your master eye (the right one if you are right-handed) should be along the exact center of the rib, and just above the breech so that the entire rib can be seen. Unless the eye lines up in this fashion, without any adjustment, that gun does not fit you.

Should it come close to these specifications, a good gun-smith can fit the stock for you without too much trouble. But don't fall for the old elbow-to-finger routine. It doesn't mean a thing.

We, my son and I, being in the business of writing about the outdoor sports, naturally spend much time in the field each year. We see many gunners in action and we have noted that there is a common fault that afflicts all too many of those who go gunning each fall. This one error alone accounts for many missed birds each year.

WASTES VALUABLE TIME

A great many men, and women, hunt with the muzzles of their guns pointing toward the ground. Then, when a bird flushes, they mount their guns with the muzzles still pointing down and not until then do they try to bring their guns to bear on the target. That, my friends, is not easy to do, and, just as important, it takes up valuable time.

You may or may not have shot a duck. If you haven't, I know that an afternoon or two at the skeet field will convince you some things which will be invaluable later. Gun handling, for example. Watch the skeet shots. See how they mount and handle their guns.

To be sure, many of them assume postures that certainly are not practical for use in the field, but watch their hands, their arms, and their guns. Every gun butt below the right elbow and they call their birds. Every muzzle pointing not at the ground. Soon you learn that one thing at the skeet range—the proper way to mount a gun to your shoulder; smoothly, comfortably and swiftly—and you will be repaid for your time many fold.

Next, watch those men swing with the targets to the proper lead, and then—vitally important—watch them follow through after the trigger is pressed instead of stopping the swing with the shot. That lesson, too, will get many birds for you.

There's more, much, very much, to learn about wing shooting. You won't learn it all in a single session. However, if you follow these few simple suggestions, I am sure that your shooting will improve.

Western Playoff Dates Announced

WINNIPEG (CP) — Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final and final playoff dates were announced Friday by league commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg.

The two-game, total-point semi-final between the second - place Saskatchewan Roughriders and third-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers will open in Regina, Nov. 5 with the second game at Winnipeg, Nov. 7 (night).

If Riders win a berth into the best-of-three final to play the league-winning Edmonton Eskimos the series will open in Regina, Nov. 11. Second and third games—if necessary—will be at Edmonton, Nov. 16 and 19 (night).

If Bombers win the semi-final, the final series will start in Winnipeg, Nov. 12 (night) with the remaining games in Edmonton also on Nov. 16 and 19.

Packers, Colts Clash Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore Colts and Green Bay Packers, boasting the National Football League's two best running backs, clash in Baltimore tonight in a Western Conference game that could send the victor into a tie for first place by Sunday night.

The Colts and Packers, both surprise teams of the league, are tied for second with 3-2 records after Los Angeles, western pace-setter with a 4-1 record, plays host to the rejuvenated Chicago Bears (2-3) Sunday in one of the five league tilts that day.

Other Sunday contests match winless Detroit (0-6) and the 49ers (2-3) at San Francisco in the Western Conference, and the six eastern clubs gainst one another: Cleveland (4-1) at the Chicago Cardinals (2-2-1); Pittsburgh Steelers (4-1) at Philadelphia (1-3-1) and Washington (3-2) at New York (1-4).

Marlies Maul Barrie Flyers; Biltmores Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS.

Toronto Marlboros, defending Canadian junior hockey champions, apparently will be hot title contenders again this year.

They opened their 1955-56 campaign in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Friday night with a convincing 8-3 victory over Barrie Flyers, rated by many as the team to beat.

In the only other game of the night, the Biltmores hung on to gain a 5-4 decision over Toronto St. Michael's Majors in the league curtain-raiser at Guelph. The win left the Bills, Marlboros, Flyers and Hamilton Tiger-Cubs in a first-place deadlock. Each has a victory.

Marlboros, one of the youngest teams in the circuit with players averaging about 17 years, took a 6-0 lead in the first period and never looked back. Flyers held them to a 3-2 edge in the second session but fell victim to pressure in the third.

Forward Bob Fulford, a Marlboro holdover who was a mainstay in Marlboros' run to the Memorial Cup last season, scored twice for Toronto. Rookie Bob Nevins, Bill Goodwin, Jerry Toppazzini and Bob Farnfield tallied singlys. Al Norenius, Arnold Stefan and Roy Parkinson replied for Barrie.

NEARLY BLEW IT

Biltmores nearly blew their game against Hamilton Tiger-Cubs after leading 4-0 at one stage and held a 5-2 margin going into the final period. Majors, former OHA champions this season, made a great bid to score the winning goal late in the game but were held off.

Bob Forhan was a two-goal man for Majors. Brian Webber, Ed Shack and Larry Kendall tallied singlys. Hamilton scorers picked up two goals for Majors while Bob McKnight and Pat Cushing fired singlys each.

Bills got a big break on their third goal. St. Michael's goaltender Pete Kelly, nervous in the early stages, dropped a long drive by Forhan but kicked it into the nets when he turned to see where the puck had gone.

Six of the 10 minor penalties were served by Majors. Pushing and goal came on a breakaway when Biltmores had a mash advantage.

Grid Stars Sue Magazine For Half-Million

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank Bausch, former Rochester, N.Y., Philadelphia football Eagles Friday filed suit for $250,000 each against Collier's magazine and its publisher.

The suits arose from an Oct. 24 Life article on U.S. professional football. The story, purported to be based on the Philadelphia game as played in the National Football League, was characterized as ingly rougher over the years.

The article, entitled "Savagery on Sunday," alleged that Kilroy, a 12-year veteran of pro ball is one of the "real meys" of the league. Kilroy said he was singled out as "the dirtiest player, most vicious and unethical football player in the league."

Bausch and Kilroy each asked $50,000 from Time, Inc., publishers of Life for damages and $200,000 each for alleged injuries to their reputations.

Blues' Seconds Collar Colts

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto Blues' second team Intervarsity Colts into the field at Varsity Stadium Friday, winning a 24-6 decision in an exhibition game till 21-0.

The win left Blues top contender for the league championship.

Larry Cook, Varsity quarter, passed to Dan Nelson for the first touchdown and in the last quarter carried one over himself. He converted all three Varsity touchdowns. One of his consistently good punts added the single to bring his total to nine points. Halfback Tim Field plunged into the Western goal during the second quarter for the other Varsity touchdown.

Norm Bruchovsky nailed quarterback Art Turner behind the Western goal line for a safety touch and two points.

Brass May Get Gate
Vancouver Fans in Uproar Over Firing of Coach Stukus

VANCOUVER (CP)—The controversy over Annis Stukus rages on.

The firing of the colorful football coach provoked a rash of protest that continued late Friday night—more than 24 hours after his dismissal of the Western Conference B.C. Lions.

Lions' club member Phil Wood collected more than the 100 signatures needed for a petition to force a emergency meeting of the general membership.

A member of the Lions' board of directors, who refused to be identified, said he wouldn't be surprised if the directors all lost their jobs. redirectors of the Lions, newest entry in the WIFU, voted 13-10 for the ouster.

Lions' manager Phil Webb said a general meeting of the 3,000 membership might be arranged by Nov. 9 depending on the speed of reply to notices.

The petition asks a special meeting to "discuss and review" the firing and "to take whatever action deemed appropriate." It is understood a vote of no confidence would cause the directorate to resign.

Stukus, 41, whose three-year contract expires Dec. 15, was to leave Vancouver today with his family for a short holiday.

He refused to comment on the storm.

Lions, playing their second year in the WIFU, won five and lost 11 for fourth place while setting attendance records that included more than 20,000 at Empire Stadium for one game.

Friday, Stukus said he wanted more of the Lions, including a job the directors were reported prepared to offer him instead of the coaching assignment.

Webb was fired as "goodwill ambassador" with Stukus serving as head of publicity, public relations and programs, director of by an eastern firm.

He also would have been in charge of junior football in British Columbia.

U.S. WINS TOP TROPHY

HARRISBURG, Pa. (CP—The United States Friday won the top team trophy and then went on to equal the record number of wins at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

In the afternoon, the U.S. equestrian team regained the international jumping low score championship on two clean rides in three tries. Friday night the team won the Col. John W. Wofford Memorial Trophy, giving the U.S. its fourth victory in team international jumping events and tying the record for most wins in the show. In 1951 the U.S. also won four events.

Laura Laplante Coming Back In Television Comedy Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Look who's coming back — Laura Laplante!

Yes, the same Laura Laplante who starred in silent films and early talkies. Remember the villain's hand reaching out at her from behind the bedstead in "The Cat and the Canary."

It's a pleasure to report that the years have done little to Laura. She's frank to say she'll be 51 on Tuesday, but she looks much like the impish blonde who delighted film fans of another generation. She has the same boyish bob, clear skin and bright eyes.

For the first time in almost 20 years she has made a return to acting. As something of a lark, she portrayed a one-time movie star in the television comedy series, "It's a Great Life." The film will be shown Nov. 13.

SHE'S AMENABLE

What about more acting assignments?

"Frankly," she said, "if producers would be willing to hire me, I'd be amenable."

This is an about-face for the actress who gave up films to be a wife and full time mother in the early '30s she left Hollywood to go to England with her husband, producer Irving Asher. She did some films and stage work there, then gave birth to her daughter, now 19.

"That seemed like a good time to stop acting," she remarked. "So I did."

She also has a son, 16.

STARTED IN 1919

When the TV producers came to her recently with the notion of acting again, she felt that perhaps was to say no. But her husband urged her to at least see the script. He thought it was amusing and suggested she do it. So she did.

Laura's career started in 1919. Her specialty was the comedy-ingenue, but she was best known for "The Cat and the Canary," a horror picture, and "Show Boat," a drama.

You may have wondered where she got her name, which sounds like the epitome of silent star names. She was born with it.

At The Belle

"Seven Year Itch"

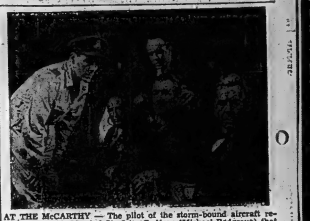
A rare gem among romantic comedies is this delightful "Seven Year Itch" which arrived amidst much trumpeting and anticipation at the Belle Theatre yesterday.

Nobody has cause to be disappointed. Marilyn Monroe reinforced her position as the girl of everyone's dreams and registers a fine impression as a comedienne. Tom Ewell repeats the triumph he has enjoyed during the three years of the stage version run. Cinemascope and color by DeLuxe accent the picture in fetching style, and the screen edition of the Broadway George Axelrod winner reaffirms "The Seven Year Itch" as the funniest and freshest product in several years.

Nobody who saw Tom Ewell in "The Itch" as a stage play could imagine filming it without his services. They are another like tea for two. Now that Marilyn Monroe and "The Itch" also have joined forces, it's tough to figure out how it could have ever been performed without her. Perfect casting doesn't happen too often even in the best of all possible worlds, but it has happened here.

As the temporary summer bachelor whose wife and family have gone to the seashore, Ewell is a joy to behold as he puts about his elaborate day dreams and extravagant contemplations of infidelity. Later on he discovers it's common for husbands in the seventh year of marriage to itch for a break in the pattern of conformity, only to find it's even more common for the wistful urge never to be fulfilled.

As The Girl Upstairs who supplies the basic incentive for Ewell's imaginings, Miss Monroe when she accidently drops on his head from above, then gets more deeply involved in the man's fancies, is lovely and very much of the delitty. Later on he discovers it's common for husbands in the seventh year of marriage to itch for a break in the pattern of conformity, only to find it's even more common for the wistful urge never to be fulfilled.



As The Girl Upstairs who supplies the basic incentive for Ewell's imaginings, Miss Monroe when she accidently drops on his head from above, then gets more deeply involved in the man's fancies, Marilyn Monroe is the vision of summer romance. His hearty endorsement of the good neighbor policy is understandable.

Though Ewell and Miss Monroe dominate the proceedings, and do so delightfully, there are choice spots for a number of other performers. Evelyn Lee's cute and charming impression as the wife Ewell's conscience is constantly reminded of. Sonny Tufts pops up in Ewell's jealousy fantasies as a guy on the make for his wife; Robert Strauss is the snoopy janitor on the premises; Oscar Homolka is a sympathetic psychiatrist who clarifies the Ewell urge; Marguerite Chapman is Ewell's secretary; Victor Moore a plumber who has one sock scene with Miss Monroe and the beauteous Roxanne another victim of Ewell's overactive imagination.

Hand picked by Director Billy Wilder, this star-studded assemble delivers the top group performance of the movie year.

AT THE CAPITOL — Polgant draws as the beautiful slave girl, played by voluptious Sophia Loren, meets her proud father in chains, interpreted by Afro Poli, in "Aida," the great opera film in color, coming November 7, 8, 9 to the Capitol Theatre. This spectacular screen achievement features the voices of top Metropolitan and La Scala stars with the ballet corps of the Opera of Rome.

AT THE McCARTHY — The pilot of the storm-bound aircraft reports to Air Marshal Sir John Godfrey (Michael Redgrave) that the fuel is running low. This terse scene is from the unusual suspense suspense thriller "The Night My Number Came Up" which comes to the Odeon McCarthy Theatre for 3 days starting Monday.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, Oct. 30, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A pleasant day for religious services, charitable and social affairs. There are times when discretion, and some added diplomacy are top winners: this is one.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Stay away from time-wasters, even if your day is free for leisure. Associates who do something ahead, planning constructively, and who participate in wholesome exercise are best. Work? Smile.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Just disregard those who make contention, start petty discussions or who over-criticize. Yours should be a well-rounded life, with wholesome thoughts and people foremost.

June 22 to June 23 (Cancer) — There is a tendency to race against time now. But try to realize that this unfits you for the very things you want to accomplish. A quiet, even tempo is best.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You may not be able to achieve all your minor aspirations today, but you surely can make notable strides toward some outstanding goal if you try. Start the day at church.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo)—Note Aries; your influence very similar now. You can be a helpers, or hinder, according to how you look upon, and take, things. Don't underestimate the value of exercise.

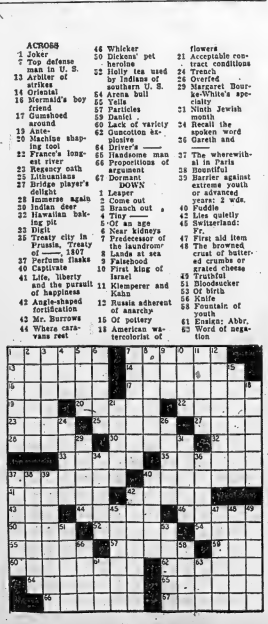
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra)—This is not the time to get into unnecessary hassles, or look at the worst side of things. Be Libra's true philosophical self: You can be helping others to better living, contentment.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio)—Don't attempt the impossible. Enjoy healthful recreation, sports. If work is on schedule, proceed with speed and surety, Church and civic activities favored.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Generally favorable vibrations. Engage in a favorite hobby, artistic pursuit or a family get-together. Lend a hand to those in need. Rest, too, in preparation for strenuous days ahead.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)— Although material concerns are nice, do not neglect your spiritual duties. Try something different for a refreshing new outlook.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius)—Caution should be your watchword. Others may be careless, but you need not be. Plan your week for a "record" try. Prepare to finish | up incompleted matters.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces)— Advice to Aquarians applicable here. Move steadily forward, in a wisely conservative manner. Give due honor to God. Renew old friendships, but don't overdo.

You born today: When awakened to your unusual possibilities, you will strive for betterment in whatever work you are engaged (including home-making), and can achieve wonders, even when the odds seem strongest against accomplishment. You are versatile, can take orders, carry them out well (when you make up your mind to follow due authority), or ably lead others. But in your search for success, do not forget the Golden Rule. Be willing to help others to gain. Your grit and tenacity can be potent assets: never let them lead you astray.

Pearson Warned Against Snubbing Israel on Tour

VANCOUVER (CP) — National leaders of two political parties have warned External Affairs Minister Pearson against snubbing Israel in the course of his world tour.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low, chief of the Social Credit League, said Friday Mr. Pearson's plans to visit Egypt and not Israel might have serious consequences at this time.

The political leaders, in Vancouver for meetings with supporters in this province, made their statements as tension increased between the two nations.

Mr. Coldwell said in a press release that Mr. Pearson should extend his visit to include Israel.

"SERIOUS MISTAKE"

Mr. Low said the Cairo visit would be a "serious mistake" if the same courtesy was not paid to Israel.

External affairs officials in Ottawa declined to comment on the statements. A spokesman said Mr. Pearson is scheduled to pay a short visit to Egypt Nov. 12 but as far as is known, he has no plans to visit Israel.

Mr. Coldwell said news from the Middle East is "very disturbing," and added:

"I trust the Canadian government will do everything within its power to assist other nations in preventing an outbreak of hostilities in the area."

EXPANDED REMARKS

Mr. Low made his original remarks at a press conference and expanded on them later during a talk to the University of British Columbia Social Credit Club.

"The hot spots in the Middle East are explosive and dangerous," he said, "and if care is not taken a spark could set off a third world war."

The Reds were selling arms to the Arab countries and "the fine hand of Communist agitators have been evident for several years."

Child Suffers Lung Injury, Run Over by Car

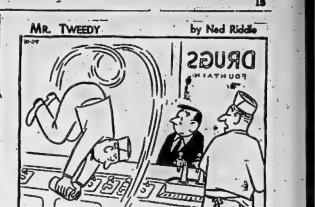
TRENTON (Special) — A little boy marking on the pavement with a piece of chalk, was run over by a car here yesterday. The child suffered a lung injury when fractured ribs punctured the lobe.

Four-year-old James Davis was sitting on the road in front of his parents' home at 93 George Street, in the path of the car. Neighbor William Ross Patrick, 54, had his car parked in front of his house across the street. He backed it across the street into the Davis driveway and was in forward motion when passenger Clarence Whitney shouted a warning. The driver, who did not see the boy in front of him, stopped too late.

In addition to the lung injury baby Davis received numerous abrasions on the head and body. He was treated by Dr. E. W. Dow at the Trenton Memorial Hospital. The child's condition is considered serious but not critical or dangerous, Dr. Dow reported.

Rescue Unit Spots Oil Slick On North Lake

TRENTON (Special) — RCAF authorities here last night reported aircraft searching for a civilian plane northeast of Ottawa spotted a fuel slick and an oil slick on Lac Mazarakwa, northern Quebec.



The wreckage has been identified by the son of J. L. Dussault, son of the aircraft's pilot. In the plane with Dussault was Horace Belanger, an electronics engineer.

Although no survivors had been reported, the RCAF reported it was keeping a Dakota sweeping the area.

The Poet's Inspiration

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by David Rankin

Every Canadian school child reads and probably memorizes the famous Canadian Boat Song which begins: "Faintly as tolls evening's low, the stream runs fast." Most Canadians, too, know that the author of those famous lines was Thomas Moore, an Irish poet who visited Canada, travelled through the St. Lawrence rapids in a canoe and gained there the inspiration for the boat song.

What few Canadians know is that Thomas Moore visited Canada and wrote his song of the St. Lawrence because of the story of a Norman-Irish nobleman who had spent a few years of his adventurous life in the Canadian forests.

Lord Edward Fitzgerald, fifth son of the first Duke of Leinster was the nobleman, a handsome, adventurous young man, he served with distinction as an officer in the American Revolutionary War and was badly wounded at the battle of Bunker Springs. Found unconscious on the field by a poor negro who carried him away on his back to his hut, Fitzgerald was nursed back to health and was able to return his regiment at Charleston. "Tony" the Negro, became his inseparable companion and remained with him the rest of his life, in the Canadian backwoods as well as on European tours.

LOVE SPURNED

After the war, the nobleman went back home, spent some time in politics in Ireland and made a European tour. There he fell in love with an English girl but her parents refused permission to marry her. Angered and determined that he would perform some adventurous deed that would win him favor, Fitzgerald took a boat to Canada and joined his regiment at Saint John, New Brunswick. There, he became a major, marched on snowshoes 375 miles from Fredericton to Quebec and went on further west to explore the Thames River Valley and gain honor and distinction as a brave Canadian frontiersman.

As a climax to his Canadian adventure, he left Fort Detroit to Michillimackinack, paddled down the Mississippi River to New Orleans and then set off visiting to London constantly pester attendants with the question, "Which is the haunted mummy?"

Even in 1955 the priestess of Amen-ra-Sened draws 5,000 persons has flowers placed at her feet by her devotees. And the curators of the museum worshippers who regularly visit the priestess and; although it was not until fall on their knees in prayer when they think no one is looking.

Most people examine Exhibit 22, 542 with cautious respect. Through the years the amazing story clerk lingers.

Lady Harlech, mother of a British cabinet minister, cheekily put out her tongue at the priestess. As she left the museum she fell down the steps, badly spraining her ankle. The incident, though trivial, is typical. A Blackpool carpenter, holidaying in London, was dared by his sweetheart to challenge the figure. Within an hour they were both lodged in a road crash.

The curse—or coincidence?

Museum officials deplore the lurid legends that have gathered around item 22,542. Yet the bizarre stories are stranger than fiction

LID ON MUMMY CASE

In reality, there is no haunted mummy, no mortal remains of an ancient priestess. The richly painted cedar-eyed beauty chair stares with such malignity across the Museum gallery is only the inner lid of a mummy case.

But perhaps the story began on an evening in the eighties when a well-known London man - about town named Douglas Murray called on Count Louis Hamon, who was then already becoming familiar to millions as the society palmist.

The latter gazed in dread at the hand that was extended to him. He could foresee a gunshot shattering it to pieces.

"Your hand seems to be calling to me to try and save it," he told his visitor. "There is a lottery that brings you something you do not want"

And the famous seer paused, for as his listener warned him that the lottery would lead to his client's death. What was this fatal prize? As Cheiro studied Murray's hand, the vision of a carved Egyptian sarcophagus swam before him.

"Have nothing to do with it" the palmist begged, "it will bring misfortune"

Events came to pass precisely as Cheiro foretold. On the whim of two friends, Murray went to Egypt. His last trunk to arrive was in those days the life of tourism and his draggoman brought the lid of a mummy case for his inspection.

Murray found himself gazing in deep aversion at the painted face of the priestess of Amen-Ra. But despite his qualms his friends urged that it purchased and suggested drawing lots for it.

DREW WINNER

In three successive draws Murray drew the winning number. Three days later, on a hunting expedition, the gun he was carrying exploded in his right hand.

His arm had to be amputated. On the voyage back to England both his companions died of septic pneumonia — the illness that killed Lord Carnarvon of "King Tut" fame—and were buried at sea.

With his worries Murray had almost forgotten that he had shipped the case-lid home. Now he no sooner gazed at the parched wooden image than he recalled Cheiro's warning. Within a week he suffered serious business losses and now was sure that the trail of disaster emanated from the priestess.

A woman literary friend laughed at his fears and offered to take the lid home with her. . . . yet from that moment mishap after mishap similarly dogged her. In the day that the mummy case entered her house, her mother fell and broke her thigh. Her engagement was broken off. Her three prize dogs went mad and had to be destroyed. She did not believe that an old piece of painted wood could cause these troubles. So was Madame Blavatsky, the famous mystic, insisted on her that the apparent truth had to be faced.

"My dear," said Madame Blavatsky, "Your house is under an evil influence . . . There is something terrible here . . .

So the story goes. Some people, on hearing such a tale, would be anxious to possess the object, either to prove or disprove its sinister reputation. This was the motive of the next purchaser who immediately made the lid the showpiece of her drawing room.

EVERYTHING BROKEN

The next day everything breakable in the room — vases, ashtrays—was found shattered. Hastily the Egyptian relic was moved to a room upstairs—with the same result.

For a few days the house seem ed to be spasmodically haunted by a poltergeist of the most destructive type. Pictures were smashed, lights were seen, mysterious footfalls heard. And an investigator who photographed the priestess's head had a shock. The photograph was so evil and menacing that he immediately destroyed both the plate and the print.

Unfortunately he gained more publicity from this than he would have done if he had allowed the picture to speak for itself. Douglas Murray's sudden death, too, created a greater impression than it would have done had not the stories that had already begun to spread.

The mummy of the case sold it immediately she fell ill, but even before acquiring the case-lid Egypt knew for it has been a life-long invalid. So is passed into the hands of the Egyptologist, Mr. A. F. Wheeler, who presented the lid to the British Museum, explaining that it had come from Thebes.

The curious episode might have ended. But at the museum he was carrying the lid to its destined resting place behind glass he dropped it, crushing his foot. After this, nearly every illness or death on the Museum staff was attributed to the priestess of Amen-Ra.

W. T. Stead, the journalist, ballyhood the legend to new heights. The face on the case, he declared, was that of a living soul in torment and he sought the authorities' permission to hold a seance in the Egyptian rooms to set her soul at rest.

DYNAMISM OF DEAD

Permission was refused, and thec reobulous might add that W. T. Stead was afterwards drowned on the Titanic. With a few minor exceptions the authentic mystery of the "the mummy's curse"—as it is always misnamed—comes to an end. Yet people still sometimes send money from overseas asking flowers to be placed at the foot of the exhibit, cash that is merely impounded in the museum treasury.

Can it be possible —as Professor J.C. Mardrus suggests—that the priests of ancient Egypt knew how to charge their dead with a dynamism that has lasted down the ages? Egyptian archaeologists declare that only the earliest tombs contain curse inscriptions.

But the actual mummy of the priestess of Amen-Ra has never been found. It may have been estroyed in the limbo of the years. And in that case, in ancient Egyptian belief, the spirit of the priestess of Amen-Ra roams our modern world with nowhere to rest.

Mummy Case Killed Its Keepers

By MARK PRIESTLEY

For nearly 70 years the priestess with the staring eyes has glared balefully from her glass case in the second Egyptian room of the British Museum. Yet still visitors to London constantly pester attendants with the question, "Which is the haunted mummy?"

Princess Will Not Wed Townsend

LONDON (Reuters)— Princess Margaret will not marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend, it was announced officially today.

The princess said in a statement from Clarence House:

"I would like it to be known that I have decided not to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

"I have been aware that subject to my renouncing my rights of succession it might have been possibles for me to contract a civil marriage.

"But, mindful of the church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble, and conscious of my duty to the Commonwealth, I have to put these considerations before any, others.

"I have reached this decision entirely alone, and in doing so I have been strengthened by the unfailing support and devotion of Group Captain Townsend.

"I am deeply grateful for the concern of all those who have constantly prayed for my happiness."

Signed "Margaret," the message was dated Monday, Oct. 31st.

The princess' decision was conveyed in a personal message to her mother, Queen Elizabeth, in London home, tonight.

Both Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mother had the text of Princess Margaret's personal message communicated to them before its issue.

The princess, who had arrived at Clarence House earlier in the day from Uckfield, where she has been the guest of Lord and Lady Rupert Nevill, was at Clarence House when the message was issued.

It was put out a short time after Townsend left,' having spent 2½ hours at Clarence House visiting Margaret.

Townsend had left Clarence House looking sad-faced and serious.

The princess' announcement broke an end to a romance which has caused considerable controversy in Britain in the last few years.

Townsend, 40 - year - old Second World War air ace, is divorced and his wife, mother of their two children, is living in Belgium.

The Church of England's refusal to recognize marriage of a divorced person whose mate is living formed the main barrier to marriage between the 25-year-old princess and Townsend.

After leaving Clarence House, he returned to his London apartment, then drove sadly out of London to Uckfield, secluded Sussex village where he and his princess only today had wound up a weekend together.

Macmillan Urges Reds Ease Curbs On News, Travel

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan of Britain today urged the Russians to drop their barriers against news and radio broadcasts and to grant direct air links with Moscow to stimulate travel.

Addressing the Big Four foreign ministers conference on the question of East-West contacts, Macmillan asserted the issue of free passage of ideas between East and West is more important than it sometime appears.

He noted there have been "hopeful developments" in the East recently in this respect, but said much more can be done.

He said the Russians should "reflect on the fact" that the revolutionary reasons for the barriers — perhaps are outdated; the West will be unable to present its viewpoint so long as "news from Moscow is carefully edited and controlled sold our broadcasts jammed." Restrictions on travel of most bar individual visits to the Soviet Union.

AIR LAKE PROPOSALS

Macmillan said that later he would introduce proposals to step up free movement between East and West through direct air lines with Moscow.

The British foreign secretary spearheaded the Western attempt to get some fruitful discussions under way in the conference which has been bogged down on its principal topic—German reunification and European security.

Miss Supertest Sets New Record Of 154 M.P.H.

Miss Supertest, driven by Bill Braden this afternoon on Picton Bay, made a Canadian record by travelling 154 miles per hour. The former record 138.58 m.p.h. was made by Miss Canada in 1949.

The boat made the up and down run and again tried a third run but broke down. A trial for the world's record will be made on Tuesday.

RUSTLING IS PROBLEM

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Sheep rustling in Australia has been growing at such a rapid rate a big criminal "industry" in 10 years, says D. W. Bucknell, president of the New South Wales Graziers' Association. More than 100,000 sheep are being stolen each year in the state by modern rustlers who use fast trucks and operate at night.

Old Farmer's Almanac Predicts Coming Winter Will Be Bitter One

DUBLIN, N.H. (AP) — The Old Farmer's Almanac, oldest periodical in North America still continuously published in the same name and original appearance, will be out tomorrow with a mighty dismal prediction of a bitter winter ahead.

The coming winter, says the Almanac's expert, Abe Weatherwise, will be "as severe as any of the 20th century."

Furthermore, a lot of other things can happen, warns this 164th annual edition covering 1956. Under the heading "Keep a weather eye on 1956," the Almanac takes a look at astronomical cycles and August.

REPORT MAN SEEN LOADING BODY INTO CAR

Camp Cook Held On Public Mischief Charge

TIMAGAMI, Ont. (CP) — A report that a man was seen loading a body into the rear of a pickup truck was being followed today in the search for a 21-year old girl missing since Oct. 17.

Alex Guppy, with the RCAF at North Bay, Ont., told police he had seen what appeared to be a body fall from the truck in the north section of Timagami early on the morning following the disappearance of Grace Beaucage.

He told police the driver loaded the body inside and drove away. He said he heard a groan before the driver got out of the truck.

Ontario Provincial Police are holding Albert Lalonde, 21-year-old mining camp cook, while they investigate the disappearance of the Indian girl.

Lalonde, in custody since Friday, was held on a charge of public mischief. Police said he changed his account of where he and the girl had been the night she vanished.

SEEN

Police were also checking a report from night watchman Bill MacBurney that a truck parked on the Timagami docks 1½ miles from the girl's home early on the highway.

He said a truck pulled up on the docks at 4 a.m., parked and then drove away quickly.

Police said Lalonde told them Sunday that he drove the girl to Kirkland Lake, 70 miles north of here, after a wedding dance at a hall here. They said he had told conflicting stories before he got a hotel in Hougon, Que., where she disappeared.

Lalonde had said the girl left him to go to a washroom at a bar in Rouyn. He told police he waited an hour and then had a hotel employee look in the washroom. The girl was not there.

EXPLAINS BLOOD

Friday, police accompanied Lalonde over the route he said he took to Rouyn. He said blood found on the floor of his car came from a fight he had with a man in Rouyn.

Harold Graham, provincial police inspector heading the investigation, said Friday Lalonde had changed his story but did not discredit entirely the last saw Miss Beaucage.

The girl spent four years in a Timmercular sanitarium and was to attend a TB clinic at North Bay the day after she disappeared.

OTTAWA (CP) — Approximately 200 young children of RCAF personnel at Camdata, 30 miles from Ottawa, near Carp, in the Ottawa Valley, have moved into a new school, their new headquarters announced today.

The new, six-classroom building replaces temporary accommodation over a downtown Metz cafe which, said Squadron Leader Bell, school accommodates kindergarten pupils to grade 3. Children from grade 4 up to grade 12, are taught in a building at air force headquarters.

Police, Fire Marshal Probe Boy's Death in Bancroft Blaze

BANCROFT (Special) — Police today are investigating a fire in which eight-year-old Samuel Crawford died early Saturday and his mother and sister Mary, 14, were severely burned.

The investigation was ordered after the Ontario fire marshal's office could find no cause for the fire. Chief inspector Wilford Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police criminal investigation branch said an examination indicated the fire might have started from the outside. He said it looked suspicious.

Inspector R. L. Taylor of the CIB and Inspector John Richards of the fire marshal's office today are in charge of the investigation.

An inquest into the boy's death has been set for Nov. 9.

Saturday's fire was the second in two years to destroy the Crawford home in this village 70 miles north of Belleville.

Mrs. Crawford and Mary saved four other children in the family and later were taken to hospital in Toronto with third-degree burns. Their condition today was described as critical.

Two children, Cecil, 11, and Arnold, 5, are in hospital here with minor burns. Another daughter, Shirley, 10, and four-months-old Catherine were unhurt.

The alarm was turned in by a neighbor, John Wiggins, who said he was awakened by the mother's screams although the homes were 500 yards apart.

The father, Reg Crawford, was still located until several hours after the fire. He had gone to Kingston Friday to begin work in a new laboring job.

Bancroft Lions Club has started a fund to help the family.

Stronger Tariff Policy With United States Is Suggested

By FORBES RHODE
Canadian Press Business Editor

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)— Lack of leadership displayed in foreign trade matters by the United States is most regrettable, I.E. Leonard of Toronto, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, said today in an address to the association's annual convention.

Mr. Lenard also had critical comment for United Kingdom trading practices and, while giving general commendation to the Canadian agreement on Tariffs and Trade, questioned its benefits to Canada.

His remarks were contained in a text released to the press in advance of delivery.

"We are concerned," said Mr. Lenard, "about the constant chipping away at the Canadian trading interests in the United States.

"While it is consistent with American trade policy to restrict the entry of some Canadian agricultural commodities when a domestic price - support program is in effect, it becomes more difficult for Canadians to understand why the highly-protectionist attitude on manufactured goods should be pursued as well.

"Surely American industry does not have to fear competition to such an extent.

"The fact that we consistently buy more from the U.S. than they are prepared to import from Canada must be given more serious consideration by our trade negotiators.

"The time has arrived when we should capitalize on our favorable trading position. We can and should negotiate through strength because our soft policy up to now has not got us very far."

In regard to the United Kingdom, Mr. Lenard said all apprehended the necessity of some form of controls to safeguard Britain's balance-of-payments position, and were aware that Britain bought more from Canada than Canada bought from her.

"In all fairness, however," Mr. Lenard continued, "some British officials tend to overlook the difference in size of our respective populations. Furthermore, we purchase a great variety of British manufactured goods while the U.K. imports Canadian grain and raw materials required to maintain the British economy and in no way competitive with British industry.

"I believe that many British import controls have a highly-protective purpose.

"Under present circumstances we find it difficult to fully support a 'buy British' campaign in Canada when our manufacturers find it so difficult to sell in Britain and at the same time have to face strenuous British competition in the home market."

Mr. Lenard said it was difficult to reconcile the part of GATT in world trade expansion of recent years.

Its constitution had been so much in what it had perceived as to what it had achieved. Nothing had happened such as occurred after the First World War when increased tariffs and other forms of trade restriction created a chronic state of trade warfare between nearly all nations.

The general attitude of Canadians, however, was that Canada had benefited from GATT and he had received.

A breakdown of 1953 figures, just completed, indicated that total Canadian imports under tariff concessions included in the GATT schedule amounted to roughly $3,700,000,000, or 62 per cent of total Canadian imports.

As this figure included imports which were not subject to tariff, it would be safe to say that about 70 per cent of Canada's dutiable imports were brought in subject to tariff rates governed by GATT commitments—"a very high percentage indeed."

Russia Signs Friendly Pact With Yemen

CAIRO (Reuters)—Russia signed a treaty of friendship here today with the Red Sea Arab kingdom of Yemen.

The yemen is a sovereign state with a coastline along the Red Sea, bordering Saudi Arabia on the north and west, and Aden, a British colony, and the Aden protectorate on the south.

Soviet diplomats in the Arab countries, and in Turkey and Iran, are soon to hold a conference to review political conditions in the Middle East, it was learned here today.

MILLIONAIRE RACE HORSE OWNER SLAIN BY WIFE

Wm. Woodward Taken For House Prowler

OYSTER BAY, N.Y. (AP)— William Woodward, socially prominent millionaire sportsman, was shot dead Sunday by his beautiful blonde wife, between hysterical sobs she told police she had mistaken him for a prowler.

The death was marked down as "accidental pending further investigation" by the Nassau county district attorney, Frank Gulotta.

The tragedy occurred when 12 years and the parents of two children. had returned home from a party in honor of the Duchess of Windsor about two hours before the shooting.

Woodward, 33, was the owner of the race horse Nashua. His wife, Ann, 32, an ex-model, shared his enthusiasm for racing and, was seen with him by millions who watched on television the $100,000 match race in which Nashua beat Swaps, winner of the Kentucky Derby, in Chicago last Aug. 31.

FROM BATTLEFIELD

Woodward inherited Nashua and the famous Belair Stables at Bowie, Md., from his father, who died in 1953.

The couple also shared an interest in high-game hunting. On an expedition to India several years ago Woodward killed a dozen record trophies, proving herself to be a crack shot.

It was a 12-gauge, double-barrelled shotgun that felled Woodward just after the fatal shot in a bedroom about 3 a.m. Sunday.

Police arrived at the 15-room home on the 60-acre Woodward estate soon after the shooting. Mrs. Woodward, calling incoherently into the telephone, had asked the operator to get help as about the same time that a watchman, who heard the shot, also notified police.

The wife was found on the floor holding the lifeless, unclothed body of her husband in her arms.

Police questioned her as she struggled to control her weeping. Doctors finally gave her sedatives and forbade further questioning.

There were few eyewitnesses and from questioning of others, police pieced together this story:

At the party for the duchess, given by Mrs. George Valley, of the Woodwards had talked about a burglary in the Valley neighborhood. They believed he had already made two attempts to enter their home. The party guests agree that Woodward had had little to drink at the party, however.

Returning home at 1 a.m. they decided that Woodward would retire and went to bed in their separate rooms.

Fearful the burglar should come later, he kept a pistol beside his bed and the shotgun.

SHOOT FIRST

Mrs. Woodward later recalled that her husband advised her to shoot first and ask questions later if she should see the housecreaker.

Mrs. Woodward said she was awakened around 3 a. m. by the sound of a door opening. Grabbing the shotgun, she crept to her bedroom door.

Across the hall at the door of her husband's room she saw a figure moving. Without calling any warning, she fired. Her husband toppled to the floor on the side of his head blasted by the shot. Gushot from the second barrel missed.

"Almost immediately I realized it was my husband," the widow told Gilotta. "I ran to him and fell on the floor beside him."

Blind Farmer, 96, Robbed of $33,000 As 4 Thugs Tie Up His Daughter

SUTTON (CP) — A 96-year-old retired farmer was robbed of $33,000 in bonds Sunday night by four masked men who, police said, spoke in a foreign language after they had tied up his daughter and beaten her.

Mrs. Charles Crowder, 57, who was in her home with her father, Charles F. Doidge, to open the family safe and get the bonds. They then walked out of the home at nearby Virginia after tying and gagging Mrs. Crowder in a chair.

The elderly farmer, who is blind, slept through the robbery which took more than 15 minutes to complete, police said.

No cash was taken. Mrs. Crowder said the men talked to each other in a language she could not understand. She said no weapon was shown.

Mrs. Crowder said she was watching a television show when four men wearing handkerchiefs over their faces opened the front door with the words: "Don't move. This is a stick up."

After ransacking the room, the men walked out of the home and 25 minutes after the robbery and called police.

She said all four robbers were well-dressed.

Police said Mr. Doidge is known locally as a man who made a fortune from farm marketing. He recently fell and injured his hip.

Molotov Middle East Campaign Nears Climax

No Assurance Flow of Red Arms Will Be Halted

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

GENEVA (AP) — Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov today appeared nearing the climax of a campaign by which Soviet influence has leapfrogged to Egypt—Africa's gateway.

The payoff Molotov is believed to want, American circles say, is a Big Four decision on the future of the area with the Arabs and Israelis sitting in. That would give the Russians a voice in Middle Eastern affairs.

In the American view, Molotov has used some naked manoeuvres of power politics to draw near the Middle East prize. The moves have included a supply of Soviet-bloc arms and an offer of Russian economic aid to some Arab countries.

This has put Molotov in a strong bargaining position at this Big Four conference, which originally was set up to deal with basic affairs of Europe.

LISTENED POLITELY

Molotov sat back and listened politely when Britain's Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, State Secretary Dulles of the United States called in turn during the weekend to protest Soviet intrusion in the Middle East. Dulles emerged from an hour-and-a-half meeting with the Soviet diplomat apparently with no assurance that the flow of Red arms will be halted.

Word is spreading here that Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser is thinking of flying to Geneva — another Israeli Premier Moshe Sharett leaves Tuesday—to present the case of the Arab world to the Big Four. The West is disturbed at Nasser's action in grabbing the Soviet arms lure if he comes here he may, without wanting to, find himself arguing at Molotov's side.

WEST IS WORRIED

Western policy makers are worried by the Soviet bid for influence in the Middle East—an area where their air and sea lanes to Asia and Africa pass.

They believe the move increases the danger of armed warfare between the Arabs and Israelis. One British diplomat termed it the most serious Soviet power play since the blockade of Berlin.

The conference with Dulles Sunday Sharett told reporters he had gathered that the U.S. view had changed but how to deal with the Middle East situation.

He said he left Dulles room for "no doubt or misconception" regarding the Israeli view on Egypt's arms program.

"Israel considers her very existence menaced by this massive increase of strength falling to her shattered and most pronounced enemy," Sharett said.

Exiled Sultan Appears Headed Back to Throne

NICE, France (AP) — Former Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who has become a symbol of flaming nationalism for Moroccans, rested sitting at his throne today from exile in Madagascar amid strong signs that he shortly will be returned to his throne.

The 41-year-old Moslem, deposed two years ago by the French, arrived on a four-engined plane with his two wives, seven concubines, two sons, four daughters and 25 servants. He was greeted by a stream of French and Arab politicians.

His uncle, Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa, who succeeded him as sultan in August, 1953, already has pronounced his rights to the throne, and a movement appears in full swing in Moroccan cities to bring back the former ruler.

The French government itself has given strong upward trend from its position of two years ago, when it called the young Arab a Nationalist sympathizer.

Some 200 police reinforced the usual security restrictions ever witnessed at Nice airport as the big plane came to a stop.

The ex-sultan talked for 20 minutes inside the plane with French officials who climbed aboard. Then he appeared at the door in a blue burnous and was greeted by a 200-shout from about 200 Arab sailors who had been allowed on the field.

Leading the French delegation was Henri Vrisson, right-hand man to Foreign Minister Pinay. Pinay also engaged some of the parties in conference.

Ben Youssef cancelled a press conference because of the crush. After holding court with several Istiqlal (independent) party leaders and other nationalists, he was taken to a hotel where he is staying temporarily.

Exiled Sultan Appears Headed Back to Throne

NICE, France (AP) — Former Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, who has become a symbol of flaming nationalism for Moroccans, rested sitting at his throne today from exile in Madagascar amid strong signs that he shortly will be returned to his throne.

The 41-year-old Moslem, deposed two years ago by the French, arrived on a four-engined plane with his two wives, seven concubines, two sons, four daughters and 25 servants. He was greeted by a stream of French and Arab politicians.

His uncle, Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa, who succeeded him as sultan in August, 1953, already has pronounced his rights to the throne, and a movement appears in full swing in Moroccan cities to bring back the former ruler.

Children and Oldsters Ready To Celebrate Hallowe'en

This is the night of the hobgoblins, the witches, the banshees and the leprechauns.

This is Hallowe'en Night and mysterious goings-on will take place after the moon comes up over the horizon.

It will be the kiddies' night to howl and dark figures will flit from tree to tree before the silent windows of households takes place.

It will be trick or treat and the moppets will be dressed to suit the occasion.

Characters of all kinds from Aunt Jemima to Cyrano de Bergerac will be represented.

Strange noises will permeate the evening air. Windows will rattle and childish voices will order "Stand and Deliver".

Nor will the masquerade be confined to the kiddies. There will be plenty of oldsters donning colorful costumes and going out for the night's fun.

Many Hallowe'en parties have been planned and houses and apartments will echo to the fun of the merrymakers.

Children loaded with candies and "diner" and apples will stagger home under heavy loads of goodies.

There will likely be some vandalism but the police department will keep a wary eye on potential mischief-makers.

Shops and stores selling masquerade costumes report excellent business while department and other stores state that much candy and many apples have been sold.

Poppy Fund Helps Prolong Child's Life

Somewhere in a small Canadian village an 11-year-old girl is living on borrowed time. She got a new lease on life recently, but it was a short one. Yet her parents are grateful for the additional five, seven or maybe eight years which Kathie has to live. They are also grateful to the Canadian Legion Poppy Fund.

"If Kathie's story will help the sale of poppies in any way, please feel free to use all of it," her father, a Lutheran minister, recently told the Legion. "Perhaps if people know where the poppy funds are going it will help them to buy more poppies and other Kathies" he added.

SICKLY CHILD

Kathie's been sickly for most of her 11 years. Although she was receiving treatments for a special condition, her doctor was not definitely diagnosed until a few years ago. At that time her father took her to a local doctor, pointing out that Kathie was not responding to treatments and no improvements as she grew older.

The physician recommended she get specialized bronchiectasis of the lungs. The doctor referred the case to a specialist in the city. The specialist confirmed the diagnosis. But he also discovered that Kathie was suffering from a disease of the pancreas. Together, these two diseases are fatal.

DOOMED

In fact, it was felt that Kathie — a happy-go-lucky—was making medical history. Most known cases seldom lived beyond infancy, according to the specialist. Hopefully, the father brought the child home to await the inevitable.

The 300 residents of the community waited with the parents, conscious of the tragedy filled in their midst. Some time later, an official of the local Legion branch read a magazine article about Kathie, the pancreas disease. Doctors in Boston had made considerable progress in some cases. It was later discovered that Toronto specialists were also working with the Boston group.

Kathie's father had not been established long as a minister. An army veteran and a prisoner of war, he had been nine months in hospital with a serious wound. After hospitalization he attended a Lutheran seminary. Kathie's present illness, special medication and care took most of their money. A trip to Toronto from one of the remote provinces was beyond their means.

LEGION HELPS

The 30-member Legion branch immediately volunteered to supply the minister with money. The poppy fund—a trust account separate from actual Legion finances —amounted to $252. The Legion turned over all but $2 for the trip to Toronto. And shortly afterwards the Provincial Command partly reimbursed the branch.

Kathie got a reprieve in Toronto. The doctors were able to add an estimated eight years to her life. Had she not received the treatment, she would almost certainly have died much sooner. For her parents, the weeks of agonizing doubt are over. They know that everything possible has been done.

Kathie's story cannot have a happy ending. Yet, with treatment, her health has improved and she is able to lead a near-normal life. Her parents are resigned to the ultimate outcome, but are thankful for the years which remain.

Every day, from each of the Legion branches across Canada, come other cases. Few are as pathetic as that of Kathie. Most of them have a happy ending. The money which goes to assist these people comes from the distribution of poppies. Most of the assistance, you never hear about. But the poppy fund is there.

Tomorrow or next week another Kathie may come to your branch's attention. This time the ending might be different. You can help write that ending by buying a poppy.

Slippery Roads Given as Cause Of Car Crashes

Slippery highway surface was given as the cause of two of three accidents reported over the weekend which saw cars leave the road and roll into the ditch. No injury was reported as result of any of the mishaps.

John Kelly, 8, Belleville, was driving on the fifth of Thursday about five miles east of No. 37 Highway when his car went out of control on a curve and rolled into the ditch.

Again on No. 14 Highway near Foxboro, two cars skidded on the slippery road surface and ended up in the ditch, one on each side and the other on its top.

Donald Shetlett of Stirling, lost control as his car skidded on the road near Ketcheson's store and went into the west ditch on its side. Howard Foshey of Trenton, has the same experience only his car came to rest on its top.

Motorists report that the Belleville-Foxboro highway is particularly slippery when wet and many accidents occur during rains as cars skid into the ditch.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Stronger western oils featured late morning stock exchange trading in Toronto. Most other major sections of the market were quiet, held back by the blanket of margins. Business was brisk with the 11 a. m. volume at 1,250,000 shares compared with Friday's first-hour figure of 835,000.

Among industrials, selective demand appeared for utilities, steels, manufacturing and construction. Papers and liquors were mostly lower. Price changes were confederal fractions, but General Dynamics notched a gain of $3.00 to 58.

Senior mines moved irregularly in a narrow range. There was little movement in golds and uraniums were steady. Base metals continued strong, hitting a new high of 21½ before moving back ¼.

Western Decalta rivers were Calgary and Edmonton, up ½, Prairie Oil and Gas and Central Explorers each up 35 to $3.90 and $6.85 respectively.

Doubt Jamaican Labor Import Will Be Approved

OTTAWA (CP) —Federal labor officials today doubted the Canadian government would approve any plan to import Jamaican labor specifically for use on the St. Lawrence seaway.

Spokesmen for the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada also indicated they would oppose such a plan at a time when sufficient Canadian labor is available.

The government and labor officials were commenting on a report from Kingston, Jamaica, that the government of the British West Indies Island intends to approach Canada on the possibility of Jamaican labor being employed on the seaway. The report said Governor Sir Hugh Foot and government ministers are "very interested" in such an arrangement.

Federal officials said the Canadian labor market is sufficient to meet seaway requirements. The government would not take any step which would reduce employment opportunities for Canadians.

Claude Jodoin, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, said the organization he heads believes immigration should be restricted during the winter months.

Immigration which was not planned and have no relation to the needs of national development caused only harm to the newcomer and to Canadians with jobs.

Donald MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said "we do not object to workers being brought into Canada from any part of the world, providing they are not taking jobs which are needed by Canadians and providing standards of wages and working conditions are protected. In this instance, carnival administration should be given to the possibility of seasonal unemployment."

Israeli Repulse Egyptians Moving East of Gaza Strip

JERUSALEM (AP) — Egyptian troops backed by armoured fire crossed into Israeli territory east of the Gaza strip today, an Israeli military spokesman said.

He said an Israeli unit drove the Egyptians back across the armistice line. No casualties on the Israeli side were reported.

The spokesman said the Egyptian force crossed the border in the Nirim area, east of the central sector of the Gaza strip. At the same time, he said, an Egyptian position opened fire with medium automatic weapons on an Israeli outpost.

Israeli authorities reported late last night that an Egyptian unit of platoon strength, had tried twice to storm an Israel position in the same area, but had failed both times.

Earlier today an Israeli spokesman claimed that Egyptian planes, believed to be Vampire jets, made two flights over Israeli territory Sunday.

He said planes were seen over the demilitarized El Auja-Nitzana area and over a settlement three miles east of the southern section of the Gaza strip. The planes flew at different times and one was identified as a Vampire jet, the spokesman said.

An Israel foreign ministry spokesman declared that up to this morning the Egyptians had refused to leave Israel territory in the El Auja-Nitzana zone, and "even UN military observers had been refused permission by the Egyptians to investigate their zone concentrations there."

The spokesman welcomed the New York peace appeal of Canada's Mrs. Jean E. M. Burns, UN truce observer, and commented: "A quiet border situation and peace—that's exactly what we want, too."

On the other hand, the spokesman declared, "we cannot possibly be asked to evacuate our position in the demilitarized zone of our territory as long as Egyptians are in the same area."

The Israeli spokesman charged that Egyptian troops twice fired at an Israeli patrol Sunday. The Irim Beeri sector east of the Gaza strip. An official Egyptian comment in Cairo said he had no information on any incident.

The UN appeal, made by Burns and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, warned that either side taking the offensive might cause "the gravest consequences."

An Egyptian delegation spokesman criticized the paragraphs of Burns' communication as unfair. It cited "a grave incident in which Egyptians suffered an Israeli police post in the demilitarized zone," but the Egyptians described the site as really an Israeli military

No Big Changes Seen In Hiroshima Japs

NAGOYA, Japan (AP) — An American doctor now working with atom bomb victims at Hiroshima says there has been "no really significant changes in blood combination of the Japanese exposed to radiation of atomic bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki."

Dr. Wayne Truax said today studies of 100 persons and 50 bomb atom-bombed cities showed "only a small incidence of leukemia among persons exposed to radiation" in the blasts.

Travel Club Organizer Held On Theft Charge

WINNIPEG (CP) — The organizer of a travel club at Brampton, Ont., who police said wandered across with $4,200 of members' money, was arrested here Saturday.

Police at Brampton, who hold a warrant charging Richard Venner, 38, with theft of the money, said today constables will be sent to Winnipeg to escort Venner back.

The club, a group of 66 former residents of Great Britain, was organized to arrange a two-week holiday plane flight home.

The money was paid by members to charter a plane, police said.

When Venner did not turn up at the club's third meeting last May, Reg Simpson, an employee at A. V. Roe Co. at Malton, swore out a warrant for his arrest. Simpson helped organize the club.

His membership was composed of workers from Avro, Canadian General Electric, Canadian Kodak and several other plants.

Asked to Press For Liberation Of Prisoners

BRANTFORD (CP) — An appeal to all Polish groups in Canada to press for the liberation of 200,000 Polish prisoners in Soviet Russia's forced-labor camps was made here Sunday night. It was contained in a resolution passed by Polish-Canadian Congress.

The resolution statesmen will not be misled by the smiles and phraseology of the Soviets," the Brezenski, Toronto delegate of the congress said.

A resolution called upon the free world to use its influence to get free travel for ordinary citizens of Poland instead of only for propaganda agents sent abroad for special purposes.

Another resolution declared appeals by Communist legation in Ottawa asking Polish - Canadians to return to Poland are against democratic principles and are aimed at undermining the confidence Canada has in citizens of Polish origin.

Another resolution appealed to the federal government "to use every opportunity in international relations to support Poland's right to freedom and self-determination, because without justice and the upload of wrong, there cannot be a lasting peace in the world."

Premier Faure Calls Cabinet On Election

PARIS (AP)—Premier Edgar Faure worked in private meetings today to keep his program for December elections from being sidetracked in the French National Assembly.

Faure called his cabinet together and later went to lunch with leaders of parties supporting him. Out of these meetings he hoped to find a solution for the thorny problem of what election system to use.

The premier wants voting in mid-December, five months ahead of the normal time. The deputies are willing to do this but almost all are asking for a new election law. Seven different ideas have been proposed but up to now none seems to have any chance of being accepted.

The assembly met briefly this morning then recessed until afternoon. By that time, Faure hoped to have something to propose.

A lifeguard station reported that 15 or 20 small craft which left the bay Sunday had failed to return. Two were believed to have reached havens at other points.

Rufus Nix, 44, and his wife, Marie, 40, were drowned when their motorboat was swamped.

Britain Likely To Back U.S. In Admitting Spain

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain is likely to back the United States in seeking the admission of Spain to the United Nations, diplomatic quarters here said today.

The possibility of a change in Britain's attitude on the question has been under study for some weeks, it is understood.

Britain was a party to the 1946 United Nations resolution which declared Spain ineligible for membership and to the 1946 Potsdam agreement with Russia and the United States which stated that the three governments would not favor admission while Gen. Franco remained in power.

The reason for the stand then was the close association of the Franco government with the Axis powers during the war. After a lapse of 10 years government opinion now is believed to support a change of policy.

SEES NEW USE FOR COAL

YORK, England (Reuters)—Dr. Jacob Bronowski, director of British coal operations research, forecasts that in about 30 years mines will have been converted into processing plants—converting coal on the spot into chemicals and perhaps also into atomic energy will have superseded coal as the direct source of power. That is 30 years, but that would not mean the end of the industry, he told mining and industrial engineers in conference.

Three Armed Men Got Nothing For Their Pains

HARRISTON (CP) — Three armed men, masked and carrying enough nitro-glycerine to destroy half the town, broke into the Canada Packers plant here early Sunday, trussed up the watchman, blew up the safe but got nothing for their pains. Harriston is 25 miles northwest of Kitchener.

The men entered the plant at 2:45 a. m. and seized night watchman John Vermeulen. Binding his arms and legs they left him in a boiler room.

Using tools believed stolen from the Canada National Railways depot here, the three men smashed their way into the office where they attacked the safe.

The night watchman wriggled out of the bonds fastening his ankles, knocked a telephone off its stand and called police.

OTTAWA (CP)—A conference of federal and provincial officials on the trans-Canada highway will be held Nov. 14 and 15. Works Minister Winters said Sunday night. Mr. Winters said the federal government wants "to accelerate the pace of the trans-Canada highway." He had invited all 10 provinces to the meeting.

10 Are Drowned

CASABLANCA, Morocco (CP)— Ten persons were drowned and 13 others feared dead after a cloudburst sent a wall of water smashing through the Arab quarter of Settat, 43 miles south of here.

The flash flood hit Sunday after an hour's torrential rain caused the Oued Boumoussan, a tiny stream dry most of the year, to burst its banks and swirl through the town. Property damage was extensive.

HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en used to be a pleasant festival for boys and girls who wished to consult the occult about the choice of a mate. That was several hundred years ago.

Today, Dracula has the chills and fevers all steady with Frankenstein, a man from Mars or an ape. Granted, Dracula is nobody's dream girl and properly should be content with whatever species of fauna it can entangle, but this type of Hallowe'en is ridiculous.

Even a few years ago Hallowe'en could be counted on as a time for jack-o-lanterns, bobbing for apples and egg costume parties. To judge by the array of horrors available to trippets this Hallowe'en a jack-o-lantern looks like an enchanted fairy; bobbing for apples could turn into death by drowning and going-a-gh gaisly—has been replaced by a rubber monster with a dagger in its head and almost-real blood running down its face. Startlingly real rubber masks of thugs, complete with sabre and machine gun, are the rage. The cruder and more scars and masks—Jack, ate for the Bounding terrifying disguises than any pirate from the Bounding Main with a wooden sword, a bandana from his sister's wardrobe and the only earring of what was once mother's matched set.

Realistic horror and life-like gangsterism lacks the leaven of fun and frolic that characterized the costuming of yesteryear. Little girls dressed as little boys or as old men; young boys dressed in skirts, powdered and rouged and tottering on high heels; adolescents in sheets and 10-year-old cherubs with false noses, a crepe witch's costume and a pointed hat are fun. A fugitive from a mad scientist's dalliance with zombies has hardly the same charm.

Hallowe'en has always been associated in the popular imagination with the prevalence of supernatural influence. Hallowe'en is a festival of supernatural experience. Standing room is certain feast days and prayers for any child born on Hallowe'en had the power of perceiving and holding conversation with supernatural beings.

The supernatural being most popularly associated with Hallowe'en is a rather elderly witch of daring habits who sails through the sky on a broom, with or without a black cat as a travelling companion.

Hallowe'en, however, takes its name from All Hallows Eve. All Hallows Day, or All Saints Day, November 1st, was officially instituted as a Christian feast day by prayers for the dead. Pope Boniface the Fourth in the 7th century. Prayers for the departed, and a superstition that the souls of the dead roam about one night a year contributed to the ghoulish nature of the All Hallows Eve observances.

In England, for some strange reason, Hallowe'en became known as "Nutcracker Night," a corruption of the general theme of such shocking proportions that not even modern slang would dare so much.

The Scotch, of course, observed Hallowe'en as a time for consulting the supernatural about the choice of a mate. It has never been clear if such consultations, held in groups, were designed for mutual protection against evil spirits, as a precaution against a too enthusiastic solicitation, or as a means to circumvent the marriage broker.

All trifles aside, however, Hallowe'en or All Hallows Eve, has deteriorated terribly in recent years as a merry moment to be enjoyed by all and sundry. Things are never what they used to be but on past Hallowe'ens when one saw a moppet in disguise and a real monster it was fairly easy to tell which was witch.

WHAT'S A ROYAL HEART FANG?

The Butler Budget shoved Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Townsend off the front pages of Britain's newspapers.

"What's a royal heart pang compared with the sharp ache in your personal pocketbook?" asks Hal Cooper of The Associated Press, writing from London.

Maybe the pocketbook's pains do rank ahead of the difficult problem facing the Princess, as far as many British commentators.

It might be added, though, that people who take this attitude have no moral right to talk about the duties of royalty and the good of the commonwealth.

This privilege belongs only to those who think highly enough of the institution of royalty to be really concerned about the burdens it imposes on the members of the Royal Family.

Their number is probably rather small—considerably smaller than the number of those who are quite willing to tell the Princess what she should do and are more concerned with their own financial worries than the very real mental anguish which the Princess must be experiencing if stories about her love for Townsend are not cut from the whole cloth.

A HAPPY MAN

Sometimes a chance phrase reveals more about a public man than volumes of Hansard and countless platform appearances.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, was marooned in the Rockies for 24 hours when washouts stopped the train on which he was a passenger.

Eventually he and his fellow passengers reached Hope, B.C., by bus.

"We had a wonderful time," says Mr. Coldwell.

That is the remark of a happy man, a man able to live with himself and willing to accept new experiences.

JUST FOLKS

HALLOWE'EN

The bell will ring and I'll fling the door wide
And I'll hear a chuckle or two or three
And I'll know that Hallowe'en's here once more.

The bell will ring and two ghosts I'll see,
Who will moan and mutter a fearful: "Boo!"
As all little ghosts are supposed to do,
And terribly frightened by them And no little beggars will call on me.
I'll be.

The bell will ring and I'll go once more,
When "Feed the hungry" will be plea,
And fed with cookies they both will be,
Though hungry they never have been before.

The bell will ring and I'll happy be,
For I dread to think of a Hallowe'en
When my little chairs at my door will not be seen
And terribly frightened by them And no little beggars will call on me.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

OCTOBER 31, 1935

Refreshments — sandwiches, cakes, etc., which had been prepared for Holloway St. Church members who were engaged in practising for a "get-to-gether" concert were not in evidence when they were to be served last night. It was really disappointing to those who had anticipated hot coffee and other nice things to eat. The police believe that boys, who were a little early in celebrating Hallowe'en, are the guilty ones. It is thought that the boys knew where the refreshments had been placed in the basement.

Mrs. Jack Caln and family have left here to reside in Toronto.

Mrs. John Avery of Toronto, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dowling, Bridge St.

Mrs. William Maitls has returned home after spending several weeks visiting friends and relatives in Washington, D.C., Jersey City and Baltimore.

OCTOBER 31, 1925

Returns from polling stations on October 29, Mr. W. E. Tummon, the Conservative candidate, defeated Mr. Charles Hands, the Liberal candidate and former member, by a majority announced to be 2840. In Belleville Mr. Tummon's majority was 835; he received 3698 votes and Mr. Hanna received 2863 votes. The vote throughout the Dominion remains still somewhat indefinite, although the Conservatives have the largest group so far. The Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader, was elected in Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, and the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King was defeated in his former riding of North York. This morning the standing was reported to be as follows: Liberals 95; Conservatives 118; Progressives 17; Labor 2; Independent 1; in doubt 14; total 245. One hundred and twenty-three seats are necessary to give a clear majority in the House.

Dr. Alex. Embury, reeve of Rancroft, the Conservative candidate for Hastings-Peterborough, was elected in the bye-election held on the 29th inst., by a majority said to be in excess of 2000 over G. A. Brethen, ex-MP, Progressive in the last parliament.

40 YEARS AGO

OCTOBER 31, 1915

Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., died in Ottawa yesterday morning. The venerable statesman was one of the most picturesque figures in Canadian politics. He was the last of the Fathers of Confederation. For the past few years he lived in Kent, England, and was in his 95th year. He served as High Commissioner for Canada in London, England. In January, 1896, he assumed the administration of Sir Mackenzie Bowell as Secretary of State, and upon the resignation of Sir Mackenzie Bowell as Prime Minister, he formed a Liberal Conservative administration in which he held the office of Prime Minister and Secretary of State from April 27th, 1896, to July 8th, 1896, when the consequence of the defeat of his party in the polls on June 23, 1896, he resigned. He became leader of the opposition in August, 1896. His son, Mr. Charles Tupper of Winnipeg, succeeds to the honors.

From our file copy at this time in 1915: Sir Lomer Gouin and Sir Charles Tupper called on President Grover Cleveland in Washington yesterday.

From our file copy at this time in 1905: A fire was fed one dollar and costs of fifty cents in the police court this morning for having rescued his cow from the custody of the pound inspector. Also that, following item from same issue: If the manager of the opera house would cause a few drops of oil to be put on the hinges of the inside door of the house he would confer a favor on many patrons who are now annoyed by its dismal squeaking.

Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School celebrated recently the fifth anniversary of its founding. The oldest scholars living are as follows: Mr. Horace Yeomans, who is now 86 years of age, joined the school in 1837; Mrs. Melissa Ketcheson Lyon, now 83 years, became a member in 1838; Mrs. Hannah R. Ketcheson of Oswego, N.Y., who became a member in 1830 at the age of 8 years; Sir Mackenzie Bowell joined in 1832 when he was ten years old. The Rev. J. F. Wilson is the present leader of the church and Mr. William Johnson the superintendent of the school, has faithfully and attentively filled the position for thirty-one years.

TURKS' TASTES BLOODTHIRSTY

(Spectator, London)

The violence of the Turkish reaction to events in Cyprus surprises no one who has frequented the Turkish cafes.

I remember one near the college of derviches in Nicosia, where the decorations on the walls consisted of two luridly colored prints.

One showed a Sultan sliding off the head of an infidel; another a janissary standing on one leg (the other leg rested on the ground) giving a vertical version of the same treatment to yet another ghastly object.

They simply served to confirm my earlier impression of the Victorian Empire, which centred around a sentence in an old Punch joke: "The turkey sawed the archbishop and the governor in two, and consolidated several other grave breaches of international law."

Eight Hour Day Just a Myth

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

It used to be said that "a man may work from sun to sun, but a woman's work is never done."

It also used to be that many, if not most, workers lived within walking distance of their jobs. They put in a 12 hour day, and it was hailed as a great advance when it became 10 hours. And then even greater gain when it got to be eight.

That's what happened. Workers in city offices and plants have moved to the suburbs. Modern and widening thruway city residents work have moved to the suburbs. Modern and widening highways during rush hours and the two-way traffic is surprising.

Many of these people spend a half hour each day to and from their jobs. Maybe they do work eight hours. But with lunch and two hours for transportation make it 10½ hours. And when they get home they are at least one or two hours of chores that demand immediate attention.

Eight hours? It's nearer 12 in most households today.

Better be Minister

(Milwaukee Journal)

An ambassador with whom we were talking the other day complained to us the chief difference between an ambassador and a minister from his personal viewpoint. An ambassador must be seated near the head of the table, with—we should imagine—a three to one chance of getting next to an old bore. The luckier minister, being of lower rank, gets to sit farther down, where there are excellent chances of sitting next to a pretty girl.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SIZE AND WEIGHT

It is neither the size nor weight of anything that gives to it its outstanding importance. Instead we recall a prominent business man who remarked that he attributed to his help by weight. A jewel loses its charm, and much of its beauty, if we come to feel that it attracts morbid attention.

Those wrestlers and boxers are frequently defeated by smaller and more agile opponents. Goliath was not an inch or so above five feet in height. The seat of intelligence is not in the head. Brain size nor weight is a safe criterion. They had to be the body of the great poet Pope, he was so small and his body so weak.

These facts also like to boast about their salaries, their estates, or possessions, but most of these things are anywhere near so important as a man's personality, his kindliness or generosity. The only thing I have ever read, or heard, about Governor Lehman is the fact that he was very wealthy. That's not such its weight in gold.

Says Thanks For $42,000

(Sydney Post-Record)

A study of facial expression of words recording by the camera probably was the look in the Michigan truck driver's face, when the woman said, "Well, thanks", and got in her car and drove off. He had just handed to her a purse containing $42,000 in large bills neatly tied together with rubber bands with a piece of paper listing the amount of money.

The trucker halted his truck when he saw the purse beside the road. He had dreams of a trip around the world when he opened the purse and saw what was inside.

"I never saw so much money in my life", he said in telling about his experience.

Then a large car pulled up, and a woman got out. "Give me back my purse", she said. When asked to prove it was hers, she rattled off the amount of money and told him how it was wrapped. "Yep, it's yours", he had said, and gulped.

The woman explained she was driving alone and the door must not properly have closed as she opened it and then closed it tight, but not before the purse fell out on the floor along she discovered the loss. So, the truck driver gave her the purse and said she was on her way to close a deal to buy a store and a business. "Well, thanks", was his only reward.

So Passeth The Old West!

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

We read with a profound sense of shock that that picturesque city of the Canadian west, that was the home of the "gun-toting, buck-a-chain" cowpoke, that city of six-gun carnival, that "open door" bar rooms, rodeos and stampedes, Calgary, was no fit place for the cowpuncher. Not just a plain dreamaker, but a couturiere, by the way.

We find this all rather sad. Imagine a Calgary cowpoke in Alberta is washing away the color of the West. It's unbelievable. "Calgary? My, My! Lace on riding chaps, you guess, will soon be the height of fashion in Calgary. So goeth the old West.

Basic Principle

(Hamilton Spectator)

The Duchess of Windsor's collaborator has quit his job helping her write her autobiography but the reasons for the parting of collegians are inaccurate. Which is the case, that the fellow doesn't grasp the basic principle of memoir-writing: If you're short on facts, put them in the footnotes where nobody will read them.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Dangerous Age?

Fear plays a star role in many real or imaginary ailments encountered in the menopause or change of life.*

In the first lapse of our second forty years comes the slowing down and cessation of reproductive powers. For folks who are fully informed as to what to expect—nothing at all in most instances—there will be no fear.

Movies have made it abundantly clear even to children that the baby's waning secular vigor can lead him sadly astray. The astray part is the movie; the return home is tucked on at the finish to satisfy the P.T.A. But knowledge of his own motives should protect all but the gullible from resorting to ladies of the night to tell sad, monkey or goat glands, or kindred experiments in the foolish hope of retarding a process in common to all. Such experiments can only empty the wallet and/or the home. Nature proceeds on her way, unimpressed.

U.S. View Of Our Dollars

(New York Times)

Last week the Canadian dollar was quoted at a 2½ per cent discount in terms of our own in the foreign exchange market. It was not the largest discount the relationship had previously even momentarily for three or four half years.

This dip in the Canadian dollar rate does not necessarily indicate a currency in distress. It doesn't even mean that the Canadian dollar is under pressure in terms of our. The parity set for the Canadian dollar in 1946 was the equivalent of 90.9 American cents. On Sept. 30 1950, however, the Canadian Government, after consulting with officials of the International Monetary Fund announced that it was going to abandon this fixed ratio for the Canadian dollar and let the dollar to the forces of demand and supply.

The reason most appeals for such special dispensations, that of the Canadian Government was not stated, but by weakness in its currency but by the fact that it was in a position to do so. In the preceding three months there had been an unprecedented and overwhelming movement of funds into Canadian currency in the period the country's reserves of gold and dollars had risen by $334 millions, with roughly half coming in the month of September alone. This influx of foreign funds could not be sterilized without serious threats. It increased inflationary pressures and threatened the danger of instability—into the country's export industries.

Once released from its official rate, the Canadian dollar started to depreciate. It went down to 100 cents mark, in our currency, by mid-October. There was at first retained last January when it was quoted at a premium of 3 11/16 cents. Since that time it has been receding more or less uninterruptedly, a fact explained by the country's measure by a change in the direction of capital movements, principally in the direction of the United States.

This being so, some might say that the time was at hand for Canada to put a revaluation up to a fixed exchange rate. There are others, however, who profess to see no reason why Canada that are too vital to risk jeopardizing at this stage of prosperity and knowing a change of currency policy. They note that the flight of capital has now been repatriating Canadian securities held abroad. And she recently picked up a large Australian bond issue that in other days might have come to the American market. They ask if Canada may not be emerging as a country financially and industrially self-sufficient and if indeed she may not be becoming a supplier of capital to the outside world. If that were the case we might be about to witness the unfolding of a really significant chapter in the monetary story of the industrial revolution.

Madawaska Language

(Fredericton Gleaner)

In swashbuckling Madawaska County, indeed throughout northern New Brunswick, it is inevitable that French is quite pungently spiced with English.

Correct French for lemonade, for instance, is "un citron pressé," rather than "limonade," which is rarely used; "un jeu" for baseball, "un ball" at a baseball game, "un beau hit" for a home run. Thus New Brunswick French insinuates itself into the vocabulary of many French terms there is no precise English. We have borrowed "un rendez-vous" — perhaps kindness or "un accident" — but "un" does not say it precisely. Similarly "la joie de vivre" and "déjeuner à la fourchette" are inexpressible in English.

French terms are more logical. A hobby in French is "un violon d'Ingres." It is said that Jean Marie Ingres was a painter; as a hobby he played the violin; and in his garden on one occasion, a time, that is your "violon d'Ingres." A temperate husband is "mene par le bout du nez" (led around by the nose.) A man "mange ses mots" (eats his words.) A tip is "un pour boire." (For a price of a drink.) These are all very logical.

But in English it baffles the learner. Take the word "fast." A business man from Edmunston, in town the other day, remarked that if he paddles his canoe across the river for 10 minutes, he travels fast; if he moors it to the wharf, then the canoe is fast; if he shuts the gate very little, he is on a fast; if he paints the town with three consecutive evenings, his English friends tell him he is a fast liver; if can speak English," he says, "but I do not understand it!"

Then there is the matter of French words that have practically become part of the English language — puisant, tete-a-tete, bric-a-brac, and so on. How frequently are they used? In this connection, H. W. Fowler, in "Modern English for King's English," writes as follows:

"Display of superior knowledge is a great a vulgarity as the display of superior wealth; greater, indeed, inasmuch as knowledge should tend more than wealth towards direction and general management; the guiding principle in using French words in English is to use them as if one is one of the select few to whom French is second nature is incomprehensible and rude."

Critical Zone

There is still a critical zone of unemployment—the one just north of the cars.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The father of my new nephew, who is a relative of mine only by marriage, was giving the twenty year old son some counsel with regard to choosing a girl for his wife.

"Son," he said, "I have only one piece of advice to give you. Marry a girl who can't cook."

"Aw!" said my nephew, bitterly, "Yes, and I warned up to me has been my experience that brunettes can cook better than blondes. Most blondes can do is what they call casseroles."

"Uncle Greg!" interrupted my nephew.

"Yes?"

"What about falling in love? If you are in love, can you go looking around at frying pans in the girl's kitchen, or see if she's got an appendix scar, or go snooping through their closets to see if she has a fur coat?"

"Fortunately," I confessed, humbly, "no."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GET OUT OF THE WAY OF CATASTROPHE

There are quite a few people today who are beginning to doubt the potency of what appears to be the current religious revival.

More people believe the church today than at any other time in our nation's history. The churches are overcrowded. Many thousand people now seem to have an interest in religion which far exceeds the general interest of a few decades ago. But at the same time we have more divorce, more acute domestic disturbance, more juvenile delinquency than ever before. Our criminals get younger by the year, and crime increases at a shocking rate. Our morals appear—at least among the middle classes—to be much worse than they were a generation ago.

Our age is a glorious age of scientific achievement. Social morality is higher than it has been in many previous ages. Society seems to be taking a backing. A situation of this sort is always a warning signal for any civilization. According to Toynbee, nineteen civilization have come and gone. Always as a civilization took a nose dive, it began to manifest certain of the symptoms we are manifesting today.

We had better be careful lest Destiny toss our civilization on the scrap heap with the rest of them.

Paper Proposes State Ownership Of Companies

MONTREAL (CP)—The Gazette today prints on its front page lengthy extracts from an editorial in the French-language Montreal daily Le Devoir which posed the possibility of compulsory state ownership for one or more newsprint companies.

In its editorial Saturday, Le Devoir said:

"Will it be necessary to bring about the nationalization of International Paper or St. Lawrence Paper to bring back to the papermakers a true understanding of their obligations?

"If this extreme solution were to become necessary there exists in Quebec a 'social climate' capable of rendering rapidly popular such a proposition."

The editorial mentioned company statements and also charges in the United States of a cartel in the newsprint industry, it added:

"Judging by the contradictory declarations and the evident falsities formulated in the course of the last few weeks by a few newsprint magnates, the only cartel that exists is that of stupidity. On this ground, one can say that the paper-making cartel has a monopoly."

FIND CHILD'S BODY

FOWERS LAKE, N. D. (AP)—The body of LaVerne Cook, 4, for whom an estimated 3,000 men searched three days, was found last a year ago, was found Sunday in a slough one mile from his farm home. Sheriff Ole Engel, identified clothing on the body as that worn by LaVerne the day he disappeared.

TEARS SHED AS 77-YEAR-OLD RAILWAY MAKES LAST RUN

Last run of its career is made by the Collingwood Flyer as it chugs into Beeton, Ont. Many tears were shed by residents of Beeton, Alliston, Lisle, Creemore, Dunvron, Nottawa and Collingwood over the passing of the 77-year-old line which was the first in the district and had developed many happy times when his whole face looked that way.

Aw, I told you it was hair, what's a use of changing the subject? I said, and pop said, That's no hair, Yes gosh, it be that you've plucked your eyebrows?" he said. Aw heck, here's a real hint, I said.

And I quick mussed my hair up in all directions, and ma said, Now you're not going to sit here like a scarecrow in an abandoned field. Go right back and come down looking like a gentleman, she said.

Meaning the way I came down in the ferst place.

Proving the best reason to do our good actions is probably for our own conscience and not to surprise somebody else.

We offer this as a Lazie label for a brand-new type of barnyard fowl—a skating rooster. "Buster" is reported to be a nonchalant performer on a pair of 3-inch roller skates taped to his feet. Need we add that they're of feather-weight aluminum.

No less impressive than this fowl's spirit of derring-do is the resourcefulness of the designers and engineers who dream up new uses for aluminum—from gadgets (see above) to furniture to minesweepers. It keeps Alcan's researchers busy, working with customer companies with new ideas on how to use aluminum to create lighter, more lasting products.

Dior Says Knees Not as Pretty As Buzzums

TORONTO (CP)—"Knees," says Paris designer Christian Dior, "are not as pretty as bunums."

But although Mr. Dior may have some difficulty in pronouncing "bosoms," he states emphatically that they have an important place in the fashion of the immediate future.

With that in mind, the famed French designer keeps mi'lady's keep under cover.

Mr. Dior, who arrived in Toronto Thursday to renew old acquaintances, said there will be no "drastic changes" in women's styles next season.

But, he adds, "even savages must have styles" so there will be a few adjustments in 1956.

He had a pat on the back for Canadian designers. Canadians, he said, "need not be envious of any other country" when it comes to fashion. But Canadian designers still had to take the lead from Paris.

ASK DAMAGES

Mr. Dior's lawyers estimate his current designs worth $1,250,000.

That's the figure he and some fellow Paris designers are asking a judge to get from four United States "cut-rate" style houses, contributed to apply on the Auxiliary allocation.

The importance was stressed of fully and promptly filling out the yearly report forms soon to be mailed to each society.

Mrs. C. E. Hicks, of Bloomfield, vice-president of the section, presided for both morning and afternoon sessions.

Following the opening hymn, the minister of the church, Rev. Robert Sherwin, offered prayer, after which the devotions were conducted by Miss Edith Burley and Mrs. Richard Potter, the subject being "Discipleship—Our High Calling. We witness best by what we are, and it is our high privilege to introduce Christ to others who know Him not."

Mrs. Hicks, in her opening remarks, reminded the ladies that "every organization worth anything at all, makes demands on its members, and to be a member a worthwhile job. To be a consistant Christian in service we need fellowship with Christ and better knowledge of our sisters in other lands."

PROGRAM

At all five rallies of the Belleville Presbyterial which are held during October, the work of the following departments was stressed: Literature, periodical, Christian citizenship, Christian stewardship and the need for candidates for full time church service. The special secretaries of those departments presented the plans for each branch of the work, visiting each auxiliary.

1—Mrs. Pierce Jones of Picton, one of this group, gave an interesting literature review and mentioned the study packet, the "Missionary Monthly" and the "United Church Observer;" as being of great value in the new study of the oldest and newest Canadian citizens, the Indian and the newcomers to Canada's shores. She also told of the splendid books of the new reading course, many of which are to be found in public libraries. Mrs. Jones urged to send some of their young girls to the School for Leaders.

2—Mrs. M. R. Davidson, of Belleville, Christian citizenship secretary, urged that each department of this work be stressed in some special way. She mentioned in the year: temperance, social welfare, world peace and racial brotherhood. She stated that the United Church turns "thumbs down" on all forms of gaming in raffles, "though it means easy money for good causes. The drinking church member is a social menace, but the gospel of Jesus Christ has power to transform personalities and societies. The "Christian Citizenship" packet will assist secretaries in the work. Later in the program Mrs. Davidson inspired all with a lovely solo. Mrs. George McKillop was her accompanist.

3—Mrs. R. G. Coulter, of Belleville, secretary of Christian stewardship for Belleville Presbyterial, assisted by Mrs. E. W. Jones, of Foxboro, the treasurer, explained many points regarding the best methods of raising the annual budget in the stewardship way.

Although there was an increase last year of giving, yet many needy phases of the work lack sufficient funds. The allocation for this next year is requested to be an increase of $700 over last year's givings—really only about 58 cents more for each member or one more missionary circle organization.

Systematic and proportionate giving by weekly or monthly envelope was stressed.

In Memoriam Certificates are now available for friends of WMS members deceased, to be presented in place of flowers to their memory and the money thereby

"They stole our patterns, and their reproductions aren't even accurate," he said.

In 1947, Mr. Dior was a relative unknown in the fashion world when he hit Paris with his below-the-knees "new lo k."

He's gone to the "H", the "A" and the "Y"-look since then.

"I guess I'll do. I could make a fashion out of the 'Z'," he said. "But what's the point?"

Although he designs stretching fashions for women, Mr. Dior favors for himself a three-button single-breasted suit that was conservative 30 years ago. He has never been married.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session opened with the hymn "O Canada", using the version written by Rev. J. E. MacKay. Rev. J. L. Ross offered prayer for the work of Christian Missions.

Miss Brown began her address in lyrical Chinese fashion, with a Chinese phrase which, translated, meant, "I am truly unworthy." Miss Brown said of the interpreter of the hymn, "He filleth with His fullness"—all things with love, increase, His every day year with goodness, with plenty, and with vices."

"Someone has said it is worth a trip around the world just to see Hong Kong. It is one of the strategic spots in the struggle between the free world and the Red Curtain. There we live and work, always, in the midst of refugees. Hong Kong is just 11 miles distant. More than a million refugees poured into Hong Kong. Relatives took in as many as they could but nearly a million had to find shelter in little shacks made of whatever was available, and sometimes just on a hill-side in somebody's doorway. Working through the Church of Christ in China, we try to do what we can, but this refugee church is miserably weak in material. Spiritually they are great.

CRITICAL YEARS

The year of 1951 was a most critical one for the church had no schools to train its leaders in Hong Kong. So they offered two months' training in the Union Theological Seminary. Here Christian literature was constantly produced and such in praise of Stalin.

"We resolved, with the help of the grant from the United Church, to print the children's book again, "Happy Childhood". The project was helped. Among them were PHDs, artists, writers, some of them Germans and White Russians living in hovels. Thus, in 1951 a small propaganda weapon was born with relief money. A new church, a new school and a clinic were part of The Lutheran Missionary Society sent money for a small school built to train Bible women.

10,000 HOMELESS

"The big fire in 1953 left 10,000 people homeless. In times of drought, many fires broke out because of shacks built of inflammable. In 1953 another fire left 60,000 homeless. Of course, that year we called Toronto. "Can you give us any help?" "To our great delight they sent $5000.00 to help the overpowering need for food and housing. At one time eight million meals, free, were given in four months. We, W.M.S. to build ten houses, two rooms in each. Wycliffe Village it is called. It was for use of Christians or those who were sympathetic to the Christian ethic.

Today there are villages with a fine modern hospital for the lepers and 1,000 blind from communist China.

"The Christian church is throbbing with new life in Hong Kong, and day by day they look on from the other side of the Iron Curtain,

Mother at Five and Son Both Living, Doing Well

Editor's note: Sixteen years ago, the world was startled to learn of the birth of a healthy baby boy to a five-year-old Peruvian girl in Lima. Known in Peru's best specialists confirmed the event, but could not offer an explanation. Mother and son dropped out of sight. Here's the story of how they've lived the years since Lisa Medina became the world's youngest mother.

By LUIS LEON

LIMA, Peru (AP)—The clock on the scrubbed tile wall of the operating room in Lima's maternity hospital showed 9:05 a. m.

In the galleries, more than a score of doctors watched intently. At the operating table stood a colleague, Dr. Gerardo Lozada.

They were waiting to observe the delivery, by cesarean section, of a baby from a five-year-old mother. On May 14, 1939, it was, ironically, Mother's Day in Peru.

By 9:35 a. m., the operation was complete. Gerardo Alejandro Medina, a healthy baby boy, was born. Ten minutes later, the world's youngest mother, Lisa Medina, opened her eyes and said she was feeling well. The baby by her side, until she noticed with surprise it could move its arms, legs and eyes.

MYSTERY TO DOCTORS

Lisa's pregnancy had gone before this half-Indian, half-white child, born in a poverty-ridden Andean village, became the new baby was her own child. She would, for a long time, believe it was a new brother.

Almost every gynecologist practicing in the area of Lima traveled to the maternity hospital to study the strange case. None could explain the pregnancy.

Some pointed out there were frequent festivities celebrated by Indians in Andean villages like the one where Lima was born. These often ended up in orgies in which rape was not uncommon. But if this theory were accepted, there still was no explanation of how a five-year-old girl could conceive a child.

Lisa and her son dropped out of sight but Dr. Lozada kept in touch. A pale, pretty girl of 22, she now is an employee in Dr. Lozada's private hospital in Lima.

When I went to see her at the hospital, a friendly doctor helped. Her father Lisa had avoided interviews and would be extremely reluctant to talk about herself. She was.

"Why do you come to disturb me?" she asked.

PROMOTERS REJECTED

Finally she agreed to answer a few questions about what her life has been like. She explained that after her baby was born she was approached by hundreds of representative who wanted to exploit her and her son abroad.

Doctors turned the offers down with indignant rejections. Lisa's father, Tiburcio Medina, who thought only of his daughter's health finally had been opened to him and his family.

The only publicity fanfare dwindled the father finally took Lisa and his new grandson back to their mountain village and went on cultivating the small piece of leased land as he had done before.

Later, Lisa was taken to the capital and exiled by people who had taken an interest in the case and felt pity for her. The top Cerro de Pasco oil company, a subsidiary of the New York Rockefeller interests, decided to help her. She probably the best bugle player the school ever had.

Lisa told me the boy is fine, is still in school—and wants to be a doctor.

Catholic Women to Undertake 'Decency Crusade' on Books

TORONTO (CP)—A "crusade of decency" directed at the corner book stand is to be undertaken by Roman Catholic women in Ontario.

Every bookstand in every city, town and village in central Ontario will be visited by teams from the 11,000-member provincial Catholic Women's League, Nov. 14 to 26.

They will check the dealer's supply against a list of more than 300 books and suggest that any appearing on the stand be returned to the distributors.

Mrs. George Davis of Toronto, the league's convener of the project announced Thursday night 600 women are being trained for the campaign.

"They will be friendly and courteous," she stressed. "The organization of Decent Literature in the United States

OFFENSIVELY SEXY?

Books on the list have been disapproved by the NODL reviewers each of whom is a mother, who asked of them:

Do the books glorify or condone base characters or immoral acts?

Do they contain material offensively sexy, portray illicit love, use blasphemous, profane or obscene language?

Do they treat in a manner unfit for the curious minded?

Do they tend to create disrespect for legitimate law and its officers?

Mrs. Davis said the NODL is a Catholic organization. Its Edivce, she said, has been accepted by Catholic women's groups in many parts of the United States.

PUBLIC APATHY

She said the campaign is necessary "mainly because of public apathy over lewd literature which tends to control indecent literature.

"Even when an indictment is obtained there is a conviction is often difficult. Rarely do we see a lurid publication on what is illegally lewd or obscene.

"We are approaching dealers rather than publishers, because we do not believe an appeal to the publishers' conscience would get us. They are more interested in profits than the moral danger of the trash they are issuing. For years various groups have been passing sumptuous resolutions on this subject. But resolutions get nowhere."

Mrs. Davis said the parish for the archdiocese of Toronto has been asked to set up teams of two women, who will attend to bare dealers in the parish.

WILL RETIRE

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop said Friday Rev. Rene Lamoureux, principal of University of Ottawa Teachers' College, will leave Nov. 1. Dr. Lamoureux will be succeeded by Dr. Leo-Paul Pigeon.

Making of Soapde China Shown At Women's Guild

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held its monthly meeting in the church parlors.

The Guild agreed to place flowers in the church, anniversary Sunday also to purchase 50 steel folding chairs and 12 steel tables for bazaars and teas.

Mrs. Ryan reported the bazaar to be held last of November was progressing well.

The speaker, Mr. J. Blackburn was introduced by Mrs. Williamson. Mr. Blackburn of Stroud's gift shop, showed a picture on the making of Spode china and he also displayed some Spode chinawares in the process of manufacture which included the four steps from the biscuit to the finished glazed plate.

Mrs. Gelsthorpe thanked Mr. Blackburn for his interesting film and talk.

Refreshments were served bringing the meeting to a close.

HOW TO APPLY FACE ROUGE PROPERLY

Proper face effects 'rouge should always be applied in a good light and before an equally good mirror.

To look natural, face rouge should be applied subtly. Nothing shrieks of artifice as two round spots of bright red on the cheeks and nothing so detracts from the effectiveness of a complete make-up job than rouge improperly applied.

The first thing to do is to decide on the type of rouge which is best for you. It comes in three varieties —cream, liquid and cake. The new liquid ones and the cream types are especially easy to use since they glide on smoothly and, if you overdo the application, a tissue will remove the excess with a quick touch.

Cake rouge is good for touch-ups during the day. This kind of rouge, unlike the liquid and cream variety, goes on after powdering. The liquid and cream varieties should be applied immediately after the foundation and should be well blended before the powder or pressed powder is applied.

It's smart to use your face rouge and your lipstick in the same shade. That means, for instance, a blue-red lipstick with a rose rouge and a geranium rouge with an orange-red lipstick.

The method of application is just as important as the type of rouge and the shade. Never, but never, apply rouge to your cheeks in circular form. Generally speaking, its application should be triangular in effect. Start a little off-center on the cheek, move toward the nose then toward the outer cheek, then curve outward toward the temple and downward toward the jawline. This eliminates the possibility of your cheeks looking like two rosy spots. And don't think for a minute that rouge can be used to change the shape of a feature. Some women think that if they apply rouge to the tip of your nose will, when blended in, make your nose seem shorter. A dab on the chin and ear lobes will perk up your appearance when you're looking a little on the washed-out side and just a little on the pallid side. If you've an extra sparkle to the eyes, don't feel that you must use rouge.

If rouge to nose, chin, ear lobes and eye lids, however or how small will be freakish. It makes one sore then. Always apply rouge in good light and before an equally good mirror.

When used in the right way, rouge does wonders for a woman. But used wrongly—oh, well, you've seen some of the results yourself, haven't you? A little practice and any woman can learn to do it correctly, however.

ARRIVES FOR TALKS

ISTANBUL, Turkey (Reuters)—Lieut-Gen. Germaxys' Defence Minister Theodor Blank arrived here by air today night for talks on military matters with Turkish officials. Adolf Heusinger, expected to be chief of the German general staff, arrived here earlier and his visit to Turkish military establishments.

DOUBLE INVITATION . . . TO CEREMONY, TO RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be entirely correct for us to use a "combination" invitation for our daughter's wedding—that is, to invite all the guests to the church ceremony and then to the reception at our house immediately afterwards? I have seen this type of invitation only once or twice, but to me it seems practical when all guests are invited to both ceremony and reception. What is your advice about this? If you approve, will you please suggest the correct form? — Bride's Mother.

This double invitation is entirely correct, and is, as you say, practical when you wish to invite all the guests to the church ceremony and to the reception afterwards. (Very often used when reception is to be in Church Social Rooms.) This kind of invitation is, of course, engraved on the large double-sheet vellum "wedding invitation paper"; on the first page, and carefully spaced:

Mr. and Mrs. George Lee Hall request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Elizabeth to Mr. Peter Worthington on Tuesday, the eighth of December at four o'clock The Park Church Haven, New York and afterwards at Four Pleasant Street R.s.v.p.

SHOULD EXPLAIN "LOAN" OF BRIDAL VEIL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a very beautiful rosepoint wedding veil which I would like to offer to my niece, who is also my goddaughter, to wear at her wedding quite soon. But I want to offer it to her to wear, and to keep, for I have a teenage daughter whom I want to give it to later. Would you think that my niece might take it for granted that I am giving or lending it to her? I don't want to give it to her, should not even offer it to her? —Aunt-Godmother

It would never occur to me that your niece would take it for granted that an offer like this would mean that the bridal veil was to be a gift. However, if you think there is even a remote possibility of her misinterpreting your generous gesture, it is simple to make it perfectly definite that you are lending it, not giving it. Graciously explain, "Sister dear, I would love to have you wear my rosepoint wedding veil at your wedding, if you would like to. Of course it's for Sue to wear later, but it's for you to wear now, if you say the word."

TWO QUESTIONS FROM THE GROOM'S PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We are the parents of the groom-to-be. The mother and father of the bride-to-be are separated. If, at the wedding rehearsal, I am to stand next to the bride's mother in the receiving line, does my husband stand next to me, or does he just mingle with the guests?

2. When I walk down the church aisle, do I take the usher's left arm, or do I walk up the aisle with my husband? — Groom's Parents

1. It is the bride's mother who makes these arrangements . . . and you wait for her to tell you . . . her plan may be to have your husband mingle with the guests rather than to stand in the receiving-line. (Either plan is correct . . . depends on the preference of the hostess, the bride's mother.)

2. The usher offers you his right arm . . . the idea is "the lady on the right of the gentleman" . . . you take his arm and walk with him up the aisle, your husband following.

HERE HER SIGNATURE MUST INCLUDE HER MAIDEN SURNAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The question I would like to ask you has arisen in connection with several situations recently. The problem now is that I am planning to send out birth announcement cards shortly. As I married an ex-fellow man, some people do not recognize me by my married name. How would you suggest I sign these cards to clarify exactly who I am?

And the same problem will repeat itself when we send out our Christmas cards. — E.

In both cases I suggest you write your complete informal name (title, name, initial, surname, married surname) with your husband's name, thus: Mrs. Paul Alan Brooks and Edith Halo

(Note: When you sign the cards, or the Christmas cards, you, politely, omit your title.)

HUSBAND SHOULD "SECOND" WIFE'S INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and are having a dinner party soon in honor of your point of view. I think that when he and I are making dates with some friends, from church or the movies or a meeting of some kind (the four will be his own), and invite them to come in, he should say at least a little something to second my invitation. But he thinks this is unnecessary, and that if he adds something to my invitation, it would be just a form with no meaning. What do you think? — He and I

Although of course your invitation, as hostess, is actually enough, it seems to me that it would be quite natural and hospitable for your husband to add, as you so well say, "a little something to second the invitation. If he doesn't say anything, I might . . . just might . . . suggest that he's something on the unwelcoming side.

GROOM PROVIDES ASCOTS AND GLOVES FOR ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our wedding is to be a very formal church wedding. I am the prospective groom, and I'm planning the attire for the men in the wedding party. I am an accessory-thusiast, and I'd like to have all the men in the wedding party wear ascots. Should I provide these? —Groom-to-be

Yes. You should provide these ascots and, if your attendants are to wear gloves (as I imagine you will want them to at this very formal wedding), you should provide these gloves also.

Puddings to Taste And Remember

By Mary Moore

A warm feeling runs all through me when I open the mail and find requests for fillings. It sounds so homey—as if there's a family and wife there who cooks because she loves it, and cooks for a family she loves.

Times was when every house had its own special recipe for rice pudding but what with reducing diets and suburban living and super markets everything seems to have become streamlined.

It is up to us—the mothers in the family—to recapture some of the charm of cooking and serving wholesome meals. The joy we share with our loved ones as they dip their spoons into one's mother's best—yet puddings is worth a little extra effort isn't it?

MOTHER'S RICE PUDDING

One-half cup raw long-grain rice, 2 cups whole milk, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3-4 cup light brown sugar firmly packed, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla and if desired for extra nutrition 1-4 cup skim milk powder (this also gives a richer taste to the pudding). Wash rice under running water in a sieve and drain well, and put in top of double boiler with milk. Cook until rice is soft, stirring frequently. About 5 minutes before rice is done separate yolks from whites of eggs and beat yolks. Remove rice from heat and stir butter into it, then slowly drizzle the yolks into it, as you stir constantly—this must be gradual or yolks will curdle. Now add brown sugar, mixed with the skim milk powder if it is used, and the vanilla. Allow to cool at room temperature. Beat whites until stiff enough to cut, then fold into cooled rice gently. Pour into medium-sized casserole, or scrole, stand it in larger pan containing 1 inch of hot water and bake 30 minutes at 325 deg. Fahr. This amount will serve six and rich pouring cream should be passed.

LEMON SOUFFLE

(Don't be afraid of that word "souffle". This one has no fuss in it and does not collapse before your eyes.)

One tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 lemons, 3 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1-3 cup each evaporated milk and water (or 1 cup whole milk), 1-4 teaspoon baking powder. Cream together the butter, sugar and flour until light, then add the grated rind and juice of the lemons. Beat egg yolks and blend them in then gradually add the milk and water. Beat egg whites until very stiff then fold them in with the baking powder. Turn into medium-sized buttered casserole and stand it in larger pan containing 1 inch hot water. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 35 to 40 minutes. For perfect results this should be served at once, so should be timed to go into the oven just before you are ready to serve dinner.

APPLE TAPIOCA (PEARL)

Sago may be used if desired.

Three-quarters cup pearl tapioca, 2 1-2 cups boiling water, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 6 medium-sized tart apples, whole cloves, 1-3 cup sugar. Soak tapioca overnight or several hours in plenty of cold water to cover. Drain. Add the boiling water and salt and cook in double boiler until almost transparent. Wash core and pare apples; stick 2 cloves in each (or scatter or also apples and omit cloves). Place in buttered pudding dish, fill centres of apples with sugar (or sprinkle it over if apples are not left whole). Pour tapioca over apples and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until apples are tender. Serve with

HARD SAUCE:

One-third cup butter, 1 cup fruit or light brown or icing sugar, 1-8 teaspoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Cream the butter until very light and gradually cream sugar into it. Add flavorings and chill on serving plate, spreading in attractive swirls. The brown sugar variation is best, I think, with Apple Pudding.

You may vary the fruits—plum, peach, pineapple are good too.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T FOOL YOURSELF, MISS DEE; OF COURSE YOU CARE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

For five months, I have been going with a boy. I am 19. Although I see him seven nights a week, sometimes we are not going steady. When I ask him why, he says he doesn't want to tie me down.

The other day, one of his buddies asked me to go out with him. I was tempted to go, just to see what my friend would say. If I do go out with this other fellow, it would show my boy friend that I really don't care whether we go steady or not.

Why you think I should go, or remain in the dark as to whether or not he cares enough to go steady? — Miss Dee

Dear Miss Dee:

Of course you care whether you go steady with this boy friend or not. That is obvious. Obviously have in mind, when you think of going out with his buddy is, not to show that you really don't care, but to see if you can make him so jealous that he'll be in a hurry to seal a bargain to go steady. Why try to fool yourself? You're certainly not fooling me.

The sensible thing to do would be to tell him that you will accept at face value his statement that he does not want to go steady, but that, in this case, it's silly for you to be spending every night in the week together. Say that, under these circumstances, you contemplate going out with other men, and that since this other chap has invited you out, you think you'll do so. Then see what sort of answer you get, and govern yourself accordingly.

This, as I say, would be the sensible thing to do. But somehow I have an idea that you'll be too afraid of losing your man to risk it. How about it?

STIRLING

Laurel Rebekah Lodge Holds Installation Ceremony

STIRLING — On Thursday, Stirling Community Hall was the scene of a gala event when a large number of ladies patronized the sixth annual bazaar and tea of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211.

The hall was decorated in a colour scheme for Hallowe'en under the direction of Mrs. Audrey Elliott and her assistants.

HALLOWE'EN DECOR

Large banner of crepe paper in yellow with rust maple leaves were hung across the hall to divide the tea room from the market place. Glowing pumpkins, candle lit, were atop the white gate-posts to welcome the guests and yellow streamers accented the Hallowe'en effect.

The various booths were decorated with crepe banners and yellow pumpkins were set up at strategic points and this was highlighted by a glowing light with the lodge lettering.

Noble Grand Mrs. Erma Clancy and vice-Grand Miss Mary Hulin graciously welcomed the guests and Rebekah members as they arrived. A number of ladies from Tweed, Madoc and the Belleville lodges attended the tea and visitors came from Carmel and Springbrook areas and from the village.

Among the distinguished guests were: Mrs. Jane Aman, president L.A.P.M., and Mrs. Stella Woods, Tweed, District Deputy President of District 6.

The financial secretaries were: Mrs. Thelma Ketcheson and Mrs. Irene Pollock, and the proceeds were most gratifying, with the net receipts approximately $200.

During the afternoon, two local business men, Messrs. Robert Patterson and Ross Hermiston, paid a delightful visit and each carried away numerous parcels.

The tea room was convened by Mrs. Edith Dunn and Mrs. Edith Bradshaw with a large number of members serving the delectable sandwiches and dainty cookies.

ATTRACTIVE SETTING

The central table was covered with a lovely boucle cloth with wide border of sand rayon— a birthday gift to one of the members who graciously lent it for this auspicious occasion. The two silver tea-services, black and yellow candelabra and Hallowe'en serviettes made an attractive setting for the tea, with a silver basket of yellow 'mums as a centrepiece.

Quartet tables centred with baby pumpkins and covered with Laurel embroidered covers were pleasingly placed about the room.

The piano was decorated in a matching color scheme and Mrs. Marjorie Stapley, Mrs. Cleta Elliott and Miss Laura Shorts provided lilting music during the afternoon.

The tea room hostesses were: P.N.G. Mrs. Effie Bailey; P.N.G. Mrs. Mabel Megginson and P.N.G. Miss Evelyn Bailey.

Those who poured were: D.D.P. Mrs. Irene Wood and Mrs. Arthur Packman. Mrs.-W. G. Fletcher and Mrs. N. G. Secker, Mrs. W. H. V. Walker and J.P.N.G. Mabel Barlow.

KITCHEN CONVENERS

The kitchen duties were convened by P.N.G. Mrs. Grace Vandervoort and P.N.G. Mrs. Mary Vandervoort.

The lunch convener, Mrs. Della Carlisle and her assistants replenished the plates.

The booths were all attractive and practically everything was sold to eager buyers at an early hour.

The touch-and-take was centred with a large crepe pumpkin, which looked almost real. P.N.G. Miss Gena Spry and Mrs. Cora Eggleton were in charge. A large assortment of boxed articles provided many surprises and a number of good bargains.

COUNTRY STORE

The Country Store displayed all kinds of articles from the farm: baskets of potatoes, rosy apples, yellow carrots, pumpkins, small green squash, a large assortment of onions, cabbage, cream, mayonnaise, relishes in several varieties, horseradish, jams and jellies of every description, a number of lovely house plants, several varieties of cucumber pickles and many other items. This booth was convened by Mrs. Olive Whitehead and Mrs. Helen Lamb.

Previous to the bazaar Mrs. Lamb sold apples to her customers and neighbors and realized over $12 for her efforts and this amount helped to swell the funds of the country store.

In the centre of the hall Mrs. Mary Cook sold tickets on a case of peas and corn previously donated by Harold Bird, local grocer. At 5 p.m. little Susan Bailey of Harold, Ontario, drew the number and Mrs. Elias Spry, of Stirling, was the winner.

At a nearby point of interest, Mrs. Mary Pitcher sold tickets on a beautiful, large angel cake which she had made and donated. A friend of her family executed the icing in white with large pink rosebuds. Mrs. Mabel Megginson drew the lucky ticket, and the winner was Mrs. Dorothy Green, of Laurel Lodge.

HOME COOKING

The home cooking booth was convened by Mrs. Isobel McIntosh and Mrs. Ethel Duffin. Here were displayed numerous buns, tarts of various varieties, some topped with cream; latticed pies and one with plain top; chocolate and loaf cakes, a large variety of cookies, jam filled; macaroons and dropped cookies, all mouth-watering which sold to eager buyers. Mrs. Olive Thompson acted as treasurer at this booth.

CANDY BOOTH

The candy booth was centred with a Hallowe'en pumpkin lantern in which design, and was convened by Mrs. Edna Fox, P.D.D.P., and Mrs. Martha Wells. A delectable variety of fudges, creams, divinity, peppermints in homemade versions as well as Hallowe'en kisses and other store items were sold in bags and boxes.

FINE HANDWORK

The fancy work and apron booth was centre with black cats, many lovely aprons were displayed on dressmaker models. There was a large variety of print aprons in comfortable sizes, organdie aprons in pretty designs and several novelty aprons. There were also embroidered pillow cases, crocheted doilies, hot dish mats, children's two-piece sets of gloves and bonnet, baby booties and wee mittens, white linen handkerchiefs with a variety of edgings in mauve, pink and variegated; pin cushion, novelty articles; hand made plaque, a lovely shopping bag, a set of clothes for a doll, and numerous other articles. Mrs. Annie Warren and Mrs. Maude Bell were the conveners in charge.

A large number of Rebekah Sisters assisted in the five booths and their services were greatly appreciated. The press reporters, Mrs. Florence MacMillan, was on the scene but it seemed to be a wise idea to refrain from mentioning by name the many who assisted in various places during the afternoon in case a few names were inadvertently missed in the write-up.

The weather was handed out an ideal sunny day which made driving a delight for those who came by auto and the village ladies enjoyed a walk in the autumn sunshine.

The bazaar was staged three weeks earlier than the usual date in November and was a splendid choice as far as weather was concerned. The affair was a decided success and was nicely conveyed and carried out.

The thanks of the Noble Grand goes out to all who assisted in any way.

More U.S. Ships Will Carry Guided Missiles

CHICAGO (AP)—A high navy official said today that more United States cruisers will be armed with guided missiles. He also said "the battleship may have a new future" as a robot-weapon vessel.

Undersecretary Thomas Gates noted in a speech prepared for the Naval Reserve Association that two cruisers are about ready to rejoin the fleet after being remodelled as guided-missile ships.

"These," he said, "will be the first visible confirmation of the advent of the missile launched from combatant ships, perhaps the most potent future weapon of the navy."

Gates said the heavy guided-missile cruiser Boston will be commissioned in Philadelphia next Thursday and that the Canberra "is only a few months behind her" in the conversion process.

Gates also said the navy wants more atomic submarines in addition to the eight now built, under construction or on order.

NOW! Try PUSS'n BOOTS

The cat food made from FRESH, WHOLE FISH!

These fresh-caught fish are rushed from Canadian coastal waters into sanitary canneries, where the whole fish is processed into Puss'n Boots Cat Food.

Now...Science Confirms

CATS GROW AND THRIVE ON NATURE'S LIFE BALANCE IN WHOLE FISH

CATS are delightful pets. Their changing moods from dignity to playfulness, their bright-eyed vigilance, their contented purring, their sleek-coated beauty . . . these lovable qualities have endeared felines to their owners for centuries.

But have you noticed that some cats show these traits much better than others? There's reason for that—and it explains how your cat can be livelier and lovelier, more active and contented . . . and more fun for you.

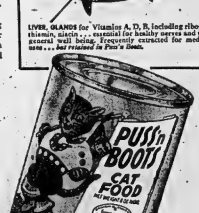
The secret of a cat's health and disposition is in its feeding. According to biologists, the best single food you can give your cat is whole fish. Not just any part or scrap of fish. There's an important scientific reason for that word "whole". It's really an exciting story for any cat owner who wants a healthy, contented and good-looking pet.

Only Whole Fish has Life Balance

In a living fish there's a balance of those mysterious elements which nature uses to sustain a healthy, thriving organism. When whole fish is prepared for cat food, those elements are retained intact, just as they were in the living fish. The fillets supply rich proteins. The liver and glands yield precious vitamins. The bone structure provides calcium and phosphorus. From various parts of the fish come iron, vitamins, calcium, manganese and all those vital food elements which nature uses to sustain full vitality. That's why cat food made from parts or scraps of fish is not enough. While almost any part supplies something valuable, your cat needs all those nutrients, in nature's own life balance. Only the whole fish supplies them all.

Puss'n Boots is made from Whole Fish

Our business is cat food. Puss'n Boots is not made from parts of fish or scraps. We process whole fish, with nature's balance of nutritive elements intact as they were in the living fish. Valuable cereals are added for flavor and all-round nutrition. You couldn't duplicate the food value in Puss'n Boots whole fish even if you went to endless trouble buying and cooking complicated meals for your cat. But all you have to do is open a can of pressure-cooked, ready-to-serve Puss'n Boots.



You can give yourself a pleasant surprise by feeding Puss'n Boots regularly to your cat. In three weeks or less you'll see a more frisky pet, with a livelier step, a sleeker look, a more contented purr . . . more of all those lovable qualities you want in your pet. Try it!

BONE STRUCTURE. For calcium and phosphorus . . . vital for sound, healthy frame. Made crumbly and digestible by special processing . . . and retained in Puss'n Boots.

FILLETS OR FLESH for easily digested, growth-promoting proteins. Generally reserved for human consumption . . . but retained in Puss'n Boots.

LIVER, GLANDS for Vitamins A, D, B, including riboflavin, thiamin, niacin . . . essential for healthy nerves and tissue, general well being. Frequently extracted for medicinal uses . . . but retained in Puss'n Boots.

Puss'n Boots CAT FOOD

Whenever, wherever you buy Puss'n Boots you are assured of whole fish with its natural life balance. At grocers, supermarkets and pet shops everywhere, in economical 15 oz. and convenient 8 oz. cans.

CAMPBELLFORD

Renowned Concert Violinist Delights Huge Audiences

CAMPBELLFORD — Citizens of Campbellford got a real treat last week when Rubinoff, renowned concert violinist, gave two concerts in town.

Mr. Rubinoff, under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club, appeared at St. John's auditorium. At an afternoon performance, when school children were allowed time off to attend, the auditorium was filled to capacity as the violinist presented an abbreviated form of his concert to about 600 school children.

At an evening concert in the same auditorium, a similar number of adults sat spellbound through a lengthy concert.

HANDMADE VIOLINS

At the close of the evening program, Mr. Rubinoff called Mr. William Archer of Grafton, to the stage. Mr. Archer had brought with him two of his handmade violins. After questioning Mr. Archer at some length concerning the art of violin making, he picked up one of the instruments and played "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" by Victor Herbert. The effect on the audience was tremendous, and it seemed likely to bring the house down.

Mr. Rubinoff appeared determined to bring his music to as many as possible, even though it necessitated him going without his lunch. In the morning, he gave a short concert and talk to the Campbellford High School. He thought it would be a good idea to short the entire student body of both the public and high schools what could be accomplished with the violin, so students of both the public and Separate schools were taken by car and bus to the high school auditorium where he played another concert and spoke briefly to the assembled crowd.

In response to a request from Norwood he drove to that village and played there for the entire student body of the Norwood high school. He had an audience of nearly 1,500 pupils at the school performances and refused any remuneration for his efforts.

AFTERNOON - EVENING

During his afternoon and evening concerts, Rubinoff, was accompanied at the grand piano, loaned to the Rotary Club for the occasion by Mrs. Russell Bate, of Home Phillips. Mr. Phillips, a pianist well known for many of his recordings, played two selections, which the audience greatly enjoyed.

During the afternoon performance, the children nearly burst with enthusiastic applause when he played 15 variations of "Davy Crockett."

The violin used by Mr. Rubinoff is a Stradivarius, valued at and insured for $100,000.

SHARES MUSICAL GIFT

Rubinoff gained the respect of his audiences by his down to earth manner and his sincere efforts to share his gift with everyone. After playing for the students in Norwood, he rushed back to Campbellford where he played several numbers for the members of the Rotary Club at their noon luncheon.

He was entertained at a reception at the home of William Hogle on Sunday night and showed great interest in the cameras used by the photographer-reporter there to interview him, and was most co-operative with the representative of the press, even lining up the subjects of the photographs taken.

People of Campbellford will be talking about this treat for some time to come.

N.B. Needs Power Says PC Leader

FREDERICTON (CP) — George Drew, national Progressive Conservative leader, called on the federal government Saturday night to co-operate with the government of New Brunswick in developing hydro-electric power which he said was vitally needed in the province's economy.

In an address to the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Progressive Conservative Association, Mr. Drew said "we stand at the door of a great period of change which offers for every province of Canada new opportunities."

He said Canada has lead, zinc, copper and aluminum in great quantities — Bathurst, N.B., has these as "fabulous" quantities.

Referring to the functions of parliamentary government, Mr. Drew said the business of Canada must be aired on the floor of Parliament, "not in the ante-rooms of the legislature."

The federal government "use their large majority to prevent a disclosure of the facts, and the reports, when we occasionally hear them, reveal some astonishing things."

$ ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY CARGO WILL BE TRIPLE

First year of the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway is expected to see ocean tonnage tripled or quadrupled. First impact of the project is already felt in Canadian and U. S. towns along the rivers as construction crews move with dredges, dredge canals, build huge cofferdams. If, in 1959 when the seaway will first be opened to ocean ships, the tonnage is three times that of the present, it is expected it will gradually rise to be seven times present volume. Full significance of the seaway to Canada will not be immediately after the first ships go through, but with the long-term development of such things as Labrador iron deposits to find their way in U.S. mills through the Great Lakes. Alberta and Saskatchewan Get Heavy Snowfall Over Weekend; States Hit by Rain EDMONTON (CP) — Winter's first swinging punch at the western plains pushed into Manitoba today after striking Alberta and Saskatchewan. Some areas were just dusted. Others got a dumping.

The snowfall ranged from nearly 33 inches in northwestern Alberta to only traces in the south. Winds gusted to 50 miles an hour.

A motorist returning to Edmonton from Wabamun, 40 miles west, reported that some 30 automobiles were stranded because they were unable to climb the icy hills. In Edmonton, street crews were spreading gliders and gravel.

Predicted temperatures today were 20 to 25 above in Alberta and 25 to 30 in Saskatchewan.

FLOOD FEAR SUBSIDES

NEW YORK (CP)—Scrubby winds and rain storm hit the northeastern states again during the weekend. For a time there was fear of floods, but latest reports today indicated that this danger had subsided.

The heavy downpour, particularly in parts of New Jersey, New York and Connecticut, raised flood fears in an area that already by two flood disasters earlier this season.

Connecticut, hardest hit by previous floods, was put on a preliminary alert last night, but today's state police reported "nothing much materialized." The weather bureau forecast improved conditions for today.

Two deaths by drowning were blamed on the storm, and four other persons died in traffic accidents during Sunday's downpour.

A short, violent storm with winds up to 100 miles an hour tore through Syracuse, N.Y., shattering hundreds of windows and ripping airplanes from their moorings at an airfield.

Bill of Rights Advocated By CCF Leader

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, said Saturday night a bill of rights should be written into Canada's constitution to protect individual freedoms.

Mr. Coldwell said at a public meeting that it is dangerous for Canadians to think that curtailments of rights and freedoms which have taken place in other countries can't happen in Canada.

"Hard won rights of these rights have been infringed upon from time to time in some parts of Canada," he said.

The statement was included in the text of a speech released to the press before delivery.

REFERS TO ATTLEE

Mr. Coldwell referred to his unsuccessful attempt at the last session of Parliament to get the acceptance of a bill of rights.

"The answer of the minister of justice was that the present laws were sufficient. But it is only necessary to recall a few of the things that have actually happened to Canada to see just how necessary a bill of rights really is."

He said the press bill passed in 1936 by Alberta's Social Credit government could have limited the freedom of the press if the law had not been disallowed by the federal government.

OLD DOCTOR DIES

SHELBYVILLE, Ill. (AP)—The doctor honored by the American Medical Association last year as the oldest practising physician in the United States died at his home Sunday night. Dr. J. C. Westervelt, who was 100 years old, succumbed after a brief illness. He quit active practice last year because of failing eyesight and impaired hearing, but still maintained a clinic in his home where he saw an occasional patient.

New Atomic-Age Warship Said 'World Leader'

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's first atomic-age warship has been described by Prime Minister St. Laurent as a world leader because "one of the most complex warships afloat."

The prime minister said Saturday at the commissioning of the new anti-submarine destroyer escort, St. Laurent, that the sole purpose of the 2,600-ton ship "is the maintenance of peace and the defence of freedom."

He praised the "magnificent combination of Canadian skills" which made it "possible for us to produce in Canada a world leader.

"This vessel goes as a sharp challenge to the skill of Canadian shipbuilders and manufacturers," Mr. St. Laurent told more than 1,200 officials and guests at the Canadian Vickers, shipyard, where the Canadian-designed warship was built.

Mr. St. Laurent said the ship holds promise for the future "because she is part of her contribution to the defence of freedom under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Polio Cases Drop May Not Be Due To Salk Vaccine

KITCHENER (CP) — Health Minister Dymond of Ontario said Saturday the Salk vaccine may not have been the dominant factor in the reduction of polio this year.

In an address to a luncheon held in connection with the Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital's 60th anniversary, Dr. Phillips said while he had been, "most encouraged" by results obtained with the vaccine "it would be foolish to say the great drop" was due to the vaccine.

He said 373,000 Ontario children have been given the vaccine this year and 2,100,000 more will receive doses in 1956.

He said 152 cases of polio had been reported in Ontario this year and only four resulted in death. This compared with 1,997 cases and 105 deaths in 1953.

Country's Power Needs Double Every 12 Years

TORONTO (CP)—By 1980 Canada's power needs will equal the total production of all of this country's waterways, Ontario's Hydro chief said Saturday.

Richard L. Hearn, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, told the Royal Canadian Institute here the country's power needs double every 12 years. Demand this year was 11,506,000 kilowatts.

Mr. Hearn predicted that by 1980 nuclear power plants will account for 10 to 15 per cent of Canada's total generating capacity.

Knows Danger of Purchasing Arms from Reds But Must Declares Egyptian Premier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egypt's East, prime minister is quoted as saying, that his government knew the danger of accepting Communist arms, but could not do otherwise because "we must protect ourselves from Israel first."

Israel's prime minister says his country seeks arms from the West, but will look elsewhere if necessary because "we consider Egypt fundamentally bent upon aggression."

Gamal Abdel Nasser, at Cairo, and Moshe Sharett, at Jerusalem, deal register these opposing viewpoints on the tense Middle Eastern situation in separate, copyrighted interviews in the weekly news magazine U.S. News and World Report.

Nasser was asked whether, in view of Egypt's deal for Communist weapons, he thought there no longer was any danger of Soviet aggression against the Middle East.

"We don't spend our time worrying about a world war, or Russian aggression, or the struggle between East and West," he replied. "We are interested in Egypt's security, and Egypt's security today means protection against Israel."

Sharett said Egypt already had a "definite superiority" over Israel in armaments which was "about to be increased enormously and very menacingly" by the Czech deal.

To offset this "decisive shift in the balance of military strength," Sharett said, Western arms are to be sought "in the first instance."

"If the situation goes from bad to worse, and we are desperately in need of further arms to save our life and our lives, we shall naturally look for arms wherever we can find them."

Israel Says Egypt Planning To Bar Britain from Suez

NEW YORK (CP) — The Newsnaes and turn the area gradually to Egyptian control during peacetime.

However, an article in the treaty said that in the event of an attack on Turkey or another states in the Arab League, Egypt would allow Britain to operate the Suez base.

"Were Egypt to declare this clause a dead letter, as she has done with all the other provisions," the Times dispatch adds, "Britain would be left in the Middle East in relation to a major war without any effective Union would change drastically."

The announcement said Lonardi would complete unspecified treatment started before he led the revolution which deposed Juan D. Peron Sept. 23.

Canadian-Born Priest Is Freed By Chinese Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—Four Americans, including a Canadian - born Roman Catholic priest and a woman who said she had once made a "full confession" of acts against the Communist government, came back from Red China today.

They were Miss Harriet Mills, who confessed to "acts inimical to the government of China," Rev. Armand Proulx, 35-year-old Jesuit priest, Mrs. Nadezhda Romanoff, a White Russian who became a naturalized American in 1937, and her 15-year-old daughter, Irene.

Looking brown and fit after 42 months in a Red Chinese prison on charges of espionage, Father Proulx said the "spying" of which he was convicted consisted of "illegal facts one happened to learn from peasants . . . the Red army had passed 25 miles from my house—little things."

He said he was told of these charges last week when he was sentenced to four years imprisonment — then immediately released and deported.

TOOK ROSARY

He said he was comparatively well treated. He was allowed to keep from him his rosary and prayerbook the day he was arrested.

Father Proulx does not know where he will go now. He was born of French-speaking parents in Canada and has no relatives in the United States.

Miss Mills, 35-year-old daughter of Presbyterian missionaries, went to China in 1947 to do research for a doctor of philosophy degree. She was arrested in Canton in July, 1952. The government charge against her was possession of a radio, but she has not known here.

American officials said they could not say whether she had undergone brainwashing treatment while in prison, but she refused reporters.

The Communists have a perfect right to arrest me, I confessed from the very day 'I was arrested.'

She refused to give details of her confession, but she believed Americans had waged bacteriological warfare during the Korean War, and that "Americans were warmongers." She said she had been questioned by police on information to British and American diplomatic establishments.

Eisenhower's Heart Specialist Says Real Issue at Stake In Thrombosis Is Its Prevention

Editor's note: Is the strain of the presidency an element in President Eisenhower's heart attack? Would greater delegation of duties lessen the chances of future presidents suffering similar attacks? What is the need for greater research in diseases causes and prevention of heart attacks and heart diseases? Dr. Paul D. White, Eisenhower's heart specialist, discusses these and other questions raised in the following exclusive report written for The Associated Press.

By PAUL DUDLEY WHITE, M.D.

COPYRIGHT 1955

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower's recent heart attack has naturally emphasized the seriousness of this most common of the important illnesses of the middle-aged and older male today.

We doctors cannot give advice about what to do to prevent this disease, or at least to delay its appearance, before we know the answers sought for. In the present state of our limited knowledge, we have no definite answers, only opinions and suggestions.

The most important problem in coronary thrombosis is neither its diagnosis—which is generally not difficult—nor its treatment—for which we have little to offer except to establish an adequate period of rest to expedite nature's healing process, with the help of the little medication that may be needed.

The real issue at stake is prevention of the disease, and this remains at present unsolved. We do have, however, some important facts and a summary of these is worthwhile.

FACTORS GROUPED

It is doubtless wise to divide possible factors into two groups, those which are controllable and those which are not. Among the uncontrollable factors are in the main unalterable. So naturally the environmental factors which we feel we should need the main focus of attention.

What are the chief factors? Doctors?

In the first place there is race, and this still remains an unknown quantity as to its action. What is really needed is an adequate comparison of individuals of the same race living under different environmental conditions. We have too few data about this yet.

Secondly there is age. It is certainly true that coronary thrombosis increases in frequency with increasing age, but many old persons escape and many young ones, for example those in age 40, are attacked. Thus, age is really not the most determining factor.

Thirdly there is sex. It is well recognized that in the middle age and younger the male is very much more prone to the disease than the female, and so eventually needs to have more protection. Experiments in the value of hormonal treatment and protection are in progress.

MORE MESOMORPHS

Fourthly there is body build. It has been shown that at least in the male middle-aged the mesomorph (broad muscular male or athletic build) is more likely to develop the disease than the ectomorph with his skinny build or the endomorph with his round, fleshy build.

Finally there is personality. It is thought by some that the intensive, overactive and ambitious person is more often the candidate. There may be something in this, but again we have many young persons live to an old age free of coronary thrombosis, while others seem placid and lazy come down with the disease.

And finally, hereditary seems to be a definite factor, in part at least by influencing the build, personality and, in a few cases, body or blood chemistry.

Now let us turn to the possible environmental factors which are even more debatable. One that is on everyone's tongue just now, including my own, is that of stress and strain, which is so hard to measure or study that it is obviously a possible factor in the case of any U.S. president.

DOUBTFUL EFFECT

The strain is well nigh intolerable both physically and mentally, I am sure. But whether it has any direct causative effect in producing atherosclerotic remains doubtful, at least in my own mind. (Atherosclerosis is the narrowing or clogging inside arteries so that blood flow to the heart muscle may more easily be blocked by blood clots). I would grant that it is at least a severe strain on the nerves and can possibly be an aggravating factor superimposed on basic or other environmental causes, but much more research is needed before we shall have definite answers.

Certainly one good thing can ensue from this illness of President Eisenhower, and that is the reduction of at least some of the strain of the job for the sake of himself and of future presidents.

Of course, the major strains of the principal national and international problems remain, but many of the chores, such as the delivery of documents, speech - making, excessive press conferences and the like, as well as even the television lamps, and hand-shaking, traditional and possibly of no real value as they are, could, it seems to me, be wisely delegated to various other governmental officials.

The happy escape of the president to his farm in Gettysburg and his exact undoubtedly helped somewhat to relieve the strain both physically and mentally, but perhaps not enough.

FAMILY FACTORS

A second environmental and adjustable factor which may affect the onset of the most important of all is diet.

Surely to date tend to support the idea that dietary fat is in some way responsible. In the United States the percentage of fat in the diet has increased in one generation from 32 per cent to 40 per cent. This is probably a more or less optimal, to over 40 per cent. During this time coronary heart disease has apparently increased several fold. This prevailing land should be needs much further study.

The best possible factor is that of exercise. Some believe that vigorous exercise not only helps the heart muscle to grow, but actually aids in some way in a healthy person to delay the onset of coronary atherosclerosis. We have as yet inadequate information about this.

Perhaps the combination of regular exercise and a diet with intake of fat in the food may help most, especially in the case of the young candidate for the disease.

Other possible environmental factors which must be considered, although at the moment they appear to be less important than the three already mentioned, include climate, the use of tobacco and the effect of local religious and social customs.

TRAFFIC DEATHS UP

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council reports that 3,330 persons died in traffic accidents in the United States in September. It was the greatest number of auto deaths in any September since 1941, when 3,746 died. Traffic mileage for the first eight months of 1955 was eight per cent ahead of 1954, and deaths were up five per cent in comparison with the same period last year.

Army Trumpet Band Defies Edict And Wins Contest

TORONTO (CP) — A 45-piece army trumpet band has put on results Saturday to defy a Toronto Musicians' Association edict and win first place in a football game invitation trumpet band competition.

The band of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps had been refused permission by the union to compete as an army unit at a Big Four football game here.

Lt.-Col. G. W. Carnegie, RCASC commanding officer said the union objected to the band's appearance because of an agreement that a militia band cannot replace a union band on a job or participate in competitions for a fee.

Four judges gave the army trumpeters, who called themselves the Jolly Jesters, five more points than their closest competitors.

Central army command said the union brought the ruling to its attention after the 2nd Signal Regiment band appeared at a Big Four football game here Thanksgiving Day.

Solon Low Sees Socred Win Possible in Federal Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — Social Credit leader Solon Low has told his party that victory is a possibility in the next federal election and a near certainty in the one after the next years.

Federal leadership, he said Saturday night, "is there for the taking."

"If we fail to form a government in the next few years, it will be because the people have failed you and I."

Mr. Low also said in a policy address during the annual convention of the British Columbia Social Credit League that CCF Saskatchewan would be the next province to elect a Social Credit government.

British Columbia's Premier Bennett was a Saskatchewan resident—and a Social Credit convert—in a matter of months.

In about six or eight months, he said, "there will be a new Social Credit government in Canada. It will be in Saskatchewan."

Mr. Low, leader of British Columbia, told the convention:

"Only fools make predictions but I am going to be a little bit foolish. I will say we will have a Social Credit government in Canada and we are going to make a right good effort to get it in there in 1957."

He devoted much of his speech to the problems of prairie farmers, saying the farmer must be prosperous if the rest of the population is to know prosperity.

He said Social Credit will see to it that so long as 20 per cent of the population is agricultural, their share of pre-Canadian economy will be 20 per cent.

Mr. Low described Social Credit as "the greatest movement ever conceived outside Christianity itself."

Jocko Thompson's Field Goal Gives Gaels Win Over Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Queen's Golden Gaels surged into sole possession of first place in the senior Intercollegiate Football League Saturday by beating University of Toronto Blues 11-10.

Queen's made it the tough way at Kingston, with Jocko Thompson booting a 15-yard field goal with only 28 seconds left to play. The win broke a first-place tie between the two clubs and assured the Gaels of a spot in a post-season playoff for the college title.

Meanwhile, McGill Redmen kept alive their slim chances by travelling to London, Ont., and trouncing University of Western Ontario Mustangs 35-17. Redmen can qualify for the playoffs only if they beat Queen's next Saturday while Western beats Toronto.

A playoff is only held when the second-place team has beaten the league leader once or tied it twice. Queen's now have defeated at least a tie for first place and have beaten both Varsity and McGill.

RECORD CROWD

A record Richardson Stadium crowd of 13,500 turned out to see Queen's and Varsity exchange field goals and the lead in the last quarter changed hands. Varsity, trailing 8-1 at half-time, came back to take a 10-8 lead in the last quarter only to lose it in the dramatic, tense finish.

Both teams scored one touchdown each, Gary Schreider got Queen's on a 35-yard pass from quarterback Gus Braccia and Phil Muntz crashed over from 2 yards out to score Varsity's. Besides his game-winning field goal Thompson kicked two singles and converted the Queen's touchdown. Peter Maik booted a field goal and a convert and Bill Wilson kicked a single for Varsity's other points besides Muntz' touchdown.

At London, Mustangs came up with the individual star of the game as small but speedy Neil Desborough put on a spectacular running display by racing 95 and 90 yards on kickoff returns for two of Western's three touchdowns.

McGill were never behind in their most impressive display at London in years. The Redmen were pressed when the Mustangs came within a touchdown of tying the score in the third quarter but the Montreal team shifted into high gear in the fourth quarter to score two more touchdowns.

McGill's attack was spearheaded by import quarterback Dick Carr from Columbia University. He tossed passes to Johnny Bennett for 2 touchdowns, John Cronin also scored two touchdowns for McGill and Rick Adrian and Bob Hoitzremtiand got one each. Holland converted four of the touchdowns and Carr accounted for McGill's other point with a single.

Besides Desborough's two touchdowns, Western scored another on a pass from Art Turner, subbing for the ailing John Girvin, to Byron Young in the end zone. Bob Labbett kicked converts on two of the three touchdowns.

Stukus Campaign Gains Momentum

VANCOUVER (CP) — The campaign to re-instate Annis Stukus as head coach of the B.C. Lions gained momentum Saturday as supporters of the colorful coach announced plans for two mass rallies.

A spokesman for the supporters, Phil Wood, said a meeting of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club's 3,000 members will be held next Wednesday night.

A "giant protest rally of all football fans" will be called the following week, said Wood.

The first meeting, he said, will draft strategy in the campaign to have Stukus re-hired, and the mass rally will seek the support of fans throughout the area.

Notre Dame Tumbles Navy

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Hornung won the "Battle of the Quarterbacks" Saturday as Notre Dame tumbled Navy from the ranks of unbeaten and untied U.S. college football teams, winning 23-6 in the rain at South Bend, Ind.

The game, heralded as a test between possibly the two best college quarterbacks, Hornung and little George Welsh, marked Navy's 10th straight defeat at the hands of Notre Dame. Hornung out-thought, out - generalled and outplayed Welsh.

Two other teams lost their undefeated records, Holy Cross which fell 49-0 before Syracuse, and Auburn, 27-13 loser to Tulane.

Maryland and Oklahoma, rated one-two in last week's Associated Press poll of college rankings, both rolled on with ease, Maryland shut out South Carolina 27-0 and Oklahoma crushed Kansas State 47-7. Maryland is tied for the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference with Clemson and Oklahoma is tied at the head of the Big Seven with Nebraska.

Michigan, ranked three, pushed to a 33-21 victory over Iowa, But Ohio State kept pace with the Wolverines in the Big 10 race by clubbing Northwestern 49-0.

Sarnia Whips Beaches 27-0

TORONTO (CP) — Quarterback Ross Dowzell scored three last-quarter touchdowns Sunday to lead Sarnia Imperials to a 27-0 victory over Toronto Beaches in the final game of the Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule.

Sarnia now meets first-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in a best-of-three playoff for the ORFU championship, starting Friday in Kitchener. Imperials finished in second place with 13 points, eight behind Kitchener, and Beaches, who won only one game this season, the same number as last year, finished last with two.

The game, before 50 fans, was played on a rain-soaked field at Maple Leaf Stadium and play mainly involved two backs and a kick. Sarnia completed only four passes, two of them for touchdowns and Beaches completed three. Sarnia tried six and Beaches 10.

Imperials scored in every quarter, on kicks by Dutch Davey and Dowzell, a safety touch and fly-ing wing Jean Cadieux.

LED AT THE HALF

Sarnia led 7-0 at the end of the first quarter on Davey's kick, and led 14-0 at half time as Cadieux got his touchdown and Davey kicked two singles.

Davey added a point in the third quarter and then Dowzell found the range in the last quarter, a off-tackle from the 10-yard line for his first, a short run after quarterback Jack McKelvey for the second and went around the right end from the 35-yard line to go all the way for his third.

Cadieux's touchdown came after he took a 20-yard pass from McKelvey and ran 25 yards past three Beach defenders to score.

Beaches, who defeated Sarnia 23-0, here last week, couldn't get used to the wet field and the gale-strong kicking of Don Guest kept them in the game.

Wes Santee Draws Suspension

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Missouri Valley Amateur Athletic Union has suspended miler Wes Santee but there is little doubt he will appeal the ruling to the national body.

The Associated Press learned the suspension was voted Sunday at a secret meeting of the valley AAU registration committee.

A committee member said the runner was suspended for accepting "excessive expense" money for three track meets in California last May.

But a dissenting committeeman said:

"The whole thing is a big mess. I feel the national body will vindicate Wes of thr charges."

Santee, former University of Kansas athlete who now is in the U.S. marines, said at Quantico, Va., he had not been advised officially of the action and therefore had no comment.

Normie Kwong Sets Records In Western Football Union

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A 25-year-old Chinese Canadian has etched his name firmly into the record books of the Western Interprovincial Football Union with a mammouth one-man plunging job that has helped carry his club into the league playoffs for the sixth time in as many years.

Normie Kwong, the China Clipper from Calgary who has spent five years in the backfield with Edmonton Eskimos, bulled his way from the fullback slot to league records Saturday night as the WIFU wound up its regular 16-game schedule.

Kwong rolled through the line for 192 yards as the league-champion Eskimos romped over Calgary's last-place Stampeders 30-5 in a game filled with hi-jinks.

This is an individual one-game rushing record and pushed his season's total to 1,250 yards to give him the league mark over Canadian halfback Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers who set a record minutes earlier with Bombers were losing 31-13 to Saskatchewan Roughriders at Winnipeg.

The games meant nothing to the league standings Eskimos had long since clinched first place and a bye into the league final and Riders and Bombers second and third respectively. Stampeders finished last, two points behind British Columbia Lions, who ended their second season in the WIFU a week earlier.

Eskimos now take a rest while Bombers meet Riders at Regina next Saturday afternoon in the first game of the home-and-home total-points league semi-final. Second game is scheduled Nov. 7, and the best-of-three final gets under way the following weekend.

There was no holding Kwong at Edmonton as the schedule ended in a rash of records.

Ken Carpenter of Saskatchewan counted one touchdown for Riders Saturday to win the league scoring championship with 90 points on a record 18 touchdowns.

The action at Edmonton was dizzy, as Eskimos tried new tricks in the wide-open game. Quarters Jackie Parker and Don Getty each tossed two touchdown passes—two of them to end Rube Andrews—and halfback Con Kelly. Line-backer Ted Tully counted the other touchdown when a Calgary punt was blocked behind the goal line.

Tackle Bob Dean kicked four converts and played turn-about with Ray Willsey, who missed on the other.

Heydenfeldt added the other Eskimo point on a punt.

Don Moselle plunged over from two yards out in the last quarter for the only Calgary score.

At Winnipeg, 14,564 fans watched Bombers blow a 12-0 lead as Riders went on a scoring spree. Carpenter, Bobby Marlow, Stan Williams, Harry Lunn and Tom Donnelly each counted a touchdown and Joe (The Toe) Aguirre converted three and kicked a field goal.

Quarterback Buddy Leake scored one touchdown for Bombers, converted twice and added a single for an eight-point night that gave him 85 points and second place in the individual scoring statistics. James counted the other touchdown.

Dutchies Move Back Into First Place With 3-1 Victory Over Owen Sound

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and Windsor Bulldogs established "firsts" in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A play during the weekend. Kitchener moved back into first place in the league and Windsor won their first game of the season.

Kitchener got their second win of the season over Owen Sound Mercury's with a 3-1 victory before 2,050 fans at Owen Sound. The K-W club move two points ahead of Owen Sound and Stratford.

Windsor, coming from behind with two third-period goals, posted their first win 5-4 over Chatham Maroons on home ice. Both teams now are tied for fourth place.

Goalie Dennis Brodeur took top honors for Kitchener, making 30 stops to hold the Mercurys in check. Kitchener ended the first period 2-0 on goals by Pete Kowalchuk and Paul Knox. Jackie Hamilton counted for Merc4 in the second to make it 2-1. Ken Laufman raced up the ice to score on an empty net for the final goal.

At Windsor, the Maroons had a 2-0 first period edge, but Bulldogs fought back to make it 3-3 at the end of the second and Eddie Busch gave Chatham a lead goal in the final frame. Windsor put on the pressure and John Sleaver scored the tieing goal and centre George Gee, playing his first game, fired the winner at 5:14.

CALLED OFF!

PICTON — Dismal, dreary weather with blustery winds defeated the planned attempts of "Miss Superiet II" to create new Canadian and world speedboat records here over the weekend.

Ready to go at the crack of dawn Sunday, the trim speedster roared down bay to the course with Danny Foster, Guy Lombardo's driver at the wheel.

He was back after a short run over the course. A brisk wind blew directly across the course sending foam-tipped white caps dancing denial to attempt any records.

A shivering crowd of officials, newspapermen and spectators braved the chill dawn. Later as the wind subsided, a heavy rain set in that calmed the water but reduced visibility to a minimum.

John Thompson, who with his father, J. Gordon Thompson, are co-owners of the boat reluctantly called off the race for 24 hours after waiting practically all day for favorable weather conditions.

"Superiet" mechanics worked over the boat Sunday morning after the first run by Danny Foster removing a plate from beneath the bow. Adjustments were also made ot the boat's planes.

"She is physically perfect," Jim Thompson said proudly as the mechanics and drivers put the OK on "Miss Superiet."

Bill Braden of Waterdown, Ontario, who arrived here Saturday after being downed by the flu, took Miss Superiet on her second run. Rain was falling consistently and Braden, who was thrilled with the boat's performance, said visibility was bad and getting worse. Rain fell the rest of the day and Mr. Thompson was forced to postpone the attempt. He said he would send Miss Superiest on her way today if conditions were favorable.

REGISTER FIRST WIN

Back home the TPT's chalked up their first victory of the season defeating the Cornwall Colts 6-3 in the eastern city arena. The Colts are away to a dismal start, having absorbed a 10-3 shellacking at the hands of the powerful Brockville Maredonas.

Meanwhile the Whitby Dunlops are maintaining their unbroken stride. They clobbered the Kingston Goodyears 9-3 over the weekend and that should give them top spot with two victories and a tie.

Tomorrow night the Kingston Goodyears are the guests of the TPT's in the clubs' first clash of the season. The Goodyears are always good for a battle or so and the same keen rivalry that has always existed between the clubs will flare again. The Goodies are not feeling too well over their lambasting at the hands of the Whitby Dunlops and you can bet your granny's store teeth the Roddenville sweatabouts will be agunning aplenty for victory. And they don't know a better club to defeat than their arch-foemen from the banks of the Moira.

We note that Erwin Duncan scored two goals for the Brockville Maredonas against Cornwall the other night. We were given to understand that the Belleville management has not given the twins their release. Ed Duncan's name did not appear on the lineup of the Brockville club so it is apparent the twins have been split for the first time in their hockey lives. Or have they?

If the TPT's have not given the Duncans their release there is skullduggery going on somewhere. Bob Taylor, who has not been released by the Clinton club as yet did not play the other night for the TPT's, so what goes on?

"O, boy, coach! Can't you just SEE him sitting on that tough full back from State?

Habs Pick Three of Four Toronto Blanks Black Hawks; Three Deadlocked in Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jolly Jack Adams, who trades players with all the enthusiasm of a youngster with a stack of last month's comic books, must be wondering if he finally has swapped his Detroit Red Wings right out of contention in the National Hockey League.

The Red Wings—NHL champions for the last seven seasons—had their big chance this weekend to gain ground on Montreal Canadiens—the team picked to succeed them at the top of the standings. All they could do was salvage one point, on a 3-3 tie in Detroit Sunday.

The Canadiens picked up three of a possible four points, stretching their league lead to four points over New York, Boston and Chicago, who are deadlocked in second place with 10 points each.

Toronto pulled to within one point of the runner-up spot on Harry Lumley's 2-0 shutout over Chicago at Toronto Saturday. Detroit is last with seven points.

SAWCHUK'S THIRD

While Adams was watching his Red Wings bow to Canadiens 2-1 in Montreal Saturday, Terry Sawchuk the three-time Vezina Trophy winner he swapped to Boston in the off season, was racking up his third shutout of the campaign, a 1-0 spanker over the Rangers in New York.

Sawchuk has given up only 14 goals in Boston's first nine games. Meanwhile, Glenn Hall, his replacement in the Detroit nets, has watched 23 pucks slip by him in 10 games.

Dickie Moore tipped in Jean Beliveau's sizzling slap shot in the third period to give Montreal their 2-1 win Saturday. Bert Olmstead had put Montreal ahead 1-0 early in the second period but captain Ted Lindsay of the Wings tied it late in the period.

Lindsay's goal was the 271st of his career, a record for left wingers. The old mark was held by Aurel Joliat, one-time Montreal star.

Detroit took two periods to build up a lead Sunday and had it wiped out in 40 seconds by Floyd Curry and Bert Olmstead. Bill Dineen scored for the Wings in the first period and Alex Delvecchio in the second.

A crowd of 14,286—biggest in Detroit this season—watched the contest, only Sunday night game scheduled.

QUIET FOR LUMLEY

The travel-weary Black Hawks gave Toronto little trouble Saturday. Lumley had only 15 saves to make in notching his first shutout of the season.

Ted Kinan, who has accounted for almost a third of Toronto's 16 goals this season, banged in his fifth of the year in the second period. Rookie Billy Harris notched the insurance marker in the third from a goalmouth scramble.

The victory left Leafs still unbeaten at home. They have won four and tied one on their home ice but have yet to gain even a tie in five games on the road.

Boston snapped New York's home stand streak as Sawchuk kicked out 36 of their shots. The only goal came on a blistering 15-foot drive by rookie Orval Tessier in the first period.

BEATS FILLIES

NEW YORK (CAP) — Howell E. Jackson's Nasrina, big handsome daughter of Nasrullah, scored a handy triumph in the $36,700 Frizette Stakes for two-year-old fillies at Jamaica race track Saturday.

Nasrina scored by 1¾ lengths over Meyer J. Kaplan's Roots Image, who finished 1¾ lengths ahead of Eugene Mori's Cosmah.

Marlies, Majors Fare Poorly Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto's Ontario Junior A hockey season nearly got off to a miserable start for hometown fans.

Two clubs stepped into the city Sunday and left with a victory and a tie against Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

The only solace for the crowd of 6,086 fans, who braved rainy weather to see the local opening of the 1955-56 campaign, was a 3-3 tie salvaged by the Majors with Hamilton Tigers with the nightcap of a doubleheader. In the other game, St. Catharines TeePees edged Marlboros 3-1.

The victory for TeePees, who finished atop the standing last year raised them into first place with four points—one ahead of Hamilton.

EDGED BILLYMORES

In the only other weekend games TeePees scored twice in the final period to edge Guelph Billmores 3-2 before 2,220 fans at St. Catharines.

After the weekend action, the standings went like this: TeePees are in the lead with four points, one ahead of Hamilton, Marlboro Guelph and Barrie Flyers are tied for third spot with two points. Majors are sixth with one, and Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks, who have yet to play, are last.

St. Catharines took the win over Marlboros on goals by Art Surdon and Dick LaFontaine. Defenceman Bob Blaun scored for Marlboros. LaFontaine's goal—the winner—was scored while a Toronto player was in the penalty box.

In the second game the Majors came through with two third-period goals to get the deadlock. Bill Binnie scored the opening and closing markers for Hamilton in the first and third periods with Merry Sullivan sandwiching one in the second stanza.

COLLEGIANS' SCORERS

Pat Hannigan, Frank Howarth and Frank Mahovich counted for the collegians.

Dennis Riggin, TeePees' great goaltender, turned away 23 Majors' shots, many with some spectacular stops. Goalkeeper Pete Kelly of St. Michael's was a bit shaky had to handle only 12 TeePee drives.

TeePees were led by big Ab McDonald's two goals Saturday. Bob Cain in the third period, Lawrence Guelph. Danny Bellals Fontaine, Mat Ravlich and Ed and Bob Forhan got the others.

Hockstra picked up the other TeePee goals. Bill Sweeney scored twice for Guelph. Danny Bellals

Peterborough Line Paces TPTs To 6-3 Win Over Cornwall; Fryia Gets Brace of Goals

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Belleville T.P.T.'s, paced by the ex-Peterborough Chum Fryia, Bert Hill and Gus Leonard, whipped the Cornwall Colts 6-3 on the Colts home ice Sunday afternoon to give them their initial victory of the year in the OHA Senior "B" hockey league.

Belleville now boast a one and one record while Cornwall has lost its first two games. Danny Cox's lads are home to Kingston Goodyears on Tuesday then trek to Whitby for their fourth encounter on Wednesday.

With the Peterborough boys playing excellent hockey, the TPT's were headed Sunday, taking a 2-0 lead early in the game allowing the Colts to tie it but going in front 3-2 as the period ended. They upped their margin to 5-3 in the mid-dle session and scored the only goal of the third period to bring home a well-deserved victory.

Cornwall shots not appear to have the strong club which captured first place in the league last season though they have practised only little over a week. The loss of their 42-goal man Connelly, has hampered their scoring strength and Binette looked shakey in goal. They only played a rugged style of play yesterday but it was not enough to halt the Belleville attack.

Fryia-Leonard-Hill was by far the best trio on the ice with Fryia picking up two goals and an equal number of assists to lead all snipers. Hill rapped home one goal and assisted on two more while Leonard blinked the light once. Pete Jones and Davy Jones were the other Belleville marksmen.

Bonnie Batten spearheaded the loser's attack with two goals, Moe Savard drawing assists on both. Mort Binette replaced Connelly on this line but failed to earn a point. Hershel Lee had their odd goal.

Action was rough and rugged throughout with referees Moon Flanagan and Art Casterton awarding 13 penalties. Belleville drawing the odd one. A minor edition of a brawl broke out at 19.58 of the second period when Doug Day and the big negro defenseman of the Colts, Ray Leacock tangled. Day received two minor penalties, Leacock a major and minor and Desilets of Cornwall a minor, McMaster and Savard were sparring all afternoon but nothing developed.

A slashing penalty to Bob Wilson backfired at 8.02 of the first period. With Belleville shorthanded, the Colts applied the pressure and had five men inside the Ja-cob's blueline when Chum Fryia grabbed a loose puck and broke fast from the pack. He raced in alone on Binette, cut across the goalmouth and flipped the disc home for a 1-0 lead.

Leonard notched the next goal from his linemates at 12.57 with a Colt player in the sin bin, a back-hand after taking a pass from behind the net. The Cornwall club took over at 13.35, when Peril drew a high sticking sentence, and applied the pressure for the remainder of the period.

Savard set Batten up for their first goal at 13.30, a short drive to the corner with Peril down. The Belleville sniper turned back a series of rushes but St. Jean tied the count with a backhand screened shot at 17.28.

Binette looked weak on the TPT's third counter, Dave Jones banging out a rebound for from a good distance which hit the inside of the goalies' skate and bounced in. Goyer drew the assist.

A pair of cuckcles made it 5-3 in the second, Hill flipping home Fryia's rebound during a goal-mouth scramble at 2.38 and Pete Jones registering on a solo effort at 3.10. Binette did not look good on either goal.

Minor penalties to Pete Jones and Wilson within seconds of each other paved the way to Cornwall's final tally. After several attempts, Batten worked himself into the clear in front of Peril, who had no chance on the play, and sank Savard's pass out from the corner at 10.40. The attendance was announced as 1,336.

The third period opened with Belleville holding a man advantage but for the rest of the game not a penalty was assessed. Fryia sank his second goal of the game at 2.05, completing a beautiful passing play with Hill by gunning home a long shot.

Parisi was called on for some excellent saves during the fixture and at one time was in a wild scramble far out of the net, yet Cornwall could not score. Belleville had two chances to increase their margin in the second period, Dave Jones going in on a break-away and hoisting the disc over the net and Sam Mulholland, also in alone but shooting on the pads.

Both teams dished out heavy bodychecks and tempers were high, along with elbows and sticks, most of the afternoon.

Sarnia, Dutchies Playoff Foes

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen meet Sarnia Imperials in Kitchener Friday night in the first game of a best-of-three playoff for the Ontario Rugby Football Union championship.

ORFU secretary Harold Bailey of Toronto announced the playoff dates today. The second game will be played in Sarnia Nov. 12, starting at 11:30 p.m. and a third game, if necessary, will be played at night in Kitchener, Nov. 18.

Dutchmen, last year's winners, ended the season in first place with 21 points, eight more than Sarnia, who finished second. Toronto finished last with two points, the same as last year. Three years ago Sarnia won the ORFU championship.

Kitchener defeated Sarnia last year for the ORFU championship in two straight games. They won the first 13-12 in overtime and the second 16-8 and went on to play Edmonton Eskimos in a Grey Cup semi-final. Eskimos won 38-6.

This year's ORFU winner will not play in a Grey Cup semi-final. The Canadian Rugby Union voted last winter to suspend the series for a year.

Alex Webster Scores Twice For Giants

NEW YORK (CP) — Halfback Alex Webster, fully recovered from the concussion which sent him to hospital during last week's National Football League game here, returned to action Sunday and scored two touchdowns on long runs as New York Giants trounced Washington Redskins 35-7.

Webster, with Montreal Alouettes last year and most valuable player in the Big Four, had scored only one touchdown for the last-place Giants until Sunday's game although he had been the club's leading ground-gainer.

In other games, Cleveland Browns defeated Chicago Cardinals to take over their accustomed spot at the head of the division. Pittsburgh Steelers, who had been tied with the Browns for the lead, lost 24-0 to Philadelphia Eagles.

SERIOUS BLOW

Cleveland now has a 5-1 record to the Steelers' 5-2. The Giants' second win against four losses was a serious blow to Redskins, who needed a win to keep pace with Pittsburgh. Philadelphia and the Cardinals have each won two, tied one and lost three games.

Los Angeles Rams lost their advantage in the western division, bowing 31-20 to Chicago Bears. The Rams now are tied for first place with Baltimore Colts, who defeated Green Bay Packers on Saturday night. The Rams and the Colts both have 4-2 records, while the Packers and Bears each have won three and lost three.

In another western game, San Francisco 49ers (3-3) handed the winless Detroit Lions their sixth straight loss 38-21.

Remember Last Year? Montreal Larks' Sizzling Pace May Be Setup for Let-Down

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes' sizzling pace in the Big Four football campaign could possibly be setting up east-ern fans for the same sort of let-down that happened to them last year.

At about this stage in 1954 they were convinced there wasn't a team that could stop Alouettes. They are talking that way again, apparently many of them forgetting how Edmonton Eskimos upset the Montreal club in the Grey Cup final.

But they can hardly be blamed. Alouettes are clocking along in a dazzling fashion.

The Montrealers Saturday showed the ferocious offensive that makes their fans go out on the limb. They scored their sixth straight victory and clinched first place in the league standings by trouncing Hamilton Tiger-Cats 41-16 in Montreal before a crowd of 22,848.

The win, moved the Alouettes four points ahead of the Tiger-Cats and left the Hamilton club with no chance of catching them when they meet again in Hamilton next Saturday in the final game of their regular schedule.

The Tiger-Cats then will take on the third-place Toronto Argonauts in a sudden-death semi-final. The Argonauts' playoff aspirations were finally realized Saturday when they whipped Ottawa Rough Riders 29-13 to clinch the third and last playoff berth.

The loss eliminated Rough Riders from the playoffs for the third successive season. They needed to beat the Argos in the Ottawa and again next Saturday to make it.

The winner of the Toronto-Hamilton semi-final will go to Tiger-Cats home grounds will advance into the final against Alouettes on Nov. 16 for the league title and the right to represent the East in the Grey Cup final.

Alouettes exploded for four touch-downs in the final quarter Saturday. For three quarters it was a tight battle, Montreal surrendered an early lead and was trailing 9-8 after the first quarter and 16-14 at halftime.

Alouettes moved in front 17-16 in the third quarter and in the final 15 minutes they struck viciously time and time again on Sam Etcheverry's passing.

Bud Korchak converted all six Montreal touchdowns and in addi-tion booted a field goal and a single. Als' other point came on a single by Tex Coulter.

Hamilton got touchdowns by Ron Howell and Lou Kusserow. Ray Truant converted both and the Ti-Cats' other points were scored on Steven Oneschuk's field goal and Cam Fraser's single.

Howell went for his touchdown on a spectacular 75-yard run off Johnny Fedoseoff's lateral, the com-plete performance on a punt run-back being good for 90 yards. Kus-serow scored his touchdown when he ran 12 yards after picking up a fumble by J. Adamchick.

A crowd of 12,213, the smallest for a Big Four game in Toronto in Three seasons, saw Argos beat Ot-tawa on the brilliant pass-catching of Al Pfeifer and the great running of Corky Tharp. Pfeifer caught three touchdown passes from quart-erback Tom Dublinski and con-verted four of Argos' five touch-downs to account for 18 points. Tharp and Moll picked up the other touchdowns.

Tharp cracked over from the one-yard line for his touchdown but his running played a big part in all of the Toronto touchdowns. He picked up 122 yards in 22 carries for an aver-age gain of 7.2 yards. The old mark of 201 yards was set earlier this season by Johnny Bright in 30 carries.

Quarterback Jack Scarbath tossed a touchdown pass to Bob Simpson for one of Ottawa's two touchdowns. Don Pinhey got the other on a one-yard plunge. Tom Hinchcliffe converted both and Ches Stone got Riders' other point on a third-quarter single.

Nashua Owner Dies at 35

NEW YORK (AP)—Future of the famous Belair Stud, the estate which produced Nashua, was in doubt today following the death of its millionaire owner, 35-year-old William Woodward, Jr.

Young Woodward, who took over the estate after the death of his father in 1953, was killed Sunday by a shotgun blast which police said was fired by his wife when the mistook him for a prowler.

Mrs. Woodward is interested in horses to the extent that she has a two-year-old filly in training to race under her own silks. But some horsemen wondered today whether she would carry on with Belair Stud in view of her husband's death.

The Woodwards' two children are only 10 and eight, and none of Woodward's four sisters have shown any interest in the sport.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, 81-year-old Belair trainer, was not avail-able for comment.

Providence Reds Hold Lead

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Providence's high-flying Reds, who finished in the cellar of the American Hockey League last season, hold a three-point lead today, thanks to Zellio Toppazzini, Paul Larivee and Camille Henry.

Providence tallied four goals in the first two periods and held on to defeated the Hershey Bears 5-4 Sunday night. In the only other game, Buffalo and Pittsburgh played to a 3-2 overtime tie.

Providence had 13 points while the Bisons and Hornets, last year's champions, were tied with 10 points for second place.

Providence's top line of Toppazzini, Larivee and Henry collaborated on two goals and Larivee, Toppazzini and George McAvoy on another.

TIED IT UP

A goal by Chuck Blair at the half-way mark of the third period enabled the Bisons to deadlock the hard-fought game. Pete Conacher put Buffalo ahead in the second period but Bob Hassard and Frank Mathers tallied for Hershey.

Conacher, his suspension lifted after New York Rangers allowed him to play with Buffalo on a trial basis, went into action for the first time this season. He scored three goals in two weekend games.

Conacher was suspended by the Rangers during the pre-season contract but refused to report to Providence or Vancouver of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, both Ranger farms. He picked Buffalo because he wants to be nearer his home due to personal problems.

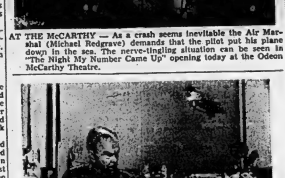
Fails in Bid To Win $100,000 On TV Show

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn policeman Saturday night failed to get a bid to win $100,000 on a television quiz—the biggest cash prize in history of TV giveaways.



Detective Sgt. Barney Arluck was allowed, however, to keep $50,000 he won the previous Saturday on the NBC-TV "Big Surprise" program.

The $100,000 question asked of Arluck dealt with criminal law and was written for the program by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. Arluck was able to answer only the first of four questions—before the ordeal ended by early American courts to force an accused person to plea. He called it "strong and sustained punishment."

He missed on the year the practice was ended in New York state (1772); whether a court or Congress first ordered federal judges to enter a plea of innocent for persons who declined to plead (Congress); and whether the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed or reversed the conviction of a man after records showed that he did not enter any plea (affirmed).

AT THE McCARTHY — As a crash seems inevitable the Air Marshal (Michael Redgrave) demands that the pilot put his plane down in the sea. The nerve-tingling situation can be seen in "The Night My Number Came Up" opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLY — Marilyn Monroe's in a fix, with one toe caught in a faucet, and Victor Mature, the plumber who's arrived to extricate it. It is one of the laugh-filled episodes in "The Seven Year Itch," new CinemaScope comedy-smash, entertaining large audiences at the Belle Theatre.

May Limit US Players In Intercounty Loop

GALT (CP)—A move may be taken to increase wanted interests in the Intercounty Baseball League by limiting the number of United States players.

Club operators announced unanimous agreement to changes in league regulations following a closed meeting here Saturday. Details of the changes were not revealed.

The proposal, agreed to by representatives from Waterloo, Brantford, St. Thomas and Galt, would allow a limited number of U.S. players provided they establish residence. Salaries would be kept to a minimum.

Don Gallinger of Galt said the need for U.S. players was a thing of the past. The Intercounty League is dead. Let's admit our mistakes and start over with a new slate," he told delegates.

What fans wanted to see and root for was home-grown talent. Gallinger said local players were available in all cities with the possible exception of Brantford.

Only London and Oshawa of the six-team loop were not represented. League officials said it was felt the move would invite interest from Guelph, Stratford and Listowel. Unlimited use of non-Canadian players has been allowed in the past.

Royals Defeat Shawinigan 5-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Shawinigan Falls Calaracts are entertaining thoughts of running away from the pack in the Quebec Hockey League, they are going to have to learn now to beat the Royals in Montreal.

The Royals coasted to a 5-2 win over Shawinigan Sunday while Citoculmi Saguenenes dumped Quebec Aces by the same score.

Trois-Rivieres Lions, the loop's fifth entry, were idle during the weekend.

The Calaracts now lead the field with 15 points on seven wins and one tie in 10 starts while the Royals, who have a game in hand over Shawinigan, hold down second place with 14 points.

AT THE CAPITOL — Lana Turner and Kirk Douglas come dramatically alive in the scene from "The Star and the Beautiful," M.G.M.'s torrid, lavish drama of a ruthless Hollywood producer who sees an actress in love with her career. The picture opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre. It brings to the screen, including Walter Pidgeon, Dick Powell, Barry Sullivan, Gloria Grahame and Colbert Harford. On the same program Clark Gable and his captive heroine, Gene Tierney in "Never Let Me Go."

Pembroke Has Game Postponed

PEMBROKE (CP) — Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association are scheduled to play five league games over the next six days with seven players nursing injuries or patched-up, and four out with injuries.

The Kings, reduced by injuries to seven active players after a Friday night game with Cornwall, obtained permission to have a scheduled Saturday game there postponed until tonight.

Club officials said four of the injured players, including Jim Morwell wearing a back brace and Jack Giesebrecht a knee brace, will start in the lineup tonight. The others returning would be Ed Marleau, his cut nose held together with stitches, and defenceman John Bailey, knocked unconscious Friday and for a while thought to be seriously injured.

Three other injured players will travel with the team but it was not known whether any of them would be able to play before the tour ends.

Not Easy to Put MGM Parade On Television Says Producer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When MGM decided to dip into its massive film vaults for a television show, a New Yorker cracked: "It ought to be easy to put that show together; all you need is a pair of scissors and some glue."

It's not that easy, reports George Murphy, who heads the show, "MGM Parade," on ABC Wednesday nights.

"You can't just go to the files and pick out 10 minutes of film to run," he explains.

"For instance, a lot of people have asked why we don't run a duet with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. It's not easy to find one that will be good for the show. One song might not be good for her, another not good for him. The sound might be poor, or the photography."

DIFFERENT BABY

TV is an entirely different baby from anything we've had in business, Murphy is finding out.

"On the stage, you can do anything—illusion or fantasy, and the public will buy it. The public comes into the theatre expecting anything.

"When they see a movie, the picture on the screen has to be believable. With few exceptions there has never been a successful film that didn't have some elements of believability.

"TV is something else again. They're looking at a picture on the front of a little box. There's an average of 3½ people watching, not a big audience. You're coming into their homes; you can't do the same things you do in movies."

Some pictures are not available for the show, he explained. Only those made before 1948 can be used.

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You may have to exercise extra caution in confidential work, anything where vigilance is imperative. Love, professional fields favored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Days are favorable for the well-planned day; are helpful in property, financial deals. Get work done promptly and without delay. Quality relax in leisure time.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Today should be satisfactory day in many ways. Work with this prospect in mind. Respect the intelligence, wishes and rights of others and you'll receive in kind.

June 21 to July 23 (Cancer)—Avoid anxiety. Go about tasks calmly and confidently and you will find forestall possible adverse criticism from others. Concentrate on the essentials; aim to finish what you start.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Be patient and tactful. Try to salvage this somewhat unsatisfactory day to a great extent. It's worth trying. Take all advantage of opportunities; you may be surprised.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—There could hardly be a more benefic outlook for urgent, important tasks. Be natural; get at though know success is on the way—and it will be.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Keep usefully occupied; employ that versatile mind of yours in working out new ideas during this generally favorable period. Sidestep unwise temptations, strife.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—A good day for energetic Scorpians. Where it is partly restraining, suggesting a quiet tempo for a change. Don't procrastinate, however. Allocate activities properly for best results.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Don't waste time; today is for doing. If talking is part of your regular work, then don't contribute mere chatter. Remember those who have done you services in past.

December 23 to January 21. (Capricorn)—A better day than you think. Give credit where it is due. Looking "before you leap" has prevented many an error.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Finish urgent, necessary duties before starting something new. Inflences can be helpful if you are ready to think and work with despatch. Don't hesitate to say "no" when advisable.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Good things happen to you when you are in tune with your true self — which should be always. You have much talent; develop, cultivate it.

YOU BORN TODAY possess a variety of talents and capabilities. If you check yourself daily and cultivate your best qualities, you will ascend the ladder of success quickly and decisively. You will also be happy and have fine friends. Don't lose opportunities by being overbearing with others. You have perception, vision. Use both. You might do exceptionally well in statesmanship; as a teacher, artist or physician. Birthdate: Antonio Canova, Italian sculptor.

Govt. Surplus Falls as Defence Totals Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's surplus for the first half of the 1955-56 fiscal year fell by $12,431,000 to $50,900,000 from $63,431,000 last year as defence outlays rose.
In September federal spending outpaced revenues, resulting in a $62,962,000 deficit, but this was down from the $84,619,000 red-ink balance at September last year.
September's deficit was increased by $8,740,000 to $133,700,000 from $124,960,000 last year, boosting the six-month total by $65,991,000 to $743,875,000 from $677,784,000, the finance department's statement showed Friday.
REVENUES HIGHER
The government's over-all revenues rose in the month by $20,157,600 to $326,115,000 and in the six months by $63,184,000 to $2,000,007,000.
Federal officials said the revenue rise has not yet reflected the full momentum of Canada's economic boom. They forecast revenues would continue to rise and that the government's deficit for the full year will be less than the $150,000,000 forecast last April. The government had a deficit of $152,000,000 last year.
In September, revenues from personal and corporation income taxes declined from last year, but yields from excise taxes, sales taxes and customs import duties and postage increased.
